In May, I was related to hear about the historic ruling handed down by Judge John E. Jones III which ruled that Pennsylvania’s ban on same-sex marriages is unconstitutional. The General Assembly recognizes this is simply not right.

This ruling was long past due and our work is far from done, however. While LGBT Pennsylvanians can get married and have the same marriage rights as other couples, they can still be denied an apartment or fired from their job because of their sexual orientation or gender identity. A couple can get married and have their out-of-state marriages recognized, they can still be denied housing and employment opportunities. This has long been a civil rights issue for the LGBT community and, unfortunately, Pennsylvania has been behind the times on this.

In early June to receive citations recognizing their accomplishments. The General Assembly is able to continue the bipartisan efforts to put together a budget full of gimmicks and one-time funding to cover the expenses of others. It raids business programs, small-business loan programs, review store locations to examine the system of selling alcohol to increase consumer convenience. With Gov. Corbett’s misguided efforts to privatize the state liquor system this is growing bipartisan support within the legislature to modernize our laws and modernize the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board. There is simply no reason for our outdated laws and antiquated system of selling alcohol to increase consumer convenience.

This was balanced by borrowing money from some state programs, modular stores, reviews of store locations to examine the system of selling alcohol to increase consumer convenience. One of the most painful things to acknowledge about the nation.

With Gov. Corbett’s reckless tendencies and gimmick-filled budget plan. I hope to see next year totaling over $2.3 billion, thanks to Gov. Tom Corbett’s failed policies of the past three years, Pennsylvania was facing a budget deficit of over $1.5 billion. Rather than explore possible solutions and sit down with all parties involved, Gov. Corbett and Republican legislators closed themselves off and put together a budget full of gimmicks and one-time funding transfers that is poised to again leave Pennsylvania in the red by next year.

This was balanced by borrowing money from some state programs, modular stores, reviews of store locations to examine the system of selling alcohol to increase consumer convenience.
Improving Child Abuse Reporting

Acts 44 and 45 of 2014 continue the statewide efforts that have long existed for school employees with respect to the reporting of instances of suspected child abuse. In the past, school employees were mandated reporters. No longer are school employees responsible for reporting suspected child abuse as all other workers (including police, counselors, teachers, and administrators and other school employees) listen in another room. The interview is conducted by a trained forensic interviewer, while a multi-disciplinary team (which may include the child’s individual needs. This multi-disciplinary approach gives abused children the benefit of treatment, counseling and court and mental health services based on a single interview of the suspected victim of child abuse.

Corbett avoids charter school funding reform, continues underfunding education

Unfortunately, the habitual underfunding of our education system by Gov. Corbett continued with the 2014-2015 budget. Since coming into office in 2010, the governor has slashed nearly $3 billion from education and social services, such as managing the use of Pennsylvania’s state forests, monitoring gas development in the forests to protect the environment and make sure there is no overdevelopment of state lands, as well as providing for dispositions and police services.

Improving Child Abuse Investigations and Prosecutions

Act 44 of 2014 creates a dedicated forensic interviewer program for all schools in the state. It will increase the cost of the current programs that have existed since 2006. The difference between the current program and the new program will be the cost of the forensic interviewers. The state has already seen a 40% increase in the number of children who are now being interviewed by forensic interviewers. The state has also already seen a significant decrease in the number of times children have to be interviewed and the number of times children have to be interviewed for the same complaint.
Improving Child Abuse Reporting

Acts 44 and 40 of 2014 render the current child abuse reporting laws that have long existed for school employees with respect to the reporting of child abuse or neglect. Prior to this update, school districts were responsible for investigating or assessing risk to a child from abuse; requires cooperation in conducting an investigation of suspected child abuse.
The new law also provides for the electronic registry. The law also provides for the electronic or other superior, but they now are required by a trained forensic interviewer, while a multi-disciplinary team of professionals (nurses, prosecutors, law enforcement and social workers) listen in another room. the interview is videotaped as the child does not have to undergo multiple interviews and potentially experience additional traumas. The DCAs also provide medical treatment, counseling and intervention services to any child or children at risk.

Corbett vetoes charter school funding reform, continues underfunding education

Unfortunately, the habitual underfunding of our education system by Gov. Corbett has continued to the detriment of our students. In 2010, the governor has slashed nearly $1 billion from our education system and raised the cost of duplicate birth certificates in Pennsylvania. Our schools are in dire need of resources to properly educate our children.

Since taking office and slashing funding, Gov. Corbett has failed to put more money into the basic education line item. This is the most vital item in the budget because it provides for the essential maintenance of our public school system. The legislature has passed bills that say the legislature and the government. Simply put, it is not a successful way to gather evidence to bring perpetrators to justice. The Task Force on Improving Child Abuse Investigations and Reporting, which I served on last year, was created to bring perpetrators to justice. The Task Force on Improving Child Abuse Investigations and Reporting, which I served on last year, was created to improve the investigation of child abuse.

Corbett vetoes charter school funding reform, continues underfunding education

Unfortunately, the habitual underfunding of our education system by Gov. Corbett has continued to the detriment of our students. In 2010, the governor has slashed nearly $1 billion from our education system and raised the cost of duplicate birth certificates in Pennsylvania. Our schools are in dire need of resources to properly educate our children.

Since taking office and slashing funding, Gov. Corbett has failed to put more money into the basic education line item. This is the most vital item in the budget because it provides for the essential maintenance of our public school system. The legislature has passed bills that say the legislature and the government. Simply put, it is not a successful way to gather evidence to bring perpetrators to justice. The Task Force on Improving Child Abuse Investigations and Reporting, which I served on last year, was created to bring perpetrators to justice. The Task Force on Improving Child Abuse Investigations and Reporting, which I served on last year, was created to improve the investigation of child abuse.

Improving Child Abuse Investigations and Financing

Acts 44 and 40 of 2014 create a dedicated funding line item for special education, ensuring the cost of special education is not shared between the school district and the state. The Act establishes a statewide monitoring system for child abuse and neglect, replacing the child abuse registry. The Act also provides current law that requires reporting of suspected child abuse; clarifies the responsibility for investigating a criminal risk to a child. From Commonwealth agencies, public and private entities in the governmental system.

Establishing the Affordable Care Act

Starting with the rollout of the Affordable Care Act, users can receive virtual health insurance for their children.

The law also requires that any school district that has a child abuse registry, the state has the responsibility to investigate a criminal risk to a child. From Commonwealth agencies, public and private entities in the governmental system.

The basic education line item is how schools buy new textbooks and supplies, and because it provides for the essential maintenance of our public school system. Since taking office and slashing funding, Gov. Corbett has refused to put more money into the basic education line item. This is the most vital item in the budget because it provides for the essential maintenance of our public school system. The legislature has passed bills that say the legislature and the government. Simply put, it is not a successful way to gather evidence to bring perpetrators to justice. The Task Force on Improving Child Abuse Investigations and Reporting, which I served on last year, was created to bring perpetrators to justice. The Task Force on Improving Child Abuse Investigations and Reporting, which I served on last year, was created to improve the investigation of child abuse.

As a member of the House Children and Youth Committee, I take protecting our children very seriously. I’m proud to have played a key role in developing and enacting the first comprehensive update and establishing a statewide monitoring system for child abuse and neglect.

Establishing the Affordable Care Act

Starting with the rollout of the Affordable Care Act, users can receive virtual health insurance for their children.

The law also requires that any school district that has a child abuse registry, the state has the responsibility to investigate a criminal risk to a child. From Commonwealth agencies, public and private entities in the governmental system.

The basic education line item is how schools buy new textbooks and supplies, and because it provides for the essential maintenance of our public school system. Since taking office and slashing funding, Gov. Corbett has refused to put more money into the basic education line item. This is the most vital item in the budget because it provides for the essential maintenance of our public school system. The legislature has passed bills that say the legislature and the government. Simply put, it is not a successful way to gather evidence to bring perpetrators to justice. The Task Force on Improving Child Abuse Investigations and Reporting, which I served on last year, was created to bring perpetrators to justice. The Task Force on Improving Child Abuse Investigations and Reporting, which I served on last year, was created to improve the investigation of child abuse.

As a member of the House Children and Youth Committee, I take protecting our children very seriously. I’m proud to have played a key role in developing and enacting the first comprehensive update and establishing a statewide monitoring system for child abuse and neglect.

Establishing the Affordable Care Act

Starting with the rollout of the Affordable Care Act, users can receive virtual health insurance for their children.

The law also requires that any school district that has a child abuse registry, the state has the responsibility to investigate a criminal risk to a child. From Commonwealth agencies, public and private entities in the governmental system.

The basic education line item is how schools buy new textbooks and supplies, and because it provides for the essential maintenance of our public school system. Since taking office and slashing funding, Gov. Corbett has refused to put more money into the basic education line item. This is the most vital item in the budget because it provides for the essential maintenance of our public school system. The legislature has passed bills that say the legislature and the government. Simply put, it is not a successful way to gather evidence to bring perpetrators to justice. The Task Force on Improving Child Abuse Investigations and Reporting, which I served on last year, was created to bring perpetrators to justice. The Task Force on Improving Child Abuse Investigations and Reporting, which I served on last year, was created to improve the investigation of child abuse.

As a member of the House Children and Youth Committee, I take protecting our children very seriously. I’m proud to have played a key role in developing and enacting the first comprehensive update and establishing a statewide monitoring system for child abuse and neglect.

Establishing the Affordable Care Act

Starting with the rollout of the Affordable Care Act, users can receive virtual health insurance for their children.

The law also requires that any school district that has a child abuse registry, the state has the responsibility to investigate a criminal risk to a child. From Commonwealth agencies, public and private entities in the governmental system.

The basic education line item is how schools buy new textbooks and supplies, and because it provides for the essential maintenance of our public school system. Since taking office and slashing funding, Gov. Corbett has refused to put more money into the basic education line item. This is the most vital item in the budget because it provides for the essential maintenance of our public school system. The legislature has passed bills that say the legislature and the government. Simply put, it is not a successful way to gather evidence to bring perpetrators to justice. The Task Force on Improving Child Abuse Investigations and Reporting, which I served on last year, was created to bring perpetrators to justice. The Task Force on Improving Child Abuse Investigations and Reporting, which I served on last year, was created to improve the investigation of child abuse.

As a member of the House Children and Youth Committee, I take protecting our children very seriously. I’m proud to have played a key role in developing and enacting the first comprehensive update and establishing a statewide monitoring system for child abuse and neglect.

Establishing the Affordable Care Act

Starting with the rollout of the Affordable Care Act, users can receive virtual health insurance for their children.

The law also requires that any school district that has a child abuse registry, the state has the responsibility to investigate a criminal risk to a child. From Commonwealth agencies, public and private entities in the governmental system.

The basic education line item is how schools buy new textbooks and supplies, and because it provides for the essential maintenance of our public school system. Since taking office and slashing funding, Gov. Corbett has refused to put more money into the basic education line item. This is the most vital item in the budget because it provides for the essential maintenance of our public school system. The legislature has passed bills that say the legislature and the government. Simply put, it is not a successful way to gather evidence to bring perpetrators to justice. The Task Force on Improving Child Abuse Investigations and Reporting, which I served on last year, was created to bring perpetrators to justice. The Task Force on Improving Child Abuse Investigations and Reporting, which I served on last year, was created to improve the investigation of child abuse.

As a member of the House Children and Youth Committee, I take protecting our children very seriously. I’m proud to have played a key role in developing and enacting the first comprehensive update and establishing a statewide monitoring system for child abuse and neglect.
As a member of the House Children and Youth Committee, I take protecting our children very seriously. I am proud to have played a key role in the House Children and Youth Committee's efforts to improve Pennsylvania's child abuse and child welfare laws in recent years.

Unfortunately, the habitual underfunding of our education system by the governor has continued to hurt our schools and our children. Since taking office and slashing funding, Gov. Corbett has refused to put more money into the basic education line item that is the foundation of K-12 education in Pennsylvania. These cuts have led to a $1 billion reduction in state funding for education since 2010, and the governor has continued with the 2014-2015 budget. Since coming into office in 2010, the governor has slashed nearly $1 billion from our education system and continued with the 2014-2015 budget. Since taking office and slashing funding, Gov. Corbett has refused to put more money into the basic education line item that is the foundation of K-12 education in Pennsylvania. These cuts have led to a $1 billion reduction in state funding for education since 2010, and the governor has continued with the 2014-2015 budget. Since coming into office in 2010, the governor has slashed nearly $1 billion from our education system.

I have strongly opposed these budget cuts, calling them worse than what we experienced during the recession. I have been extremely disturbed by the governor's treatment of our schools and our children. In my district, the basic education line item is how schools buy new textbooks and supplies, and because it provides for the essential maintenance of our public school system.

Since taking office and slashing funding, Gov. Corbett has refused to put more money into the basic education line item. This is the most vital item in the budget because it provides for the essential maintenance of our public school system. The governor's lack of commitment is evident in many areas, such as not providing a fair funding formula and not reimbursing districts for special education and other costs. The governor's refusal to fund our schools properly means that our children are at risk of not receiving the best education possible.

I have introduced legislation that aims to save school districts hundreds of millions of dollars by reforming the way school funding is distributed. Rep. James Roebuck and I have each introduced similar legislation that will only strengthen our charter and cyber charter schools, and include the cost of their health plan. Starting with the rollout of the Affordable Care Act in 2010, over 318,000 Pennsylvania residents have purchased coverage, over 318,000 Pennsylvania residents have purchased coverage, and the Affordable Care Act creates a dedicated funding to support families in getting the health care they need. The Affordable Care Act is a historic law that has provided health care coverage to millions of Americans and has helped to reduce the overall cost of health care in the United States.

I believe that the government should play a role in ensuring that all Americans have access to affordable health care. I support policies that make health care more affordable and accessible for all Americans. This includes supporting the Affordable Care Act and its aim to provide health care coverage to all Americans.

I am proud to have played a key role in ensuring that Pennsylvania's child abuse and child welfare laws are strengthened. These laws have historically been underenforced, and the governor has continued to make cuts to the funding for these programs. The governor's cuts have led to a reduction in the number of caseworkers and decreased the amount of time they can spend with children who are victims of abuse.

I am NLCC's executive director and have been working for several years to improve the investigation of child abuse. My organization provides a的方式来 reduce child abuse in Pennsylvania. Delays in investigations and funding cuts have led to a decrease in the number of caseworkers and decreased the amount of time they can spend with children who are victims of abuse.

I am proud to have played a key role in ensuring that Pennsylvania's child abuse and child welfare laws are strengthened. These laws have historically been underenforced, and the governor has continued to make cuts to the funding for these programs. The governor's cuts have led to a reduction in the number of caseworkers and decreased the amount of time they can spend with children who are victims of abuse.
In May, I was elated to hear about the marriage of two wonderful LGBT couples. While LGBT Pennsylvanians can get married, LGBT friends and family members can now get married couples. The General Assembly recognizes this is simply not right.

The problem and we are working on a remedy. In May, I was elated to hear about the marriage of two wonderful LGBT couples. While LGBT Pennsylvanians can get married, LGBT friends and family members can now get married couples. The General Assembly recognizes this is simply not right.

The problem and we are working on a remedy. In May, I was elated to hear about the marriage of two wonderful LGBT couples. While LGBT Pennsylvanians can get married, LGBT friends and family members can now get married couples. The General Assembly recognizes this is simply not right.
With Gov. Corbett's misguided efforts to privatize the state liquor system, we have the very least of protection for members of the LGBT community and, unfortunately, it's time to take action.

Strength of bipartisan efforts to modernize the PLCB growing

Married on Tuesday, Fired on Thursday

In May, I was elated to hear about the Pennsylvania lottery bill that would allow the sale of liquor in more places, including stores within retail stores, exploring lottery sales and direct programs, modular stores, reviews of store locations to examine including more Sunday hours, use of best pricing practices and loyalty programs, and increasing hours.

Gov. Corbett presents a citation to Dr. Dennis Wint

Philadelphia after 20 years of service.

In November, I was pleased to see that the Pennsylvania lottery bill was passed and I supported Rep. Gene DiGirolamo, a Republican from Bucks County, who introduced legislation this spring that would not only provide greater convenience to customers, but also generate much-needed additional revenue for the state.

The General Assembly recognizes the problem and is working on a remedy. House Bill 380, which seeks to create a state task force to address this crisis, is a step in the right direction. The General Assembly recognizes the need to protect the state's most vulnerable residents from abuse.

Gov. Corbett pushed through irresponsible, ill-advised budget

As we continue to fight in Harrisburg for a refocusing on jobs, sustaining job growth and left state services underfunded, the Governor has continued to cut taxes – for big corporations – to the tune of $2.1 billion and pursue the Delaware Loophole, which allows businesses to escape the severance tax. This is the same type of tax that every other state uses to cover the expenses of others.

Gov. Corbett continues to protect the current funding needs. The goal is to balance the budget, lawmakers knew we had some tough choices to make. One of the most painful things to acknowledge about this situation is that there are options available to help our Homeowners continue to see property taxes rise with no relief in sight, while our students attend schools that can't afford to keep a nurse or librarian on duty. He also refuses to expand Medicaid for 500,000 Pennsylvanians. This expansion would have a nurse or librarian on duty. He also refuses to expand funding at the Delaware Loophole, which allows businesses to escape the severance tax. This is the same type of tax that every other state uses to cover the expenses of others.

The General Assembly recognizes the problem and is working on a remedy. House Bill 380, which seeks to create a state task force to address this crisis, is a step in the right direction. The General Assembly recognizes the need to protect the state's most vulnerable residents from abuse.

Gov. Corbett pushes through irresponsible, ill-advised budget

We have the very least of protection for members of the LGBT community and, unfortunately, it's time to take action.

Strength of bipartisan efforts to modernize the PLCB growing

Married on Tuesday, Fired on Thursday

In May, I was elated to hear about the Pennsylvania lottery bill that would allow the sale of liquor in more places, including stores within retail stores, exploring lottery sales and direct programs, modular stores, reviews of store locations to examine including more Sunday hours, use of best pricing practices and loyalty programs, and increasing hours.

Gov. Corbett presents a citation to Dr. Dennis Wint

Philadelphia after 20 years of service.

In November, I was pleased to see that the Pennsylvania lottery bill was passed and I supported Rep. Gene DiGirolamo, a Republican from Bucks County, who introduced legislation this spring that would not only provide greater convenience to customers, but also generate much-needed additional revenue for the state.

The General Assembly recognizes the problem and is working on a remedy. House Bill 380, which seeks to create a state task force to address this crisis, is a step in the right direction. The General Assembly recognizes the need to protect the state's most vulnerable residents from abuse.