Philadelphia Department of Behavioral Health and Intellectual disAbility Services

Larry F. Pace,
Director of Operations, Intellectual disAbility Services

and

Liat Richardson-Owens,
Program Manager, Administrative Services Management Team, Intellectual disAbility Services
Good Morning Representatives Fitzgerald, Kinsey and Rabb. Thank you for the opportunity to testify today.

My name is Larry Pace and I am Director of Operations for Philadelphia Intellectual disAbility Services, which is a division of the City Department of Behavioral Health and Intellectual disAbility Services. Our office is responsible for administering, monitoring and coordinating the Infant and Toddler Birth to Three Early Intervention Program and services for individuals with intellectual disAbility.

The Early Intervention program serves over 6,300 infants and toddlers annually and there are 7,500 people registered with the intellectual disAbility program.

Of the people registered with the intellectual disAbility program:
- 2,589 are in the Consolidated Waiver;
- 1,685 are in the Person/Family Directed Supports Waiver;
- About 600 live in public and private ICF/ID programs; and,
- The balance, nearly 3,000, receives limited family-driven supports or supports coordination only.

As you know, the Early Intervention program is an entitlement so that all who are eligible receive services but access to intellectual disAbility services and supports is based upon available resources. Many of these individuals (over 2,200) are waiting for services. You will hear more about that from my colleague, Liat Richardson-Owens, who also is presenting testimony this morning.

We strongly support Governor Tom Wolf’s budget proposal for next fiscal year which includes renewal and expansion of the Waiver programs. We did not receive new capacity in the current fiscal year which ends on June 30th and that has made this year particularly challenging in terms of addressing those on the waiting list and particularly those in emergency status. The expansion of the Waiver programs reflects what individuals and families say that they want. Individuals want to work in real jobs, contribute to their community through volunteer work and participation in community groups, spend time with family and friends, have fun in the ways available to all of us and they want to be respected as members of the community. Families want to make all of those things possible for their family member with a disability. But families need support, too.

Governor Wolf’s proposed budget for Fiscal Year 2017-2018 includes:
- funding for home and community services for 820 special education graduate along with a higher cap for individuals who are pursing employment;
- a new community living waiver with a cap of $70,000 to ensure that 1,000 people currently on the waiting list can continue to live at home with their families.

We also support the Commonwealth Department of Human Services plan to close Hamburg Center. Seventeen of the 80 people currently living at Hamburg are from Philadelphia. We have a rich and long history of supporting individuals who have lived in institutions to return to their home communities and live an Everyday Life with the same rights and opportunities for growth and learning that we all have. We are proud that in the last year, we were able to support 11 people who are Benjamin lawsuit class members with their plans to move to homes in the community.

Thank you for the opportunity to testify today.
Good morning. Thank you, Representatives Fitzgerald, Kinsey and Rabb for the opportunity to speak at this hearing today.

My name is Liat Richardson-Owens and I have been employed with the City of Philadelphia, Department of Behavioral Health and Intellectual disAbility Services for the past 28 years. In 1989, I began my career as a case manager monitoring and coordinating services for members of the Pennhurst plaintiff class. I coordinated transition of services for people leaving Embreeville and Woodhaven moving to community living homes. I met with parents and providers to resolve concerns about their children moving into the community. Since 2012, I have held my present position as a Program Manager. My team is responsible to maintain Medicaid compliance for the Person/Family Directed (P/FDS) and Consolidated Waivers. As program manager, one of my responsibilities is the oversight and monitoring of waiver capacity.

According to our operating agreement with the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Department of Human Services, Office of Developmental Programs (ODP), each year ODP determines and allocates to us our waiver capacity commitment based on information from identified people on the Waiting List. Our current capacity for the P/FDS waiver ($30,000 cap) is 1,685 and 2,589 for the Consolidated Waiver. There are 31 people in reserved status for the waiver in the process of waiver document collection and submission to our team or the waiver is reserved for up to 180 days for people recuperating in hospitals or rehabilitation centers.

Waiver capacity becomes available only when a person dies, moves out of state, or does not use a waiver service within 30 days or through increased capacity from ODP initiatives or an unanticipated emergency, which includes the death or immediate illness of a primary caregiver. Every morning I check ODP’s Home and Community Services Information System to identify anyone who has passed away who received Waiver services.

Each week a cross section of staff in our office collectively review a list of 95 people who are in high priority status and need Emergency Consolidated services identified through the Prioritization of Urgency of Need for Services (PUNS). I have copies of the PUNS booklet developed by families for your review that provides more detail about the PUNS and its use in determining current and future supports. As of December 2016, there are 877 people in the PUNS Emergency category. This list includes people who turn 21 and are aging out of Children, Youth and Family services, residential treatment facilities and Early and Periodic Screening, Diagnostic, and Treatment (EPSDT) services. It also includes people who live with relatives and need immediate out of home placement or who need additional in-home supports to remain in their home.

Over the last 28 years, developmental disability services have changed tremendously; whereas, we have moved from a system-driven to a person-centered culture and program funded to service delivery model of payment, we still need to be able address the changing needs of the population. We often have emergency situations that require urgent attention. For example, a neighbor contacted Adult Protective Services concerned about a man with intellectual disAbility living in the home with an elderly relative. When police arrived they found the elderly relative had been deceased for several days and the man with an intellectual disAbility had been alone without food or supervision. In another situation, two sisters with intellectual disAbility lived in an unsafe home with structural damage and rodent and bug infestation with their mother who had a physical disability. Our department secured legal counsel and both ladies were removed from the home. One of the sisters required inpatient hospital care to stabilize her health before she could move into a community living arrangement. Their mother needed medical attention and passed away shortly after they moved.
Recently, we were notified by an outside agency that a woman who was supported by her mother was in need of registration. The agency was attempting to work with the family to assist in getting the young woman registered. Days after the initial meeting the mother passed away and there were no other natural supports in the home. Registration had not yet started. Fortunately, an aunt and uncle were willing to help out temporarily but neither was able to have the individual live in their home - she is in need of a new home. IDS has assisted the family in obtaining necessary documentation needed for registration including an updated Psychological Evaluation. The individual in need of supports also is deaf and was in need of specialized testing to determine eligibility. Although the individual is not yet formally registered, IDS has been in contact with provider agencies in an effort to have them meet this young woman so that as soon as the expedited intake takes place and a Supports Coordinator is assigned, services can begin.

We have a number of young people with intellectual disAbility who need residential placement but have complex behavioral health challenges due to trauma, yet desire independence just like other young people their age. We find it difficult to place them in community living arrangements because they do not want as much supervision as is offered, yet they are not prepared to live without supports due to their vulnerability to negative influences. Some have walked away from community living arrangements and some have ended up in the forensic system.

We thank the administration for the P/FDS Waiver initiative proposed for next year fiscal year to assist 2016 high school graduates; however, we need additional Consolidated waiver capacity to address the myriad of needs of people on the Consolidated Waiver Emergency Waiting list and to address the needs of people who are not yet registered. We also need housing vouchers to assist young people with supports in living more independently.

Once again, I thank you for the opportunity to address you this morning.
Good morning. My name is Kathy Roberson, and this is my daughter Katie. Thank you for taking the time to listen to my concerns.

The first thing I’d like to address, although I know it’s already on everyone’s minds these days, is Medicaid. The point I’d like to make, which I think often gets missed in the conversations, debates, news reports, and vitriol, is that Medicaid is not just about medical care. It’s also pretty much the only funder of long term services in this country for people with developmental disabilities. In my experience, many people – including a lot of our own family and friends and neighbors who know and love Katie, as well as some legislators, and probably most of the general public – aren’t aware of that fact, or if they are, don’t really understand what it means.

So here’s a brief overview of what it means for us: Katie is 25 years old and needs 24/7 care and supervision. Currently, she goes to a day program for 5 hours a day/5 days a week, which is paid for through Medicaid. The rest of the time her father and I provide the care she needs. She is on a waiting list for a slot on the Consolidated waiver, which in Pennsylvania is what pays for residential services, but that list is long, and if there are cuts to Medicaid (including going to block grants) the list will get longer. We are not trying to shirk our responsibility as her parents, but the hard fact is we are getting older, and at some point we will not be able to do this anymore. When that day comes, our daughter’s life will be in the hands of the paid supports that only Medicaid provides. When I am tossing and turning in the middle of the night, worrying about what will happen when her father and I are no longer here, it is the precarious nature of Medicaid funding that most terrifies me — and I believe it is incumbent upon all of us, including our elected representatives at all levels of government, to ensure that that funding is secure now, and in the future.

The second thing I’d like to talk about is direct support workers. It’s true to some extent now, but it will be even more true when most of the daily assistance Katie receives is from paid supports: Having fairly paid, well-trained workers is the only way she’ll live a life that is first and foremost, safe, but also makes it possible for her to fulfill that most human of needs, positive connections and meaningful relationships with other people. Without those workers, the risk of abuse, neglect, and isolation go way up. Even if Medicaid isn’t cut, if there is not more attention paid to building a direct support workforce – again that is fairly paid, and well trained – what Katie’s life will be like when we are no longer here is almost too painful to contemplate.

Over the course of Katie’s life, I’ve seen what good direct support workers have done for her, for us, her family, but also for the workers themselves, who take pride in a job well done. I’ve seen how a whole host of people have gotten to know and connect with Katie because of a direct support worker’s ability to see Katie not just as someone with a disability, but as someone with gifts to share with the rest of the world. Over and over again, not just with Katie but with many others, I’ve seen how the relationships between people with disabilities and the workers who support them help to strengthen bonds between all of us.

As I listen to discussions across the country about job losses due to outsourcing and technology, I keep thinking that these are jobs that can’t be outsourced, can’t be done by technology, and while training is important, don’t require a college degree. Investing in a direct support workforce is not only absolutely critical for the people whose very lives depend on that support, but if these jobs actually receive the monetary compensation and respect they deserve, then it can also be an area of job growth that benefits everyone in the community.

So for me, building the direct support workforce isn’t just the morally right thing to do for people with disabilities, it makes total sense from an economic and social perspective.

Thank you again for your time and attention.

Challenges Facing the Intellectual Disabilities System

Marian Baldini
President and CEO
KenCrest

April 11, 2017
10:00 AM to 12:30 PM
SpArc 2350 W Westmoreland Street Philadelphia PA
Thank you for the opportunity to speak this morning. As the President of KenCrest, I am proud of our mission. We give children a great start in life with early intervention and inclusive early learning programs. We help the parents of those children develop the skills and confidence to support children who start life with some extraordinary challenges. And we do our part to give adults with developmental disabilities the opportunities they are seeking to have a happy and healthy life in the community.

In addition to my full time job, I also teach health care policy at Widener University in Chester. So, I spend a few months each fall trying to unpack the complexities of our health care system including the services for people with developmental disabilities. At this point in our evolution, it would be good to set some long term goals and take some short term actions.

I have three important points to cover this morning. We need to:

1. Keep Medicaid strong
2. Pass a healthy budget for Individuals with Developmental Disabilities
3. Address the waiting list with new concerted efforts

1. Keep Medicaid Strong

Medicaid is a complex and critical program, which provides for primary health care and long supports. It is a combination of entitlements and the optional/waiver service.

Who are the people we serve at KenCrest who receive entitlements and optional/waiver services

Jimmy goes to preschool now. He is 3 years old. He was not learning to talk and was referred to KenCrest for speech therapy. He is progressing very well. At this point, his parents expect him to go on to regular kindergarten and need no further therapy.

Jimmy’s preschool is funded by his parents. His health insurance is provided by his parent’s employer. His speech therapy is covered by Medicaid. His health insurance does not over speech therapy. Jimmy is part of the entitlement system which guarantees children a great start with early intervention.

Daiwan is 45 years old; he lives with his mother. He uses a wheelchair to get around, and has some real challenges communicating his needs and wants. He participates in activities and programs while his mother is at work. Daiwan’s mother counts on us to support Daiwan so she can continue to work. Daiwan’s father passed away a few years ago, so it is now just the two of them at home.

Daiwan’s service is part of the waiver system. To Daiwan’s mother, her son’s care is essential to their family.

2. Pass a healthy budget for Individuals with Developmental Disabilities

We have been working to get the rate system “right” for the better part of ten years. It has been difficult. There was no book to follow as to what would work so all states were in the same dilemma. And we have a crisis, direct support staffing.

This budget and the efforts of the Office of Developmental Programs around rates gives us solid hope for direct support wages. Some years, we have not been able to provide any increase in compensation. And now we are now competing for a smaller pool of available and qualified workers.

Pennsylvania Associations of Resources recently produced a video around the direct service professional workforce crisis. I am sad to say a few days later the story repeated at KenCrest. One of our employees resigned. As a dedicated and talented employee she left to get better pay. She loved her work, and she had not imagined leaving.

At her exit interview Tracy told us about her 16 year-old daughter. Her daughter has been working at an entry level retail job at Walmart for 8 months. She started at $9.00 per hour and is now making $10. She gets bonuses every three months. Tracy has been working for us for over ten years and was making $10.61 per hour. Tracy had not had an increase in three years. And we could not tell her when we could give her another increase.

3. Address the waiting list through new concerted efforts

Some of us would like to think it is only the job of government to solve the waiting list problems. We have over 13,000 people waiting. That number is too great for an annual budget to address. So what do we do? We all need to participate in this work.

   a. Drive the cost of serving incumbents down. Look harder at the people we serve now. Can we offer them something which has the quality we expect and a lower cost. We need to look at models like life sharing, an alternatives to 24/7 staffed group homes. We can serve three or four people in life sharing for every one person we support in a group home.
b. Use the new opportunities made possible in this budget and the waiver to provide better supports to families. Supports which will be lower cost and provide the quality we expect. The families of the children growing up included in their public schools want inclusion for their graduates.

c. Fuel innovation. Unlike health care providers who receive funds from multiple insurance payers and can negotiate their rates, IDD providers do not have another sources of funds. The most significant challenge we face is the innovation needed to create alternatives to space based programs like sheltered workshops, to bring about real inclusion in everyday life. Helping people be truly included in their communities will lower cost and raise quality. We know how to transition from one model of service to something new. We have done this work before. We budgeted for transitions. Remember what we did to close institutions.

  o We needed transition processes. Some we created out of our own imagination and initiative. And some we copied from others in our field.
  o We needed time. Right now we are expected to complete this work by March of 2019. We needed money to help bridge over to new models. Those funds will retrain staff, help us manage through the inefficiency which is inevitable during change.

Fundamentally, we need to remember why we do this work. We are working to help individuals gain skills, to participate fully. We do this work to help families take responsibility and thrive. We are also all about social justice for people with disabilities. For every citizen we need to remember that separate has never been and will never mean equal.

We need a new long term focus which is fueled by innovation. And we will only be able to tackle those long challenges if in the short term we keep Medicaid strong and pass a healthy budget.

Thank you for this opportunity and for all that you do to advance our services.

HB 218 testimony Draft

Good Morning.

I am Vanessa Williams, IDD Regional Director for Resources for Human Development also known as RHD. I am also the mother of an adult son with IDD and Autism.

Thank you, Representative Kinsey and Fitzgerald for inviting us to provide testimony today. Thank you, members of the Pennsylvania's general assembly for lending your ears and your hearts to this important issue.

Forty-six years ago, RHD, was founded to be a human services agent of change for local communities. RHD, which is headquartered in Philadelphia, has grown into one of this region’s leading human services organizations and provides a wide range of services to tens of thousands of people of all abilities across 15 states.

Here in PA, our Corporate Values, our skilled leadership, our dedicated caring, and compassionate workforce have uniquely positioned RHD to respond to a wide variety of individuals and community challenges. These include providing quality services to approximately 400 individuals with intellectual disabilities, many of whom also have a co-occurring mental health diagnosis. In Pennsylvania, we provide

- Day Programs: providing individuals with the opportunity to build their skills, while earning from their efforts.
- Community Based Residential Homes – Homes in the community where Direct Support Professionals are trained to provide needed supports for individuals as they live and work in their communities.
- Family Living – Homes where individuals with an intellectual disability reside with a family who is compensated for providing care and support to the individual.
- Supported Employment – Individuals receive support in accessing and performing work at competitive wages or in an entrepreneurial undertaking.
- Job Coaching – A staff person accompanies the individual to help assure that he or she, with an intellectual disability, is able to learn and perform work.
• Behavior Supports – Special supports that help individuals change behaviors that do not serve them well in the community.

• Home and Community Habilitation- Services provided in a community settings that assist individuals in acquiring, retaining and improving socialization and self-help

Today, I am here to share with the committee, and put into record, our strong support for protecting the $250 million earmarked for ID and Autism services in the FY2018 budget. These dollars represent an investment in

1. The people receiving services

2. The compassionate front line staff who help them as well as the citizens of the Commonwealth of PA.

People Receiving Services:

In PA, the service demand for people with intellectual disabilities and autism has grown in size and has grown in the quality and scope of services provided. Unfortunately, over time, the need for these services has outpaced available funding, resulting in waiting lists. Currently, there are approximately 14,000 PA residents waiting for service.

For years, the state has not been able to meet the needs of all who are eligible for and waiting for service. These services make the difference for families and for individuals, helping them to avoid costly institutions, and live “Everyday Lives” in their home communities. When funding is available, providers such as RHD are able to provide supports that are life changing and life sustaining. These services are designed to support/keep individuals and healthy, safe, and thriving in the community. Funding from the State and Federal Government increases the opportunity for people with autism and other intellectual disabilities to receive the support they need to live and work successfully. This money allows for people who are ready to transition to more independence from their family home or institutions. The level of funding proposed in this year’s budget will also expand a number of programs that are funded through various Waivers, through which PA is able to provide supports to individuals in the community rather than in institutions.
State Economy:
The earmarked funds will serve as an investment in the state economy itself, generating revenue and spurring spending by its citizens. It is no secret that government spending can actually serves as an investment that pays out in various ways, including wages, through expenditures made by participants, employees and by programs. Pennsylvania is no different from other states in this regard, and this $250 million in additional proposed funding serves as a substantial investment that will benefit all Pennsylvanians. The money will allow people to spend more at businesses in the area, contribute more to state taxes and decrease the number of people on public assistance. All of this improves the “bottom line”.

It is no secret that Government spending can increases tax revenues, create jobs and raise the overall standard of living across the state. Investing in citizens who have disabilities helps those citizens improve their employment prospects, and assures that those who support them are paid a living wage. It represents economic empowerment for residents all across the state.

Employees/DSPs:
The employment market for direct service professionals has been turbulent over the past decade, with high rates of turnover, generally due to stagnant wages. Direct Service Professionals do some of the hardest work of anyone in the state. Providing care and support, working days, nights and weekends, supporting, coaching and teaching people with disabilities is rewarding. DSPs make a difference in the lives of those they serve, but it remains a tough and tiring job. DSP’s are woefully underpaid, with entry wages just above minimum wage in most cases. The job requires long hours, skills, common sense, training and compassion and an unparalleled commitment to work and the welfare of those in care. It is a strenuous emotional investment. Most DSP’s really form a bond with the people they support and any DSP will tell you they end up taking the triumphs and challenges of work home with them. The job often exceeds the normal work hours which wears on DSPs in and around the state. Yet, DSPs are not paid at a rate that reflects the strenuous and demanding work they do.
Providers of IDD Services in PA have not benefited from significant increases in the State budget in 10 years. This budget provides for some relief and is a great step in the right direction for this element of the PA workforce. As a Regional Director, for too long I have heard DSP’s talking about the second jobs or public assistance they need just to barely make ends meet. As costs rise, the dilemmas faced by these workers grow. Plain and simple, this is not acceptable and we are seeing the signs. The DSP profession suffers from incredibly high amounts of turnover with providers groups have estimated that 9,500 out of about 35,000 DSPs leave the profession every year. In this case, turnover is dangerous as it represents discontinuity in the services or even worse a pause or decrease in services that people with disabilities receive.

This proposed budget represents opportunity for the over 1,400 DSPs we employ and the other 33,600 plus across the state to have a “real” raise for the first time in years. It represents an opportunity to be better compensated for the incredibly difficult work they do. It represents the opportunity for many of these to get off of public assistance and not have to rely on a second or even third job to get by. It represents the opportunity to make this job a career, which they can stay, not having to leave to make a living. It represents the opportunity to do important work, in a field they love, and be adequately compensated for it. Most of all, the money represents opportunity for people that have autism and other intellectual disabilities, the opportunity to participate and contribute to their communities, the opportunity to work and learn and the opportunity to live freely, engaging in lives of their choosing.

I would like to share comments from three staff and one of the individuals we support in a residential setting.

Reggie Hawkins has been an RHD DSP since 2/1/1995 and while he works full time for RHD he also has had to work other jobs to supplement his income. Reggie began providing residential supports for a then 40 year old gentlemen will call “Fred,” in November of 1995. Prior to that Fred spent his adult life in an institution. This was his first time in many years that he had an opportunity to live in the community. Reggie could not be here today but submitted the following to share with you
These are Regg's words:

First I would like to say that when, Fred first came to RHD it was difficult to get him to put his trust in anyone, he would always reflect to when something bad happened to him and those were not good memories. In addition “FRED” had many refusals to take his medications, he believed that he was doing it for other people. Once he learned to trust staff he began to accept that his medications were necessary for him to have a productive and healthy life, this took place several years. Over time his medications were have been reduced. “Fred” took a stronger concern about his health and realized that Staff was there to support him to maintain good health and a good life. “FRED” now says that all of that bad stuff is in the past and we are working for a better tomorrow.. “FRED” had numerous medical issues. Fred who was originally obese has safely lost 70 lbs and continues to take all his medications with staff’s support. I have seen “Fred” grow in many areas of his life, from not wanting to get out of bed because he believed no one cared about him, to refusing to go on outings and medical appointments. “FRED” has only had a few staff members stick it out with him over the years. The cost of living continues to go up, and it is hard to keep staff in this field of endeavor. Most people do this type of work because they do care for those we serve and you put your all into making sure that the people we serve have a healthy and productive life. We all know we will not get rich in this field of work, we do it because we care for the people we serve, but as a society we all must have more financial support for ourselves and our families, that’s why I believe that we do not need any budget cuts but increases to help keep good staff in the lives of those we serve.

These days Fred spends his days working on his puzzles that he puts together as pictures and sells to people in his community and at RHD’s Central Office. “Fred” will also engage his staff with many conversations about his puzzles and everyday life. Fred also makes choices of his daily activities with the support of his staff. “FRED” enjoys going bowling and to the movies.

I am here at this job because this work is now a part of me, the people I serve need people to advocate for them, to teach them, to show them that people do care, to speak up for them when their voice can’t be heard, everyone has worth in this world. We should not be judged by our bank account but by the legacy, the good deeds we do, the people we help and the Family that we care for, by blood or family by choice and I did choose to serve my RHD family.

Again, we can’t endure more Budget cuts but must have increases to support those who cannot help themselves, people need to feel that someone cares about them and has their best interest at heart and cutting funds would limit the Programs that we are in place to support the people we serve in our community. We need more good dedicated staff.

The question I would ask is, if you or your family member needed support and could not get it, what would you do?

Reginald Hawkins

JH, Individual supported by RHD for over ten years
63 year old with co-occurring Intellectual Disability and Mental Health Challenges JH will let you know that she use to reside with a family member until she learned that they were managing her money poorly and needed to move to have daily help. JH explains that she relies on staff to help her with daily hygiene, medication, cooking balanced meals and helping with her healthcare needs. Having support with money management and reliable transportation is vital for JH-this keeps her connected to her community, socially and with medical appointments. JH's stance on having staff is that they help keep up with her daily needs and are very important to her daily well being.

Vanessa Smith, Direct Support Professional: three years with RHD and mother to four children. Her husband is also employed with RHD on a full-time basis with a second job.

Ms. Smith's reason for staying with RHD, serving two women who reside in a community living home, are simple: the ladies and her co-workers; the relationships are strong and keep this dedicated professional committed to the Agency. Ms. Smith is happy with her work and would not think of leaving but expressed that she and her co-workers often lament that the their pay check has not kept up with the increasing cost of living.

Sandra Robertson, Direct Support Professional: two years with RHD with two grown children and is Grandmother to four. Ms. Robertson is originally from Jamaica and has been in the US for 40 years.

When asked about what has kept Ms. Robertson in the human services field, she shared that she enjoys helping others and that it's not about the money because the profession doesn't pay a lot. Anything that those she supports needs, she is happy to do-this enriches their lives and and hers as well. Ms. Roberson explained that she learns so much by helping others and allows her to gain a sense of accomplishment while seeing others reach their potential.

Ms. Robertson isn't looking to leave RHD anytime soon and in fact would prefer to retire from the Agency; however, if an opportunity presented itself that paid better and was close to home, she would need to consider leaving for the better opportunity.

I would like share a quote modified for this purpose

DSP’s work for a cause, not for applause. In spite of the challenges they personally and professionally face they live life to help others express, and not personally impress.

They don’t strive to make their presence noticed, but their growing workforce shortage has made their absence felt.

Conclusion:
The funding for ID and Autism in the governor’s proposed budget is significant, and incredible for what it does for all Pennsylvanians. It benefits the economy as a whole, the people that work with people with disabilities and those people with disabilities. It represents opportunity for everybody. I ask that you support this opportunity in Pennsylvania by supporting the governor’s proposed budget, House Bill 218.

Sharing your personal story and your long time commitment to those with disabilities has certainly made a difference in many people’s lives. Representative Kinsey thank you for living your life by example.

I would like to share with you that along with my role at Vision, I am foremost the proud mother of a young woman with intellectual disabilities named Gina who is 52 years old and who still lives at home with her father and me. I have been involved in the Disability System for the better part of the last 40 years. I can say unequivocally that during this time our state especially Philadelphia has always been in the forefront of change in upholding the rights of people with disabilities by providing opportunity for them to live and flourish in their communities. We have been on the cutting edge of change that has led to choice, independence, and freedom for thousands. We, from Philadelphia and Pennsylvania, have proudly led the way.
As a Director of Vision for Equality’s I am proud to say our core priorities is to advocate, protect and advance the rights of people with intellectual and developmental disabilities and autism and in so doing we offer the following comments that stem from this commitment:

Early Intervention Services
Pennsylvania’s Early Intervention Program plays a critical role for children with disabilities from birth to age five. Studies have shown that learning and development are at the highest rate in the infant, toddler, and preschool years and we believe it is essential that we provide all of our children with the proper resources to succeed. All child serving systems that provide services for those with disabilities should adequately fund and coordinate supports so that every child is growing up flourishing with a family. We call on the General Assembly to ensure adequate funding that will cover all of these children’s critical needs and to supply for those needs in their family home, if at all possible. We strongly support the expansion of services that will support children leaving facility settings for family like settings. We believe no child should ever need to live in congregate care.

Family Support
As an organization we know how critical it is to support families so the family remains intact and people with disabilities can be sustained in a loving home. We support the Office of Developmental Programs (ODP) commitment to provide resources to families so they can remain whole. We also commend ODP for offering flexibility in services. It is so important for families. We support ODP in streamlining the system as much as possible and empowering families to support their love ones at home. This is the way it should be. Maximizing family supports in the long run saves the system millions of dollars and generally keeps people connected in their communities where they belong. It also provides supports to families so they can continue working so they can support their family members. Over time all of this allows a greater degree of independence and choice, and increases the cost effectiveness of supporting individuals in the system. Vision for Equality strongly believes that people with disabilities are best served in their community, alongside their peers with and without disabilities and in a range of settings including living with family or extended family, in shared living and living alone or with roommates. We believe supporting families and individuals the way they want to live should be paramount in making fiscal decisions, it is not only prudent for the system but impacts in a positive way on people’s lives.

Jobs
We want to applaud Pennsylvania for becoming an Employment First State. We have seen hundreds of young people leave school and with just a little support from the system join the ranks of the working class contributing to our community. This is what we want to see expanded—a commitment to supporting individuals to seek competitive, integrated employment in the community. We urge efforts to ensure that all supported employment providers have the necessary training and certification to serve individuals who wish to seek community integrated employment. With commitment and determination we can see many people with intellectual and developmental disabilities and autism become “working, contributing” members of our communities.

Waivers
The continuation and expansion of Waivers are essential to the well-being of people with disabilities and their families. This offers the opportunity for people to continue to live at home, connects them to their communities, gives families much needed support, allows parents to continue working and removes much needed stress on caregivers. It’s a win-win all the way around. As a state we need to offer services to people where they live, in community, help them find ways to communicate, and get them access to resources that can help them get real jobs. We also believe the Waivers should be expanded to include those with Autism. This change would bring more cohesion to our service system and allow more individuals with autism to access needed supports. We urge Pennsylvania though ODP to make this change alongside securing additional waiver funding so that the increase in people with autism’s eligibility for services does not result in more individuals with disabilities already in service getting less and the waiting list for service for those with nothing numbers grow.
State Institutions
We have seen the downsizing of our State Centers and the productive, rich lives of those who have returned to their communities. The 1999 Supreme Court Decision (Olmstead) affirmed a person’s right to receive integrated community services rather than segregated institutional living. The Department of Human Services (DHS) has announced this year their intent to close Hamburg. We ask that DHS and the Office of Development Programs (ODP) with the support of the legislature to finally phase out the remaining four state centers and end admissions to these segregated facilities once and for all. Everyone can and should live in community!

Waiting List
Over 13,000 people with Intellectual Disabilities and 1,900 with Autism wait for services in our state. Of that number nearly 4,000 Pennsylvanian’s with intellectual and developmental disabilities are in emergency need yet they continue to struggle on the Intellectual and developmental disabilities Waiting List. They live with their families, often regressing, some with sick or elderly caregivers in heightened crisis situations without access to the services they desperately need. We need to remember these people are entitled to institutional care which could cost the state Billions of dollars yet they choose patiently to wait because they want their love ones at home in community, might I add at a fraction of the cost. Taking care of those in great need is a core responsibility of government. Let us together find a way to end the wait.

Last but certainly not least we want to applaud the Governor for his proposed Budget for 2017-2018 and thank him for keeping his promise to help the Intellectual Disabilities Waiting List in this up-coming year. We await the legislature’s approval in making this Budget a reality. We need your support. Given that last year even though 6.4 Million was appropriated for the Waiting List and was approved by the legislature as some may know DHS and ODP decided to use the money instead for an ODP deficit leaving the Waiting List families with nothing, pushing their critical needs back another year. In order to ensure this does not happen again we ask you to keep your eye on the ball for us and see enough funds are in the Budget for ODP in the general plan to accommodate ODP’s supplemental needs so we are not in jeopardy of losing that money again. Representative Kinsey, Fitzgerald, and Rabb please urge your fellow members to support the Governor’s Budget for 2017-2018 for those with intellectual and developmental disabilities and autism so we can keep helping the many who are receiving services as well as those who wait.

Again thank you for the opportunity to share with you the issues and concerns we at Vision see as an advocacy Organization. We appreciate your time and help.

Testimony for Legislators

I am, Sheila McLeod, the mother of two daughters being served in the Consolidated Waiver. One of my daughters has very complex medical needs. My other daughter comes to our family by way of Life sharing and has been a member of the family for 31 years, she has begun to experience health related problems but strives to maintain her independence. It is an honor to speak with you today regarding community services for individuals with disabilities. I would like to thank you for the efforts made to continue funding to these critical programs.
I very much appreciate the Governor’s proposed budget and would like to encourage your support in its passing. With appropriate funding to community programs lives are made whole.
30 years ago there were no opportunities such as Home and Community Based Waiver Programs and our family felt the absolute brunt of this. With ongoing 24 hour care and no relief in sight, I was faced with the hard truth of placing my daughter Brandee in a residential facility. There was nothing else to relieve the burden and help to keep her at home with her family where she belonged.

Sad to say the care in a facility was less than satisfactory and after a few years I made the decision to bring her home and tough it out. Lucky for us Community Waiver programs were just being introduced and Brandee was able to get the support she needed at home, which for her was nursing support.

Brandee has thrived beyond our expectations. She has worked on voter’s registration campaigns, volunteered at her library, and enjoyed every holiday and birthday with her family. A community program like the consolidated waiver has been the foundational support for our entire family. These supports provide nursing in the home, assistance to go out into the community, educational insight to the family, and relief to the 24 hour caregiver.

They are irreplaceable.

I have worked tirelessly with other families who are trying to obtain waiver services or amend the services they have to meet their loved ones needs. It is heart wrenching work to see the impact to a family when there is a big void where services and supports could be.
We are asking you today to please do all that is possible to maintain community programs for the well-being of individuals with disabilities and their families.

- They sustain our loved ones
- Place stability within the household
- Allow the integration and participation for people with disabilities in a society that is also theirs

Thank you so very much for your commitment and support.
FINAL Comments on PA ODP Proposed Consolidated and PFDS Waiver Renewal

Ruth K. Landsman
Parents Exchange

I would like to thank you for the opportunity to present written comments on the proposed waiver renewals. I have attended both preview and review webinars and reviewed the entire application of Appendices A-H. Since the fiscal appendices have not yet been released, some of my concerns/issues may be remedied by that information. I plan to also provide comments to those appendices prior to their due date. I am the parent of a young man (34) who has significant multiple disabilities including severe cerebral palsy, cortical visual impairment and an intellectual disability. He has been gainfully employed for over 15 years, is very much a part of his community, and lives in an apartment we have built onto our home. He is supported by the Consolidated waiver and receives 24 hour support through the vendor-fiscal participant directed model which enables him to live an Everyday Life; a philosophy I have believe and have invested in since its inception. I am also the guardian of a young woman (32) who lives in a one person licensed residential home from which she needs to be moved due to the artificial requirements established by ODP some years ago removing the choice which has been made for her by her mother prior to her death many years ago. As her guardian, I am trying to provide her with a home that will also allow her to be part of her community while being supported to live an Everyday Life, as her mother envisioned for her, but have run into various obstacles in part due to the uncertainty in the system currently. As the director of Parents Exchange I am also in contact with many families which include individuals receiving services through the waivers.

Let me begin by discussing some of the positive changes proposed in the waiver.

- The realization that waiver eligible folks require some service which could be considered under companion but should and really needs to be part of habilitation. Many of the families I have spoken to have been forced to switch back and forth during the day from one service to the other to ‘fit’ the existing service definitions causing disruption. Others have been talked out of habilitation losing the opportunities for growth and continued development and learning. One elderly mother recently explained to me that she doesn’t need somebody to watch her daughter watch TV. She has been unable to get any offers of service besides companion so she goes without.
- The addition of mileage reimbursement for providers after 30 miles, which are included in the rates for the various services including transport, have been travelled will hopefully encourage providers to eliminate the artificial radius that providers have set implicitly or explicitly up to this time automatically broadening the range of community opportunities participants can be offered.
- The clear desire and intent to attempt to comply with the Final Rule is encouraging given that the Department has given no real and specific guidance to the field during the first three years of the five year transition period given by CMS. I, personally, was worried about the feasibility of getting a waiver renewal in a timely manner. While there is concern approaching panic in some cases the seriousness with which the renewal documents have attempted to address some of the changes is encouraging.

- The addition of enhanced supported employment for people with more intense support and discovery needs is long overdue. Given the employment first position PA has taken, it is my hope that people with more severe disabilities will be exploring employment opportunities requiring this heightened level of support.

- The additional (up to) $15K above the cap specifically to be used for supported employment in the smaller capped waiver is a real plus since employment services are so much more expensive. This will go a long way in encouraging folks in capped waiver to look at the possibility of employment for their family member.

- The stated intent to increase the cap on the PFDS waiver to address the increase in rates will also go a long way toward assuring current and future participants in that waiver can receive similar levels of needed services.

- The addition of companion service for personal care needs and supervision concurrent with supported employment will be very helpful in addressing the needs of participants while working where these supports have been unavailable since supported employment providers failed to see such support as part of their responsibility. For folks who do not continue to need job coaching but do require supervision to assure health and safety, this service will provide the needed support at a much lower cost.

- The expansion of residential setting options may be a plus as families seek additional options and work toward more typical ‘roommate’ situations. Rental support may, in fact, allow and encourage some people needing little support to move into less restricted living situations.

Now I move on to my concerns about and incongruities within the documents currently out for comment.

- At a time when there is no graduate initiative this year for the first time in almost a decade and no reserve capacity anticipated for this population in the next year, it is quite disturbing that additional populations are being added to the waiver eligibility without increasing the unduplicated people to be served under the waivers. While I understand the full waiver renewals generally does not project an increase in numbers of individuals to be served, these circumstances beg for a different approach if you proceed with aching the two proposed groups to the existing waivers. There is an extensive waiting list for existing Consolidated and PFDS waivers using current eligibility criteria and a lengthy ‘interest list’ for the existing Autism Waiver. The addition of eligibility for individuals with Autism (who would not qualify under ID eligibility standards) is a smack in the face to those who have been working so hard to get the waiting list to be addressed as well as those who have been waiting. To add children under age 3 when, in fact, very VERY few children, if any, have been provided with Consolidated Waiver slots which the population living in or at risk of placement in children’s long-term care facilities would need appears to be a false promise to the imagine Different Coalition (of which I am a part) or, again, creating a further delay for many who have been waiting over a long period of time for service through these waivers if priority is to be given to this group. I would, instead recommend a separate children’s waiver for children under 21 who would not be eligible for existing OLTL waivers geared toward addressing their significant and intensive needs as well as an expansion of the Autism waiver capacity to be able to handle these other target groups unless capacity increases in Consolidated and PFDS waivers are clearly included.

- The State also needs to escalate their outreach DRAMATICALLY to assure that ALL stakeholders are hearing a CONSISTENT MESSAGE about what changes MUST be made and the basis of those changes. Because of the void left by the department’s inaction, families and individual participants are hearing mixed messages frequently from their provider agencies trying to encourage not making the required changes and indicating the changes are coming from the state rather than the funding source of the waivers. Since PA surely does not have the funds to provide the services absent FFP, there must be an intensive information initiative instituted giving enough time (with the minimal time remaining in the transition period) to keep the system from collapsing on itself! There must also be time to transition individuals to other locations which are acceptable and compliant with the requirements of Final Rule in a planned and thoughtful manner so lives are not interrupted and health and safety is not put in jeopardy.

- While community participation is being stressed along with potential employment, the waiver participants with the greatest needs are in jeopardy of losing any opportunities to participate in the community due to the decision to preclude the concurrent provision of habilitation to individuals who receive nursing. It may be possible to provide a level 4 enhanced service where one person is a nurse and the other is a habilitation person but that assumes that both individuals work for the same agency to allow such billing. There are, in fact, very special skills needed to provide habilitation to these individuals and rarely do nursing agencies have such experienced staff.

- While the standards for many of the Final Rule requirements are clearly spelled out in the renewal documents, there are some areas which have been overlooked. In addition some of the changes in service definitions and the way services will be funded will reduce the ability to hold providers accountable for providing the needed services for individuals as they are under the current service definitions. Here are two examples:
  - By combining day habilitation and community outings for the same participants under a single definition of COMMUNITY PARTICIPATION it will be very labor intensive to monitor where participants are actually spending their time, what activities they are choosing or being sent to, how large the group of people with disabilities are present in any given location at any given time since multiple agencies may be sending small groups to the same activities/events/places of interest and whether the activities in which participants are involved are achieving the desired and required outcomes.
  - In looking at the residential habilitation services some things like leases and written policies can be easily monitored but current licensing processes are not tied to individuals actually living in a particular location especially for new sites. Accessibility to all living areas of the home is a vital requirement as well.
    - It is especially troubling to me that current licensing inspectors seem unaware of or are, at least, not checking this accessibility requirement. With the recent cycle of licensing being the last before the full implementation of the Final Rule this is a major issue. Depending upon provider self-assessments has not in the past and will not in the future be accurate enough to assure full compliance in this area.

- The disconnection of the initial licensing being done without information about who the planned residents actually are actually precludes any possibility of accessibility considerations and requirements to be assessed.
- There will no longer be the home and community hab in lieu of day program option leaving residents potentially sitting home or spending time out in the community with people who have no additional training to facilitate community integration and potentially no awareness on the part of ODP of this condition. I am personally (and directly) aware of a situation where the residential provider is underutilizing the H&C hab units in lieu of day program and has been cited in monthly monitoring without any inquiry, intervention or action directed toward the provider!
- There are no community awareness/engagement/mapping, person centered planning and facilitation techniques for residential direct care staff who may, in fact be providing a service similar to that of community participation staff where these training requirements exist. It is highly unlikely that residential providers will be able to secure ‘slots’ in current day programs where their consumers would otherwise receive community participation if they have not been currently enrolled especially with the need to decrease the size of those programs!

- While I agree that specific training and/or certification should be required for supported employment providers, the timelines established for implementation is too short and there are not enough CESP’s to provide supervision during the 18 month implementation period while providers are trained nor are there enough training resources to currently handle the large numbers of providers who are not currently certified. You must consider that APSE requires 12 months experience before anyone can even take the certification exam. Further, there is no way for folks using VF-PDS (Vendor Fiscal –Participant Directed Service) to pay staff for training time, the training itself, or the exam cost. Further, I as the CLE (Common Law Employer) am responsible for training and supervision of my employees. I do not meet the requirement to provide such training and supervision and should not have to be trained myself to fulfill my CLE responsibilities. As a result, I would have to have an agency provide employment service rather than using PDS model nearly tripling the cost using today’s rates!

- While the above mentioned qualifications are appropriate for providers of supported employment, the direct support staff providing community participation should not need those qualifications. The assessments for job interests should be conducted by supervisory staff who meet these qualifications using information reported by direct care staff and gathered during community supervision of direct care staff. It is much more important for direct support staff providing community participation to have the additionally stated ODP training modules concerning community awareness/engagement/mapping, person centered planning and facilitation techniques.
• The staff to participant support level for Community Participation is listed at a maximum of 1:3 while the staff to participant support level for Supported Employment is 1:4. Since a work location will presumably be a community location, the maximum ratios should be the same or there would appear to be a lack of compliance.

• While the addition of Advanced Supported Employment as a service is to be applauded, the criteria for its use seems restrictive. There are some waiver participants with some levels of employment which could be expanded with the enhanced version of the service but they are explicitly excluded because an eligibility criteria for the enhanced service precludes successful employment over a period of time beyond 6 months without looking at the number of hours the employment for those who are under-employed. It is also unclear in the service definition when, if ever, a person receiving Advanced Supported Employment would transition to ‘regular’ supported employment after securing a job and continuing to work for a reasonable period of time. For those participants who have multiple disabilities it is also critical to acknowledge in the service definition for this and ‘regular’ supported employment that ongoing supported employment may be necessary and useful. The focus on fading strikes fear into the hearts of parents and family members when considering employment in the community.

• In the area of Respite, the need to choose totally PDS at $8,000 per year or agency at the combined units and days levels may prove problematic. The issue of camps which are used for one example of respite would be impossible to combine with PDS units or even additional days of service under the restriction you have included in the service definition for respite. Further the arbitrary inclusion of ICF sites while excluding hospitals is detrimental to many with health conditions that require temporary in hospital medical care but require the support of a familiar person. While I realize that currently hospitals are not locations where waiver services can be delivered, neither are ICF’s! If one can be used, what is the reasoning being used not to include both?

• While stressing CHOICE of willing providers, as required by CMS, your application limits the provision of services by relatives to 40 hours per employee per week and 60 hours total by relatives for a number of services. This limitation would not only disrupt the lives of many individuals and families at a time when properly trained and qualified providers are limited and frequently unavailable is a disgrace. Participants with the most complex medical and behavioral needs will be faced with lack of services included in their service plans. Their relatives would be faced with providing these services without remuneration. Many relatives have given up other employment to provide these services and save money by providing lower level services (habilitation rather than nursing for example) while being able to meet their family members’ needs due to training they have received without actual licensing. The costs involved would double or triple in most cases even if the qualified (licensed) professionals were available.

• While the addition of mileage reimbursement for providers after 30 miles is a plus there needs to be a clear statement that those of us doing PDS and getting mileage reimbursement will be paid from mile 1. It is also critical for those of us needing specialized vehicles to provide transport to have available the reimbursement for 'deadhead' miles when staff do not or cannot drive and are being dropped off with participants. As you look at waiver participants becoming more independent there will likely be more occasions where participants will be dropped off at activities and vehicles will need to return to a starting location. We have some staff who drive and mileage is billed as an ongoing list of locations for various activities; work, lunch, swimming for example. Some of our staff do not drive or are not allowed to drive our vehicle because of their driving record and safety concerns and we sometimes do two round trips to a location. Limiting this reimbursement may limit the variety or distance of activities in which participants will be able to participate or locations they will be able to visit.

- While I think the separation of Family Living from other residential services is a plus, by bundling services needed by individual may create a situation where individuals with more complex needs will have difficulty finding host families at a time when you are looking to expand this service category. In order to handle individuals with more complex needs using this service will require appropriate and increased levels of support and/or additional staffing to supplement what the host family can reasonably be expected to provide for their stipend. In the way the definition is written it appears that host family will be responsible for more complex individuals, especially as folks age and needs change/increase without the additional needed supports. While I believe your intent is to bundle these services and adjust the rate to match a new category of need there is nothing that dictates that the agency administering the family living will provide needed levels of support to host families. This will, again, cost ODP additional dollars without and accountability that the actual needs are being met for participant; certainly without putting undue stress on host families.

- The 14 hour limit for a combination of companion, in-home and community supports and community participation, while including an exception process, is a dramatic drop from the current and long-standing 24 hour coverage availability of these services. There is no clear explanation of who will be making the decision on exceptions and the criteria requiring that an issue occur within a past period of time is unrealistic especially for those who have had their needs fully met under the 24 hour rule when this service definition is implemented under the waiver renewal. While families have a poor reputation frequently being accused of gaming the system and I am not suggesting that this never occurs, neither should families have to beg for much needed services. There needs to be an acknowledgement that it is difficult to accept and share that we cannot meet all of our family member's needs and difficult to ask for the help that we need. As parents age, as family member's needs change, as financial circumstances change, a caregiver or parent dies, etc, pride sometimes prevent families from asking for additional assistance that they may need desperately. When requests are made they frequently take a long time for changes to be processed. I hear from families facing this situation frequently and the stories and circumstances are gut wrenching. If there is a limit to the amount of service allowed per day and that limit needs to be exceeded, the exception process may be even more difficult and time-consuming to navigate. Special consideration for participants moving from residential to non-licensed settings must also be given deference until it can be substantively proven that 24 hour service is not needed.
- Last but certainly not least the administration of the waivers by administrative entities MUST be monitored to assure that one Consolidated and on PFDS waiver are being implemented statewide. That one set of rules and criteria for approvals and denial are used by all AE’s. As somebody who hears from families from a variety of counties I can tell you that the rules being followed are frequently unrecognizable one AE to another. ODP needs to clearly oversee and monitor, correcting swiftly offenders and replacing them after a very small number of ‘corrections. As the single state Medicaid agency ODP is responsible for giving CMS the assurance that this is the case. At this time, it is NOT the case at all. It is disturbing that there is an awareness by ODP of frequent ‘offenders’ among the AE’s and that they have been allowed (and sometimes supported) in continuing their ‘lone wolf’ decision making and sometimes actual discrimination against certain families in their decision making responsibilities assigned by ODP under the AE agreements.

Thank you again for the opportunity to provide these comments and look forward to receiving appendices I&J for financial information. I hope that those appendices will clearly indicate that rates for PDS services will be adjusted upwards in an equitable manner as those of providers will be. I will also be interested to see the aggregate comments received and changes made by the department based on the comments.
Let me begin by thanking the Department for the opportunity to comment on the proposed fiscal portions of the waiver renewals. I am the parent of a young man with significant multiple disabilities who is leading an Everyday Life and could be the poster person for the Final Rule. I am the Common Law Employer through the Vendor Fiscal (VF) model of participant directed services. I am also an advocate who hears from many families receiving waiver services and my comments represent a combination of my personal concerns and that of many of my callers. I appreciate the work which has gone into the preparation of these documents and the processes they represent. Due to the separation of these fiscal portions from the first group of appendices covering the programmatic and eligibility parts of the renewal it does create several situations where programmatic issues were not immediately obvious without the fiscal information and average rates. One of these is the separate rates for licensed residential services differing depending upon whether individuals participate in either community participation or employment or they do not. I would like to briefly request that since one of the purposes of this waiver renewal is to put forth the Department’s compliance process with the Final Rule that thought be given to add some expected level of community participation/involvement criteria for these residential providers when other day services are not provided.

Appendix I

While I commend your intention to review 100% of PROMISe billing (p. 5 of 20) the intensity of correlating billing codes to rates to staffing ratios (and in many cases location of delivery) is probably impossible given the size of the staff available for this effort. In fact, on page 6 of the same document you indicate review of documentation for a ‘representative, random sampling of claims’. Simply looking at services in plans and rates for a particular service as the qualifiers continue to identify do not assure that the services were delivered or billed appropriately and accurately. I would suggest that the 100% be modified to reflect the percentage for the size of the random sample you are truly planning to review. Further, the 30 day correction plan does not specify when the 30 day period begins and how true ‘errors’ will be handled as opposed to potential fraudulent billing. Since you indicate an original review then a further review of a particular provider’s billing it would be important to understand the start date of 30 day correction period.

In listing the expected expenses for the services you list things that providers would be credited with while folks using the participant directed models are allowed no leeway such as productivity or support needs of the participant, for example, appear not to be given the same consideration since only the direct service provided is allowable for billing purposes. An example of needed ‘productivity’ consideration is when it comes to new staff shadowing experienced staff which is not allowable at all in VF model. While I, as the common law employer, am responsible for training of staff I cannot do everything in theory alone. The more complex the needs of individuals, the more some hands-on training is needed. Because of health issues, I am unable to show the proper ways of certain care areas for my son. I have paid out-of-pocket for this training time for new staff but many are not in a position to do so and the participants suffer... Although you mention a COLA, in fact, there have been no increases to VF or AWC wage ranges in several years. Because the actual rates have not been shown as of yet, it is very difficult to understand the impact that will be seen in the existing wage ranges and whether, on a percentage basis they will be similar to the provider rates for the same services. As an example, in the present time, agency rates for support broker service varies greatly from wage range in PDS models. Since a benefits allowance (rather than making actual benefits available especially for full time employees) makes the need to raise rates to remain competitive with provider agencies using the forthcoming increases to raise wage levels of current and future staff while continuing to provide ACTUAL benefits. I personally have lost several potential staff people because they needed actual benefits.

Appendix J

While this appendix is quite intense technically, it is a major concern that there are so many different service codes for each service, especially Community participation. While the specifics are in the additional documents which have been issued for informational purposes on which you are not accepting comments at this time, the fact that by bundling services under the various residential areas you are removing choice of providers and seriously hindering the accountability for participants actually having their needs met. The residential rate information in this appendix does not illustrate the intention to provide two different levels of payment for waiver participants who do and do not participate in community participation programs while never assuring that the people who do not attend a program shifting to community participation have any community integration during the day and paying residential providers for 24 hours PLUS while residential providers whose individuals do participate in community participation are still paid for 24 hours of programming (which residential program is not staffing)! Further in those additional documents you are showing specifically and clearly the Department's intention for waiver funding to be used in settings not allowed under the Final Rule. Similarly, by bundling a variety of services under residential programs you are denying the accountability of participants receiving the services and potentially rewarding providers for not providing some beneficial services to individuals who may need them since their rate will be their rate with or without providing those services to participants. Waiver participants with complex needs will have difficulty finding willing providers if individuals with lesser needs are seeking services and for whom they would receive similar rates.

In looking at the average cost/unit charts it is unclear whether participant directed providers were included in those averages. In fact, the averages given for AWC would actually LOWER the rate from FY 16/17. While you have issued a general idea/average of rates, they are not open for comment currently while the evolution of the waiver system will be heavily dependent on those other pieces of information. What is clear is that the lack of specificity in the various service descriptions in this appendix (ex. Community participation has only 5 levels given whereas the other documents which ODP has issued actually has 52 different service codes for this one service given staffing ratios in the community and in the facility) makes it look like something very different than the Department’s actual plan which will be put in place. This number of service codes virtually begs for errors in billing not to mention the need to rewrite plans frequently due to weather conditions when agreed upon activities in the community may not be possible therefore becoming non-billable units. This again raises the issue of services delivered in sites that are specifically excluded from waiver funding by the final rule.

General Comments

Although the stated plan is to move waiver eligibility down to birth in order to serve children in danger of being placed or actually placed in congregate care settings. While in reality very few children (under age 18-21) have been placed in the Consolidated waiver for a significant length of time with the proposed change and stated desire of the Department to address this unmet need the bundling of services and elimination of the possibility to have residential service and nursing or nursing and respite concurrently would make it impossible to fully service these youngsters with extraordinary needs. In much the same way the IRRC returned comments refusing the 6100 regulations recently submitted by the Department, none of the waiver language including these fiscal pieces really address the needs of children.

Service Settings

Community Locations

Prevocational Facilities

Community Hubs

Day Habilitation Facilities
The purpose of the Community Participation Support service is to broaden the types of life-long learning experiences available to individuals receiving services. Providers must be prepared to offer community activities no less than 25% of the person’s time in the program.

The choice whether to participate in community activity, the amount and frequency will remain with the person.
Timeline for Implementation

July 1, 2017
- Waiver renewals – new service definitions and rates

Fall 2017
- Provider Self-assessments

September 2018
- 25%+ time in Community locations and hubs

Individual Exception Process

The decision will rest with the person’s team.

ODP will establish standards and guidelines for the ISP teams to use in making individual determinations that any individual cannot or chooses not to engage in community activities at least 25% of their time in service. The exception criteria will include:

- whether the person has current medical needs that limit the amount of time the person can safely spend in the community; the person has an injury, illness, a change in mental health status, or
- behaviors that are a risk to him/herself or others; or
- the person declines the option to spend time in the community having been provided with opportunities to do so consistent with their preferences, choices and interests.
Rate Framework

- 4 sets of W Codes (at ratios on next slide)
  1. <25% of time in community
  2. 25–49% of time in community
  3. 50-74% of time in community
  4. 75-99% of time in community

- W Code for 100% of time in community
- Older Adult Day W7094 (not subject to time in community standards; no new admissions under age 60)

- USE INFORMATIONAL MODIFIER SE when billing for time spent "IN COMMUNITY"
- Exception Process for 2:1 STAFFING

Facility Characteristics

- Must meet all federal standards for HCBS by March 2019
- New 2380 and 2390 facilities will be limited to an average daily attendance of no greater than 25 individuals after the effective date of the Chapter 6100 regulations.
- After March 2019, Community Participation Supports services may not be provided in any facility required to hold a 2380 or 2390 license that exceeds a daily attendance of 150.
- Existing facilities that are licensed under Chapters 2380 or 2390 may change the licensing status of the facility without penalty. Existing facilities may also relocate at any time without penalty.
In the Consolidated Waiver, there will be a limit of 14 hours per day of In-Home and Community Support, Companion and Community Participation Supports (whether utilized alone or in combination with one another).

- Exception process when medical, mental health or behavioral needs or condition affects their ability to maintain health and safety.
Initial provider performance evaluation.

- To assure compliance with the Federal HCBS rule by March, 2019, ODP is required to review each provider setting in the fall of 2017.
- Providers will be required to conduct site self-assessments to determine whether each setting meets the federal standards for integration.
- Part of this self-assessment will include readiness to implement the Community Participation Support service.
- The finding from the assessment may result in the requirement to develop an implementation plan to assure the provider’s ability to provide community participation activities for the people they serve and to meet the March 2019 effective date.

Ongoing provider performance evaluation will be conducted through the 3-year review conducted by the Administrative Entity.
Provider performance measured on the basis of the experience of individuals who participate in the agency’s program three or more days a week.

Community participation will be measured based on each individual’s experience on an average monthly basis.

A measure of the degree to which each provider offers individuals opportunities for community engagement will be part of the 3-year provider review cycle. Findings will be available publicly in order to provide relevant information to individuals and families when choosing their service provider.
• Individuals who have been supported to explore and try activities in community settings may choose to spend more or less time in community activity or may choose to spend no time at all. The evaluation of each provider will be based on the adequacy of the assessment, planning and the types of activities offered. When individuals choose not to engage in community activity, we must be sure that they have adequate and relevant information and experience on which to base their choice.

• For other individuals, there may be a difference between what the individual would like to do and what the family would prefer in regard to community activity. In these situations, the provider is advised to confer with the family, to discuss the benefits to the individual and to explore the types of assurances the family feels are necessary to agree that community activity can be part of the person’s plan.
For prevocational services
One of the following is required for Program Specialists and supervisors of community-based activities within 24 months of waiver renewal

Certified Employment Support Professional (CESP)
orBasic Employment Services Certificate of Achievement orProfessional Certificate of Achievement in Employment Services from Association of Community Rehabilitation Educators (ACRE)

❖ Michelle Jernigan, Deputy, LTSS Quality & Administration, TennCare
❖ Wanda Willis, Executive Director, Tennessee’s Council on Developmental Disabilities Ways YOU can support your State’s efforts to implement the HCBS Settings Rule Context for the Discussion

• Not here to tell you how your state should implement the rule
  – No “one right way”
  – Every state must work with the people they serve, their families, advocates and other stakeholders to determine the approach that makes the most sense for their state and their HCBS system

• Goal is to provide tools and share experiences that may be helpful to you in working with your state to formulate your state’s approach

• Goal is also to learn things from one another that will benefit all of us as we continue moving forward
Agenda

- Vision
- Approach
- How do we get there--together?
- What should we do first?
- Develop the process: Plan to assess
- Education and Input
- Rolling it out: Assess to plan
- Discovery/Remediation—finding things that need to change and changing them
- When choice meets rule
- Heightened Scrutiny
- Ongoing Review and Monitoring
- How YOU can get involved in your state’s efforts
Vision

• Begin with the end in mind –
  What’s our vision for Tennessee?
  What’s the vision for your State?

• At the end of the process –
  – What do we want to be able to say?
  – How do we want to communicate the process and the results?
  – What do we want to achieve?

Not just compliance, but

Better lives for the people we support
Tennessee’s Approach

• Comprehensive statewide approach across Medicaid programs and authorities
  – 1115 MLTSS (managed care) program
  – 3 Section 1915(c) fee-for-service HCBS waivers
• Full compliance as soon as possible—before 2019
• Not just what we think but what we know (100% assessment of every site and review/validation)
• Leverage contractor relationships (expand capacity)
• Minimize provider (and administrative) burden, where possible
• Leverage technology for data collection and analysis
Approach

• Inform and engage stakeholders in meaningful ways
• Meet the spirit and intent of the regulation
• Leverage the opportunity to move the system forward and improve people’s lives
• Embed in ongoing processes (not just “one and done,” but a continuous process)
How do we inform and engage stakeholders (persons served, families, advocates, providers, etc.) in meaningful ways?

• Leverage advocacy organizations, providers, etc.
  – To review invitations and materials for persons served/families and advise the state on content and readability
  – To disseminate information (invitations to meetings/webinars, informational materials, proposed transition plan, etc. to individuals and families – To support and encourage their participation and input

• Require providers to include persons served, families, and advocates (external to their organization) in stakeholder group for provider specific self-assessment and transition plan process
How do we get there?

• Determine what is needed to tell the story – Stakeholder input – Data
  – Proof of compliance
  – Member experience

• How many people on our team when we started? 5

• How many settings? 1245
Develop the Process: Plan to Assess

- Break it down into manageable steps
  - Self-assessments
    1. State (Systemic)
    2. Contractors (Systemic)
    3. Providers (Site-specific)
  - Validation of contractor and provider self-assessments and transition plans
  - Individual Experience Assessments
  - Monitor implementation of transition plans
  - Monitor/assure ongoing compliance
Develop the Process: Plan to Assess (2)

• Training – Individuals receiving HCBS and families/representatives/advocates
  – Providers
  – Designated reviewers (contracted operating entities)
Develop the Process: Plan to Assess (3)

State (Systemic) Self-assessment

- What do we need to look at?
  - Everything that impacts HCBS and the people who receive them
    - Licensure requirements
    - Contracts
      - Managed Care Organizations
      - Department of Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities
      - Fiscal Employer Agent
      - ADRCs - Single Point of Entry
    - State statutes
    - Rules
    - Waiver language
State (Systemic) Self-assessment

• What do we need to look at?

  – Everything that impacts HCBS and the people who receive them

• Policies • Procedures
• Protocols
• Practices
• Reimbursement methodologies
• Billing practices
• ... (yes, there’s more)
Develop the Process: Plan to Assess (5)

Provider Self-assessment

• We need data—how will we collect it?
  – Provider self-assessments
  – Online survey tool (export to excel, slice & dice)
  – Create tool in fillable document that matches survey
    • Specific instructions

• How do we get proof of compliance?
  – Document review
  – On-site visits

• How will know this is accurate?
  – Require stakeholder involvement
  – Ask the people receiving HCBS!
Develop the Process: Plan to Assess (7)

Individual Experience Assessment (IEA)

- Developed from the CMS Exploratory Questions
- Administered by contracted case management entity
  - Independent Support Coordination agency
  - I/DD Dept. Case Manager
  - MCO Care Coordinator
- Phase I - individuals receiving residential and day services
- Phase II - embed in annual planning process for all persons receiving HCBS
- Data from IEA is cross-walked to the specific provider/setting in order to validate site-specific provider self-assessment results
- 100% remediation of any individual issue identified; thresholds established (by question) for additional remediation actions, e.g., potential changes in site-specific assessment, transition plan, policies, practices, etc.
Now what? Education and Input

Tell people about the Rule!

• Communicate with consumers, families, providers and advocates
  – Open, posted introductory letter to the new rule – Educational materials (FAQs) and training – Disseminate through advocacy groups and providers
  – Consumer/family and advocate information sessions (again and again…)
  – Opportunities to ask questions
  – Structure public input, but leave room for more...
  – Accommodations
  – Extension
And they loved it, right?

- Adjust the plan as needed based on public comment.
Keep telling people about the Rule!

• Communicate again with individuals/families/advocates
• Communicate again with contractors
• Communicate again with providers
  – More information sessions (again and again...)
Rolling It Out: Assess to plan (Site-specific)

Provide extensive training

- Train providers
  - Detailed walk through of each tool and expectations
    - Self-assessment form (literally, each question)
    - Accessing the survey
    - Validation form
    - Transition plan
  - Demonstration of the survey
  - Expectations for document submissions
  - Stakeholder involvement requirement

- Implement the provider self-assessment process

- Monitor submission progress
Validation process

- 100% review and validation of self-assessment and transition plan required
  - Leverage contracted entities (MCOs, I/DD agency) for 100% review (versus smaller sampling approach)
  - Standardized template

- TennCare validation
  - Initial reviews from each designated reviewer prior to sending to provider
  - Sample review at the conclusion of the process
  - Complicated settings
  - Upon request

- On-site visits
Discovery and Remediation:

Finding what needs to change and changing it
Systemic (State) Assessment
• Opportunities to change certain State “standards” applicable to each HCBS setting – 1115 and 1915(c) waivers
  – State statute
  – State Administrative Rules
  – State contracts
• Additional “opportunities” identified with respect to documents and processes that implement State standards – Needs Assessment and Plan of Care protocols – Medical Necessity protocols for residential/day services – Provider Agreements
  – Provider enrollment processes (1915(c))
  – MCO Credentialing processes
  – QA monitoring/tools
  – HCBS Provider Manual
  – Rate methodologies
Validation of systemic remediation processes

- Review/approval of all 1915(c) policies, protocols, etc.
- Desk review of amended MCO policies, processes, etc.
- MCO onsite readiness assessments, including credentialing and re-credentialing processes
- Review of amended Provider Agreements by Tennessee Department of Commerce and Insurance
- Revise internal audit processes for ongoing compliance monitoring

Whew...now what?

Site Specific Remediation: What do we do about it?
1048 Transition Plans Received

Areas identified as non-compliant:

• Physical Location: 367 or 35%
• Community Integration: 694 or 66%
• Residential Rights (Residential Only): 408 or 39%
• Living Arrangement (Residential Only): 552 or 53%
• Policy Enforcement Strategy: 936 or 89%
The elephant in the room:

Not everyone wants to work or be integrated!

• What to do when choice meets the rule
When individual choice meets HCBS Rule:

- A person can decide if they want to work.
- A person can choose the degree of community integration/participation they want.
  - It must be meaningful choice.
  - It’s easy to choose NOT to do something that’s new and different and that you don’t really understand.
  - We have to help people understand; provide opportunities.
- A person can choose the setting they want to live in... even institutional. But they can’t choose a non-compliant setting and receive Medicaid HCBS funding.

• A person can choose where they spend their day, including sheltered employment. Medicaid only pays for pre-vocational services in a sheltered setting.

• A person can choose to live in a home in close proximity to another home where people with disabilities live.
  – The setting will have to comport in order to receive HCBS funds...which means offering meaningful support and opportunities for inclusion.
  – Must demonstrate that people are working and participating in community to the extent they want AND provider is doing all they can to support that.
  – People who aren’t are making those decisions in an informed and meaningful way and documented in the plan of care – And we NEVER give up...we keep trying. (Not one and done.)
Are we there yet?

More discovery;

More remediation:

Heightened Scrutiny
Settings “presumed” to have institutional qualities

• Settings that have the qualities of an institution (applies to residential and non-residential services):
  – Located in a public or privately operated building that provides inpatient institutional treatment – Located on the grounds of, or immediately adjacent to a public institution – Has the effect of isolating members who receive Medicaid funded HCBS from the broader community of people who do not receive Medicaid funded HCBS
Settings that may be “presumed” institutional

Services/settings selected by State for potential heightened scrutiny review (based on CMS rule/guidance):

• Adult Day Care (inside inpatient facility/settings that isolate)
• Assisted Care Living Facilities (inside inpatient facility/settings that isolate)
• Critical Adult Care Homes (settings that isolate)
• Facility Based Day (settings that isolate)
• Residential Habilitation settings with more than 4 persons (settings that isolate)
• Supported Living and Residential Habilitation settings in close proximity (settings that isolate)
Heightened Scrutiny

Heightened scrutiny review will consist of:

- A review of data pertaining to services utilized by all persons receiving services in the specified setting
- An on-site visit and assessment of physical location and practices
- A review of person-centered support plans and Individual Experience Assessments for individuals receiving services in the setting
- Interviews with service recipients
- A secondary review of policies and other applicable service related documents
- Additional focused review of the agency’s proposed transition plan
  - Including how each of the above is expected to be impacted as the plan is implemented
  - Transition plans may require revisions
Heightened Scrutiny (2)

Heightened scrutiny review will consist of:

• State determination regarding:
  – Whether the setting in fact is “presumed to have the qualities of an institution” as defined in rule/guidance
  – Whether the presumption is overcome based on evidence

• Collection of evidence to submit to CMS to demonstrate compliance (ONLY if the state in fact feels the setting is “presumed not HCBS” AND meets the HCBS requirements)

Again, we engaged advocates:

• Part of the Heightened Scrutiny review and determination process
After information is collected and reviewed:

- TennCare will compile and share (in a digestible format) with a Review Committee comprised of representatives from advocacy groups that serve individuals receiving HCBS
  - AARP
  - The Arc of Tennessee
  - Council on Developmental Disabilities
  - Disability Rights Tennessee (Protection & Advocacy)
  - Statewide Independent Living Center
  - Tennessee Disability Coalition

- The Advocacy Review Committee will review the evidence and help advise if each setting meets the requirements of the settings rule (or will once the transition plan is implemented).

- Settings that will be submitted to CMS will be posted (or notification will be provided directly for individual residences) for public comment.
After information is collected and reviewed:

- All settings presumed to have the qualities of an institution (as defined in rule/guidance) will be submitted to CMS for final review IF the State determines the presumption is overcome.
- Evidence will be packaged in a digestible format including analysis of all evidence compiled during the HS review process, with complete documentation available for more in-depth review.
And now we’re done? Not so fast...

Ongoing review and monitoring:

- Embed in person-centered planning processes
- Embed Individual Experience Assessment in annual person-centered plan review
- Embed in 1915(c) provider enrollment process
- Embed in MCO credentialing process (initial and ongoing)
- Embed in Quality Assurance review processes
- Leverage external survey processes for validation (e.g., National Core Indicators and NCI-AD)

Introduction

Purpose

These instructions provide information to assist states in completing the Version 3.5 Application for a §1915(c) Home and Community-Based Services (HCBS) Waiver, including changes implemented through November 2014.

Changes implemented in 2014 are clarifying improvements to the Version 3.5 application that was released by the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) in January 2008. These instructions have been updated to reflect the changes in the application and to provide additional clarification to states based on experience in using the waiver application.

The instructions include technical guidance to aid states in designing a HCBS waiver. This guidance is intended to improve understanding of applicable Federal policies and their implications for the design and operation of a HCBS waiver. Finally, the instructions incorporate the review criteria that CMS uses in order to determine whether a waiver meets applicable statutory, regulatory and other requirements. Publishing these criteria is intended to assist states in clearly understanding CMS expectations concerning the content of HCBS waiver applications.

It is not the purpose of the instructions to prescribe how a state should design its waiver. Instead, the instructions are solely intended to provide information to assist states in the design of waivers and completing the waiver application.

Overview of the §1915(c) HCBS Waiver Authority

Operating a program of services under the authority of Section 1915(c) of the Social Security Act permits a state to waive certain Medicaid requirements in order to furnish an array of home and community-based services that promote community living for Medicaid beneficiaries and, thereby, avoid institutionalization. Waiver services complement and/or supplement the services that are available through the Medicaid State plan and other Federal, state and local public programs as well as the supports that families and communities provide to individuals.

States have flexibility in designing waivers, including the latitude to:

- Determine the target group(s) of Medicaid beneficiaries who are served through the waiver;
- Specify the services that are furnished to support waiver participants in the community;
- Incorporate opportunities for participants to direct and manage their waiver services;
- Determine the qualifications of waiver providers;
- Design strategies to assure the health and welfare of waiver participants;
- Manage a waiver to promote the cost-effective delivery of home and community-based services;
- Link the delivery of waiver services to other state and local programs and their associated service delivery systems; and,
- Develop and implement a quality improvement strategy to ensure that the waiver meets essential Federal statutory assurances and to continuously improve the effectiveness of the waiver in meeting participant needs.

The next section provides a more complete description of the HCBS waiver authority and its principal features.

CMS recognizes that the design and operational features of a HCBS waiver will vary depending on the specific needs of the target population, the resources available to a state, service delivery system structure, state goals and objectives, and other factors.

Version 3.5 HCBS Waiver Application

The Version 3.5 HCBS Waiver Application is available for state use upon release. The Version 3.1 - 3.5 HCBS Waiver Applications have extensively revised the predecessor 1995 standard waiver application format. The revised application reflects current Federal policy regarding the operation of HCBS waivers and is designed to ensure that the application includes the full-range of information that CMS requires in order to review and take action on a state’s request to operate a HCBS waiver. See Version 3.5 HCBS Waiver Application Organization for additional information concerning the revised application.

Waiver Application Format:

Since November 2006, CMS has offered a web-based version of the application, currently at https://wms-mmdl.csivydc.com/WMS/faces/portal.jsp. Conversion to a web-based application streamlines the preparation of waiver applications and amendments as well as improves the exchange of information between states and CMS concerning waiver requests.

CMS requires states to employ the web-based application to submit new waivers, waiver renewals, and amendments. The web-based application format contains separate technical directions for its use. In addition, the web-based application is linked to pertinent elements of these instructions. Please see Waiver Application Submission Requirements, Process and Procedures for more information about the web-based application.

Instructions – Overview

The instructions contain the following major sections:

- Description of the §1915(c) HCBS Waiver Authority provides an overview of the HCBS waiver program, including its statutory basis and principal features and information about where to locate resources that may assist states in designing and operating a HCBS waiver;

- Waiver Application Submission Requirements, Processes and Procedures furnishes information and technical guidance concerning the submission of waiver applications and amendments to approved waivers, including use of the web-based format. This section also includes the timelines that CMS must meet in taking action on state waiver submissions, and directions;

- Post Approval Activities summarizes Federal and state activities and processes that are undertaken during the period that a waiver is in effect, including state submission of annual waiver reports and CMS waiver review procedures;

- Detailed Instructions for Completing the Version 3.5 §1915(c) Waiver Application includes detailed item-by-item instructions for completing the application along with technical guidance to assist states in designing and operating a waiver and the criteria that CMS applies when reviewing each element of a waiver application;

- Glossary of Terms and Abbreviations provides definitions of the key terms and frequently used abbreviations that appear in the application and the instructions;

- Index to Application and Instructions cross-references topics between the application and the instructions;

In addition, the following Resource Attachments accompany the instructions.

Description of the §1915(c) HCBS Waiver Authority

Overview

This section provides a summary description of the HCBS waiver program, including its statutory basis and principal features. It also identifies the CMS organizations and units that are responsible for the administration of the waiver program and web-accessible resources that may assist states in designing and operating HCBS waivers.

Statutory Basis and Legislative History of the HCBS Waiver Authority

§1915(c) of the Social Security Act (“the Act”) authorizes the Secretary of Health and Human Services (HHS) to waive certain specific Medicaid statutory requirements so that a state may offer home and community-based services to state-specified target group(s) of Medicaid beneficiaries who need a level of institutional care that is provided under the Medicaid State plan. This provision was added to the Act by §2176 of P.L. 97-35 (Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (OBRA) of 1981) and subsequently has been amended by P.L. 99-272, (Consolidated Omnibus Reconciliation Act (COBRA) of 1985), P.L. 99-509 (OBRA 1986), P.L. 100-203 (OBRA 1987), P.L. 100-360 (Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act of 1988), P.L. 100-647 (Technical and Miscellaneous Revenue Act), P.L. 101-508 (OBRA 1990), and §4743 of P.L. 105-33 (Balanced Budget Act of 1997 – BBA-97). Attachment B to these instructions contains the full text of §1915(c) of the Act, as amended.

Prior to the enactment of §1915(c), the Medicaid program provided for little in the way of coverage for long term services and supports in non-institutional settings but offered full or partial coverage of institutional care. §1915(c) was enacted to enable states to address the needs of individuals who would otherwise receive costly institutional care by furnishing cost-effective services to assist them to remain in their homes and communities.

Section 6086 of the Deficit Reduction Act of 2005 (P.L. 109-171) added §1915(i) to Act. Effective January 1, 2007, states will have the option to cover, under the Medicaid State plan, any or all of the home and community-based services that are specifically listed in §1915(c)(4)(B), not including “other services”, to Medicaid eligible individuals who meet certain requirements. This option does not entail applying for a waiver (but it does require submitting a state plan amendment) and it does not include the requirement that beneficiaries require an institutional level of care in order to receive home and community-based services. The §1915(i) authority provides an additional avenue for states to support individuals in the community. A state may employ both the §1915(c) and §1915(i) authorities to fashion a comprehensive approach to the delivery of home and community-based services. The enactment of the §1915(i) authority did not alter the 1915(c) waiver authority. CMS will issue separate guidance concerning the §1915(i) authority.

Principal Features of the HCBS Waiver Authority

Basic Framework

The HCBS waiver authority permits a state to offer home and community-based services to individuals who: (a) are found to require a level of institutional care (hospital, nursing facility, or Intermediate Care Facility for Individuals with Intellectual Disabilities (ICF/IID)) under the State plan; (b) are members of a target group that is included in the waiver; (c) meet applicable Medicaid financial eligibility criteria; (d) require one or more waiver services in order to function in the community; and, (e) exercise freedom of choice by choosing to enter the waiver in lieu of receiving institutional care. It is entirely a state option to offer waiver services through its Medicaid program.

Waiver Application Process

In order to launch a HCBS waiver, a state must submit an initial waiver application to CMS. The application describes the proposed waiver’s design and must include sufficient information to permit CMS (acting on behalf of the Secretary of Health and Human Services) to determine that the waiver meets applicable statutory and regulatory requirements, especially the assurances specified in 42 CFR §441.302. Continuation of a waiver beyond its initial three-year approval period requires that the state submit a five-year waiver renewal application and a determination by CMS that, while the waiver has been in effect, the state has satisfactorily met the waiver assurances and other Federal requirements, including the submission of mandatory annual waiver reports (the CMS-372(S) report). Each subsequent renewal of the waiver also requires the submission of a renewal application and a CMS determination that the state has continued to meet Federal requirements.

The approved waiver application specifies the operational features of the waiver. A state must implement the waiver as specified in the approved application. If the state wants to change the waiver while it is in effect, it must submit an amendment to CMS for its review and approval. All requests for new waivers, waiver renewals and amendments must be submitted by the state Medicaid agency. There is no limit on the number of HCBS waivers that a state may operate. In 2014, states operated an average of 6.6 waivers. Arizona, Rhode Island, and Vermont were the only states that did not operate a §1915(c) HCBS waiver.

Waivers Granted

§1915(c) of the Act permits the Secretary of Health and Human Services to grant waivers of three provisions of the Act so that a state may operate a HCBS waiver:

- §1902(a)(10)(B) (Comparability). Waiver of this provision of the Act permits a state to limit the provision of HCBS waiver services to Medicaid beneficiaries who require the level of care in an institutional setting and are in the target group(s) specified in the waiver, as well as offer services to waiver participants that are not provided to other Medicaid beneficiaries. All HCBS waivers operate under a waiver of this statutory provision;

- §1902(a)(1) (Statewideness). The Secretary may grant a waiver of this provision of the Act in order to permit a state to limit the operation of a waiver to specified geographic areas of the state; and,

- §1902(a)(10)(C)(i)(III) (Income and Resources for the Medically Needy). A State may request a waiver of this provision in order to apply institutional income and resource “eligibility” rules for medically needy in the community who otherwise qualify for waiver services.

§1915(c) does not give the Secretary the authority to waive any other provisions of the Act. Therefore, all other pertinent Medicaid statutory requirements apply to the operation of a waiver. By proposing to operate a HCBS waiver concurrently with another authority such as a §1915(b) waiver, a state may obtain waivers of certain additional provisions of the Act.

Individuals Served by a Waiver

In its application, a state must specify the group or groups of Medicaid beneficiaries who are served through the HCBS waiver. This specification has three dimensions. First, a state must specify the level or levels of institutional care that individuals must need in order to be considered for entrance into the waiver. For example, a waiver may target persons who require the nursing facility level of care. Second, a state must select the specific target group (e.g., the “aged”) that the waiver will serve from among the three basic groups that are specified in the waiver regulations. A state may further specify the waiver target group by age, condition and/or other factors. Lastly, a state must identify the Medicaid eligibility groups (e.g., Supplemental Security Income (SSI) recipients) to which waiver services are furnished. These groups may include some or all of the eligibility groups that are included in the Medicaid State plan. Also a state may elect to apply more generous “institutional eligibility” rules to certain persons in the community to secure Medicaid eligibility on the same footing as persons who elect to receive institutional services.

Waivers target many types of Medicaid beneficiaries, including older persons, individuals who have experienced a brain injury, children with mental illness, children and adults with developmental disabilities, persons with physical and other disabilities, persons living with AIDS, and others.

Services Offered Under a Waiver

A state must specify the services that are furnished through the waiver. The state may include the services that are specifically enumerated in §1915(c) of the Act and/or propose to offer other services that assist individuals to remain in the community and avoid institutionalization. Waiver services complement the services that a state offers under its State plan. Waiver participants must have full access to State plan services, including Early and Periodic Screening, Diagnosis and Treatment (EPSDT) services when children participate in a waiver. Through a waiver, a state may also furnish “extended State plan services” that exceed the limits that apply under the State plan. There is no limit on the number of services that a state may offer in a waiver nor are states required to include specific services in the waiver.

In its application, a state must specify the scope and nature of each waiver service and any limits on amount, frequency and duration that the state elects to apply to a service. Also, the state must specify the qualifications of the individuals or agencies that furnish each waiver service.

Exclusion of Room and Board

Except in limited circumstances, a state may not claim Federal financial participation (FFP) for the costs of the room and board expenses of waiver participants. Room and board expenses must be met from participant resources or through other sources.

Number of Waiver Participants

In its application, a state must specify the unduplicated number of individuals that the state intends to serve each year the waiver is in effect. It is up to the state to determine this number, based on the resources that the state has available to underwrite the costs of waiver services. As state resources permit, this number may be modified by amendment while the waiver is in effect.

Service Plan

The waiver services that an individual will receive must be incorporated into a written service plan (a.k.a., “plan of care”). A state may claim FFP only for the waiver services that have been authorized in the participant’s service plan. The service plan must also include the non-waiver services and supports that are used to meet the needs of the participant in the community. In its application, the state must specify how the service plan is developed, including how the plan addresses potential risks to the individual. Effective service plan development processes are essential in order to ensure that waiver participants will receive the services and supports that they need in order to function successfully in the community and to assure their health and welfare. Monitoring the implementation of the service plan is also a critical waiver operational activity.
Description of the §1915(c) HCBS Waiver Program

Participant Direction of Waiver Services

A state may provide that the waiver participant (or the participant’s representative) may direct and manage some or all of their waiver services. Participant direction may take a variety of forms, including the participant’s employing and directly supervising community support workers and exercising decision making authority over an amount of waiver funds (the participant-directed budget). When a waiver provides for participant direction, the state is expected to make supports available to the participant as necessary to facilitate participant direction. A state that makes a strong commitment to participant direction may request that CMS review the application for designation as an Independence Plus waiver (see Appendix E instructions).

Assuring Participant Health and Welfare

A waiver’s design must provide for continuously and effectively assuring the health and welfare of waiver participants. Processes that are important for assuring participant health and welfare include (but are not necessarily limited to):

- Specifying the qualifications of waiver providers and verifying that providers continuously meet these qualifications;
- Periodically monitoring the implementation of the service plan and participant health and welfare;
- Identifying and responding to alleged instances of abuse, neglect and exploitation that involve waiver participants; and,
- Instituting appropriate safeguards concerning practices that may cause harm to the participant or restrict participant rights.

The renewal of a waiver is contingent on CMS determining that the state has effectively assured the health and welfare of waiver participants during the period that the waiver has been in effect. In its application, the state must specify how it monitors performance in assuring health and welfare and the other waiver assurances by preparing and submitting a Quality Improvement Strategy.

Waiver Administration and Operation

A waiver may be operated directly by the Medicaid agency or by another state agency (termed the “operating agency”) under a written agreement with the Medicaid agency, so long as the Medicaid agency retains ultimate authority and responsibility for the waiver. In addition, a state may provide that local or regional non-state organizations (e.g., county human services agencies) or contracted entities perform specified waiver administrative and operational tasks, so long as the authority of the Medicaid agency over the waiver is maintained, and any delegation of function performance or authority is expressly identified in writing.

Participant Rights

A state must provide that individuals have the opportunity to request a Medicaid Fair Hearing when they are not given the choice to receive waiver services, are denied the waiver services or providers of their choice, or their waiver services are denied, suspended, reduced or terminated.

Cost Neutrality

In its application and each year during the period that the waiver is in operation, the state must demonstrate that the waiver is cost neutral. In particular, the average per participant expenditures for the waiver and non-waiver Medicaid services must be no more costly than the average per person costs of furnishing institutional (and other Medicaid state plan) services to persons who require the same level of care.

Quality Improvement Strategy: Overview

For the purpose of the application, the state is expected to have, at the minimum, systems in place to measure and improve its performance in meeting the waiver assurances that are set forth in 42 CFR §441.301 and §441.302. These assurances address important dimensions of waiver quality, including assuring that service plans are designed to meet the needs of waiver participants and that there are effective systems in place to monitor participant health and welfare. CMS recognizes that the design of the QIS will vary depending on the nature of the waiver target population, the services offered, and the waiver’s relationship to other public programs.

While the QIS must address the waiver assurances as a prerequisite, it can extend to aspects of waiver operations the state deems critical in achieving the waiver’s purpose, and meeting the expectations of waiver participants and stakeholders. For example, the QIS might include identifying and tracking performance in achieving critical participant outcomes, assessing how effectively the waiver supports participants to direct their services, or improving the capabilities of waiver providers to effectively support participants. In other words, while the QIS as a prerequisite must address compliance with the essential waiver assurances, the state need not limit the scope. Some states have found the former Quality Framework useful as an expansive construct that addresses HCBS Waiver quality beyond the assurance elements.

Finally, CMS recognizes that quality improvement is dynamic and the QIS may, and probably will, change over time. CMS expects that states will have all essential quality improvement components in place at the time the waiver application is submitted.

In March, 2014, CMS issued guidance that clarifies subassurances for each waiver assurance, describes how states may combine quality systems across multiple waivers and discusses some modifications in the IPG process. This guidance is found at: http://www.medicaid.gov/Medicaid-CHIP-Program-Information/By-Topics/Waivers/Downloads/3-CMCS-quality-memo-narrative.pdf.

Waiver Assurances and Other Federal Requirements

The waiver assurances (and their component elements) that must be included in the QIS follow. Also included in parentheses are references to the specific parts of the application that pertain to the respective assurance.

1. Administrative Authority (Quality Improvement: Appendix A)

   Assurance: The Medicaid agency retains ultimate administrative authority and responsibility for the operation of the waiver program by exercising oversight of the performance of waiver functions by other state and local/regional non-state agencies (if appropriate) and contracted entities.

2. Level of Care (LOC) (Quality Improvement: Appendix B)

   Assurance: The state demonstrates that it implements the processes and instrument(s) specified in its approved waiver for evaluating/re-evaluating and applicant’s/waiver participant’s level of care consistent with care provided in a hospital, NF, or ICF/IID.
• An evaluation for LOC is provided to all applicants for whom there is reasonable indication that services may be needed in the future.
• The processes and instruments described in the approved waiver are applied appropriately and according to the approved description to determine participant LOC.

3. Qualified Providers (Quality Improvement: Appendix C)

_Assurance:_ The State demonstrates that it has designed and implemented an adequate system for assuring that all waiver services are provided by qualified providers.

- The state verifies that providers initially and continually meet required licensure and/or certification standards and adhere to other standards prior to their furnishing waiver services.
- The state monitors non-licensed/non-certified providers to assure adherence to waiver requirements.
- The state implements its policies and procedures for verifying that provider training is conducted in accordance with state requirements and the approved waiver.

4. Service Plan (Quality Improvement: Appendix D)

_Assurance:_ The State demonstrates it has designed and implemented an effective system for reviewing the adequacy of service plans for the waiver participants.

- Service plans address all participants’ assessed needs (including health and safety risk factors) and personal goals, either by waiver services or through other means.
- Service plans are updated/revised at least annually or when warranted by changes in the waiver participant’s needs.
- Services are delivered in accordance with the service plan, including in the type, scope, amount, duration, and frequency specified in the service plan.
- Participants are afforded choice between/among waiver services and providers.

5. Health and Welfare (Quality Improvement: Appendix G)

_Assurance:_ The State demonstrates it has designed and implemented an effective system for assuring waiver participant health and welfare.

- The State demonstrates on an ongoing basis that it identifies, addresses and seeks to prevent instances of abuse, neglect, exploitation and unexplained death.
- The State demonstrates that an incident management system is in place that effectively resolves those incidents and prevents further similar incidents to the extent possible.
- State policies and procedures for the use or prohibition of restrictive interventions (including restraints and seclusion) are followed.
- The State establishes overall health care standards and monitors those standards based on the responsibility of the service provider as stated in the approved waiver.

6. Financial Accountability (Quality Improvement: Appendix I)

_Assurance:_ The State must demonstrate that it has designed and implemented an adequate system for insuring financial accountability of the waiver program.

- The State provides evidence that claims are coded and paid for in accordance with the reimbursement methodology specified in the approved waiver and only for services rendered.
The State provides evidence that rates remain consistent with the approved rate methodology throughout the five-year waiver cycle.

Continuous Quality Improvement

CMS expects states to follow a continuous quality improvement (CQI) process in the operation of each waiver program. The process involves a continuous monitoring of the implementation of each waiver sub-assurance, methods for remediation or addressing identified individual problems and areas of noncompliance, and processes for a) aggregating collected information on discovery and remediation activities, and b) prioritizing and addressing needed systems changes on a regular basis.

Discovery

Discovery consists of monitoring and data collection activities that identify whether and to what extent the State addresses compliance with the assurances. Relevant discovery sources may include record/chart reviews, financial reviews, interviews with participants and providers, observation of program operations; compilation of operations data such as incidents and complaints, claims data, fair hearings and appeals data or the results of licensure/certifications reviews. Discovery activities also might include conducting a structured review targeted to a geographic area or type of service, special studies, or securing the services of an outside entity to perform an over site/evaluation function.

Discovery activities should be expressed as a performance measure whenever possible. A measurable representation of the assurance compliance, consisting of a numerator/denominator, is the preferable method of reporting on discovery activities. Such an approach provides a clear and concise evidence-based representation of a State’s compliance with an assurance. As such, a state is expected to provide information on the method by which each source of data is analyzed statistically/deductively or inductively, how themes are identified or conclusions drawn, and recommendations are formulated.

By way of illustration, the “qualified providers” assurance requires the state to verify on a periodic basis that providers meet approved licensure and/or certification standards and/or adhere to other state standards. In Appendix C-1/C-3, information about each waiver service must include provider qualifications, the entity (or entities) responsible for verifying provider qualifications, and how frequently the verification of provider qualifications is performed. One of the state’s monitoring activities should describe the source of collected information (for example, record reviews of all waiver program providers or a statistically significant representative sample) and the performance measurement of providers meeting the required qualifications, (that is, from a statistically significant sample, the number meeting approved qualifications (numerator) over the total number reviewed (denominator).

Remediation

It is important to keep in mind that, in each instance, the QIS must specify a similar numerical approach for identified problems or areas of noncompliance, and corrective or remedial actions taken when problems are discovered. The approach is critical in that states must show compliance with the CMS statutory assurances. So, while monitoring data/indicators reveal a level of system performance for discovery activities, when the system performance is less than 100%, a remediation plan is necessary to correct identified areas of noncompliance. Those individually identified areas require correction in order to support compliance with the assurance, and quality improvement. Specific activities include:

- The remedial action to be taken;
- The timeline for when remediation is effectuated;
- Those responsible for addressing remedial activities; and,
- The frequency with which performance/compliance is measured.

While it is up to the state to identify the types of information used to measure performance related to the assurances, it must be sufficient to conclude compliance with the assurance has been met. Often more than one data source can be tapped to evaluate performance, particularly related to the health and welfare assurance.

Measuring performance against the assurances may occur at different intervals, at different frequency rates, and with varying intensity. The state, however, should be able to verify to its stakeholders and CMS that it has measured its performance against the assurances no less than annually. The approach or frequency of measurement may vary from year to year, particularly when the state finds that it routinely meets the requirements and assurances.

Sampling Approach

The CMS quality requirements are founded on an evidence-based approach. CMS requests from the state evidence that it meets the assurances, and that it applies a continuous quality improvement approach to the assurances. CMS therefore relies on the evidence or data produced by the State to substantiate compliance. For that reason it is critical that states can assert with a degree of confidence that evidence produced is valid and reliable. Without such certainty, it is difficult at best for the federal government, waiver recipients, or stakeholder groups to have confidence in the state’s reported performance. CMS strongly urges states to have a solid sampling approach to the evidence it collects. A reference guide on sampling is available in Attachment D of the waiver application resource manual.

Roles and Responsibilities

The Quality Improvement Strategy must describe roles and responsibilities of the parties involved in discovery, remediation, and improvement activities. The description should include the roles and responsibilities of the Medicaid agency, operating agency and non-state entities (as applicable), other state agencies, participants, families and advocates, providers, and other contractors (if appropriate) in operationalizing the processes in the quality improvement strategy such as collecting and analyzing individual and system-level information, determining whether the waiver requirements and assurances are met, implementing remediation, and planning system improvement activities.

The focus of this QIS element is on identifying who is involved in appraising performance in meeting the waiver assurances based on the results of discovery processes. The parties involved in performance appraisal may vary by assurance, depending on the nature of the assurance. The state may organize the involvement of individuals and entities in any number of ways including, but not limited to, establishing a quality improvement unit, forming quality improvement councils, and establishing standing committees. It is not necessary that the Medicaid agency directly conducts every aspect of the quality improvement strategy. However, since the QIS focuses on meeting the waiver assurances, it is necessary that the Medicaid agency be the source of the delegation of activities in the QIS, and the recipient of the monitoring, remediation and system improvement reports that pertain to meeting the assurances. The Medicaid agency must also perform its own monitoring of all delegated activities.

CMS urges states to widen the circle of parties involved in waiver performance appraisal to include waiver participants, families (when appropriate), providers and other parties who are directly affected by waiver operations.

Examples: Assuring health and welfare requires multiple discovery strategies that generate information about abuse, neglect, exploitation, accidents and injuries, hospitalizations, medication errors, the use of restraints, and self reports about safety. The QIS might designate one entity or groups of individuals (participants, providers, advocates) to evaluate the utilization of restraints, determine whether improvement strategies are necessary and develop those strategies and specify another entity or groups of individuals to evaluate hospitalizations, accidents and injuries to determine whether there are areas, providers or participants who may warrant special attention.

Example: Monitoring participant service planning and service delivery generates information about implementation of the service plan that might be used by the operating agency alone to evaluate performance, or the operating agency might engage case managers to evaluate information from discovery and to develop improvement strategies. The Medicaid agency may use the same information reports to determine whether the operating agency’s oversight system is effective.

The state may create regional or statewide Quality Councils made up of participants, advocates, providers, clinicians, quality improvement specialists, and government managers to receive recommendations from various committees and determine what strategies should be adopted. However, the creation of Quality Councils is not required. It is one mechanism that a state may use to appraise performance and secure input regarding quality improvement strategies.

Comprehensive Quality Improvement Strategy –Displaying and Printing in the Web-Based Application

While the state must describe components of the quality improvement strategy for the waiver in multiple appendices of the application, there is capability within the web-based application to display and print the quality improvement strategy in its entirety. From the Print Options Menu in the web-based application, simply click on the button entitled “Print/Display Quality Improvement Strategy.” This function will extract the information from all relevant areas in the application to assemble the comprehensive quality improvement strategy for the waiver in one consolidated document that can be either saved or printed.

Federal Administration of the HCBS Waiver Authority

The HCBS waiver authority is administered by the Disabled and Elderly Health Programs Group (DEHPG) within the Center for Medicaid and State Operations (CMSO) at the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS), U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS). DEHPG is a unit within the CMSO Central Office (CO) in Baltimore, Maryland. Within DEHPG, the Division of Long-Term Services and Supports (DLTSS) has lead responsibility for HCBS waiver program administration. DLTSS is responsible for developing policies concerning the HCBS waiver authority, furnishing or arranging for technical assistance to states in the design and operation of waivers, and reviewing and approving waiver applications and amendments in collaboration with CMS Regional Offices (RO).

CMS has ten Regional Offices located around the country. The CMS RO is the first point-of-contact for the states in its region concerning the HCBS waiver program. The RO also is tasked with oversight of the waivers in its region and engaging in ongoing dialogue with the state concerning waiver operations and performance. The CO and RO share responsibilities for reviewing waiver applications and requests for amendments and providing technical assistance to states concerning the design and operation of waivers.

Strengthening HCBS Waiver Quality Assurance/Quality Improvement

In February, 2007, CMS issued the Revised Interim Procedural Guidance to its Regional Offices. The Interim Procedural Guidance is a precursor to a permanent mechanism for states to provide waiver quality improvement information to CMS. While the waiver application serves as the State’s plan for ongoing compliance with the assurances, the Interim Procedural Guidance is the actual implementation of the plan as approved in the State’s application. The Interim Procedural Guidance stresses that CMS oversight of HCBS waivers is based principally on the review of evidence that waiver assurances have been met. Because CMS does not conduct look-behind surveys, the State’s role in producing reliable evidence of compliance is paramount in the review process. Thus, the IPG guidance sets out the expectations of States in reporting collected information described in the waiver design, that is, the QI strategy found in the waiver application.

HCBS Waiver Services, the ADA and Olmstead

CMS recognizes the important role that Medicaid plays in States’ efforts to ensure compliance with the ADA and Olmstead. In the early 2000s, CMS (then the Health Care Financing Administration) issued a series of letters to State Medicaid Directors to identify policies, tools, and expectations for home and community-based services (HCBS) and their role in Olmstead compliance. These letters, collectively known as “the Olmstead letters,” identified services that help transition individuals from institutional to community settings and maintain their community living status. The letters also described the obligations of States under Federal Medicaid rules to provide services necessary to assure the health and welfare of individuals served under Medicaid section 1915(c) waiver programs. Although this is guidance with respect to the Medicaid program, we note that states have obligations pursuant to the Americans with Disabilities Act, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, and the Supreme Court’s Olmstead decision interpreting the integration regulations of those statutes. Approval of any Medicaid Waiver action does not in any way address the State’s independent obligations under the Americans with Disabilities Act or the Supreme Court’s Olmstead decision.

HCBS Waiver Resources on the Web

In addition to the web-based application for 1915(c) waivers located at https://wms-mmdl.cdsvdc.com/WMS/faces/portal.jsp, CMS makes available assorted information and resources via its website (www.medicaid.gov). General information about the HCBS waiver
The Version 3.5 HCBS Waiver Application consists of an application “module” and ten appendices, each of which addresses specific dimensions of waiver operations.

- Application (Module 1). The initial section of the application contains the formal state request to operate a §1915(c) HCBS waiver, including the request for waiver(s) of specific sections of the Act. This module also includes a brief description of the waiver’s goals, objectives, organization, and service delivery methods. It also contains the fundamental assurances and additional Federal requirements that apply to the operation of a waiver.

- Appendix A: Waiver Administration and Operations. This Appendix identifies the state agency that is responsible for the day-to-day operation of the waiver along with other entities that are involved in its operation, including as applicable contracted entities and local/regional non-state entities. The distribution of certain waiver operational responsibilities among these entities also is specified. This Appendix addresses the question: “What entities are involved in the operation of the waiver?”

- Appendix B: Participant Access and Eligibility. This Appendix is designed to answer the question: “Who receives waiver services?” In this Appendix, a state specifies: (a) the waiver’s target group(s); (b) the individual cost limit (if any) that applies to individuals entering the waiver; (c) the number of individuals who will be served in the waiver and how this number will be managed during the period that the waiver is in effect; (d) the Medicaid eligibility groups served in the waiver; (e) applicable post-eligibility treatment of income policies; (f) procedures for the evaluation of level of care of prospective entrants to the waiver and the periodic re-evaluation of the level of care of waiver participants; (g) how individuals are afforded freedom of choice in selecting between institutional and home and community-based services; and, (h) how the state provides for meaningful access to the waiver by individuals with Limited English Proficiency (LEP).

- Appendix C: Participant Services. This Appendix is designed to answer the question: “What services does the waiver offer?” In this Appendix, the state establishes the specifications for each waiver service and any limitations that apply to a service or the overall amount of waiver services. A service specification template (Appendix C-3) consolidates information about each waiver service (including its scope, provider qualifications, and whether the service may be participant-directed).

Pre-specified service definitions are not embedded in the Version 3.5 waiver application. [N.B., “Core service definitions” that a state may adapt are included as an attachment to the Appendix C instructions.] This Appendix also captures information about state policies concerning criminal history/background and abuse registry checks, payments to legally responsible individuals for the provision of personal care and to relatives/legal guardians for the provision of services, and the 1915(c) home and community-based setting requirements.

- Appendix D: Participant-Centered Planning and Service Delivery. In this Appendix, the State describes how the person-centered service plan (plan of care) is developed along with how the state monitors (a) the implementation of the service plan and (b) participant health and welfare. This Appendix is designed to answer two questions: “How are participant needs identified and addressed during the personcentered service plan development process?” and “How does the state monitor the delivery of waiver services?”

- Appendix E: Participant Direction of Services. This Appendix is designed to answer the questions: “What authority do participants have to direct some or all of their waiver services?” and “How are participants supported in directing their services?” This Appendix permits a state to specify the opportunities afforded to waiver participants to direct and manage their waiver services. This Appendix is completed only when the waiver offers one or both of the participant direction opportunities contained in the Appendix. The new application enables a state to offer participant direction in a waiver in which other service delivery methods also are used or, alternatively, provide that participant direction is the principal service delivery method that is used in the waiver.

- Appendix F: Participant Rights. In this Appendix, a state describes how it affords waiver participants the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing as well as any alternate processes that are available to resolve disputes or address participant complaints/grievances. This Appendix addresses the question: “How are participant rights protected?”

- Appendix G: Participant Safeguards. This Appendix addresses the question: “What safeguards has the state established to protect participants from harm?” In this Appendix, a state describes how it provides for specific safeguards related to assuring participant health and welfare (e.g., response to critical incidents).

- Appendix H: Systems Improvement. Here, a state describes the mechanisms it will use to engage in systems improvement activities based upon the information it gathers from the discovery and remediation strategies described throughout the application.

- Appendix I: Financial Accountability. In this Appendix, a state specifies how it makes payments for waiver services, ensures the integrity of these payments and complies with applicable requirements concerning payments and Federal financial participation. The Appendix is designed to answer the question: “How does the state maintain financial accountability in the waiver?”

- Appendix J: Cost Neutrality Demonstration. In this Appendix, the State furnishes necessary information to demonstrate the cost neutrality of the waiver. This Appendix is designed to answer the question: “Does the waiver meet statutory cost-neutrality requirements?”

Ongoing CMS Waiver Application Activities

CMS is engaged in several ongoing activities related to the waiver application/review processes and continuing improvement of Federal oversight and monitoring of HCBS waivers.

Implementation of the Web-Based Application

With the Version 3.4 application, CMS implemented a web-based HCBS waiver application format. Ongoing improvements to the web-based format have further streamlined the application process by eliminating paper copies, enabling states to enter, save, and submit the HCBS waiver application via the Internet, and supports internal CMS processing and review of applications, renewal requests and amendments. The web-based tool stores all waivers and amendments chronologically so that CMS and the state may at any time view the currently approved waiver, or previously approved versions.
Additional Activities

CMS undertakes the following additional activities:

- Ongoing Dialogue with State Associations. CMS is continuing its dialogue with the state associations concerning the HCBS waiver program. This dialogue has proven to be invaluable in continually improving the operation of the program.

- Continuous Solicitation of State User Feedback. CMS continuously invites feedback from states that employ the Version 3.5 HCBS Waiver Application about ease of use and the need for additional clarification.

- Periodic Revisions to the Application and Instructions. Periodically, CMS will revise and update both the waiver application and these instructions. These revisions will incorporate interim technical clarifications that are issued between revisions. Revisions also may be necessary to reflect new policy developments.
Waiver Application Submission
Requirements, Processes and Procedures

Overview

This section addresses the following topics:
- Use of the Version 3.5 HCBS Waiver Application;
- Policies concerning the submission of new and renewal waiver applications;
- Policies concerning the submission and CMS review of waiver amendments; and,
- Related topics

Submission of Applications

A state must submit a new or renewal waiver application using the Version 3.5 application by employing the web-based application.

Making a Submission Using the Web-Based Application

There are several benefits in employing the web-based application to prepare and submit new and renewal applications. These benefits include:

- The web-based application automatically links interrelated parts of the application. Where appropriate, information that is entered in one part of the application is automatically entered in other parts of the application that use the same information. For example, the information about waiver services that is entered in Appendix C is used to populate the Factor D tables in Appendix J. This feature ensures internal consistency within the application. In addition, the web-based application turns off parts of the application that do not apply to a request.

- The web-based application employs validation checks to ensure that selections made in one part of the application are consistent with selections made in other parts. For example, the selection of Medicaid eligibility groups in Appendix B-4 is tightly linked to the selections concerning post-eligibility treatment of income in Appendix B-5. These validation checks ensure that the application has been completed appropriately and expedite CMS review. In addition, the web-based application prevents the submission of incomplete applications.

- The web-based application also supports internal CMS processing of applications. Both the CO and ROs are notified electronically when an application is submitted and there is tracking of where the application stands in the review/approval process. This enables more efficient and timely review of applications.

- Once an application that has been submitted via the web is approved, it will be easier for states to submit amendments by making changes to the application on the web. Moreover, both CMS and states will have continuous access to the most up-to-date version of the approved waiver.

Use of the web-based application facilitates both state preparation and CMS review of applications. Separate technical instructions have been issued for using the web-based application.
When the web-based application is used, a new waiver, renewal or amendment is considered submitted when the State Medicaid Director (or designee) submits the application using the submission feature, which is reserved for use only by the Medicaid Director. Submission of the application by the State Medicaid Director is equivalent to signature of the application by the State Medicaid Director. When the application is submitted via the web, the date on which the State Medicaid Director submits the application is considered to be the official submission date for the purpose of starting the 90-day “clock” for CMS review and disposition of the request (see below for further discussion of the 90-day clock). The application is not submitted separately in printed hard copy form when the web-based application is used.

Making Changes to a Submitted Application

Once a waiver application or amendment has been submitted, it may be necessary to make changes. For example, CMS review of a waiver application or amendment may result in CMS suggesting that the state modify the application or amendment. If the state concurs, the state must make the change to the application or amendment and resubmit the affected portions of the application to CMS. Under no circumstances can CMS personnel modify a waiver application or amendment request.

Once an application is submitted via the web, the application is “locked” and cannot be modified unless unlocked by CMS. Locking the application preserves the integrity of the original submission. If it is necessary to modify the application, CMS will unlock the application so that the state may make changes. Once the state has made the changes and resubmitted the application to CMS, the application will be locked again.

Joint Central Office/Regional Office Waiver Review Process

All waiver applications, renewals, and specific amendments are reviewed jointly by CMSO/DEHPG/DLTSS and the appropriate RO. The CO waiver analyst and RO staff work together to review the application to ensure that it is complete and to assess the waiver’s design by applying the CMS review criteria. As necessary, other CMS personnel participate in the review process. The joint CO/RO waiver review process is designed to identify and resolve as expeditiously as possible problems or issues that may surface. CMS strives to ensure that relevant Federal policies are applied consistently across all types of waiver requests and CMS regions. CMS also seeks to work collaboratively with states to resolve issues. In addition, as part of the waiver application redesign, CMS has developed “Instrument for Reviewing State 1915 (c) HCBS Waiver Applications” has been developed to assist CMS CO/RO waiver analysts in their review of waiver applications and to build consistency into the application review process. This tool is available on the CMS website.

Requesting Division Review

From time to time, issues may arise where the state believes that the resolution of an issue proposed by the RO/CO review team is problematic. When this situation arises, the state may request that the issue be referred to the DLTSS Director at CMSO/DEHPG for further review. The state should delineate why it regards the proposed resolution to be problematic and the state’s preferred resolution of the issue. The DLTSS Director will examine the issue and, as necessary, consult with the state and the RO/CO review team to resolve the issue. The Director will transmit the proposed disposition of the issue to the state and the RO/CO review team.

Policies Concerning New and Renewal Waiver Applications

This section provides information about the policies that apply to the submission of and CMS action on new and renewal waiver applications.
90-Day Clock

In accordance with 42 CFR §430.25(f)(3), CMS has no more than 90 calendar days within which to approve or deny an initial waiver application, a waiver renewal or an amendment request or alternatively issue a written request for additional information (RAI). The 90-day period within which CMS must act on a waiver request is known as the “90-day clock.” The 90-day clock starts on the day that CMS receives the request. It is extremely important to keep the 90-day clock in mind when preparing new or renewal waiver applications or amendment requests. In particular:

- In the case of an initial or new waiver application, the application must be submitted at least 90 calendar days in advance of the proposed waiver effective date. If a request to launch a new waiver is received fewer than 90-days in advance of the proposed effective date, CMS may not be able to complete its review in time to permit the waiver to be implemented when desired by the state. States should consider submitting new waiver applications six-months in advance of the proposed effective date. Submitting a new application well in advance of the proposed effective date increases the likelihood that the waiver can be approved on or before the desired effective date, and takes into account the possibility of an RAI. It is important to keep in mind that a new waiver may only be approved with a prospective effective date. New waivers may not take effect retroactively.

- In the case of a waiver renewal application, the application also must be submitted at least 90 calendar days in advance of the approved waiver’s expiration date. If a waiver renewal request is received fewer than 90-days in advance of the expiration date, CMS may not be able to complete its review by the waiver’s expiration date. As with new waiver requests, the state should consider submitting a renewal application six months in advance of the waiver’s expiration date so that there is time to resolve any questions that might arise during the CMS review of the renewal request.

As a general matter, CMS attempts to resolve problems with a waiver application through informal dialogue with the state. Informal requests for additional information (which might be made by telephone or e-mail) do not stop the 90-day clock. CMS attempts to identify any serious problems in an application within 45-days of its receipt.

If significant problems are identified in the waiver application, the state may take the application “off-the-clock” by notifying CMS that its submission is incomplete. Once the state has addressed the problems, it may resubmit the application, whereupon a new 90-day clock will start. The state also has the option to formally withdraw a request. This option should be considered when the state determines that it is no longer interested in pursuing the request as submitted.

In the case of either a new waiver application or a renewal request, CMS may issue a formal, written “Request for Additional Information” (RAI) in the event that CMS identifies issues or problems in the application that are sufficiently serious that CMS may have to disapprove the application unless the problems are resolved satisfactorily.

Only a single RAI will be issued during the waiver review period. When an RAI is issued, the 90-day clock is stopped. The clock remains stopped until the state submits its response to the RAI. Once the response is received, a new 90-day clock starts. In the case of a new waiver application, the issuance of an RAI may make it difficult to complete the review of the application by the state’s desired effective date, depending on how far in advance of the proposed effective date the application was submitted and how quickly and satisfactorily the state responds to the RAI. In the case of a renewal application, the issuance of an RAI may pose significant difficulties for completing the review of the renewal application in advance of the expiration date, especially if the application was submitted only 90-days in advance of the expiration date.

The state may wish to stop the clock by notifying CMS that its submission is incomplete if CMS determines that the state’s response to an RAI does not satisfactorily resolve the problems in the application. Stopping the clock on an application avoids CMS having to disapprove the application. CMS does not have the authority to suspend its consideration of a waiver request absent a state request to stop the clock.

CMS makes every effort to complete its review of a waiver application on a timely basis and avoid stopping the clock so that new waivers can be implemented when planned by the state and renewals are approved in advance of the waiver’s expiration date. Meeting this objective is aided when the state responds promptly to CMS requests to clarify the application. When CMS approves a new waiver, waiver renewal or amendment, it will formally notify the state in writing.

New Waiver Applications

When a state wants to launch a new waiver, it submits an initial waiver application. Under the Act, CMS may approve a new waiver program for a period of three-years or, if the waiver serves individuals who are dually eligible for Medicare and Medicaid, five years at the state’s option. The new waiver year period starts on the effective date of the waiver. A new waiver may not go into effect until the effective date proposed by the state or the date that CMS approves the waiver, whichever is later. Again, the state must propose a prospective effective date. A new waiver is never approved retroactively. As noted above, an application for a new waiver must provide for an effective date at least 90-days after the date of submission. If CMS does not approve the waiver request until after the effective date proposed by the state, CMS will ask the state whether it wishes the effective date to be the date that CMS approved the waiver or another date (e.g., the first of the following month to facilitate waiver reporting).

When a new waiver is approved but the state experiences a delay in implementing the waiver on the approved effective date, the state may submit an amendment to move forward the initial effective date (as long as no waiver services have been provided or claimed), in order to start the three or five year waiver period on the date that the state actually implements the waiver.

Special Considerations: §1915(b)/1915(c) Concurrent Waiver Applications

A state may apply to operate §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers. Concurrent waivers can be used by a state to combine the delivery of HCBS waiver services with the provision of other state plan services through a managed-care service delivery system. The §1915(b) waiver authority permits a state to waive provisions of the Act beyond the waivers that may be requested under the §1915(c) waiver authority. For example, a state may request a waiver of §1902(a)(23) of the Act, the free choice of providers requirement, under authority of §1915(b)(4) in order to selectively contract with entities that furnish waiver and specified state plan services through a managed care arrangement.

In order to operate §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers, a state must complete and submit separate §1915(b) and §1915(c) waiver applications (or amendments). Each application has different requirements because each waiver authority is governed by distinct provisions of the Act and is subject to different Federal regulations. For example, an initial §1915(b) waiver may only be approved for a period of two-years and may only be renewed for a period of two years. Where appropriate, the Version 3.5 HCBS Waiver Application takes into account the limited number of areas where requirements and features of §1915(b) and §1915(c) waivers intersect.
When a state applies to operate §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers, CMS must review each application or amendment to ensure that it meets the relevant statutory and regulatory requirements that attach to the waiver authority under which they will operate. Both applications are subject to a 90-day clock. CMS internally coordinates the review of both applications.

Since the approval of §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers hinge on the approval of both applications, CMS may not approve the §1915(c) application until the §1915(b) waiver has been determined to be approvable and/or vice versa. Because significant problems might surface in the review of either application, it is especially important that a state submit a request to operate §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers at least six months in advance of the proposed waiver effective date. The two applications may need to be submitted simultaneously so that they can move forward under the same 90-day clock and be effective on the same date.

Special Considerations: §1915(a) Authority Concurrently with a 1915(c) Waiver

A state may operate a §1915(c) waiver in conjunction with §1915(a) authority, which permits a state to waive statewideness, comparability, or free choice of provider under certain circumstances. Typically, states have used §1915(a) authority to provide for voluntary managed care for all or some HCBS waiver participants. As the effect on a HCBS waiver varies with the authority sought under §1915(a), and since combination §1915(a)/(c) waivers are not common, these instructions do not discuss options available under §1915(a) throughout. See the Appendix I instructions for a discussion of the §1915(a) authority regarding managed care contracts. Contact CMS to discuss a HCBS application that will include §1915(a) authority.

New Waiver to Replace an Approved Waiver

There are circumstances when a state may or must submit a new waiver application to replace an approved waiver:

- State Election. A state may decide to submit a new waiver rather than renew an approved waiver because the state wants to redesign the waiver. The submission of a replacement waiver may be advantageous when the revisions that the state wants to make are substantial and affect many elements of the waiver. When a state decides to replace an existing waiver, the proposed effective date of the new waiver must coincide with the expiration or termination date of the approved waiver (e.g., if the approved waiver expires on June 30, the new waiver should be made effective on July 1 to ensure continuity of participant services). The submission of a new application to replace an existing waiver does not affect the expiration date of the approved waiver. Also, in this circumstance, a state is required to prepare a transition plan to describe how the transition between the existing and the new waiver will be accomplished (see the detailed instructions for the Application (Module 1) for a discussion of what to include in the transition plan).

- CMS Requires the Submission of a New Application. When CMS determines that there are serious problems in the operation of an approved waiver, CMS may require that the state replace the approved waiver with a new waiver. This circumstance may arise when the CMS review of waiver operations reveals substantial problems in assuring waiver participant health and welfare or when other serious operational deficiencies are identified. In the application for the replacement waiver, the state is expected to propose a waiver redesign that effectively addresses the shortcomings that CMS has identified. In addition, CMS may require the state to periodically report its progress in implementing corrective actions to correct waiver operational deficiencies.

Except in the foregoing circumstances, CMS will not generally require that a state submit a new waiver to replace an approved waiver even when significant changes are proposed to the approved waiver either via waiver amendment or in a renewal application. However, if major changes are proposed that might adversely affect current participants (e.g., by altering a waiver’s target population or eliminating services that are provided in the approved waiver), CMS may require the state to provide additional justification and/or submit a transition plan that describes the steps that the state will take to address the impact of the changes on current waiver participants. Again, see the instructions for the Application (Module 1) for a more detailed discussion of transition plans.

Renewal Applications

Waivers that have not been formally renewed by the end of the waiver period automatically expire. The Act does not provide for the automatic extension of an approved waiver. In order to ensure the continuous operation of a waiver, a waiver renewal application should be submitted to CMS at least 90 but preferably 180 calendar days prior to the end of the waiver period.

There are two conditions that must be met in order for CMS to consider a waiver renewal application. These are:

- The state must have submitted and CMS accepted the required HCBS annual waiver financial and statistical reports (the CMS-372(S) through the end of the next-to-last waiver year. The annual waiver report(s) must demonstrate that the waiver has been cost-neutral and must also provide information on the quality of services. Cost neutrality and assuring health and welfare are fundamental statutory and regulatory requirements. Failure to prepare and submit acceptable and timely annual waiver reports can jeopardize continuation of the waiver and/or delay the renewal of the waiver.

- In order to consider a renewal application, CMS must determine that the waiver has been operated in accordance with the approved waiver, all applicable Federal requirements, and the waiver assurances. About one year prior to the waiver expiration date, the RO will issue a report to the state summarizing its findings and conclusions concerning the operation of the waiver. The report may include recommendations concerning the operation of the waiver. If the RO identifies serious problems in the operation of the approved waiver, the state must propose remedial steps that are satisfactory to CMS to correct the problems. CMS must be confident that the measures that the state has undertaken or plans to implement will effectively address the problems before CMS can approve the waiver renewal request. It is important to note that CMS is revamping its waiver oversight methods to provide for annual reporting by states concerning performance in meeting the waiver assurances and expects that there will be increased dialogue between the state and the RO throughout the waiver period about performance. The RO report on state waiver operations in advance of renewal will rely principally on evidence submitted by the state, the annual waiver report that the state submits each year to CMS, and the information obtained through the on-going dialogue between CMS and the state.

If within 90 days of receipt of the renewal request, CMS is unable to conclude that the waiver application satisfactorily addresses each assurance, including problems that may have surfaced during the RO review of the approved waiver and/or that the waiver is not cost neutral, CMS may either formally request additional information or disapprove the renewal request.

Other Changes to Approved Waivers

There are other types of changes to approved waivers that merit additional discussion. In particular:
• Splitting a Waiver. A state may decide that it would be appropriate to divide an approved waiver into two waivers. For example, when a single waiver serves both older persons and individuals with disabilities under the age of 65, the state may determine that dividing the waiver into two waivers may better meet the needs of each target group. When the state proposes to make this change at the time of waiver renewal, the waiver requests will be treated as renewals rather than as new waiver applications. That is, each waiver can be made effective for another five year period. When the split is accompanied by significant changes in the services that will be provided to one or both of the target groups or other changes that might substantially affect waiver operations, the state may be required to submit a transition plan and/or additional information.

When the state wants to create two distinct waiver programs to serve the approved waiver’s target population (for example, by dividing a waiver for persons with developmental disabilities into separate waivers based on participant living arrangement), the state should revise the approved waiver to encompass one of the desired configurations and submit a new waiver application to implement the other configuration.

Splitting an approved waiver prior to its expiration date cannot be accomplished by the submission of a waiver amendment. Instead, a state should discuss with CMS the intended target populations to determine whether two new waivers will be required, or whether an amendment to the existing waiver and one new waiver will be sufficient.

• Combining Waivers. Alternatively, a state may determine that it would be more efficient to combine two approved waivers that serve the same or very similar target populations. If both waivers expire on the same date, the combination of the two programs may be accomplished by submitting a renewal application for the waiver that would continue and allowing the other program to expire. The state should alert CMS when it plans to follow this course. In addition, when the two waivers cover different services, CMS may require the state to prepare and submit a transition plan if the effect of combining the waivers would be to reduce the services provided in one or both waivers.

If the waivers have different expiration dates, the state should notify CMS that it intends to combine the two programs, and seek instructions.

• Converting a Model Waiver to a Regular Waiver. A waiver that has been approved as a “model waiver” may be converted to a regular waiver when the state decides to serve more than 200 individuals at any point in time. The conversion of a model waiver to a regular waiver is not considered a request for a new waiver. The conversion may be accomplished at the time of waiver renewal or by the submission of a waiver amendment.

• Participant Limit Reductions. When the state submits a request to replace an existing waiver, renew an approved waiver or amend an approved waiver that would reduce the number of unduplicated individuals who may be served in the waiver, it must inform CMS whether the reduced participant cap would have an adverse impact on current waiver participants, as provided in CMS Olmstead Letter #4 (included in Attachment D). When a request reduces the participant limit, the state may:
  - Provide an assurance that, if the waiver request is approved, there will be sufficient service capacity to serve at least the number of current participants enrolled in the waiver as of the effective date of the new waiver, renewal or amendment. That is, the lower participant limit has the effect of eliminating unassigned “slots.”
  - Assure CMS that no current waiver participants will be removed from the program or institutionalized inappropriately due to the lower participant limit. For example, the State may achieve a reduction through attrition rather than terminating current waiver participants.
participants.

- Provide an assurance and methodology demonstrating how individuals currently served by the waiver will not be adversely affected by the lower participant limit. For example, if the waiver is no longer required because the principal service(s) provided through the waiver have been added to the State plan, the state may specify a method to transition waiver participants to the State plan service. Individuals subject to removal from a waiver are entitled to the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing under Medicaid law.

- Provide a plan whereby affected individuals will transition to other HCBS waivers without loss of Medicaid eligibility or loss of services. Any loss of services would be subject to notice of Medicaid fair hearing rights.

- Provide for other means to assure the health and welfare of affected individuals, including arranging for services that may be available under the State plan or through other programs.

Extensions

CMS will consider requests for temporary 90-day waiver extensions only in very limited circumstances. A temporary extension permits the state to continue to operate an approved waiver beyond its original expiration date. Extensions are not granted solely for administrative convenience (e.g., to give the state extra time to prepare a waiver renewal request). Extensions may be granted for various reasons:

- The state wants to align the period of the waiver to a state fiscal year;
- The state intends to combine the waiver with another waiver that is under review but has not been approved by CMS;
- The state plans to terminate a waiver and requires additional time to phase out the waiver in an orderly fashion;
- CMS has identified through its review of the waiver renewal application that there are substantial problems in the waiver’s design that cannot be rectified by the state prior to the expiration of the waiver; or,
- The state requires additional time to satisfactorily resolve quality or financial issues identified by CMS during RO waiver review.

A state must formally submit a request for an extension in writing to CMS in advance of the approved waiver’s expiration date. Extension requests are reviewed by CMSO/DEHPG, which makes the determination whether to approve the request. Extensions are considered on a case-by-case basis. When a request for extension arises out of the need to address significant waiver design problems identified by CMS during its review of the waiver renewal application or rectify quality or financial issues previously identified by the RO, CMS will not approve the temporary extension request unless and until the state submits a satisfactory action plan with specific milestones to resolve the problems. CMS also will require the state to report its progress in implementing the action plan during the extension period. Temporary extensions are only granted for a period of up to 90-days.

All or part of the temporary extension approved by CMS may be subsumed into the period of the waiver renewal. For example, if the waiver was due to expire June 30 but a 90-day temporary extension was approved through September 30, the state may request that the renewal be effective on July 1 or October 1.
Policies Concerning Waiver Amendments

Amendments to an approved waiver may be submitted at any time. As is the case with new or renewal waiver applications, CMS has 90 calendar days within which to approve or disapprove the amendment or formally request additional information in order to address problems that have been identified in the amendment request. When an RAI is issued concerning an amendment, the clock is stopped and only restarted (with a full 90-day clock) once the state responds to the RAI.

Whenever there is a change that affects an element of the approved waiver, the state must submit an amendment to the waiver. The approved waiver must be kept in synchronization with state waiver policies, practices, procedures and operations. For example, if a state wants to alter a limit that it has imposed on the amount, frequency or duration of a waiver service, an amendment must be submitted. The revised waiver application is designed to minimize to the extent possible the need to submit amendments. For example, the revised application does not require states to submit (and thereby make part of the application) various waiver forms. Hence, states no longer will have to submit a “technical” amendment when, for example, the service plan form is modified.

States also are alerted that CMS no longer provides for the practice of a state’s notifying CMS by letter that it is making budget-driven changes to the waiver participant cap. All changes in the approved waiver must be made via the submission of a waiver amendment. For example, if a state finds it necessary to reduce the waiver participant cap because state appropriations will not support the number of persons specified in the waiver, the state must submit an amendment to reduce the participant cap specified in Appendix B-3 of the application.

A state may propose that an amendment take effect prospectively on some future date. An amendment also may be made retroactive to the first day of a waiver year (or another date after the first day of the waiver year) in which the amendment is submitted unless the amendment includes changes that are substantive. Per CFR 441.304, waiver amendments that include changes that are substantive may take effect only on or after the date of CMS approval. Substantive changes include but are not limited to: Revisions to services available under the waiver including elimination or reduction of services or reduction in the scope, amount, and duration of any service; A change in the qualifications of service providers (this includes a reduction of providers); Changes in rate methodology, or a constriction in the eligible population (i.e., a reduction in the number of persons served). Additional examples of substantive changes include: consolidating waivers, adding services, and changes in performance measures/indicators. Please note that changes in the quality system are substantive. For example adding or deleting subassurances or adding or deleting reporting requirement. In addition, please note that typically, in increase in the unduplicated number of participants is not considered to be a substantive change. However, when waiver actions include (or should include) a HCB settings transition plan, the action is considered to be substantive due to the transition plan. A retroactive effective date can be permitted for the purpose of increasing the unduplicated number of participants. The state is required to establish a public input process specifically for HCBS changes that are substantive in nature. Substantive changes must be accompanied by information on how the state has assured smooth transitions and minimal adverse impact on individuals impacted by the change. When an amendment would have the effect of reducing the number of waiver participants, the state also should review CMS guidance in Olmstead Letter #4 (located in Attachment D to the instructions).

As a result of its review of the annual waiver report (CMS-372), CMS may instruct the state to submit a waiver amendment when the CMS review reveals that the state is serving a significantly greater number of persons than provided in the approved waiver, actual waiver expenditures substantially diverge from the amounts in the approved waiver, or the state is providing services not included in the approved waiver. When the annual waiver report reveals that the waiver may not be cost-neutral, CMS may require the state to take remedial actions to correct the problem (see the next part of the instructions).

Related Topics

CMS Technical Assistance

States are encouraged to confer with CMS when preparing preliminary initial and renewal waiver applications or significant amendments in advance of their formal official submission to CMS. Such informal consultation prior to the formal submission may expedite CMS review of the formal submission. States also may request technical assistance concerning waiver operations. Technical assistance should be requested through the Regional Office, which will confer with DEHPG as necessary to address questions or technical aspects of the proposed waiver.

Administrative Claiming

Some activities such as case management, supports broker, and financial management services may be provided as a Medicaid administrative activity rather than as a waiver service. States must ensure that any such administrative costs, necessary for the efficient administration of the Medicaid State Plan, are in accordance with a CMS-approved cost allocation plan. Please note that cost allocation plans are not approved via approval of a 1915(c) HCBS waiver application.

Waiver Termination

There are three potential processes for terminating waivers, depending on the circumstance:

1. A state may elect to terminate the operation of an approved waiver before its expiration date:
   - As provided by 42 CFR 441.307, when the state elects to terminate the waiver prior to its expiration date, the state must notify CMS in writing, in the form of a waiver amendment, at least 30-days in advance before terminating services to waiver participants.
     - Under the ‘purpose of the amendment’ the state should indicate that the waiver is being terminated and should indicate the termination date.
     - A transition plan should be included in Attachment #1. If phasing into another authority, this transition plan should be accounted for in the accepting authority.
     - If the state is phasing out the waiver, there should be a phase-out schedule, factor c should be adjusted/and or the phase out of slots should be addressed in the transition plan, and estimates in Appendix J updated.
     - If this is the first action submitted to the waiver between March 17, 2014 and March 17, 2015, the amendment must include a HCB Settings Transition Plan (Attachment #2). In this case, the amendment would trigger the 120 day statewide HCB Settings Transition Plan.
   - As provided in 42 CFR 431.210, the state must notify waiver participants at least 30 days in advance of the change.

2. A state may elect to terminate the operation of an approved waiver and allow it to expire at the end of the approved waiver cycle:

- The state is required to notify CMS at least 30 days in advance via a letter to the RO when individuals are all transitioned at one time. A waiver amendment for closing the waiver is not required.
  - The state must include in their notice to CMS what will happen to current participants when the waiver ends.
  - In most cases, they may have been transitioned to another waiver or authority, or the state may have phased out the waiver.
- Please note that a waiver amendment is required when individuals are being transitioned over a period of time, when waivers are being combined, subsumed, or participants are being transitioned to other authorities. If an amendment is required, if this is the first action submitted to the waiver between March 17, 2014 and March 17, 2015, the amendment must include a HCB Settings Transition Plan (Attachments #2). In this case, the amendment would trigger the 120 day statewide HCB Settings Transition Plan.
- In transitioning individuals, requirements for notice to participants must be met. The state must notify waiver participants at least 30 days in advance of the change.

3. As provided in 42 CFR §441.304(d), CMS may terminate a waiver when it finds that the state is not meeting one or more waiver requirements (e.g., the state has not assured the health and welfare of waiver participants or the waiver is not cost neutral). CMS may terminate a waiver for one or more of the following reasons:

- The health and welfare of waiver participants has been jeopardized;
- The waiver is not cost-neutral;
- The state has not submitted required annual waiver reports;
- Accurate financial records have not been maintained to document the cost of waiver services;
- The waiver has not been operated in a manner consistent with the approved waiver; and/or,
- The waiver has not been operated in accordance with other applicable Federal requirements.

When CMS determines that it is necessary to terminate a waiver, it gives the state notice of its findings and the opportunity for a hearing to rebut these findings. After the notice and hearing, CMS may terminate the waiver. As provided in 42 CFR §441.308, the procedures specified in Subpart D of 42 CFR §430 apply to a state’s request for a hearing concerning a waiver termination. If CMS terminates the waiver, the state must notify affected waiver participants at least 30-days in advance before terminating their services.
Post Approval Activities

Overview

This section briefly addresses the following topics:

• The preparation and submission of the annual waiver report;
• On-going dialogue between the state and CMS concerning waiver operations; and,
• CMS report to the state prior to waiver renewal.

Annual Waiver Report

As provided in 42 CFR §441.302(h) (which implements §1915(c)(2)(E) of the Act):

“annually, [the state] will provide CMS with information on the waiver’s impact. The information must be consistent with a data collection plan designed by CMS and must address the waiver’s impact on—
(1) The type, amount, and cost of services provided under the state plan; and
(2) The health and welfare of recipients.”

The state must assure that it will prepare and submit the annual waiver report as a condition of the approval of the waiver.

Annual Report Form CMS-372(S)

Currently, in order to satisfy the annual waiver report assurance, a state must annually prepare and submit the Form CMS-372(S) (Simplified) report. Instructions and guidance concerning the preparation and submission of the CMS-372(S) are located in the State Medicaid Manual, Section 2700.6 et seq. The CMS-372(S) aligns the annual waiver report with the simplified waiver cost-neutrality formula (see instructions for Appendix J).

The CMS-372(S) requires that a state report for each waiver year financial/statistical and other information about the waiver. This information includes: (a) the unduplicated number of persons who participated in the waiver during the waiver year; (b) the number of participants who utilized each waiver service; (c) the amount expended for each waiver service and for all waiver services in total; (d) the average annual per participant expenditures for waiver service; (e) the total number of days of waiver coverage for all waiver participants and the average length of stay (ALOS) on the waiver; (f) expenditures under the state plan for non-waiver services (including services required under EPSDT when the waiver serves children) that were made on behalf of waiver participants and average per participant expenditures for such services (based on the number of participants who utilized such services); and, (g) information about the impact of the waiver on the health and welfare of waiver participants.

The CMS-372(S) reports the actual performance of a waiver against the prospective cost-neutrality demonstration in Appendix J of the revised waiver application. In addition, the financial and statistical data reported via the CMS-372(S) also serves as the baseline for the prospective demonstration of cost-neutrality when the state submits a renewal application for an approved waiver.

CMS reviews the annual CMS-372(S) report as part of its ongoing oversight of the operation of HCBS waivers. This review is discussed below. In addition, one of the requirements for CMS consideration of a waiver renewal application is that the state must have submitted and CMS accepted CMS-372(S) reports through the next to last year of the period that the approved waiver is in effect. If the state is unable to prepare timely and acceptable CMS-372(S) reports, the renewal of the waiver may be jeopardized.

Review of the Annual Waiver CMS-372(S) Report

CMS compares the financial and statistical information that the state submits to the demonstration of cost-neutrality in the approved waiver. This review may trigger two types of follow-up actions:

- Waiver Amendment. If the review of the annual waiver report reveals that the number of waiver participants is significantly greater than the number estimated by the state in the approved waiver and/or waiver expenditures (in total or on an average per participant basis) exceed those estimated in the approved waiver, the state may be required to submit an amendment to the approved waiver to align the demonstration of cost neutrality in the approved waiver to actual experience. States are expected to monitor waiver utilization and expenditures and submit amendments as necessary. It is not necessary to submit an amendment to reflect minor differences in the number of waiver participants or the utilization or costs of specific waiver services. So long as the annual report confirms that the waiver meets the cost-neutrality assurance, these types of amendments will be treated as “technical” in nature.

- Potential Violations of the Cost-Neutrality Assurance. When the annual waiver report reveals that the waiver does not meet the cost-neutrality assurance (i.e., the annual average per capita cost of supporting individuals on the waiver exceeds the annual average cost of individuals who receive institutional services at the waiver’s level of care), the state may be required to initiate corrective action to bring the waiver into alignment with the cost-neutrality requirement. The implementation of the necessary corrective actions may entail the submission of amendments to the approved waiver. If the state fails to initiate satisfactory corrective actions, CMS may terminate the waiver or disapprove its renewal. It is expected that states monitor waiver expenditures and initiate corrective actions as necessary to assure the cost-neutrality of the waiver.

Ongoing CMS-State Dialogue During the Waiver Period

During the waiver period, the Regional Office is charged with oversight of state waiver operations and making a determination that the waiver has been operated in accordance with the approved application and that the state has met the waiver assurances and related Federal requirements. CMS urges that states engage in an on-going dialogue with the Regional Office about the operation of the waiver. This dialogue may include discussions of changes to improve waiver operations, involving the RO in problem solving to address issues that might arise in waiver operations, and keeping the RO apprised of progress in implementing the waiver’s Quality Improvement Strategy.

When appropriate and necessary, the RO will involve DEHPG/DLTSS in this dialogue. This contractor can provide assistance to states in designing a QMS or the design of systems to address specific aspects of quality improvement. This assistance is provided at no charge to the state; however, the amount and extent of the assistance is limited by available resources.

CMS Oversight of State Waiver Operations

CMS has revised its oversight procedures for determining whether the waiver meets the assurances and applicable Federal requirements. In place of conducting a review of a small sample of waiver participants once during the waiver period, CMS, under the Interim Procedural Guidance, requests that the state provide evidence from its own oversight activities related to the assurances in the year prior to expiration of the waiver. Combined with information obtained by the RO throughout the waiver period, the RO makes a determination about the state’s performance and communicates it through the draft report. In the future, the state will provide evidence annually. The RO may continue to visit states to observe and learn about the operations of the program.

CMS may find it necessary, in certain circumstances, including when the health and welfare of waiver participants may be jeopardized or the waiver is not being operated in accordance with other applicable Federal requirements, to conduct special or focused on-site or off-site review activities. Prior to launching a special review, the Regional Office will identify to the state the types of information that it requires in order to perform the review. When CMS determines that such a review is necessary, it will notify the state of why the review is being undertaken. The results of this type of review may necessitate the state’s preparing and implementing a corrective action plan.

CMS Report to the State Prior to Waiver Renewal

At least one year in advance of the expiration date of an approved waiver, the RO will issue a draft report to the state summarizing its findings and conclusion. The report may in some cases include recommendations. If the draft report concludes that one or more requirements are not met, then the RO must provide the basis for the conclusion. In its response to the draft report, the state may dispute the RO findings or propose a course of action to remediate the problem, either immediately or by implementing a corrective action plan with milestones to resolve the problem(s). If the state does not propose a satisfactory course of action, CMS may not approve the state’s waiver renewal application.
Overview

The detailed instructions for completing the Version 3.5 §1915(c) HCBS Waiver Application are divided into two parts:

- The first part (Using the Application) provides information about completing the web-based application. It discusses the formatting of the application and provides additional information about various elements of the application.
- The second and larger part (Detailed Instructions) contains module-by-module, item-by-item application instructions. These instructions include technical guidance (where applicable) and the review criteria that CMS applies in reviewing waiver applications.

Using the Application

Overview

The web-based application links relevant parts of the application and ensures that the application is complete when it is submitted. The web-based application format includes technical instructions for its use.

Technical instructions for use of the web-based application are available at https://wms-mdml.cdsvec.com/WMS/faces/portal.jsp. In addition, each State has a designated systems administrator (within the Medicaid Agency) who provides State user access and assigns roles related to the use of the application.

Please note that there is no means to load a draft application prepared in word processing software into the web-based application tool. Text may be copied and pasted; selections must be made manually.

Application Format

The application is formatted so that many items in the revised application can be completed by making a selection from a pre-specified list of responses. Other items require text responses. There are two types of response lists where a state responds to an item by selecting from a pre-specified list that contains two or more potential responses. Some application items combine both types of selectable choices. These types of lists are:

- No more than one selection permitted from among two or more possible choices. Some items provide for the selection of only one of two or more pre-specified choices. Items of this type appear in the application in the following format and are cued by the instruction “select one”:

  a. The State is a (select one):
    - [ ] §1634 State
    - [ ] SSI-Criteria State
For items of this type (where selectable choices are indicated by the “☐” symbol), select one and only one of the pre-specified responses. The web-based application is designed so that it is only possible to make only one selection in items of this type.

- More than one selection from several choices. In the case of other items, the application permits selecting more than one of the listed responses. Items of this type appear in the application in the following format and are cued by the instruction “check each that applies”. An example of this type of item is:

a. Responsibility for Service Plan Development. Per 42 CFR §441.301(b)(2), specify who is responsible for the development of the service plan and the qualifications of these individuals (check each that applies):

| ☐  Registered nurse, licensed to practice in the State |
| ☐  Licensed practical or vocational nurse, acting within the scope of practice under State law |
| ☐  Licensed physician (M.D. or D.O) |
| ☐  Case Manager (qualifications specified in Appendix C-3) |
| ☐  Case Manager (qualifications not specified in Appendix C-3). Specify qualifications: |
| ☐  Social Worker. Specify qualifications: |
| ☐  Other (specify the individuals and their qualifications): |

The selectable choices in items of this type are indicated by the “☐” symbol. In the case of these types of items, one, two or more of the choices listed may be selected. The selection of one of the choices does not preclude the selection of the other choices. The web-based application permits multiple choices to be made in items of this type.

In some cases, the selection of a pre-specified response from a list may prompt completing subsequent items or direct skipping the subsequent items and going on to a later item. Linkages among items are programmed into the web-based application. For example, if a response to one item permits skipping another item, the affected subsequent item is not available for completion in the web-based application.

Where the application requires a text response (for example, when the application requires that a policy or practice must be specified), the response is inserted into a text field. Text fields appear in the application as follows:

Text fields sometimes standalone. This is the case when only a narrative response is required to complete an item. In other instances, text fields are associated with choices in an application.
item (as in the foregoing example). The size of a text field as it visually appears in the web-based application is not to be understood as depicting the expected or desired length of a response. Text fields will accommodate responses that are longer than the text field that appear in the application.

In the web-based application, all text fields are character-limited. That is, they will only accommodate a certain amount of text as measured by a character count (where spaces count as a character). These limits were established during the web-based application design and further refined during alpha and beta-testing of the web-based application. The web-based application provides the user information about the character-limits associated with each text field. A counter above each text box will indicate how many characters have been used and are remaining. The limits that have been established are generous. However, there are some items where the limits have been purposely set to restrict the length of a state’s response. In either application format, one page is 6,000 characters regardless of the physical length of the print out.

When using the web-based application, it may prove to be more convenient to prepare lengthier text responses using standard word processing software and then copy and paste the text into the web-based application. It is important to point out that the web-based application only accommodates plain text. Formatted text (e.g., bolding, italics, underlining), graphics (including text converted to graphics) and tabular formats cannot be accommodated. This aspect of the web-based application also means that copying and pasting information from formatted source documents (e.g., copying a form) generally cannot be accommodated unless copied as plain text. Additionally, the width of text boxes in the web-based application is fixed.

Italicized text in the application denotes an instruction or sometimes provides a brief explanation of an item or application component.

The application is designed to be a self-contained document. The web-based application does not accommodate submission of supplementary electronic files or paper documents. Therefore, the Version 3.5 format also does not reference supplementary material.

As necessary and appropriate, a state may cite applicable laws, policies or regulations in its response to an item but should not attach these materials to the application. If, during the course of its review, CMS finds it necessary to examine materials that are referenced in the application, the state will be asked to furnish them. When such materials are provided in response to a CMS informal or formal request, they are not considered to be part of the waiver application.

When materials are referenced or cited in the application, they must be readily available through the State Medicaid agency and/or the waiver operating agency (if applicable) should CMS request the materials. It is not necessary that the State Medicaid agency maintain printed copies of all referenced or cited materials. Materials may be maintained in electronic format.
Detailed Instructions, Technical Guidance and Review Criteria

This part of the instructions includes section-by-section, item-by-item instructions for completing the Version 3.5 HCBS Waiver Application. Where appropriate, technical guidance is provided about an item or topic. CMS review criteria associated with an item or items also are included. The instructions are keyed to the application.

Application for a §1915(c) Home and Community-Based Services Waiver (Module 1)

Overview

This component of the application includes the following sections:

- Basic information about the waiver request;
- A brief description of the waiver;
- A recap of the waiver application components;
- The waiver(s) requested by the state;
- The assurances that the state must make concerning the operation of the waiver;
- Additional requirements associated with the operation of a waiver;
- State contact information; and,
- The signature of the State Medicaid Director or designee transmitting the application.

1. Request Information

Overview

This section provides basic information about the waiver.

Item 1-A: State

Instructions

In the web-based application, the state name is entered automatically.

Item 1-B: Waiver Title

Instructions

If the waiver has a title (e.g., “Innovations Waiver”), enter the title. Otherwise, leave blank.

Item 1-C: Type of Request

Instructions

From the choices provided, select the type of request. In the case of a renewal request, a request for a new waiver to replace an existing waiver or an amendment to an approved waiver, enter the CMS waiver control number of the approved waiver. Regular waivers have a four-digit waiver control number assigned by CMS plus extensions (when applicable) that indicate previous renewals (e.g., the number 0999.90 indicates that the waiver has previously been approved once for renewal). In the case of a model waiver, the waiver control number is a five-digit number plus extensions. In the web-based application, this item is pre-filled based on the selection that is made when the state initiates a new request.

Technical Guidance

Refer to the “Waiver Application Submission Requirements, Processes, and Procedures” section of the instructions for a discussion of policies and other considerations regarding new waivers, new waivers to replace an approved waiver, and waiver renewals. Also see instructions regarding Attachment #1 for submitting transition plans when a new waiver is to replace an approved waiver, and the other circumstances where a transition plan may be required. Please consult CMS directly to discuss particular situations. Please note that if the state requests a 5 year initial waiver per the requirements of Section 2601 of the Affordable Care Act, the State must assure that the waiver provides services to individuals who are eligible for both Medicaid and Medicare.

CMS Review Criteria

- When an amendment is submitted the following criteria apply: The state has submitted a complete description of all proposed changes to the approved waiver.
- The proposed changes to the approved waiver would be effective on the same date.

Item 1-D: Type of Waiver

Instructions

Select the type of waiver that is requested.

Technical Guidance

A “model” waiver is limited to serving no more than 200 individuals at any point in time during the waiver period. A model waiver may serve fewer than 200 persons, depending on the participant limit that a state establishes (as specified in Appendix B-3). Except for assuring that the waiver will serve no more than 200 individuals at any point in time, “model” and “regular” waivers are no different. A regular waiver also may serve a relatively small number of individuals.

A state may subsequently convert a model waiver to a regular waiver in order to serve more than 200 individuals. The conversion may be requested via the submission of a waiver amendment or when the waiver is renewed. Provided that no other major changes are proposed, the conversion of a model to a regular waiver is not considered to be a request for a new waiver. When conversion is requested via the submission of an amendment, the period that the waiver is in effect does not change.

Item 1-E.1: Proposed Effective Date

Instructions

Enter the proposed effective date of the waiver.
Technical Guidance

The effective date is the first day that the waiver will be in operation. In order to facilitate annual waiver reporting, a new waiver should have an effective date that falls on the first day of a month or the beginning of a calendar quarter. Also, in the case of new waivers, the proposed effective date should be at least 90-days from the date of application submission in order to allow sufficient time for CMS review of the application and a subsequent prospective effective date.

In the case of a renewal application or a new waiver that replaces an approved waiver, the proposed effective date should be the day after the approved waiver expires. If a temporary extension has been granted, the effective date may subsume all, part or none of the extension period.

In the case of an amendment, the proposed effective date is the date that the amendment would take effect. Again, keep in mind that any changes included in the amendment must be effective on the same date. See also Policies Concerning Waiver Amendments for a discussion of when amendments may be made effective.

Item 1-E.2: Approved Effective Date

Instructions

This item is reserved for CMS use. When the application is approved, CMS will enter the approved effective date. If this date is different from the proposed effective date, the application will be revised to reflect the approved effective date.

Item 1-F. Level(s) of Care

Instructions

Select the level or levels of care that individuals must require in order to be considered for entrance to the waiver. As applicable, specify the specific type of institutional setting or subcategory of a level of care.

Technical Guidance

Waiver services may only be furnished to individuals who are determined to require the level of care furnished in a hospital, nursing facility or ICF/IID when the costs of such institutional care are reimbursable under the State plan. The waiver must specify the level(s) of care that individuals require in order to enter the waiver. More than one level of care may be selected, depending on the target group(s) served in the waiver. For example, if the waiver is designed to support medically fragile children in the community, it may be appropriate to select both the hospital and nursing facility levels of care.

Level of care is one of several application elements that, when taken together, specify the target population of Medicaid beneficiaries who may participate in the waiver. In Appendix B-1, the state further specifies the waiver’s target group(s) (i.e., the specific groups or subgroups of individuals who require the level of care that is specified here – for example, older persons – and may receive waiver services). In Appendix B-4, a state also specifies the Medicaid eligibility groups that may be served in the waiver. In Appendix B-6, the process by which the level of care of potential entrants to the waiver is evaluated and re-evaluated is described.

When completing this item, it is important to keep in mind that, per 42 CFR §441.301(a)(6), a waiver may, at the state’s option, serve one or more of the following three groups of Medicaid beneficiaries or subgroups thereof:

- Aged and/or disabled;
• Persons with intellectual disability and/or developmental disabilities; or,
• Persons with serious mental illnesses.

These three groups are discussed in more detail in the instructions for Appendix B-1.

Only in limited circumstances may the ICF/IID level of care be combined with another level of care. As provided in Olmstead Letter #4 (see Attachment D to the instructions), when a waiver serves persons who have experienced a brain injury, the waiver may serve individuals who require ICF/IID level of care (when the brain injury occurred at a young age) and persons who experienced a brain injury at a later age who may require the nursing facility or hospital level of care.

A waiver may not serve individuals between the ages of 22 and 64 who would, but for the waiver, receive services in an Institution for Mental Disease (IMD). The reason is that, under the Act, Federal financial participation is not available for the costs of services furnished in an IMD to individuals in this age range. However, individuals with serious mental illnesses in this age range who require the nursing facility level of care according to a Preadmission Screening and Resident Review (PASRR) determination may receive waiver services. See the Appendix B-1 instructions for a more detailed discussion of this topic. A waiver may serve persons age 65 and older with serious mental illnesses who would otherwise reside in an IMD when the State plan provides for the reimbursement of IMD services under the provisions of 42 CFR §440.140. A waiver also may serve children and youth with serious emotional disturbances who require the level of care furnished in inpatient psychiatric facilities for individuals under age 21 when the services furnished in such facilities are included in the State plan as provided in 42 CFR §440.160 and are provided in a facility licensed as a hospital. Except as provided in Section 6063 of the Deficit Reduction Act of 2005 (P.L. 109-171), a waiver cannot serve as an alternative to services in a Psychiatric Residential Treatment Facility (PRTFs – as defined in 42 CFR §483.352) that serve children and youth since §1915(c) of the Act does not authorize waivers as an alternative to PRTFs. The Deficit Reduction Act provides for the provision of home and community-based alternatives to PRTFs on a demonstration basis in ten states.

Some states have established subcategories of the major level of care categories (e.g., skilled and intermediate care nursing facility services). A state may limit the waiver to one or more of these subcategories (e.g., a state may have defined multiple levels of ICF/IID care but decides to limit the waiver to individuals who qualify for one or more of the specific levels). It is permissible for a state to target the waiver in this fashion provided that the level of care subcategories are incorporated into the State plan. If the state wishes to limit the waiver in this fashion, specify the subcategories (e.g., Rehabilitation Hospital under the hospital category). If subcategories are not specified in the State plan or, if they are specified, but the State does not wish to limit the waiver to specified subcategories, insert “not applicable.” Keep in mind that in Appendix B-1, the waiver target population may be further specified by age, group, condition and other factors.

When the waiver serves individuals who require different levels of care, the demonstration of cost-neutrality in Appendix J is affected. Cost neutrality calculations are based on the Medicaid state plan costs associated with individuals who have the level of care specified for the waiver. When more than one level of care is selected, cost neutrality calculations must be based on the calculation of a weighted average across the levels of care (see instructions for Appendix J-1).

CMS Review Criteria

- When the waiver provides for serving individuals at more than one level of care, the levels of care proposed in combination with the target group definition contained in Appendix B-1 comply with 42 CFR §441.301(a)(3).
• When subcategories of a level of care are specified, the subcategories are contained in the approved State plan.

Item 1-G: Concurrent Operation with Other Programs

Instructions
Indicate whether the waiver is or will be operated concurrently with a program that is operated under one of the other authorities listed. If the waiver will operate concurrently with a §1915(b) waiver, specify the program and indicate whether a §1915(b) waiver application has been submitted simultaneously or has been previously approved. Similarly, if the waiver will operate concurrently with a program authorized under §1115 of the Act, specify the program and indicate whether a §1115 waiver application has been submitted simultaneously or has been previously approved. In addition, the State should indicate here if the waiver is operating concurrently with a contract approved under §1915(a) of the Act, a State Plan amendment under §1915(i) of the Act, a State Plan amendment under §1915(j) of the Act, or a State Plan amendment under §1915(k) of the Act. If the waiver does not operate concurrently with another program, select “not applicable.”

Technical Guidance
A HCBS waiver may operate concurrently with programs approved under other authorities in the Act. For the purpose of this item, “concurrent operation” means that the operation of the HCBS waiver is directly tied to the use of another authority in the Act. For example, some states operate concurrent §1915(b)/§1915(c) waivers wherein the §1915(b) authority is used to obtain waivers of provisions of the Act in addition to the waivers that may be granted under §1915(c). Some of these programs employ managed care service delivery methods to furnish HCBS waiver and other state plan services to Medicaid beneficiaries.

This item does not apply when HCBS waiver participants only receive State plan health care services through managed care or Primary Care Case Management (PCCM) arrangements that are furnished under another authority. It only applies when the delivery of waiver services is affected by the use of another authority. Please see the Appendix I instructions for a discussion of the §1915(a) authority.

As discussed in the “Waiver Application Submission Requirements, Processes, and Procedures” section of the instructions, when a state wants to launch a concurrent §1915(b)/§1915(c) waiver, separate §1915(b) and §1915(c) waiver applications must be submitted because CMS must review each application simultaneously. Once a concurrent §1915(b)/§1915(c) waiver is approved, the renewal of each waiver is subject to the time lines under each authority (two or five years for the §1915(b) waiver and three or five years for the §1915(c) waiver). Should the §1915(b) waiver expire or terminate prior to expiration, the state must amend the §1915(c) accordingly.

CMS Review Criteria
• Both waiver applications have been submitted and have the appropriate proposed effective dates.
• In the case of a new concurrent authority, the §1915(c) waiver may only be approved when the concurrent authority has been approved and vice versa.

Item 1-H: Dual Eligibility for Medicaid and Medicare

Instructions
Check the box if the Waiver provides services for individuals who are eligible for both Medicare and Medicaid.
Attachment #1: Changes from Previous Approved Waiver That May Require a Transition Plan.

Instructions: If applicable, check the box next to any of the following changes from the current approved waiver that you are making with this application. Check all of the boxes that apply. If you check any of the boxes, you will be prompted to complete a transition plan.

□ Replacing an approved waiver with this waiver.
□ Combining waivers.
□ Splitting one waiver into two waivers.
□ Eliminating a service.
□ Adding or decreasing an individual cost limit pertaining to eligibility
□ Adding or decreasing limits to a service or a set of services, as specified in Appendix C
□ Reducing the unduplicated count of participants (Factor C).
□ Adding new, or decreasing, a limitation on the number of participants served at any point in time.
□ Making any changes that could result in some participants losing eligibility or being transferred to another waiver under 1915(c) or another Medicaid authority.
□ Making any changes that could result in reduced services to participants.

Technical Guidance

Instructions
When required, submit the transition plan for the waiver as Attachment #1 to the Application.

Technical Guidance
A transition plan must accompany a waiver application whenever individuals who participate in an approved waiver might be adversely affected when a new replacement waiver takes effect or a renewal or amendment includes certain types of changes in the approved waiver. A transition plan must accompany the waiver application or amendment in the following circumstances:

• A new waiver replaces an approved waiver;
• The waiver renewal or amendment would eliminate or limit any of the services that are furnished under the approved waiver;
• The waiver renewal or amendment would result in some participants who are served in the approved waiver losing eligibility or necessitate the transfer of some participants to another waiver;
• The waiver renewal or amendment includes major changes that would affect the amount of services that are furnished to waiver participants under the approved waiver (e.g., the renewal or amendment includes an individual cost limit that is new/lower than the approved waiver or the renewed waiver would impose limits on the overall dollar amount of services that may be authorized in participant service plans;
• Two waivers are being combined; or,
• A waiver is being split into two separate waivers.

As applicable, the transition plan should address the following topics:

• Similarities and differences between the services covered in the approved waiver and those that will be covered in the new waiver or the renewed/amended waiver;
• When some services in the approved waiver will not be available through the new or renewed/amended waiver or will be available in lesser amounts, describe how the health and welfare of persons who receive the services that are terminated will be assured;
• When the new or renewed/amended waiver includes limitations on the amount of waiver services that were not included in the approved waiver, how the limitations will be implemented;
• Whether individuals served in the approved waiver also will be eligible to participate in the new or renewed/amended waiver;
• If some persons served in the approved waiver will not be eligible to participate in the new or renewed/amended waiver, describe the steps that the state will take to facilitate the transition of affected individuals to alternate services and supports. Such alternatives may include their timely transition to another HCBS waiver for which they may qualify and assisting them to access other services (including services under the State plan) that may meet their needs;
• The time table for transitioning individuals to the new waiver (i.e., will participants in the existing waiver transition to the new waiver at the same time or will the transition be phased in (e.g., individuals will transition when their service plan is reviewed or their level of care is re-evaluated)?).
• How and when participants will be notified of the changes.

CMS Review Criteria
The transition plan:
• Describes the similarities and differences between the services covered in the approved waiver and those covered in the new or renewed/amended waiver.
• When services in the approved waiver will not be offered in the new or renewed/amended waiver or will be offered in lesser amount, describes how the health and welfare of persons who receive services through the approved waiver will be assured.
• States whether persons served in the existing waiver also are eligible to participate in the new waiver.
• When the new or renewed/amended waiver includes limitations on the amount of waiver services that were not included in the approved waiver, the plan describes how the limitations will be implemented.
• When persons served in the approved waiver will not be eligible to participate in the new or renewed/amended waiver, the plan describes the steps that the state will take to facilitate the transition of affected individuals to alternate services and supports that will enable the individual to remain in the community.
• Includes the time table for transitioning individuals to the new waiver (i.e., will participants in the existing waiver transition to the new waiver all at the same time or will the transition be phased in?).
• Describes how the participant is notified of the changes and informed of the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing.
2. Brief Waiver Description

Instructions
In one page or less (6,000 or fewer characters), briefly describe the purpose of the waiver, including its goals, objectives, organizational structure and service delivery methods.

Technical Guidance
The brief description provides CMS with an overview of the waiver’s role in supporting individuals in their homes and communities and, thereby, facilitates CMS review of the application.

There is no pre-specified format for this brief description. However, the description should include: a discussion of the program’s purpose (e.g., rebalance resources between institutional and community services or provide community alternatives for children who have complex medical conditions who otherwise would be hospitalized); its goals (e.g., facilitate the community transition of institutionalized persons or implement participant direction in three regions of the state); its objectives (e.g., transition 200 persons to the community each year of the waiver period); organizational structure (e.g., the state agency responsible for operating the waiver and how individuals access services at the local/regional level); and, service delivery methods (e.g., the use of participant-directed or traditional service delivery methods). The brief description also may address other topics that the State believes will contribute to CMS understanding of what the state is seeking to accomplish through the operation of the waiver.

3. Components of the Waiver Request

Instructions
Select whether the waiver provides for participant direction of services.

Technical Guidance
This part of the application summarizes the remaining components of the application. It is included to inform interested persons about the scope and contents of the application. Item E (Participant Direction of Services) is the only item in this section for which a response is required. It asks whether the waiver provides participants the opportunity to direct some or all of their waiver services. If the waiver does, then Appendix E must be completed. If not, Appendix E is not completed.

Before responding to this item, review Appendix E and its instructions. Appendix E revolves around two opportunities for participant-direction of waiver services: the participant-employer opportunity and the budget authority opportunity (these opportunities also may be combined). When a state currently does not provide for participant direction, CMS urges that serious consideration be given to affording waiver participants the opportunity to direct some or all of their waiver services. States that already provide one or both of these participant direction opportunities or want to expand the opportunities that are available to individuals must complete Appendix E.

4. Waiver(s) Requested

Overview
§1915(c) of the Act permits the Secretary to grant waivers of three specific provisions of the Act. As discussed below, all HCBS waiver programs operate under a waiver of §1902(a)(10)(B) of the Act (comparability). A state also may request waivers of two other provisions of the Act: statewideness and income/resources. Except for these waivers, HCBS waivers must comply with all other relevant provisions of the Act unless the waiver also operates concurrently with waivers granted under other authorities that permit the waiver of additional provisions of the Act. For example, under the provisions of §1902(a)(23) of the Act, waiver participants must be able to exercise free choice in selecting any willing and qualified provider of waiver services included in their service plan. Should a state wish to limit the number of providers, it must secure a waiver of §1902(a)(23) (e.g., by separately requesting a waiver under the provisions of §1915(b) of the Act).

Item 4-A: Comparability

Technical Guidance

§1902(a)(10)(B) of the Act provides that Medicaid services must be available to all categorically eligible individuals on a comparable basis (e.g., services available to adult beneficiaries with disabilities cannot be different in their amount, scope and duration from the services that are available to other adult beneficiaries). HCBS waivers target services only to specified groups of beneficiaries (e.g., persons with developmental disabilities or older persons) rather than making them available to all beneficiaries. Thus, a waiver of §1902(a)(10)(B) is an integral and necessary feature of all HCBS waivers. HCBS waivers also include services that are not otherwise available under the State plan and thus not available to beneficiaries who do not participate in the waiver. In order to make those services available, a waiver of comparability also is necessary. The waiver application incorporates the request for a waiver of §1902(a)(10)(B). Submission of the application constitutes the state’s request for this waiver.

Item 4-B: Income and Resources for the Medically Needy

Instructions

Select whether the state requests a waiver of §1902(a)(10)(C)(i)(III) of the Act in order to use institutional income and resource rules for the medically needy

Technical Guidance

If the state elects to cover the medically needy under the waiver, it may request a waiver of §1902(a)(10)(C)(i)(III) of the Act so that it may waive the community income and resource rules that apply to the medically needy and, instead, apply institutional income and resource eligibility rules. Institutional income and resource rules usually are more generous than community rules. Application of institutional deeming rules means that income and resources are not deemed to the person from a spouse or parent; thus making an individual eligible for Medicaid who might not otherwise qualify. This permits covering under a waiver medically needy individuals who may not be eligible for waiver services under community rules, but would be eligible under institutional rules. If the waiver serves the medically needy, indicate whether or not this section is waived. If the state does not serve the medically needy under its State plan, check “not applicable.” It is important to point out that the waiver of this provision of the Act only applies to the medically needy and that population must be served under the State plan in order for a waiver of §1902(a)(10)(c)(i)(III) to be requested.

CMS Review Criteria

When a waiver of §1902(a)(10)(C)(i)(III) is requested:
- The state must cover the medically needy in the State plan
- The state must include the medically needy in the eligibility groups that may receive waiver services as provided in Appendix B-4 of the application
Item 4-C: Statewideness

Instructions
Select whether a waiver of statewideness is requested. If a waiver is requested, specify the type or types of waivers of statewideness that are requested and provide the information that is specified.

Technical Guidance

§1902(a)(1) of the Act requires that the Medicaid State plan be in effect in all political subdivisions of the State. As provided in §1915(c)(3) of the Act, a state may request a waiver of §1902(a)(1) in order to operate a waiver on a less than statewide basis. The Version 3.5 HCBS waiver application provides for requesting two types of waivers of statewideness:

- Geographic Limitation. A state may request a waiver of statewideness in order to furnish waiver services only to eligible persons who reside in specific geographic areas (e.g., state planning regions or human services catchment areas) or political subdivisions (e.g., counties or municipalities) of the state. When the waiver is limited to specific political subdivisions, list the subdivisions. When the waiver is limited to another type of geographic area (e.g., state planning region), describe the area and, if applicable, include a reference to the state law or other official document (e.g., governor’s executive order) that defines the geographic area. The description must be specific enough so that the geographic areas where the waiver is in effect are clearly specified. Absent a waiver of statewideness, the waiver is considered to be in effect in all parts of the state.

Only request a waiver of statewideness in order to confine the operation of the waiver to specified geographic areas. A waiver of statewideness should not be requested because some waiver services may not be readily accessible in all parts of the state. A waiver of statewideness may not be requested in order to provide different arrays of waiver services or administer the waiver differently in different parts of a state under the same waiver. If the state wants to provide different service arrays or operate the waiver differently in different parts of the state, it must apply for a separate waiver for each area. In other words, where the waiver is in effect, the waiver must operate consistently in all the areas served by the waiver.

The request for a waiver of statewideness may also provide for the phase-in of the waiver by geographic area by waiver year. For example, a state may provide that the waiver is in effect in specified counties during its first year of operation but will be in effect statewide during the second and subsequent years of the waiver. If the waiver will be phased-in geographically, request a waiver of statewideness and in the text field specify the geographic area phase-in schedule. If this schedule changes during the period that the waiver is in effect, submit an amendment to reflect the revised phase-in schedule.

Limited Implementation of Participant Direction. A state also may request a waiver of statewideness for the purpose of implementing one or both participant direction opportunities that the state specifies in Appendix E on less than a statewide basis. A waiver of statewideness for this purpose may be requested in conjunction with a waiver that otherwise operates on a statewide basis. This waiver may be useful for states that are interested in affording participants opportunities to direct waiver services but want to phase-in the implementation of participant direction by geographic area. If the waiver operates on a less than statewide basis, this waiver may be requested to offer participant direction opportunities in some but not all the geographic areas where the waiver operates. This waiver does not permit a state to limit the number of individuals who may direct their services within the designated geographic locations. Please note that participant direction must be available in all geographic areas where the waiver operates in order for CMS to confer the Independence Plus designation on the waiver (see the Appendix E instructions for more information about the Independence Plus designation).

This waiver will be granted only when the waiver participants in the geographic areas where participant direction is available also have the choice of receiving waiver services through the service delivery methods that are in effect elsewhere. In other words, this waiver cannot be granted if participant direction would be the only service delivery method available to participants in the geographic areas where participant direction is made available. Participants who reside in the area subject to this waiver must have access to the same services as participants elsewhere in the state.

Since the implementation of participant direction requires making available additional supports to participants who direct their waiver services (e.g., financial management services), a state may include such supports in the waiver but limit their availability (when covered as a waiver service) to individuals who elect to direct their waiver services. This limitation must be included in the specification of the scope of the support service in Appendix C-3.

In requesting this waiver, the same requirements apply with respect to defining the specific geographic areas where participant direction opportunities will be available as for a geographic limitation. The waiver also may provide for the phase-in of participant direction by geographic area by waiver year.

CMS Review Criteria

- When a waiver of statewideness is requested to limit the operation of the waiver to regions or areas of the state or to implement participant direction of services in some but not all areas where the waiver is in effect, the waiver clearly defines the geographic areas where waiver services and/or participant direction will be available.

- Waiver participants in the geographic areas where participant direction is available also have the choice to receive waiver services through the service delivery methods that are in effect elsewhere.

Independence Plus Designation

Participant direction opportunities are available in all geographic areas where the waiver is in operation. Independence Plus designation will not be conferred when participant direction opportunities are subject to a waiver of statewideness.

5. Assurances

Overview/Discussion

In order for CMS to approve a new waiver or the renewal of an approved waiver, a state must make certain assurances concerning the operation of the waiver. These assurances are spelled out in 42 CFR §441.302 and included in this part of the waiver application. By submitting the waiver application, the State attests that it will abide by these assurances during the period that the waiver is in effect. These assurances may not be altered.

Other components of the application address how the waiver is designed to meet these assurances. For example, Appendix B details how the state will meet the evaluation of need assurance. In addition, the Quality Improvement Strategy contained throughout the application and in Appendix H describes how the state will monitor performance in meeting the assurances on a continuing basis during the period that the waiver is in effect.
6. Additional Requirements

Overview

This section includes additional requirements that apply to the operation of HCBS waivers over and above the assurances contained in 42 CFR §441.302. States are reminded that waivers must comply with all applicable Medicaid requirements, including requirements that are not listed in this part of the application. Item 6-I (public input) is the only item in this part that requires a state response. The basis of these requirements is discussed below.

Discussion of Additional Requirements

Item 6-A: Service Plan

The services that an individual will receive through the waiver must be spelled out in advance in a written service plan. In the revised application, the terminology “participant-centered service plan” or “service plan” is synonymous with “plan of care.” This item spells out Federal requirements that pertain to the service plan. Appendix D describes the process that is employed in the waiver to develop the service plan. Service plan development is a critical waiver function. The service plan spells out how the assessed needs of each waiver participant will be met.

The requirements related to the service plan are as follows:

- Waiver services must be furnished in accordance with the service plan. Whenever the services that are furnished to a participant change, the service plan must be revised. A state may provide for processes to authorize the provision of waiver services on an emergency basis, provided that the service plan is revised to reflect the additional services.

- The service plan must be inclusive of all the services and supports that are furnished to meet the assessed needs of a participant, including services that are funded from sources other than the waiver (e.g., services that are obtained through the State Medicaid plan, from other public programs and/or through the provision of informal supports). In other words, the service plan should provide a complete picture of how participant needs are met. It is recognized that the waiver operating agency and the state have direct responsibility only for the delivery of waiver services. With respect to other public services and informal supports, responsibilities include linkage, referral and advocacy and monitoring access to and receipt of other services as part of service plan implementation (as described in Appendix D-2).

- With respect to waiver services, the service plan must include the specific waiver services that will be furnished to a participant, their amount, duration and frequency (e.g., daily or weekly), and the type of provider that will furnish each service. The service plan need not name the specific provider that will furnish each service, only the type of provider (e.g., home health agency or personal assistant).

- Federal financial participation (FFP) may not be claimed for waiver services that are furnished prior to the development of the service plan or for waiver services that are not included in an individual’s service plan. A service plan may not be backdated.

- The service plan must be subject to the approval of the Medicaid agency. Appendix D-1 describes how this is accomplished. This requirement does not necessarily mean that the Medicaid agency must review and approve each and every service plan, either before it goes into effect or on a retrospective basis. Often, this requirement is met by the Medicaid agency’s retrospectively reviewing a sample of service plans.

Item 6-B: Inpatients
42 CFR §441.301(b)(1)(ii) provides that waiver services may not be furnished to individuals who are in-patients of a hospital, nursing facility or ICF/IID. FFP is not available for waiver services while the person is in a hospital, nursing facility or ICF/IID except for temporary short-term respite services delivered in an institution, and personal assistance retainer payments, as described Olmstead Letter #3 (see Attachment D to the Instructions). So that waiver participants may continue to receive services in the most integrated setting appropriate to their needs, CMS permits the continued payment to personal assistants under the waiver while a person is hospitalized or absent from his or her home. If a state chooses to make such payments, it must clearly indicate this in the service specifications in Appendix C-3 for the personal assistance service where retainer payments will be made.

States that elect to make personal assistance retainer payments must also specify the limits that will be applied to this service. The personal assistance retainer time limit may not exceed the lesser of 30 consecutive days or the number of days for which the state authorizes a similar payment in nursing facilities.

The institutionalization of a waiver participant does not dictate that the person must be terminated from the waiver. A state may provide for the continuation of the person on the waiver by reserving or holding a waiver opening for the person.

Under certain circumstances, a state may arrange for the provision of some services (e.g., home modifications) in advance of the transition of institutionalized persons to the community in order to ensure the continuity of care for these individuals. These circumstances and the types of services that may be arranged in advance of transition to the community are discussed in more detail in the instructions for Appendix C.

Item 6-C: Room and Board

FFP may not be claimed for the cost of room and board except in certain circumstances. The term “room” means shelter type expenses, including all property-related costs such as rental or purchase of real estate and furnishings, maintenance, utilities, and related administrative services. The term “board” means three meals a day or any other full nutritional regimen.

As provided in 42 CFR §441.310(a)(2), room and board may be claimed for temporary short-term respite services that are furnished in settings that are not the participant’s own private residences and a state may elect to pay the portion of the rent and food that can be attributed to a live-in caregiver who furnishes services to a participant in the participant’s private residence. In Appendix I, a state describes how it excludes the cost of room and board from its claim for Federal financial participation in the costs of waiver services. When a state elects to pay for the portion of rent and food that can be attributed to a live-in caregiver, it includes “live-in caregiver” as a covered waiver service in Appendix C and describes how it determines the amount that is paid for the rent and food that is attributable to the live-in caregiver in Appendix I.

A state may claim FFP for the costs of meals that are furnished as part of a program of adult day health or a similar activity conducted outside the participant’s living arrangement on a partial day basis. A waiver may also cover “meals on wheels” (or similar) services that provide one meal each day to waiver participants who live in their own private residence.

Item 6-D: Access to Services

Any service that is offered in a waiver must be available to every waiver participant who requires the service as provided in the specifications for each service in Appendix C-3. In Appendix C-3, a state may establish limits on the amount, duration and scope of each service. However, as provided in CMS Olmstead Letter #4 (see Attachment D), a state may not limit the number of waiver participants who may receive a particular waiver service nor may a state deny a needed waiver service due to the lack of funds.
In addition, a state may not limit a group of waiver participants to receiving a pre-defined package of waiver benefits by preventing members of the group from accessing other services offered under the waiver. This means that a state may not operate what amounts to a “waiver within a waiver.” In short, waiver services must be available on a comparable basis to all waiver participants who have been assessed as needing the services. When a state wishes to offer different benefits to specific groups of individuals, it should apply to operate distinct waivers for each group.

Item 6-E: Free Choice of Provider

HCBS waivers must comply with §1902(a)(23) of the Act and 42 CFR §431.51 which require that Medicaid beneficiaries must be allowed to obtain services from any willing and qualified provider of a service. A willing provider is a provider who agrees to accept a state’s payment as payment in full for rendering a service and to abide by all other Medicaid provider requirements, including executing a provider agreement. A qualified waiver provider means an individual or entity that meets the qualifications that are specified in Appendix C-3 for the service that the provider renders. All qualified providers must be permitted to participate in the waiver program and have a provider agreement with the Medicaid agency if they chose to do so unless a state has secured a waiver of §1902(a)(23) to place restrictions on providers (e.g., by requesting a waiver under the §1915(b)(4) authority).

Item 6-F: FFP Limitation

In accordance with 42 CFR §433 Subpart D, FFP may not be claimed for services when another third-party (e.g., other third party health insurer or other Federal or state program) is legally liable and responsible for the provision and payment of the service. This requirement applies to all Medicaid services, including waiver services. The Medicaid program functions as the payer of last resort. §1903(c) of the Act provides an exception to the principle that Medicaid is the payor of last resort in the case of Medicaid-reimbursable services that are included in a child’s Individual Education Plan (IEP) under the provisions of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Improvement Act of 2004 (IDEA). However, this exception only applies to those services that also are reimbursable under the Medicaid State plan (including services required under EPSDT.). This exception does not apply to waiver services.

Item 6-G: Fair Hearing

Waiver participants (like other Medicaid beneficiaries) must have the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing in order to seek a reconsideration of certain types of decisions that affect their eligibility or their services. How this opportunity is provided is described in Appendix F.

Item 6-H: Quality Improvement

This item establishes that a state must have an on-going, continuous system to ensure that the waiver assurances and other requirements are met when the waiver is in effect. This system is described in the Quality Improvement Strategy contained throughout the Appendices in the document, in Appendix H and in other elements of the application (e.g., Appendix G: Participant Safeguards).

Item 6-I: Public Input

Instructions

In the text field, describe how public input into the development of the new waiver, waiver renewal, or waiver amendment was secured.

Technical Guidance
CMS requires states to obtain public input during the development of a waiver (or a waiver renewal or a waiver amendment with substantive changes) in accordance with 42 CFR 441.304(f). The public input process must be described fully and be sufficient in light of the scope of the changes proposed, to ensure meaningful opportunities for input for individuals served or eligible to be served in the waiver. For the public input process to be sufficient in light of the scope of the changes proposed, the state must share with the public the entire waiver. In addition, the state’s public input process must have included at least two (2) statements of public notice and public input procedures, with one being web-based. This state must provide at least a 30 day public notice and comment period, and be completed at a minimum of 30 days prior to submission of the proposed change to CMS. The state’s response to this item in the waiver application must include a summary of the public comments received during the public input process, and if any comments were not adopted, the reasons why. The state must also specify in their summary any modifications to the waiver that they made as a result of the public input process.

CMS Review Criteria

For new waivers, and renewals and amendments with substantive changes:

- Did the state fully describe the public input process?
- Was the public input process at least a 30 day period, and was it completed at least 30 days prior to the waiver submission?
- Did the state provide at least two (2) statements of public notice and public input procedures? Was one of them web-based?
- Did the state include a summary of the public comments that the state received during the public input process, reasons why any comments were not adopted, and any modifications to the waiver that they made as a result of the public input process?
- Did the state’s posting include the entire waiver? For new waivers, was the public input process sufficient?
- For renewals and amendments with substantive changes, was the public input process sufficient in light of the scope of the proposed changes in the waiver submission?

Item 6-J: Notice to Tribal Governments

Instructions

In the text field, describe how Federally recognized tribes were consulted.

Technical Guidance

Section 1902(a)(73) of the Act requires States to seek advice from all Indian health providers and urban Indian organizations in the State prior to submitting State Plan Amendments or waiver requests that may have a direct impact on Indians or Indian health providers. States that have these providers have submitted a SPA outlining the process for seeking advice that they State will follow prior to submitting SPAs or waiver requests, renewals, amendments or extensions. In some cases, the aforementioned SPAs outlined a process for consultation with tribal governments as well as seeking advice from Indian health and Urban Indian organizations. In addition to the requirement to seek advice from Indian health providers and urban Indian organizations, States must consult with Federally-recognized Indian Tribes that maintain a primary office and/or majority population within the state of intent to submit a Medicaid waiver request, including a request for a waiver renewal. If a State has outlined the process for consulting with tribal governments in the aforementioned SPA, that process should be followed. If they have not included tribal consultation in the SPA, the notice to tribal governments must be sent at least 60-days in advance of submitting the request, allowing the tribe(s) at least 30 days to respond. Please see State Medicaid Director Letter #01-024 (July 17, 2001), Attachment C, for more information about meeting this requirement. Evidence documenting the process for seeking advice from Indian health providers and urban Indian organizations, as well as documentation that the State fulfilled the tribal government consultation process must be readily available through the State Medicaid agency.

Item 6-K: Limited English Proficient Persons

As in the case of other Medicaid services, a state must provide meaningful access to a waiver by Limited English Proficient persons. How this access is provided with respect to the waiver is described in Appendix B-8 of the waiver application.

7. Contact Person(s)

Item 7-A: State Medicaid Agency Representative

Instructions

Provide the name and other contact information of the individual at the Medicaid agency with whom CMS should communicate regarding the waiver.

Technical Guidance

The individual identified should be familiar with the waiver and be able to respond to CMS questions concerning the application. A Medicaid agency contact must be identified even though the waiver is operated by another agency. CMS directs its communications regarding a waiver request to the Medicaid agency. The information provided here also is entered into a CMS data base that is used to distribute information to states regarding waivers.

Item 7-B: Operating Agency Representative

Instructions

When a waiver is operated by a State agency that is not part of the Medicaid agency (as provided in Appendix A of the application), provide the name and other contact information of an individual at the operating agency who should be included in CMS communications concerning the waiver.

Technical Guidance

While the first line of communication between CMS and a state regarding a waiver application is the through Medicaid agency, CMS recognizes that many waivers are developed and operated by other state agencies in collaboration with the Medicaid agency. Consequently, it is important for the Medicaid agency to also directly involve operating agency representatives in discussions concerning the waiver application.

8. Authorizing Signature

Instructions

When the web-based application is used, the application is signed electronically when the State Medicaid Director or designee submits the application using the submission feature that is reserved only for the use of the Director.
Technical Guidance

All new waiver and waiver renewal applications (as well as amendments) must be submitted to CMS by the Medicaid agency. As a consequence, the application must be signed by the State Medicaid Director or designee in the Medicaid agency.

The State Medicaid Director’s signature certifies that the state will abide by all the provisions of the waiver application and that the waiver will be operated to continuously meet the assurances and other requirements that are spelled out in the application.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver application has been signed by the State Medicaid Director or designee.
Appendix A: Waiver Administration and Operation

Brief Overview

This appendix identifies the state agency that is responsible for the day-to-day waiver administration and operation, other contracted entities that perform waiver operational functions, and, if applicable, local/regional entities that have waiver administrative responsibilities. The Appendix also provides for indicating how specific waiver operational functions and activities are distributed among state, local/regional and other entities and how the State Medicaid agency monitors performance of those functions.

Requirements: Waiver Administration and Operation

The administration and operation of waivers frequently involves the collaboration of the Medicaid agency and other state agencies. In addition, the operation of waivers is often decentralized and local agencies play important roles in facilitating the access of individuals to the waiver, including performing waiver operational functions. CMS recognizes that it may be efficient and effective for a state to locate the operation of a waiver with an agency other than the Medicaid agency and link the delivery of waiver services to other Federal, state and local programs. Appendix A describes the administrative structure under which the waiver is operated. When waiver administrative and operational functions are performed by other entities on behalf of the Medicaid agency, certain requirements must be met.

In accordance with 42 CFR §431.10, the Medicaid agency is responsible for ensuring that a waiver is operated in accordance with applicable Federal regulations and the provisions of the waiver itself. The Medicaid agency may not delegate its authority over a waiver to another entity. When the Medicaid agency delegates to another agency, provided that the other state agency and the Medicaid agency enter into an agreement that specifies the waiver administrative and operational activities and functions that the other agency performs as delegated and under the supervision of the Medicaid agency. In the application, when a waiver is operated by another state agency, the sister agency is referred to as the “operating agency.”

The State Medicaid Agency may be an umbrella agency with numerous divisions, units or administrations within its domain. When a division, unit or administration within the umbrella State Medicaid Agency conducts waiver administrative activities, the State must describe the methods enlisted by the State Medicaid Director to provide oversight and guidance related to those activities. These mechanisms may include performance plans of direct reports, internal delegation documents or other formal mechanisms that impart delegated functions from the State Medicaid Director to a division within the broader Medicaid agency.

The requirement that the Medicaid agency maintain its authority over the waiver means that any rules, regulations and policies that govern how the waiver is operated must be issued by the Medicaid agency rather than by the operating agency. In issuing rules, regulations and policies that affect the waiver, the Medicaid agency may incorporate by reference rules, regulations and policies that have been adopted by the operating agency (or another state agency – e.g., rules and regulations concerning provider qualifications). In short, the operating agency may not independently promulgate rules, regulations and policies that have a material effect on the provision of waiver services and how waiver processes are conducted. Policies and other types of guidance concerning waiver operations may be issued jointly by the Medicaid agency and the operating agency. Alternatively, the Medicaid agency may formally approve policies and guidance developed and issued by the operating agency.
A state also may arrange for the performance of waiver operational and administrative functions by contracted entities. For example, the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable) may enter into a contract with a private entity to conduct quality improvement functions (e.g., conduct periodic surveys of waiver participants) that are necessary for the proper and efficient administration of the waiver. Such contractual arrangements are subject to the provisions of 42 CFR Part 434 (contracts) or such other Federal regulations as may apply (e.g., the procurement regulations in 45 CFR § 92.42).

Finally, a state also may provide that local/regional non-state entities perform waiver operational and administrative functions in order to link the provision of waiver services with other Federal, state and local programs that are operated by such entities. Such entities may include public county human services agencies or other types of local human services agencies (e.g., Area Agencies on Aging – AAAs). For example, a state may provide that entrance to a waiver that serves older persons takes place through the state’s AAA network in order to link the provision of waiver services to Older Americans Act programs and services. When local/regional non-state entities perform waiver operational and administrative function, there must be contracts or agreements in place that authorize the performance of such functions by local/regional non-state entities, and the State must monitor performance of those functions.

42 CFR§431.10(e) specifies that the Medicaid agency must retain the authority to exercise administrative discretion and issue policies, rules and regulations. If other state or local agencies or contractors perform waiver administrative and operational functions for the Medicaid agency, such entities must not have the authority to change or disapprove any administrative decision of the Medicaid agency or otherwise substitute their judgment for that of the Medicaid agency with respect to the application of policies, rules, and regulations issued by the Medicaid agency. Provider agreements must be executed between the Medicaid agency and the providers.

With respect to HCBS waivers, a state must provide for the consistent, uniform administration and operation of the waiver across all geographic areas where the waiver is in operation. For example, when local/regional non-state agencies perform waiver administrative and operational functions, the state must ensure that consistent decisions are made about the authorization of waiver services wherever a waiver participant may reside. As previously noted in the instructions for the Application/Module 1, if the state wishes to provide different services or utilize different approaches to service delivery in different parts of the state, the state should consider applying to operate separate waivers in each area of the state. Absent a waiver of statewideness, it is expected that the waiver will be administered and operated in a consistent fashion in all parts of the state and, thereby, ensure that waiver services are provided on a comparable basis to the entire target group of waiver participants in compliance with 42 CFR §440.240(b) (comparability of services for groups).

When waiver administrative and operational functions are performed by other entities on behalf of the Medicaid agency, the Medicaid agency should have a formal, written document expressly delegating the functions to be performed, and the Medicaid agency must supervise the performance of these functions. Supervision does not mean that the Medicaid agency must review and approve each and every action taken by another entity. It is expected that the Medicaid agency will conduct or arrange for the periodic assessment of the performance of other entities in conducting waiver administrative and operational activities to ensure that the waiver is operated in accordance with the approved waiver and applicable Federal requirements. In its Quality Improvement Strategy for the waiver, the state describes how it will assure that the “Medicaid agency retains ultimate authority and responsibility for the operation of the waiver by exercising oversight over the performance of waiver functions by other state and local agencies (if applicable) and contracted entities.”

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix A

Item A-1: State Line of Authority for Waiver Operation

Instructions

Select whether the waiver is operated by the Medicaid agency or by another state agency. When the waiver is operated by the Medicaid agency, specify whether it is operated by the Medical Assistance Unit or another division/unit within the Medicaid agency. When the waiver is operated by another state agency, specify the state agency and complete Item A-2.

Technical Guidance

This item identifies the state agency that has day-by-day administrative and operational responsibility for the waiver. The waiver may be operated by the Medicaid agency or another state agency under an agreement with the Medicaid agency. The Medicaid agency is the single State agency designated in accordance with 42 CFR §431.10(b)(1) to administer or supervise the State plan. The Medical Assistance Unit is the unit within the Medicaid agency that is established pursuant to 42 CFR §431.11(b) and in some states is synonymous with the Medicaid agency. In some states, the Medicaid agency is a state department/agency rather than a division/unit within a state department/agency. When this is the case, the State Medicaid agency may delegate the operation of the waiver to another division/unit within the umbrella Medicaid agency or assign this responsibility to its Medical Assistance Unit. When a division/unit other than the Medical Assistance Unit is responsible for operating the waiver, the waiver is considered to be operated by the Medicaid Agency.

In responding to this item, specify whether the waiver is operated by the Medical Assistance Unit or another Medicaid agency division/unit. The State Medicaid Agency may be an umbrella agency with numerous divisions, units or administrations within its domain. When a division, unit or administration within the umbrella State Medicaid Agency conducts waiver administrative activities, the State must describe the methods enlisted by the State Medicaid Director to provide oversight and guidance related to those activities. These mechanisms for oversight may include performance plans of direct reports, internal delegation documents or other formal mechanisms that impart delegated functions from the State Medicaid Director to a division within the broader Medicaid agency. If the waiver is operated by a division, unit or administration within the Medicaid agency that differs from the Medical Assistance Unit, complete Item A-2-a.

Alternatively, a waiver may be operated by another state agency that is not the Medicaid agency. This practice is relatively common. States frequently locate waiver operational responsibility with a state agency that has programmatic and other responsibilities for the full range of services (including services funded by state and/or Federal funds other than Medicaid) that are furnished to a target populations (e.g., older persons). The other state agency may be located in the same department as the Medicaid agency but is not organizationally a part of the Medicaid agency or located in a different state department.

When the waiver is not operated by a division/unit of the Medicaid agency, there must be a formal, written agreement between the Medicaid agency and the operating agency that explicitly spells out the waiver activities and functions that the operating agency performs on behalf of the Medicaid agency. This agreement may take the form of an interagency agreement or a memorandum of understanding. Do not submit the agreement as part of the waiver application. If CMS needs to examine the agreement, it will request a copy from the Medicaid agency.
Appendix A: Waiver Administration and Operation

There are no established specifications for these agreements. An agreement, however, must be sufficiently detailed so that it clearly delineates those activities, functions and responsibilities that the Medicaid agency delegates to the operating agency and the responsibilities of the operating agency in carrying out those functions. The agreement need not be confined solely to the operation of the waiver (e.g., it may address additional topics as well) and an agreement may span the operation of more than one waiver so long as operating agency responsibilities for each waiver are clearly delineated. The agreement may not undermine the ultimate authority and responsibility of the Medicaid agency for the operation of the waiver, including meeting the waiver assurances. The agreement also may serve as the basis for claiming administrative FFP for the proper and necessary costs that are incurred by the operating agency in administering the waiver. Medicaid administrative claiming, necessary for the efficient administration of the Medicaid State Plan, must be in accordance with the state’s CMS-approved Medicaid cost allocation plan. Please note that approval of this waiver application does not constitute approval of the state’s Medicaid cost allocation plan.

Item A-2: Medicaid Agency Oversight of Waiver Administration

Item A-2-a: Operation by a Division/Unit within the SMA other than the Medical Assistance Unit.

Instructions

This item is only completed when a division/unit (or administration) within the umbrella State Medicaid agency, other than the Medical Assistance Unit operates the waiver. In the text field, specify the methods employed by the State Medicaid Director (in some instances, the individual is also the head of the umbrella State agency) to provide oversight and guidance related to those activities. These mechanisms for oversight may include performance plans of direct reports, internal delegation documents or other formal mechanisms that impart delegated functions from the State Medicaid Director to a division within the broader Medicaid agency.

When the waiver is operated by another division/unit/administration within the umbrella Agency designated as the Single State Medicaid Agency. Specify (a) the functions performed by that division/administration (i.e., the Developmental Disabilities Administration within the Single State Medicaid Agency), (b) the name and most recent execution date of the document utilized to outline the roles and responsibilities related to waiver operation, and (c) the methods that are employed by the designated State Medicaid Director in the oversight of these activities.

Technical Guidance

As noted above, when the waiver is operated by a division/unit/administration of the Medicaid agency that is outside of the Medical Assistance Unit or the division responsible for Medicaid administration, the State must ensure that this division is performing its assigned waiver operational tasks and administrative functions in accordance with waiver requirements. States (and State Medicaid Directors) have discretion to establish these mechanisms, which will vary depending on the umbrella State Medicaid agency structure and internal reporting systems. When the waiver is administered by an entity within the SMA other than the Medical Assistance Unit, it is considered for the purpose of this application to be operated by the SMA. However, there should be a clear line of reporting between the Medical Assistance Unit and the operating entity within the SMA, and the Medical Assistance Unit must oversee the operations... of the entity in administering the waiver to ensure compliance with Federal requirements.

Item A-2-b: Operation by a non-SMA State Entity

Instructions

This item is only completed when a State entity that is NOT the State Medicaid agency operates the waiver. In the text field, specify the methods that the Medicaid agency uses to ensure that the operating agency performs its assigned waiver operational and administrative functions in accordance with waiver requirements. Also, specify the frequency of Medicaid agency assessment of operating agency performance.

Technical Guidance

As noted above, when a waiver is not operated by the Medicaid agency, the Medicaid agency must ensure that the operating agency performs its assigned waiver operational and administrative functions in accordance with waiver requirements. States have discretion in determining Medicaid agency oversight methods. The methods employed will hinge on the specific scope and nature of the functions and activities that the operating agency performs. These will include the functions and activities indicated in Item A-3 (see next section) and others specified elsewhere in the application. It is important to keep in mind that Medicaid agency oversight need not take the form of the Medicaid agency reviewing and approving each operating agency action (e.g., reviewing all the service plans that the operating agency already has reviewed) or the redundant performance of functions and activities that are carried out by the operating agency (e.g., replicating look-behind type reviews of case manager performance when the operating agency already conducts such reviews). Medicaid agency oversight may be exercised in a variety of ways, including providing that the operating agency track and periodically report to the Medicaid agency its performance in conducting operational functions (e.g., reporting how promptly service plans are developed and implemented once a participant has entered the waiver).

It is important to emphasize that the state Medicaid agency and the operating agency should work together to ensure that the waiver is operated in accordance with Medicaid rules, and that the services delivered are appropriate for the populations served. The knowledge of Medicaid requirements and the requisite program knowledge often contained within the operating agency represent the need for a strong collaborative relationship in the operation of the waiver. The Medicaid agency retains ultimate authority and control over the waiver, but in order to effectuate a strong, Medicaid compliant service delivery mechanism, the State should establish clear and strong lines of communication between the operating agency and the State Medicaid agency.

As noted previously, the state’s Quality Improvement Strategy must describe how the state assures that the Medicaid agency maintains its authority over the waiver. Oversight of operating agency performance is an element of this assurance. As applicable, the oversight methods described here must be cited in the QIS section related to the Administrative Authority of the State Medicaid agency.

When the waiver is not operated by the Medicaid agency, the State must specify the functions that are expressly delegated through a memorandum of understanding (MOU) or other written documents that, and should indicate the frequency of review and update for the document. Please note the MOU or agreement must be in place prior to the implementation of the waiver. In addition, The MOU or agreement must reflect roles and responsibilities of the waiver as it is currently being operated.
CMS Review Criteria

- The Medicaid agency’s oversight methods span the full range of operational and administrative responsibilities of the division/unit/administration within the Medicaid agency and the operating agency including its oversight of contracted and local/regional entities’ functions as specified in Item A-3 and elsewhere in the application.
- The frequency of oversight is specified.

Waiver Operational and Administrative Functions

Items A-3 and A-4 require identifying whether contracted entities and/or local/regional non-state entities perform waiver operational and administrative functions. Item A-7 lists specific functions that such entities might perform. The response to Items A-3 and A-4 hinges on whether contracted entities or local/regional non-state entities perform one or more of the functions listed in Item A-7. Please note that the Financial Management Service (FMS) may be provided as a Medicaid administrative activity or as a waiver service. When provided as an administrative activity, FMS serves as an example of an entity that could perform a function listed in A-3.

The list in Item A-7 is not inclusive of all waiver operational and administrative functions. The list generally does not include functions that are addressed elsewhere in the application (e.g., the performance of case management activities such as monitoring service plan implementation (addressed in Appendix D-2).

The operational and administrative functions listed in Item A-7 are defined as follows:

- Participant waiver enrollment. This function includes performing waiver intake activities, including taking applications to enter the waiver and referring, when necessary, individuals for the determination of Medicaid eligibility and/or disability.

- Waiver enrollment managed against approved limits. This function includes ensuring that the waiver’s participant limit (as provided in Appendix B-3) is not exceeded and managing entrance to the waiver by applying the state’s policies concerning the selection of individuals to enter the waiver (as also provided in Appendix B-3). The function also might include establishing and maintaining a waiting list for entrance to waiver, if necessary. When waiver capacity is allocated by locality or region, local/regional non-state agencies may also be involved in managing enrollment.

- Waiver expenditures managed against approved levels. This function includes monitoring waiver expenditures to assure that the waiver is cost neutral and operates within the estimates in the approved waiver (and, as necessary, preparing waiver amendments to modify cost estimates). Usually, this function is performed by a state agency.

- Level of care evaluation. Such activities may include compiling the information that is necessary to evaluate potential entrants to the waiver and the continuing need for the level of care that the waiver provides for waiver participants. It may also include the review of such information by the state or a contracted entity in order to determine that an individual meets level of care criteria. However, if the LOC evaluation results in Title XIX eligibility, the final decision must be a Medicaid agency decision since only the Medicaid Agency can make an eligibility decision. Thus, another agency in the state can conduct the evaluations, but only the Medicaid agency can make the final decision.

- Review of participant service plans. This activity may include local/regional entity

review of service plans or, if required by the state, the review and approval of service plans by the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable). The focus is on activities that take place once a service plan has been developed but prior to its implementation. The function does not include the retrospective review of service plans that might be conducted by the Medicaid agency in order to (a) meet the requirement that service plans are subject to the approval of the Medicaid agency (as provided in Appendix D-1) or (b) determine retrospectively whether service plans appropriately address the needs of waiver participants, a quality improvement activity that is addressed in the State’s QIS.

- Prior authorization of waiver services. This function refers to the review of the necessity of specific waiver services before they are authorized or delivered. It does not refer to review of the overall service plan. For example, a waiver might provide for the provision of crisis stabilization services under certain circumstances but require that the provision of such services be reviewed prior to their authorization. Alternatively, a waiver might provide that additional services may be authorized over and above the limit on the dollar amount established in Appendix C-4 of the waiver but require prior authorization for such services.

- Utilization management. Utilization management includes processes to ensure that waiver services have been authorized in conformance to waiver requirements and monitoring service utilization to ensure that the amount of services is within the levels authorized in the service plan or that services utilized have been authorized in the service plan. It also may include identifying instances when individuals are not receiving services authorized in the service plan or the amount of services utilized is substantially less than the amount authorized to identify potential problems in service access.

- Qualified Provider enrollment. Qualified provider enrollment refers to the performance of standard provider enrollment processes conducted by the State Medicaid Agency, as well as any delegated functions related to the recruitment and enrollment of providers.

- Execution of Medicaid provider agreements. §1902(a)(27) of the Act and 42 CFR §107 require that there be an agreement between the Medicaid agency and each provider that furnishes services under the waiver. In some instances (e.g., when a state contracts with an Organized Health Care Delivery System (OHCDS) to furnish waiver services), the provider agreement is executed with an organization that contracts with other providers to furnish waiver services but these providers do not have an agreement with the Medicaid agency. Except in these cases (which are discussed where applicable elsewhere in the instructions), there must be a provider agreement between the Medicaid agency and each waiver provider. Such agreements may be multi-party agreements (e.g., the agreement may be made by the Medicaid agency, the operating agency and the provider).

The Medicaid agency may assign to another entity (e.g., the operating agency, a county agency, or a financial management services entity that supports waiver participants to direct their own services) the responsibility to execute (sign) the provider agreement on behalf of the Medicaid agency. If the Medicaid agency chooses to assign this administrative function to another entity, the Medicaid agency must assign this responsibility in writing to the entity. For example, if counties are authorized to execute the State’s provider agreement on behalf of the Medicaid agency, the authorization may be included in the agreement between a county and the Medicaid agency to perform waiver operational and administrative functions. However, the Medicaid agency cannot delegate its statutory responsibilities for oversight and standard setting. In carrying out this administrative responsibility, the entity that executes the provider agreement may not alter or supplement the provisions of the agreement. If the entity to which this administrative function is assigned also provides waiver services to participants, it must execute a provider agreement directly with the Medicaid agency – not itself – for services that the entity provides.

- Establishment of Statewide Rate Methodology. A state must have uniform and consistently applied policies concerning the determination of waiver payment amounts or rates. This topic is addressed in more detail in the instructions for Appendix I-2. When this function is performed by entities other than the Medicaid agency, the entity must follow the state’s uniform policies.

- Rules, policies procedures and information development governing the waiver program. This function includes the development of any rules, policies and procedures that govern administration of the waiver. While other entities may be involved in the development of these items, the State Medicaid Agency must retain ultimate approval authority and they must be consistent in all jurisdictions in which the waiver operates. This function may also include making information about the waiver available via the Internet, performing outreach through such organizations as AAAs and consumer support groups, identifying potential enrollees through the operation of a single-point-of-entry or “no wrong door” service access point, and providing individuals with information about the waiver.

- Quality assurance and quality improvement activities This function refers to the activities related to discovery and remediation activities conducted for the waiver, as well as the mechanisms for overall systems improvement.

Item A-3: Use of Contracted Entities

Instructions

Based on the listing of waiver operational and administrative functions in Item A-7 (as described above), indicate whether contracted entities perform one or more of those activities. If so, identify (in the text field) the types of contracted entities and briefly describe the functions that they perform. Also, complete Items A-5 and A-6. When contracted entities do not perform any of the functions listed in Item A-7, select the second choice.

Technical Guidance

Waiver operational activities and functions may be performed by entities that are under contract with the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable). For the purpose of this item, contracted entities are third-parties that perform functions that are otherwise usually conducted by the state agency. In the context of this item, contracted entities do not include waiver providers or local/regional non-state entities (e.g., counties). In the case of the latter, their role in waiver operations is addressed in items A-4 through A-6 and in item A-7. For example, the evaluation of level of care often is conducted by a Professional Review Organization (PRO) under contract to the Medicaid agency. Other examples of administrative activities and functions that might be performed by a contracted entity include utilization management, prior authorization of selected services, and the determination of provider rates using the methodology developed by the Medicaid agency. As applicable, contracted entities may include entities that furnish financial management services under an administrative contract to waiver participants who direct their services. When using contracted entities to perform waiver operational activities, the State Medicaid agency should expressly delegate the performance of these activities in writing and oversee the performance of these functions.
Since multiple contractors might perform waiver operational and administrative functions, describe the types of contracted entities that perform these functions (e.g., a PRO, the state’s Medicaid fiscal agent, a consumer organization). Do not identify by name the specific entity that performs a function (because if a different contractor is selected to perform a function during the period that the waiver is in effect, an amendment would have to be submitted to modify this item). Also, because multiple contractors might be employed, briefly describe the functions that each type of contractor performs.

§1915(b)/§1915(c) Concurrent Waivers

When a §1915(c) waiver is operated concurrently with a §1915(b) waiver, managed care entities may perform several waiver operational and administrative functions in conjunction with their delivery of services to beneficiaries. For example, such entities determine payment amounts for providers in their networks and usually have responsibilities concerning enrollment of individuals. For the purpose of the §1915(c) waiver application, managed care entities that perform the waiver operational and administrative functions listed in Item A-7 are considered to be “contracted entities.” Therefore, identify when managed care entities perform these functions and briefly list the functions that these entities perform. Specify the types of entities (e.g., PIHP). Do not list the entities (the specific entities must be identified in the 1915(b) waiver application). As appropriate, include entities other than managed care entities that may perform §1915(c) operational and administrative functions under the provisions of the 1915(b) waiver (e.g., an External Quality Review Organization – ERQO).

CMS Review Criteria

When waiver operational and administrative activities are performed by contracted entities, the waiver specifies the types of entities that perform such activities and describes the types of activities that are performed by each type of entity.

Item A-4: Role of Local/Regional Non-State Entities

Instructions

Select whether public and/or non-governmental local/regional non-state entities perform waiver operational and administrative functions. If so, specify the nature of these entities. When such entities perform such functions, complete Items A-5 and A-6.

Technical Guidance

In many states, local/regional non-state entities (e.g., Area Agencies on Aging, county human services agencies, regional mental health/developmental disabilities authorities) play important roles in the provision of services and supports for individuals who need long-term services and supports. These entities often are established under the provisions of state law and have responsibilities for intake, service coordination and resource development. Some states also assign waiver operational and administrative responsibilities to these non-state entities. For the purpose of this item, local/regional non-state entities do not include local/regional offices of the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable). Such offices are considered to be part of their parent state agency.

Before responding to this item, look over the list of activities and functions in item A-7. If local/regional non-state entities do not perform any of those activities/functions, select the “not applicable” choice and proceed to item A-7. If local/regional non-state entities perform any of the listed functions, then complete this item and proceed to items A-5 and A-6.

The application identifies two types of local/regional non-state entities:
• Public agencies. Public agencies include counties or other governmental entities that are under the control of local elected officials. When public agencies are assigned waiver administrative and operational responsibilities, there must be an interagency agreement, memorandum of understanding or contract in effect that details their responsibilities. The agreement may be between the Medicaid agency and each entity or may be a three-way agreement among the Medicaid agency, the operating agency and each entity. The agreement must preserve the authority of the Medicaid agency over the operation of the waiver.

• Non-governmental entities. The second type of local non-state entity is a non-governmental entity. Such entities include non-profit entities established under state and/or Federal law to conduct specified human services functions in a specified geographic area. Area Agencies on Aging usually fall under this classification. In some states, there are non-profit, county or multi-county developmental disabilities authorities that serve as the single point of entry for state-funded services and conduct other specified activities. Other states have established non-governmental regional authorities that include elected officials on their governing bodies but are not considered to be governmental entities. When entities of this type perform waiver operational and administrative functions, there must be a contract that details the waiver operational functions that these entities perform. When the waiver is not operated by the Medicaid agency, this contract may be structured as a three-party agreement (e.g., the signatories to the contract are the non-governmental entity, the Medicaid agency, and the operating agency).

When waiver operational responsibilities are carried out by these types of entities, select the appropriate response for the type of entity and provide a brief description of the nature of these entities (e.g., “non-profit developmental disabilities authorities that serve one or more counties that are established under the provisions of the following state statutes ______”). This item permits the selection of both types of entities if appropriate (e.g., waiver operational functions and activities are carried out by both public and non-governmental agencies). When using these types of entities to perform waiver operational activities, the State Medicaid agency should expressly delegate the performance of these activities in writing.

• Do not include copies of contracts or agreements with local non-state entities when submitting the application. However, such contracts or agreements must be readily available to CMS upon request through the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable).

Item A-5: Responsibility for Assessment of Performance of Contracted and/or Local/Regional Non-State Entities

Instructions

This item is only completed when contracted entities (as indicated in Item A-3) and/or local/regional non-state entities (as indicated in Item A-4) perform waiver operational and administrative functions. In the text field, specify the state agency or agencies responsible for assessing the performance of local/regional non-state entities in conducting waiver operational and administrative functions. When more than one state agency is responsible for assessing performance, briefly describe the responsibilities of each agency.

Technical Guidance

When contracted entities and/or local/regional non-state entities perform waiver operational and administrative functions, the performance of such entities must be overseen and assessed by a state agency. Assessment may be performed directly by the Medicaid agency and/or the operating agency (if applicable). If the operating agency assesses the performance of these entities, this responsibility should be reflected in the interagency agreement between the Medicaid agency and the operating agency.

Item A-6: Assessment Methods and Frequency

Instructions

Again, this item is only completed when contracted entities and/or local/regional non-state entities perform waiver operational and administrative functions, as indicated in Items A-3 and/or A-4. In the text field, describe the methods that are used to assess the performance of contracted and/or local/regional non-state entities to ensure that they perform assigned waiver operational and administrative functions in accordance with waiver requirements. Also specify how often performance is assessed.

Technical Guidance

When waiver operational and administrative functions are conducted by contracted entities and/or local/regional non-state entities, there must be oversight of the performance of such entities to ensure that waiver requirements are met. The type and scope of the oversight and performance assessment will hinge on the nature of the functions that are performed by the local/regional non-state entities. Potential methods may include conducting on-site operational reviews or performance audits, periodic review of performance data, participant satisfaction surveys, focus groups, or other methods. Also, specify the frequency with which oversight/performance assessment is conducted. When oversight is performed by the operating agency, there must be procedures for the operating agency to report performance assessment results to the Medicaid agency and the performance of the operating agency in conducting such assessments must be subject to oversight by the Medicaid agency.

In the case of §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers, the description of oversight methods may include cross-references to appropriate sections of the §1915(b) waiver that address oversight of the performance of managed care entities.

The Quality Improvement Strategy must describe how the state assures that the Medicaid agency maintains its authority over the waiver. Oversight of the performance of contracted and/or local/regional non-state entities is an element of this assurance. As applicable, the oversight methods described here may be cited in the Quality Improvement Strategy rather than repeated.

CMS Review Criteria

When local/regional non-state entities perform waiver operational and administrative functions, the waiver describes:

- The methods that are used to assess the performance of contracted and/or local/regional non-state entities to ensure that they perform assigned waiver operational and administrative functions in accordance with waiver requirements.
- Oversight methods encompass each function that is performed by contracted entities or local/regional non-state entities as specified in Item A-7.
- The frequency with which such assessments are conducted.
- If assessments are performed by the operating agency, the conduct of such assessment is subject to review by the Medicaid agency to ensure that the operating agency is exercising its responsibilities and there are procedures that provide for the reporting of assessment results to the Medicaid agency.

Item A-7: Distribution of Waiver Operational and Administrative Functions

Instructions

In the table, check the entity or entities that have responsibility for conducting each of the waiver operational and administrative functions that are listed. Ensure that Medicaid is checked when the Single State Medicaid Agency (1) conducts the function directly; (2) supervises the delegated function; and/or (3) establishes and/or approves policies related to the function. Note: More than one box may be checked per item.

Technical Guidance

This table provides CMS with an overview of the distribution of responsibilities for conducting selected waiver operational and administrative functions (as described above) among the entities that have waiver operational and administrative roles. The columns in the table include the four types of entities that may be involved in the operation of a waiver – the Medicaid agency, an operating agency, contracted entities, and local/regional non-state authorities.

For each of the functions listed, indicate the entity or entities that have significant responsibilities in performing or supervising a function. More than one type of entity may be involved in performing a function. For example, local/regional non-state entities may conduct some activities related to the evaluation of level of care and a contracted entity may be employed by the Medicaid agency to make the determination that a person requires the level of care specified in the waiver.

Quality Improvement: Administrative Authority of the Single State Medicaid Agency

The Medicaid agency retains ultimate administrative authority and responsibility for the operation of the waiver program by exercising oversight of the performance of waiver functions by other state and local/regional non-state agencies (if appropriate) and contracted entities.

Instructions

The QIS must describe how the state Medicaid Agency retains ultimate authority for the operation of the waiver program. This description must include:

- Activities or processes that are related to discovery and remediation, i.e., review, assessment or monitoring processes; who conducts the discovery or remediation activities and with what frequency. These monitoring activities provide the foundation for quality improvement by generating information regarding compliance, potential problems and individual corrective actions. The information can be aggregated and analyzed to measure the overall system performance in meeting the waiver assurances. The types of information used to measure performance, should include relevant quality measures/indicators.

- The entity or entities responsible for reviewing the results (data and information) of discovery and remediation activities to determine whether the performance of the system reflects compliance with the assurances; and,
• The frequency at which system performance is measured.

Technical Guidance

Performance measures for administrative authority should not be duplicative measures found in other appendices of the waiver application. As necessary and applicable, performance measures should focus on:

- Uniformity of development /execution of provider agreements throughout all geographic areas covered by the Waiver
- Equitable distribution of waiver openings in all geographic areas covered by the waiver
- Compliance with HCB settings requirements and other new regulatory components for waiver actions submitted on or after March 17, 2014).

This QIS element focuses on discovery and remediation activities that is, processes to assess, review, evaluate or otherwise analyze a program, process, operation, or outcome. Specifically, the evidence produced as a result of discovery and remediation activities should provide a clear picture of the state’s compliance in meeting an assurance.

CMS Review Criteria

- The discovery of compliance with this assurance and the remediation of identified problems must address:
  - How the Medicaid agency exercises oversight over the performance of delegated waiver functions by other entities;
  - How frequently oversight is conducted; and
  - The entity (or entities) responsible for the discovery and remediation activities.
Appendix B: Participant Access and Eligibility

Brief Overview

This Appendix specifies the target group(s) of Medicaid beneficiaries that the waiver serves, its scope (i.e., how many persons the waiver serves), and processes associated with entry into the waiver. A state has considerable flexibility in selecting the groups that the waiver serves. When completing this appendix, it is useful to keep in mind that in order for an individual to participate in the waiver, the person must:

a) Meet an institutional-equivalent level of care specified for the waiver (in Item 1-F of the Application (Module 1));
b) Be in the waiver target group specified by the state;
c) Be in a State plan Medicaid eligibility group that is included in the waiver; and,
d) Choose to receive waiver rather than institutional services under the State plan.

Provided that the state has the capacity to enroll additional participants and the foregoing conditions are met, FFP is available for the waiver services furnished to a person once a service plan has been prepared for the waiver entrant. No FFP is available for waiver services prior to the date that the service plan is completed. FFP for activities related to the entrance of a person to the waiver that are conducted prior to this date may be eligible for administrative FFP or, if applicable, under a state’s coverage of targeted case management services under the State plan.

This Appendix has the following elements:

- The target group(s) served in the waiver (Appendix B-1);
- How entry to the waiver is affected by the expected cost of home and community-based services when compared to the cost of institutional services (termed the “individual cost limit”) (Appendix B-2);
- How many individuals will be served each year during the period that the waiver is in effect and how that number is managed (Appendix B-3);
- The Medicaid eligibility groups that may participate in the waiver (Appendix B-4);
- When applicable, the post-eligibility treatment of income policies that apply to individuals who secure Medicaid eligibility by virtue of their participation in the waiver (Appendix B-5);
- How the level of care of individuals is evaluated (Appendix B-6);
- How individuals are afforded the freedom of choice between waiver and institutional services (Appendix B-7); and,
- How meaningful access to the waiver is provided to Limited English Proficient (LEP) individuals (Appendix B-8).

Appendix B-1: Specification of the Waiver Target Group(s)

Overview

“Target group” refers to the specific group or groups of individuals who meet an institutional level of care (in Item 1-F of the Application module) which a state determines that it wants to serve in the waiver. A state may provide waiver services to any individual who requires a level of care specified for the waiver or it may instead elect to offer services only to specific subgroups of individuals who meet the level of care requirement (e.g., only children with developmental disabilities who require the ICF/IID level of care).

This Appendix provides for the selection of one or more (at the state’s option) of the three broad target groups that may be served in a waiver and specific subgroups within each of the three groups. It also provides for specifying the age range of the individuals who are served in the waiver. Waiver target groups also may be specified in greater detail. When a participant reaches the maximum age specified for a target group, the appendix also provides for describing the transition planning procedures that are followed.

In accordance with final rule CMS 2249-F, states have the option to include multiple target groups within one waiver. This regulatory change will enable states to design programs to meet the needs of Medicaid-eligible individuals and potentially achieve administrative efficiencies. For example, a growing number of Medicaid-eligible individuals with intellectual disabilities reside with aging caregivers who are also eligible for Medicaid. The change will enable the state to design a coordinated section 1915(c) waiver structure that meets the needs of the entire family that, in this example, includes both an aging parent and a person with intellectual disabilities. In this illustration, the family currently would be served in two different waivers, but with the proposed change, both could now be served under the same waiver program.

The revisions to §441.301(b)(6) allows states, but not require them, to combine target groups. Under this rule, states must still determine that without the waiver, participants will require institutional level of care, in accordance with section 1915(c) of the Act. The regulation does not affect the cost neutrality requirement for section 1915(c) waivers, which requires the state to assure that the average per capita expenditure under the waiver for each waiver year not exceed 100 percent of the average per capita expenditures that will have been made during the same year for the level of care provided in a hospital, nursing facility, or ICF/IID under the state plan had the waiver not been granted.

The state must assure CMS that the waiver meets the needs of each individual regardless of target group and that individuals have equal access to all needed services. This means that there may not be different benefit packages for each target group.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix B-1

Item B-1-a: Target Group(s)

Instructions

Select one or more of the three principal target groups. For the target group(s) selected, select one or more of the subgroups listed. For each subgroup that is selected, specify the minimum age at which individuals are considered for enrollment to the waiver (if a child may be enrolled at birth, the minimum age is “0”). If there is a maximum age that applies to entrance to the waiver, specify the maximum age. For example, if individuals are considered for enrollment up to age 22, the maximum age that would be indicated in the table is “21” (through age 21). If there is no maximum age that applies to enrollment, check the final column instead of specifying a maximum age.

Technical Guidance

42 CFR §441.301(b)(6) requires that a waiver be limited to one of the following target groups or any subgroup thereof:

- Aged or disabled, or both;
Appendix B: Participant Access and Eligibility

- Individuals with Intellectual Disabilities or a developmental disability, or both;
- Persons with mental illnesses.

42 CFR §441.301(b)(1) requires that HCBS be provided only to recipients who would otherwise require services at the level of care in a Medicaid certified hospital, nursing facility, or ICF/IID.

Individuals who are in the waiver target group and would otherwise require the Medicaid covered level of care specified for the waiver may be considered for entrance to the waiver. Both conditions must be met. The requirement that a waiver may only serve one of these three groups (or subgroups within a group) means, for example, that a waiver may not target both persons with mental illnesses and persons who have a physical disability but not a mental illness. There is an exception to the requirement that only one of the major groups may be selected that is discussed below.

For purposes of this chart, both the minimum and maximum ages refer to the age of an individual on the date of entrance to a waiver. The waiver may provide (in the additional target group criteria) that a person may continue to participate in a waiver beyond the maximum age specified in this chart.

Aged or Disabled Group

This target group usually is composed of individuals who otherwise would require the level of care furnished in a hospital and/or nursing facility.

For convenience, the “aged or disabled” group is further divided into two major subgroups. The first major subgroup includes older persons (“aged”) and people with disabilities (“disabled”). A waiver may serve both or only one of these groups. For purposes of the chart, the term “aged” generally has the same meaning as in §1905(a)(iii) of the Act (i.e., persons age 65 and older). However, a state may specify a different minimum age for this group to reflect state practice (e.g., persons age 60 and older). The term disabled generally means individuals with a disability under the age of 64.

The “Specific Recognized Subgroups” section lists specific conditions (e.g., brain injury) within the aged/disabled group that many states have elected to target in waivers. If the waiver is limited to one or more of these specified subgroups, select the specific subgroup(s) under the broader aged or disabled groups. The waiver may be targeted still more discretely than the groups and subgroups listed in this chart. Additional target group criteria may be specified in the next item.

Intellectual Disability or Developmental Disability Group

This target group (as provided in 42 CFR §441.301(b)(1)(iii)(C) is composed of individuals who otherwise would require the level of care furnished in an ICF/IID, which is defined in 42 CFR §440.150(a)(2) as serving persons with “intellectual disability or persons with related conditions.” States are advised that the ICF/IID level of care is reserved for persons with intellectual disability or a related condition, as defined in 42 CFR §435.1009. Participants in a waiver linked to the ICF/IID level of care must meet the “related condition” definition when they are not diagnosed as having an intellectual disability (e.g., persons with autism). Some persons who might qualify as having a “developmental disability” under the Federal Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act of 2000 may not meet ICF/IID level of care. While “Developmental Disability” and “Related Conditions” overlap, they are not equivalent. The definition of related conditions is at 42 CFR 435.1009, and is functional, rather than tied to a fixed list of conditions.
Mental Illness Group

The mental illness group (as provided in 42 CFR §441.301(b)(6)(ii)) is divided into two subgroups. The “serious emotional disturbance” group should be selected when the waiver would serve children and youth with mental illness who require the level of care furnished in an inpatient psychiatric facility that is licensed as hospital for individuals under age 21 (or up to age 22, if provided in the State plan) (as provided in 42 CFR §440.160).

The “mental illness” subgroup should be selected when the waiver would serve (a) individuals with mental illnesses who require the level of care furnished in a nursing facility or (b) persons with mental illnesses aged 65 and older who would, but for the waiver receive services in an IMD (as provided in 42 CFR §440.140). With respect to persons with mental illnesses, a waiver may target adults with mental illnesses ages 22-64 when these persons are determined to require the nursing facility level of care. Individuals with serious mental illnesses often have functional limitations that are similar to those of other persons who require the nursing facility level of care. However, a waiver may not target adults with mental illness ages 22-64 who would, but for the waiver, require services furnished in an Institution for Mental Disease (IMD), and regardless of whether the IMD is a hospital or a nursing facility. Medicaid payment is not available for persons in this age range who are served in an IMD and, consequently, an HCBS waiver cannot target such individuals.

CMS Review Criteria

- The waiver’s target group or groups comply with the requirements of 42 CFR §441.301(b)(6).
- The age range of the persons served by the waiver is specified for each subgroup.
- The target groups align with the levels of care specified in Item 1-F of the Application (Module 1).

Item B-1-b: Additional Criteria

Instructions

In the text field, specify any additional criteria that further specify the target group(s) served by the waiver.

Technical Guidance

More discrete targeting criteria may be specified over and above the target group/subgroup and age-ranges selected in the previous item. When additional criteria are not specified, it is presumed that the waiver is available to all persons who need the level(s) of care specified in the Application (Module 1) and are in the groups/subgroups selected in Item B-1-a. The additional criteria may be specified in terms of nature or degree or type of disability, or other reasonable and definable characteristics that distinguish the target group from other persons who may need the level(s) of care specified for the waiver. Such additional targeting criteria may include but are not limited to:

- Nature or type of disability;
- Specific diseases or conditions;
- Functional limitations (e.g., extent of assistance required in activities of daily (ADLs) and/or instrumental activities of daily living (IADLs); and,

Additional criteria also may be specified in order to align the waiver to service population eligibility criteria that are specified in state law (for example, when a state’s definition of developmental disability specifies that the disability must have been experienced before age 18 rather than age 22). In specifying additional targeting criteria, clearly define the terms that are used to specify membership in the target groups.

When the waiver limits the age range of the target population (e.g., to adults with physical disabilities through age 64), a state may provide that persons who enter the waiver may continue to participate in the waiver after they reach the maximum age that applies to entrance to the waiver. If the state provides for continuing individuals on a waiver past the specified maximum age, specify the continuation policies that apply.

A waiver may target exclusively individuals who want to direct at least some or all of their waiver services by employing the participant direction opportunities that are specified in Appendix E. This targeting criterion should be reflected here.

In order to be considered for Independence Plus designation (see instructions for Appendix E), the additional criteria must specify that the waiver only serves individuals who reside with their families, in their own private residence, or a living arrangement where fewer than four persons unrelated to the proprietor reside.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver target group or groups are sufficiently well-defined to permit the determination that an individual meets the target group criteria.

Independence Plus Designation

The waiver targets only individuals who live with their families, in their own private residence, or in a living arrangement where fewer than four persons unrelated to the proprietor reside.

Item B-1-c: Transition of Individuals Affected by Maximum Age Limit

Instructions

When there is a maximum age limitation on individuals who may be served in the waiver, describe the transition planning procedures for participants affected by the age limit in the text field. Otherwise, select “not applicable.”

Technical Guidance

When an individual’s participation in the waiver is subject to an upper age limit, there should be transition planning procedures that are followed to assist participants who “age out” of the waiver (i.e., the participant no longer will be eligible once the person reaches the waiver’s age limit). As noted previously, in its additional targeting criteria, a state may provide for the continuation of services to participants whose age exceeds the maximum age limit that applies to entrance to the waiver. For example, if a waiver serves the “disabled” under age 65, a state may provide that individuals may continue to participate in the waiver once they reach age 65. If the waiver does not provide for continuation of individuals beyond the age limit that is applied to entrants to the waiver or continuation is not feasible (due to level of care considerations), transition planning is appropriate. Transition planning is most effective when it is initiated sufficiently in advance of the date that the participant will be terminated from the waiver in order to provide continuity of services to the extent feasible.

Transition planning may include identifying other public programs for which the participant may qualify, informing the person of such programs and linking the person to them. A state also may provide that participants affected by an age limit are referred to and/or enrolled in another HCBS waiver for which the individual may be eligible. A state may provide that such individuals receive priority consideration for entrance into another waiver. A state is not obligated to ensure that individuals adversely affected by a maximum age limit receive services after termination from the waiver.

CMS Review Criteria

When the waiver does not provide for the continuation of services to waiver participants beyond the age limit specified in the waiver, there are transition planning procedures that link affected participants to another waiver or other services and supports that provide continuity of services in the community to the extent feasible.

Appendix B-2: Individual Cost Limit

Overview

A state may restrict enrollment into, and ongoing participation in, a waiver based on the expected cost of the home and community-based services that would be furnished to a person. In Appendix B-2, the individual cost limit (if any) under which the waiver operates is specified. The individual cost limit is specified in relationship to the costs of the institutional services at the level of care that a person requires. The cost comparison is based on the expected costs of home and community-based waiver services plus the costs of other State plan services that the person likely will require to the average cost of institutional services at the level of care the person requires plus the costs of State plan services that would be furnished to the person in an institutional setting. When an individual cost limit is specified, the waiver must specify the state’s safeguards to address the needs of waiver participants whose continuation on the waiver may be subsequently affected by the individual cost limit.

A waiver’s design may include reasonable methods to control overall spending, including the specification of an individual cost limit. In combination, the individual cost limit, the waiver’s service array, the availability of other services under the State plan and from other sources, and any other limits on the amount and scope of services must be sufficient to assure the health and welfare of the waiver’s target population.

When completing this Appendix, it is important to keep in mind that the individual cost limit functions as a criterion against which the determination is made about whether to offer entrance to a waiver to an individual and the person’s continued participation in the waiver post-entrance. The individual cost limit does not specify an amount of waiver services to which an individual is entitled. The amount of waiver services that a person receives is determined through the participant-centered service plan development process and is subject to any other limitations that a state may impose on the amount, duration and frequency of specific waiver services as provided in Appendix C-3 or the overall amount of groups of services or the total amount of services in the service plan, as specified in Appendix C-4. The individual cost limit (if imposed) governs entrance to the waiver (e.g., if the expected costs of the services that a person requires exceed the cost limit, the person will be denied entrance) and continued stay on the waiver. Given that the individual cost limit is a criterion for entrance and continued stay on a waiver, the State may elect only one individual cost limit, applied fairly and uniformly to all potentially eligible individuals.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix B-2

Item B-2-a: Individual Cost Limit

Instructions

Select one of the four choices presented. As applicable, provide the additional information as
Appendix B: Participant Access and Eligibility

Technical Guidance

This item presents four choices concerning the individual cost limit. One of these choices must be selected:

- No Cost Limit. When an individual cost limit is not imposed, this means that no otherwise eligible individual will be denied entrance to the waiver solely based on the anticipated costs of the home and community-based services that the person may require. Again, this does not mean that the person is entitled to unlimited home and community-based services once enrolled in the waiver program. The amount of services that will be furnished to an individual is determined based on assessed needs and as specified during the development of the service plan and is subject to any other limitations specified in Appendix C. This selection allows the entrance to the waiver of individuals who may require an amount of home and community-based services that exceeds the average cost of the institutional services for the level of care that the person requires. When this choice is selected, it is not necessary to complete the remaining two items (Items B-2-b and B-2-c) in this Appendix. When any of the other choices are selected, the next two items must be completed.

The selection of this choice (or any of the other three choices) does not permit a state to implement practices that de facto amount to the imposition of a cost limit (for example, by limiting or managing entrance to the waiver by selecting individuals who are expected to have relatively low costs or requiring that the costs of individuals who require intensive services must be offset by only permitting the entrance of persons with off-setting lower costs). An individual cost limit must be applied uniformly to all potential waiver entrants. While a waiver may be managed in the “aggregate” to assure cost-neutrality or achieve a targeted level of expenditures per waiver participant, entrance determinations must be made on an individual basis.

- Cost Limit in Excess of Institutional Costs. A state may elect to offer entrance to the waiver to persons when the costs of their home and community-based services are expected to be greater than the average cost of the institutional services, as specified as Factor G in Appendix J of the waiver, for the level of care that the person requires but set an upper limit on how much expected costs may exceed institutional costs. For example, a state may provide for the entrance of persons whose costs are not expected to exceed 125% of institutional costs. If this choice is selected, the cost limit must be specified. In addition, the state still must demonstrate cost-neutrality in the aggregate.

- Institutional Cost Limit. A state may elect to limit entrance to the waiver to only those individuals for whom the costs of home and community-based services are not expected to exceed the average costs of the institutional services for the level of care that the person requires. When this choice is selected, entrance to the waiver will be denied when a person’s expected costs of home and community-based services exceed the average cost of institutional services.

- Cost Limit Lower Than Institutional Services. Finally, a state may elect to impose an individual cost limit that is lower than the cost of the institutional services for the level of care that the person requires. The selection of this limit generally is only appropriate in the case of waivers that target individuals who can be expected to have available services and supports from other sources (e.g., family caregivers or other public programs) that, in combination with waiver services, will be sufficient to assure their health and welfare. When a state elects this choice, it must specify the basis of the limit that it imposes (i.e., the information analyzed and the rationale to support the assertion that the limit selected ensures that individuals who enter the waiver will have sufficient services and supports to assure their health and welfare). This evidence may be based on:

- An analysis of service utilization in a waiver that serves a similar target group;
- An analysis of service utilization in a state program that serves a similar target group;
- The experience of a waiver that serves a similar target group in another state; and/or,
- An assessment of the service needs of individuals in the target group.

For example, if a waiver targets children with disabilities, information about the amount of State plan services (including enhanced EPSDT services) that are typically utilized by children with disabilities might be combined with estimates of the expected utilization of waiver services to serve as the basis for the cost limit.

The limit that is applied also must be specified. This limit may be expressed as an absolute dollar amount, a percentage (less than 100%) of the costs of the institutional services for the level of care that the person requires or another type of limit that the state specifies. If the limit is expressed as an absolute dollar limit, specify how the limit will be adjusted during the period in which the waiver is in effect to account for changes in the cost of providing services.

CMS Review Criteria

- When the waiver imposes a cost limit that is lower than the cost of institutional services, the limit is based on sound analysis and rationale that, within the amount of the limit, the health and welfare of the waiver target population will be assured post entrance to the waiver.
- When the limit is expressed as an absolute dollar limit, the waiver describes how the limit will be adjusted during the period in which the waiver is in effect to account for changes in the cost of providing services.
- When a waiver imposes an individual cost limit, it is applied uniformly and fairly to all potentially eligible individuals.

Item B-2-b: Method of Implementation of the Individual Cost Limit

Instructions

This item must be completed unless the “no cost limit” selection is made in Item B-2-a. In the text field, specify the procedures that are followed to determine in advance of waiver entrance that the individual’s health and welfare can be assured within the cost limit.

Technical Guidance

When an individual cost limit is established, there must be procedures that are conducted during entrance to the waiver to determine that the individual’s health and welfare can be assured within the amount of the cost limit. Such procedures may include conducting an assessment to identify the services that the person may require or initiating the development of a service plan in order to ascertain the amount of waiver services that the person may require (in addition to State plan and the other services and supports available to the person) to meet the person’s needs. When the application of an individual cost limit results in the denial of entrance to the waiver, the affected individual must be offered the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing, as provided in Appendix F.
CMS Review Criteria
The procedures that are specified take into account the full range of supports that the person requires in the community and includes notification of the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing if entrance is denied.

Item B-2-c: Participant Safeguards

Instructions
When an individual cost limit is specified, indicate the safeguards that are in effect when post-entrance, a waiver participant requires the provision of services in an amount that exceeds the cost limit in order to assure the participant’s health and welfare. Check each choice that applies and provide the specified information.

Technical Guidance
After a person enters the waiver, the individual may experience a change in condition or circumstances (e.g., a family caregiver no longer is available or is temporarily unavailable to support the individual) that might necessitate the provision of additional waiver services in order to assure the waiver participant’s health and welfare. When there is an individual cost limit, the need for such additional services may result in the person no longer being eligible for the waiver. In this item, specify the safeguards that have been established in the event that the person requires services that would cause the cost limit to be exceeded. The item specifies three types of safeguards; these safeguards may be used in combination. These safeguards are:

- The person is referred for enrollment in another waiver. This selection may be appropriate when there is another waiver that operates under a higher individual cost limit or no cost limit for which affected individuals might qualify. A state may provide the continuation of waiver services until the person can be transitioned to the other waiver. Depending on a state’s policies, referral to another waiver may or may not ensure that the person can actually be enrolled in the other waiver;

- There is provision to authorize services in excess of the individual cost limit in order to avoid disruption to the participant. The waiver may provide for the authorization of additional services to address time-limited or other needs for additional services in order to support an individual until alternative arrangements are made. If this choice is selected, describe the procedures that are followed in authorizing additional services over the amount of the individual cost limit, including whether there is a limit on the amount of the additional services that may be authorized or the length of time the additional services will be provided; and,

- Other. A state may provide for other alternatives to address the needs of waiver participants affected by the individual cost limit. Describe these alternatives. These alternatives may include informing the participant of other options and making referrals to other services in the community. Referral to other services does not necessarily ensure that the person will be furnished such services. If need be, such alternatives may include referral for institutional services as a last resort.

CMS Review Criteria
- The waiver specifies one or more safeguards to facilitate the continuity of services for affected individuals in the community.
- The waiver provides for informing the participant of, and referral to, other options.
Overview

In this Appendix, a state specifies the maximum number of unduplicated participants who will be served during each year that the waiver is in effect. In addition, this Appendix provides for the selection of options that may be employed to manage the number of persons served by the waiver. Also, the Appendix requires specifying (when applicable) how waiver openings are distributed across areas of the state and policies that affect the selection of individuals for entrance to the waiver.

By way of reference, an unduplicated participant means a unique individual who participates in the waiver during a waiver year, regardless of when the individual entered the waiver and length of stay on the waiver. A person who enters, exits, and re-enters the waiver during a waiver year counts as one unduplicated waiver participant.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix B-3

Item B-3-a: Unduplicated Number of Participants

Instructions

In Table B-3-a, enter the maximum number of unduplicated participants who may be served during each waiver year that the waiver is in effect. In the case of a new waiver (including a new waiver to replace an approved waiver), enter figures for waiver years 1-3, or years 1 – 5 if applicable. For a waiver renewal, enter figures for waiver years 1-5. The numbers entered in this table are also entered into Table J-2-a in Appendix J (Cost-Neutrality Demonstration). The web-based application automatically displays the correct number of rows based on whether the state is submitting a new or renewal waiver. In addition, the web-based application links this table to Table J-2-a.

Technical Guidance

The number specified for each waiver year constitutes the maximum limit on the unduplicated number of participants that the waiver will serve (also known as Factor C). It is up to the state to specify this maximum. Until the maximum number of unduplicated participants in the approved waiver is reached, a state may not deny entry to the waiver of otherwise eligible individuals unless the state elects to establish a point-in-time enrollment limit, adopts a phase-in or phase-out schedule, or reserves capacity for specified purposes (see following items). As a consequence, the number of persons who will be served should be based on a careful appraisal of the resources that the state has available to underwrite the costs of waiver services.

Post-approval, the maximum number of unduplicated participants may be modified by submitting a waiver amendment to CMS to increase or decrease the maximum. An amendment to increase the maximum may be made effective to the beginning of the current waiver year. When more individuals are served in the waiver than the maximum, submit an amendment to align the waiver with the number of individuals served. An amendment to reduce the maximum number of waiver participants below the number currently being served may only be made effective on the date that CMS approves the amendment. Consequently, when a reduction is necessary, an amendment should be submitted as soon as the need for a change to the participant limit is identified. When a reduction in the maximum number of participants is requested, the amendment request must include information concerning the impact of the reduction on existing waiver participants (see Waiver Application, Submission Requirements, Processes, and Procedures – Other Changes to Approved Waivers for additional information).
Appendix B: Participant Access and Eligibility

A state may find it necessary to reduce the maximum number of participants because legislative appropriations are insufficient to support the number of persons specified in the approved waiver. In order to effect such a reduction, a state must submit a waiver amendment and the amendment must be formally approved by CMS. As previously noted, in the past, states have been permitted to tie the number of participants to legislative appropriations and notify CMS in writing of the reduction in the number of participants due to legislative appropriations without submitting an amendment. This alternative is no longer available. The waiver is considered to be in effect as approved unless CMS has formally approved an amendment submitted by the state. If a state finds it necessary to freeze waiver enrollment or place a moratorium on new entrants to the waiver, the state also must submit an amendment to CMS to revise the unduplicated participant cap for the affected waiver year.

Item B-3-b: Limitation on the Number of Participants Served at any Point in Time

Instructions

Select whether there is a limit on the number of individuals who may participate in the waiver at any point in time during a waiver year. If there is a limit, complete Table B-3-b by specifying the limit for each waiver year.

Technical Guidance

In addition to specifying the maximum number of unduplicated participants, a state also may specify the maximum number of participants who are served at any point in time during the waiver year. Specifying such a maximum may assist in managing waiver expenditures and taking into account participant turnover during the course of a waiver year.

For example, a waiver may provide for the enrollment of no more than 1,000 unduplicated participants during a waiver year. Taking turnover into account, a state might establish a point-in-time enrollment limit of 950 individuals. Establishing such a limit may avoid a state’s having to freeze entrance to the waiver before the end of the waiver year.

The decision to establish such a limit is up to the state. If the state does not wish to establish such a limit, select the first choice. If a limit is established, select the second choice and specify the limit for each year to which a limit will be applied. A limit may be applied to each waiver year or only selected years. For example, when a waiver is being phased in, a state might limit participation in the waiver by adopting a phase-in schedule as provided in Item B-3-d during the initial period that the waiver is in effect but provide for a point-in-time limit for subsequent waiver years. The limit that is established will be lower than the maximum unduplicated waiver participant limit specified in Item B-3-a and should be reasonably related to the expected rate of turnover of waiver participants.

In the case of a model waiver, the second choice must be selected when the number of participants specified in Item B-3-a is equal to or greater than 200 and the maximum number of participants served at any point in time may not exceed 200 persons.

CMS Review Criteria

When the waiver provides for a point-in-time limit, the limit for each waiver year is consistent with the implied turnover rate in the average length of stay estimates in Appendix J-2-b. (Turnover rate = Total # unduplicated persons per year / # of persons served at any point in time.)

Item B-3-c: Reserved Waiver Capacity
Instructions

Specify whether waiver capacity is reserved for purposes specified by the state. If no capacity is reserved, select the first choice. When capacity is reserved, complete Table B-3-c for each purpose a state has to reserve capacity. For each purpose, provide a brief title or name for the purpose of reserve capacity, specify the purpose for which capacity is reserved, how the amount of reserved capacity was determined, and specify the amount of capacity reserved for each Waiver Year.

Technical Guidance

A state may reserve a portion of a waiver’s capacity for specified purposes. Reserving waiver capacity means that some waiver openings (a.k.a., “slots”) are set aside for persons who will be admitted to the waiver on a priority basis for the purpose(s) identified by the state. If capacity is not reserved, then all waiver openings are considered available to all target group members who apply for waiver services and are eligible to receive them. Reserved capacity is not available to persons who are not in the state-specified priority population. Examples of appropriate purposes for which capacity may be reserved include (but are not limited to):

- Setting aside capacity to accommodate the community transition of institutionalized persons (e.g., through a “Money Follows the Person” initiative). In this case, reserving capacity ensures that there is waiver capacity available when individuals are ready to transition to the community transition;
- Reserving capacity to accommodate the transition of individuals from other waivers;
- Reserving capacity to accommodate individuals who may require services due to a crisis or emergency; and,
- Providing for the transition of individuals who age out of another waiver or other services (e.g., youth who age out of child welfare services) in order to ensure the continuity of their services.

Capacity may be reserved for more than one purpose. It is not appropriate to reserve capacity to reflect uncertainties about future legislative appropriations for the waiver.

Reserving capacity is only a means to hold waiver openings for the entrance of specific sets of individuals to the waiver. A state may not reserve capacity in a fashion that would have the effect of limiting the number of waiver participants who may access certain types of waiver services and, thereby, result in creating a “waiver within a waiver.” All individuals who enter the waiver must have comparable access to the services offered under the waiver. For example, a state may not reserve capacity in order to limit the number of persons who receive assisted living services in a waiver. A state may not use this feature to control access by certain Medicaid eligibility groups (e.g., by limiting access by the special home and community-based eligibility group (217 group) to 10% of waiver participants). Similarly, capacity may not be reserved to limit the number of waiver participants who may direct some or all of their waiver services.

CMS Review Criteria

When capacity is reserved, it is reserved only for the purpose of holding waiver capacity for one or more specific sets of individuals and does not violate the requirement that all waiver participants enrolled in the waiver have comparable access to all services offered in the waiver.
Item B-3-d: Scheduled Phase-In or Phase-Out

Instructions

When entrance to the waiver is subject to a phase-in schedule or the waiver is being phased-out, select the second choice and complete Attachment #1 to Appendix B-3. If the waiver is not subject to a phase-in or phase-out schedule, select the first choice.

Technical Guidance

A state may phase-in or phase-out a waiver over the course of a waiver year or multiple waiver years. For example, a state may provide for the entrance of 100 persons per month to the waiver during the first year of a waiver’s operation. Alternatively, a state may decide to phase out a waiver by transitioning individuals to another waiver over an extended period of time. A state may limit waiver capacity month-by-month during a waiver year by tying the maximum number of waiver participants who may be served each month to a phase-in or a phase-out schedule. Absent such a limit, a state is obligated to allow individuals to enter the waiver up to the participant limit for the waiver year as specified in Item B-3-a or B-3-b. When a waiver is being phased-in or phased out, the average length of stay of individuals on the waiver is affected. Item J-2-a in Appendix J (Cost Neutrality Demonstration) provides for describing the basis of the estimate of the average length of stay on the waiver. In the description, reference may be made to this item when the waiver is being phased-in or phased-out.

Attachment #1 to Appendix B-3: Waiver Phase-In or Phase-Out Schedule

Instructions

As previously noted, this attachment is completed only when a waiver is being phased in or phased-out.

Item a: Select whether the waiver is being phased-in or phased out.

Item b: Waiver Years Subject to Phase-In or Phase-Out Schedule

Indicate the waiver years during which phase in or phase out will take place. Phase-in or phase-out may extend over multiple waiver years.

Item c: Phase-In or Phase-Out Time Period

In the table, specify the first calendar month of each waiver year. For example, if a waiver is effective on October 1, enter October. In the next row, enter the month and the waiver year when phase-in or phase-out will begin. In the final row, enter the month and the waiver year when the phase-in or phase-out will be completed.

Item d: Phase-In or Phase Out Schedule

This table must be completed for each waiver year during which phase-in or phase-out is taking place. If phase-in or phase-out will take place over more than one waiver year, add another page to the application (by inserting a page break) and copy this table onto to the new page. An example of a completed table is provided below.

Waiver Year: In the table, indicate the waiver year for which the phase-in or phase-out schedule applies. Complete the remainder of the table as follows:

Month Column: Enter the first month of the waiver year and fill the remainder of the column with the names of the subsequent months through the end of the waiver year.

Base Number of Participants: In this column, enter the number of participants who will be served during the month, not counting the number who will be added to or leave the waiver during the same month.

Change in Number of Participants: Enter the number of participants who will be added to the waiver or leave the waiver during the month.

Participant Limit: The participant limit for a month is the sum of the base number of participants plus the number who will enter the waiver or less the number who will leave the waiver. This participant limit becomes the base number of participants for the next subsequent month.

Item B-3-e: Allocation of Waiver Capacity

Instructions

Select whether waiver capacity is allocated/managed on a statewide basis or, instead, is allocated based on local/regional geographic area. In the latter case, specify: (a) the entities or areas upon which waiver capacity is allocated; (b) the methodology that is employed to allocate capacity; and, (c) policies for the reallocation of unused capacity among local/regional non-state entities or geographic areas.

Technical Guidance

“Allocation of waiver capacity” refers to the practice in some states (especially states where waivers are operated through local/regional non-state entities) of allocating waiver openings (a.k.a., “slots”) by geographic area. This contrasts to managing entrance to the waiver on a statewide basis (or less than statewide basis when there is a waiver of statewideness but the state manages entrance across all areas served by the waiver) where entrance to the waiver is not based on geographic area. The practice of allocating waiver capacity by geographic area is permissible so long as the methods to allocate waiver capacity result in similar access to the waiver among the geographic areas where the waiver operates. When waiver capacity is allocated in a fashion that results in substantially unequal access among geographic areas, the waiver may not meet statewideness requirements.

The allocation of waiver capacity by geographic area may not impede the free movement of waiver participants from area to area in a state. That is, waiver “slots” must be portable across areas of the state.

Appropriate methods of allocating waiver capacity by geographic area may include taking into account the population of each area, other demographic factors, assessed need for waiver services by area or a combination of such factors. A state may find it necessary to implement strategies to adjust allocations of waiver capacity on a multi-year basis in order to achieve similar access to waiver services across geographic areas. For example, a state may reserve some waiver capacity to increase allocations in underserved areas.

When waiver capacity is allocated by geographic area, there also must be methods to reallocate unused capacity to areas where additional capacity may be needed (e.g., where there are waiver waiting lists). It is not appropriate to operate a waiver in a fashion that results in individuals waiting for services in some geographic areas when there is unused capacity in other areas. When a state intends to limit the number of persons served by geographic area, it must submit a waiver application and an accompanying waiver of statewideness in order to confine the operation of the waiver to the geographic area.

Item B-3-f: Selection of Entrants to the Waiver

Instructions

In the text field, specify the policies that apply to the selection of individuals for entrance to the waiver.

Technical Guidance

The state’s limit on the number of individuals who participate in a waiver may result in a waiting list for waiver services (e.g., entrance to the waiver of otherwise eligible applicants must be deferred until capacity becomes available as a result of turnover or the appropriation of additional funding by the legislature). Entrance to the waiver may not be deferred when there is unused waiver capacity (except when a state has established a point-in-time limit, reserved capacity or made entrance subject to a phase-in schedule). If it is necessary to defer the entrance of individuals to the waiver, the state must have policies that govern the selection of individuals for entrance to the waiver when capacity becomes available. These policies should be based on objective criteria and applied consistently in all geographic areas served by the waiver. Examples of appropriate policies may include (but are not necessarily limited to):
Appendix B: Participant Access and Eligibility

- Entry to the waiver is offered to individuals based on the date of their application for the waiver; or,
- Entry to the waiver is prioritized based on the imminent need for services that is determined through an assessment process.

When the state operates the waiver in a fashion that does not entail deferring the entrance of otherwise eligible persons, simply state that the waiver provides for the entrance of all eligible persons.

It is not appropriate to base policies for the selection of otherwise eligible individuals on factors such as the expected costs of waiver services or the types of services that an individual might require post-entrance. A state may not delegate the authority to establish policies for the selection of individuals to enter the waiver to local/regional non-state entities or other types of entities.

CMS Review Criteria

- There are State-established policies governing the selection of individuals for entrance to the waiver
- Policies are based on objective criteria and do not violate the requirement that otherwise eligible individuals have comparable access to all services offered in the waiver.

Appendix B-4: Medicaid Eligibility Groups Served in the Waiver

Overview

In this Appendix, the state specifies the Medicaid eligibility groups that are served in the waiver. In order for an eligibility group to be included in the waiver, it must already have been included in the State plan.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix B-4

Item B-4-a: State Classification

B-4-a-1 State Classification

Instructions

Select whether the state is: (a) §1634 state; (b) an SSI-criteria state; or, (c) a 209(b) state. In the web-based application, the selection made for this item links to Appendix B-5 and calls up the appropriate post eligibility treatment of income sections for §1634, SSI Criteria, or 209(b) states.

Technical Guidance

With respect to Supplemental Security Income (SSI) beneficiaries, a state may be a:
Appendix B: Participant Access and Eligibility

- §1634 State. Under the provisions of §1634(a) of the Act, a State may enter into a contract with the Social Security Administration (SSA) under which SSA determines Medicaid eligibility at the same time that eligibility for SSI benefits and/or Federally-administered state supplementary payments is determined. In §1634 states, SSI recipients do not make a separate application for Medicaid and are automatically enrolled in Medicaid;

- An “SSI-Criteria State.” In these states, SSI beneficiaries are categorically eligible for Medicaid but must make a separate application for Medicaid; or,

- A §209(b) State. The state applies rules that are more restrictive than SSI in determining the Medicaid eligibility of SSI-beneficiaries.

These are mutually exclusive categories. State officials who are familiar with Medicaid eligibility policies under the State plan should be consulted when completing this item. The response to this item determines which post-eligibility treatment of income rules apply when Appendix B-5 is completed.

B-4-a-2 Miller Trust State

Instructions

Indicate whether the State is a Miller Trust State.

Technical Guidance

Refer to guidance contained in Appendix B-5 of these instructions regarding Miller Trusts.

CMS Review Criteria

The selection comports with the State plan.

Item B-4-b: Medicaid Eligibility Groups Served in the Waiver

Instructions

Specify each Medicaid eligibility group that is included in the waiver. Where indicated, furnish the additional information about a group.

Technical Guidance

In order to participate in a waiver, a person not only must require the level of care specified for the waiver and meet the waiver’s target group criteria but also be a member of a Medicaid eligibility group (e.g., SSI beneficiaries) that a state has decided to include in the waiver. A state may include a Medicaid eligibility group in the waiver only when it includes the same group in its State plan. In other words, operating an HCBS waiver does not permit a state to expand Medicaid eligibility beyond what already is provided in the State plan. If a group is not included in the State plan, it may not be included in the waiver.

If a group is included in the Medicaid state plan, a state has the option to include the group in the waiver. The impact of a waiver in assisting individuals to remain in the home and community is enhanced when the waiver includes all applicable Medicaid eligibility groups.

In the context of the HCBS waiver program, Medicaid eligibility groups fall into two broad categories: (a) eligibility groups that include individuals who are eligible for Medicaid without regard to whether they are institutionalized (e.g., SSI beneficiaries) and (b) eligibility groups that include individuals who would not be eligible for Medicaid except in an institutional setting (e.g., the special income level group). When the second group is included in the waiver...
Appendix B: Participant Access and Eligibility

(as provided by §1902(a)(10)(A)(ii)(VI) of the Act), institutional eligibility rules (which are usually more generous than the “community rules” that apply to the first category) may be used in the community. This second group is referred to as the “special home and community-based services waiver eligibility group” as provided in 42 CFR §435.217 (see below).

Appendix B-4 provides for checking off specified Medicaid eligibility groups that are included in the waiver. The listed community groups often are included in waivers. Since many states have added the Medicaid “Buy-In” eligibility groups to their State plans, check-offs have been included for both the BBA-97 and TWWIA buy-in groups. However, this list is not exhaustive. There are over 50 distinct groups that a state may include in its State plan. If there are additional groups that a state includes in the waiver over and above those listed, they should be specified (by citing the appropriate statute or regulation) in the text boxes provided in the item. When completing this part of the application, personnel at the Medicaid agency who are well-versed concerning the eligibility groups included in the State plan should be consulted to ensure that the appropriate selections are made.

There are additional requirements with respect to covering medically needy eligibility groups under home and community-based services waivers. States that limit coverage of medically needy by eligibility group can only cover those medically needy groups covered in the state plan. For example, if a state only covers the mandatory AFDC medically needy group in its state plan, it may only cover those individuals on the waiver. If a state does not cover medically needy individuals in an institution, it cannot cover them in the waiver. For example, if a state does not cover nursing facility services for medically needy, it cannot provide HCBS waiver services to medically needy individuals who require the nursing facility level of care.

Appendix B-4 provides for checking off the “special home and community-based services waiver eligibility group” under 42 CFR §435.217. All individuals in this group may be included or the state may elect to include only specified groups (the second response). An individual is eligible under the §435.217 group, if the individual (1) is otherwise eligible for the HCBS waiver but would not be eligible for Medicaid while he or she is living in the community; (2) is eligible (or would be eligible) under the State Medicaid plan without spending down income if he or she were in a hospital, nursing facility or ICF/IID; and (3) receives waiver services. Check off whether the §435.217 group is included and then indicate the specific groups that are included and, if necessary, identify any other groups that are included but not listed.

The interplay between medically needy eligibility and eligibility under the §435.217 group is as follows:

- For §1634 and SSI criteria states, the individual would be eligible only in an institution as categorically needy and medically needy without spending down income. The HCBS waiver and the §435.217 group permit the special income level group to be covered in the community. Individuals with income under the special income level are categorically needy. Therefore, the basis for qualifying for the waiver changes from medically needy to the special income level group for individuals with income under the special income level group without a spenddown. However, a medically needy individual with income over the special income level cannot spend down to the special income level and be eligible under the §435.217 group.

- For 209(b) states, the individual would be eligible for Medicaid in the institution without a categorically needy or medically needy spenddown. Mandatory categorically needy individuals eligible under 42 CFR §435.121 are not eligible under the §435.217 group (e.g., SSI recipients). However, optional categorically needy individuals can be eligible under the §435.217 group. The HCBS waiver and the §435.217 group permit the special income level group to be covered in the community. Individuals with income under the special income level are categorically needy. Therefore, individuals who are both medically needy and optional categorically needy and have income below the special income level would be eligible under the special income level group without a spenddown. However, individuals with income over the special income level cannot spenddown to the special income level and be eligible under the §435.217 group.

When the §435.217 group is included in the waiver, Appendix B-5 (Post-Eligibility Treatment of Income) also must be completed.

CMS Review Criteria
The eligibility groups served in the waiver are included in the State plan.

Appendix B-5: Post-Eligibility Treatment of Income

Overview

In this Appendix, state policies are detailed concerning the post-eligibility treatment of income of waiver participants who are eligible under 42 CFR §435.217.

As of January 1, 2014, states must apply the eligibility and post-eligibility methodologies described in section 1924 of the Social Security Act (the spousal impoverishment statute) to all married individuals seeking eligibility under the category described at 42 C.F.R. §435.217. This requirement applies to all new 1915(c) waivers. Additionally, as part of any renewal or amendment to a state's 1915(c) waiver, a state should, if necessary, modify the terms of its waiver (specifically, in Appendix B-5) to conform its provisions to section 1924 if the §435.217 category is covered under the waiver. See instructions for Appendices B-5-a, B-5-c, B-5-f, and B-5-g.

Post-Eligibility Treatment of Income: Overview

All waiver participants who are eligible under 42 CFR §435.217 (the special home and community-based services waiver eligibility group) (as described in the instructions for Appendix B-4) are subject to post-eligibility calculations. Eligibility and post-eligibility are two separate and distinct processes with two separate calculations. Eligibility determines whether a person may be served in the waiver and is conducted in conjunction with entrance to the waiver. Post-eligibility determines the amount (if any) by which Medicaid reduces its payment for services that are furnished to an individual in the §435.217 group. By doing so, post-eligibility determines the amount (if any) for which an individual is liable to pay for the cost of waiver services. Post-eligibility is conducted ONLY for waiver participants in the §435.217 group. Waiver participants who are eligible for Medicaid under “community rules” (e.g., SSI beneficiaries) are not subject to post-eligibility.

Post-eligibility calculations are affected as specified in Appendix B-4 by Federal regulations depending on whether the state is a §1634 State or an SSI-Criteria State (42 CFR §435.726), or a §209(b) state (42 CFR §435.735). These regulations are included in Attachment C to the instructions. The post-eligibility calculations also may be affected by whether “spousal impoverishment rules” are used to determine the eligibility of a waiver participant with a community spouse. For the five-year period beginning January 1, 2014, states must use spousal impoverishment rules.

Allowances

Post-eligibility calculations arrive at the amount that the waiver participant is liable to pay for the cost of waiver services by deducting from the person’s income four types of allowances:

1. Allowance for the needs of the waiver participant. This allowance also is referred to as the “maintenance needs” allowance. This is the amount of income from which the participant will provide for her/his everyday living expenses (e.g., rent, food, and other living expenses). As provided in 42 CFR §435.726(c)(1)(i) and §735(c)(1)(i), the state must provide for a maintenance allowance that is based on a reasonable assessment of the individual’s needs in the community. As provided in §1915(c)(3), a state may establish the maintenance allowance for the participant at any level the state chooses so long as it is based on a reasonable assessment of individual needs. Different maintenance allowances may be established for individuals or for groups of individuals, based on an assessment of the individual’s or the group's particular needs. The amount(s) established must be sufficient to provide for a participant’s shelter, food and other routine expenses. In the case of waiver participants with a community spouse whose eligibility is determined using spousal impoverishment rules (under §1924 of the Act), the state may provide for a different maintenance allowance than participants who do not have a community spouse (see Item B-5-d). However, if this amount is different from the amount protected for the individual’s maintenance allowance under 42 CFR §435.726 or §435.735, the state must explain why it believes the amount is reasonable to meet the individual’s maintenance needs in the community.

2. Allowance for a Spouse. Under regular post-eligibility rules, if the individual lives with his or her spouse or if the individual is living in the community and the spouse is living at the individual’s home, the state must protect an additional amount for the spouse's maintenance. This allowance cannot exceed the highest of the SSI standard, the Optional State Supplement standard or the Medically Needy Income standard. The state may choose which standard to apply. If the individual's spouse is not living in the individual's home, no maintenance amount is protected for the spouse's needs. Under spousal impoverishment post-eligibility, a community spouse is defined as a spouse who is not living in a medical institution or nursing facility. For the five-year period beginning January 1, 2014, states must use spousal impoverishment rules.

3. Allowance for a Family: Under regular post-eligibility rules, if other family members live with the individual, an additional amount is protected for their needs. This amount is limited by the AFDC need standard for a family of the same size or by the appropriate medically needy income standard for a family of the same size. The state may choose which standard to apply.

4. Medical and Remedial Care Expenses: Medical and remedial care expenses are specified in 42 CFR §435.726, §435.735 and §1924 of the Act. Under the post eligibility process, which is specified at section 1902(r)(1) of the Social Security Act, states must deduct from an individual’s income: (a) health insurance premiums, deductibles and co-insurance charges (including Medicaid co-payments) and (b) amounts incurred for necessary medical and remedial care expenses that are not subject to payment by a third party and which are recognized under State law but not covered under the State plan. With respect to the deduction of incurred remedial and medical care expenses not covered by Medicaid, a state may elect to deduct all such expenses or, at its option, establish reasonable limits on amounts for incurred remedial and medical care expenses not covered by Medicaid. The individual must currently be liable for the payment for these...
For post eligibility purposes, services not covered under a State’s plan are any services not paid for by Medicaid for that particular individual. These include services listed as covered services in the State plan, as well as services the plan does not cover. They also include services the individual received prior to becoming eligible for Medicaid, as well as services received after becoming eligible.

Medical and remedial care expenses incurred prior to a period of Medicaid eligibility would be deductible under the post eligibility process, since these expenses were incurred when the person was ineligible for Medicaid and thus Medicaid did not pay for them. However, in order for these old expenses to be deducted under the post eligibility process the individual must be currently obligated to pay for these costs. As noted previously, these and other incurred medical and remedial expenses are subject to reasonable limits which may be established by the State Medicaid program. However, those reasonable limits must ensure that waiver participants are able to use their own funds to purchase necessary medical or remedial care not covered; i.e., not paid for, by the State plan.

For example, it would be reasonable for a State to provide that only uncovered services prescribed by a physician may be deducted. It would also be reasonable for States to impose specific dollar limits for specific services or items, provided that these limits reflect annual increases in the cost of medical care services and supplies. However, it would not be reasonable for States to set an overall dollar limit, such as $50 per month, for all non-covered services. Similarly, it would not be reasonable for States to impose a limit on the total number of medically necessary services or items that an individual could deduct in any month.

The amount of a person’s income that remains after providing for the foregoing allowances is the amount for which the individual is liable for the cost of waiver services.

Miller Trusts

Miller Trusts (also known as Qualifying Income trusts) are exempt from being treated under the normal Medicaid Trust rules. The exemption allows individuals with excess income to exclude that income from being counted for eligibility purposes by placing it in a Miller Trust. Miller Trusts apply only in certain states; i.e., those states that provide Medicaid nursing facility services to individuals eligible under the special income limit group, but do not pay for such services for the medically needy. However, the use of Miller Trusts is not limited to individuals needing Medicaid for nursing facility services. Miller Trusts also apply to individuals receiving HCBS waiver services.

While income placed in a Miller Trust is not counted in determining an individual’s Medicaid eligibility, it still meets the SSI definition of “income”. Therefore, the income placed in the Trust is included when determining the amount of an individual’s total income for post eligibility calculation purposes. Specifically, the State calculates the amount of the individual’s total income, including income placed in the Miller trust, and then makes the required deductions (maintenance allowance for the waiver participant, spouse and family allowance, and an allowance for medical and remedial care services) under the post eligibility process. Any income remaining after the required deductions is applied to the cost of HCBS waiver services.

Many States have set their maintenance allowance for the waiver participant at 300 percent of the SSI Federal Benefit Rate (FBR), effectively protecting all of the individual’s income for his or her own use. However, if the individual has a Miller trust the income placed in the trust, when combined with his or her other income, may result in total income that exceeds a State’s maintenance allowance. In that case, the individual’s income up to 300 percent of the SSI FBR would still be protected. But, any income in excess of 300 percent would be used in determining the patient liability under post eligibility.

To calculate the amount of the patient liability, the State would start with the amount of income that exceeds the State’s maintenance allowance for the waiver participant, and then make the required deductions for a spouse and family members, and for medical and remedial care services. Any remaining income is applied to the cost of waiver services.

States may also increase the maintenance needs allowance for waiver participants above 300 percent of the SSI/FBR and protect all of the individual’s income (including the income that is placed in the Miller trust). In this case, we suggest the State use the following language when specifying the maintenance needs allowance for individuals in the special home and community-based waiver eligibility group, “The maintenance needs allowance is equal to the individual’s total income as determined under the post eligibility process which includes income that is placed in a Miller trust.

In summary, if the State recognizes Miller trusts, under the post-eligibility process for individuals in the special home and community-based waiver group, the State has two options:

1. Protect amounts of income for the waiver participant’s maintenance needs and allowances for his/her spouse, family members, and remedial and medical care not covered by Medicaid, as described above; or
2. Increase the amount of the waiver participant’s maintenance allowance, as described above.”

General Guidance Concerning Completing Appendix B-5

Whenever a waiver covers the §435.217 group, Item B-5-a must be completed. The web-based application has been designed so that only the items a state must complete will appear, based on the selection made in Item B-4-a (whether a state is a §1634, SSI Criteria or 209(b) state) and Item B-5-a (whether a state uses spousal eligibility rules and applies spousal post-eligibility rules).

Items B-5-b-1, B-5-b-2, B-5-c, and B-5-d apply for time periods before January 1, 2014 and after December 31, 2018. §1634 and SSI criteria states must complete Item B-5-b-1 or Item B-5-b-2 (depending on whether spousal post-eligibility rules are used); §209(b) states must complete Item B-5-c-1 or Item B-5-c-2 (again, depending on whether spousal post-eligibility rules are used). Item B-5-d is completed only when a state employs spousal impoverishment rules under §1924 of the Act to determine the eligibility of individuals with a community spouse and also elects to use spousal impoverishment post-eligibility rules as provided in §1924. When a state elects to use spousal post-eligibility rules, the allowance for the personal needs of the individual that is provided in Item B-5-d takes the place of the allowance for the individual under Item B-5-b or B-5-c when the individual has a community spouse. Item B-5-d does not apply when a state does not elect to use spousal impoverishment rules to determine the eligibility of individuals with a community spouse or when a state elects to use spousal impoverishment rules to determine eligibility but decides not use spousal impoverishment post-eligibility rules. If this is the case, then Item B-5-d does not apply. Once a state elects to use spousal impoverishment post-eligibility rules, it must apply these rules to all waiver participants who have a community spouse. The state applies regular post-eligibility rules to waiver participants who do not have a community spouse.

spouse.

Items B-5-e, B-5-f, and B-5-g apply for the five-year period beginning January 1, 2014, when states must use spousal impoverishment rules whenever a waiver covers the §435.217 group. If the state indicates in Item B-5-a that it uses spousal impoverishment rules when they are not required, entry of B-5-e, B-5-f, and B-5-g is not required. The entries in Item B-5-b-2 or B-5-c and in Item B-5-d will apply. Otherwise, §1634 and SSI criteria states must complete Item B-5-e and §209(b) states must complete Item B-5-f. All states must complete Item B-5-g whenever a waiver covers the §435.217 group for the five-year period beginning January 1, 2014.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix B-5

Item B-5-a: Use of Spousal Impoverishment Rules

Instructions

If the waiver is effective during the five-year period beginning January 1, 2014, the state must check the first box in this section. This box indicates that spousal impoverishment rules under §1924 of the Act are used to determine the eligibility of individuals with a community spouse for the §435.217 group.

If the waiver is effective during a time period before January 1, 2014 or after December 31, 2018, select whether spousal impoverishment rules are used to determine eligibility. If such rules are employed, also select whether the state elects to apply spousal post-eligibility rules. When spousal impoverishment eligibility rules are not used to determine eligibility or when spousal eligibility rules are used to determine eligibility but the state does not elect to apply spousal post-eligibility rules, complete Item B-5-b-1 or B-5-c-1 in the next section of the Appendix. When spousal impoverishment eligibility rules are used to determine eligibility and spousal post-eligibility rules are applied, proceed to the second section of the Appendix and complete Item B-5-b-2 or B-5-c-2 and Item B-5-d.

Technical Guidance

This item requires specifying whether spousal impoverishment rules are used to determine the eligibility of individuals in the §435.217 group. When a person who is eligible as a member of a §435.217 group and has a community spouse, the State treats the individual as if he or she is institutionalized. This permits applying the spousal impoverishment post eligibility rules of §1924 of the Act (protection against spousal impoverishment) instead of the regular post-eligibility rules under 42 CFR §435.726 and §435.735 to waiver participants with a community spouse. The §1924 post-eligibility rules provide for a more generous community spouse and family allowance than the rules under 42 CFR §435.726 and §435.735. Spousal impoverishment post-eligibility rules can only be used if the state uses spousal impoverishment eligibility rules. The response to this item affects whether a state completes Items B-5-d, B-5-e, B-5-f, and B-5-g.

CMS Review Criteria

- The state has specified that it uses spousal impoverishment rules under §1924 of the Act if the waiver is effective at any time between January 1, 2014 and December 31, 2018 and the state furnishes waiver services to individuals in the special home and community-based waiver group under 42 CFR §435.217.

Item B-5-b-1/ Item B-5-b-2: Regular Post-Eligibility Treatment of Income: §1634 and SSI Criteria State

Instructions
Appendix B: Participant Access and Eligibility

Both items pertain to §1634 and SSI Criteria States. Based on the response to Item B-5-a, complete either Item B-5-b-1 or B-5-b-2.

Technical Guidance

The entries in this item apply only for the time periods before January 1, 2014 and after December 31, 2018. However, this item must be completed for all waivers in §1634 or SSI Criteria States, as indicated in Item B-4-a in Appendix B-4. The rules governing post-eligibility treatment of income in §1634 and SSI criteria states are located at 42 CFR §435.726 (see Attachment C). All parts of the item must be completed. Under each part of the item (i-iii), select only one of the pre-specified choices. In the case of the allowance for the needs of an individual, the allowance may be based on a standard contained in the State plan (e.g., SSI standard) or spelling out another basis for the allowance. There is no ceiling on the amount of this allowance. States have latitude in establishing the maintenance allowance for the individual. As discussed previously, the amount of the allowance may vary depending on the needs of the individual or groups of individuals.

With respect to the allowances for the community spouse and the participant’s family, the choices available are defined under the provisions of 42 CFR §435.726. Select one of the choices specified for the community spouse and the family. With respect to incurred medical and remedial care expenses, indicate whether the state deducts all such expenses or imposes a reasonable limit on the amount that may be deducted and specify the nature of the limit.

If the amount protected for the individual’s maintenance allowance is equal to or greater than the amount calculated as the individual’s total income under the post eligibility process, select the “not applicable” choice under the allowance for a spouse and a family. If the State is a Miller Trust State, see the preceding discussion of Miller Trusts.

When a state uses spousal impoverishment rules to determine eligibility and elects to use spousal post-eligibility rules, the state still must address post-eligibility treatment of income in the case of waiver participants who do not have a spouse by completing Item B-5-b-2. Item B-5-b-2 provides for specifying an allowance for a spouse who does not meet the definition of a community spouse under the provisions of §1924 of the Act. As a general matter, such an allowance is not provided because spousal post-eligibility rules will apply and the “not applicable” choice should be selected. If, however, the state provides for such an allowance, it must specify the circumstances when an allowance for a spouse will be made under regular post-eligibility rules. CMS will review these circumstances to determine whether such an allowance may be made. Spousal post-eligibility rules must be used in all instances to which they apply. A state may not provide for the use of alternative rules to its spousal post-eligibility rules.

Item B-5-c-1/Item B-5-c-2: Regular Post-Eligibility Treatment of Income: §209(b) State

Instructions

Both items pertain to §209(b) states. Based on the response to Item B-5-a, complete either Item B-5-c-1 or B-5-c-2.

Technical Guidance

The entries in this item apply only for the time periods before January 1, 2014 and after December 31, 2018. However, this item must be completed for all waivers in §209(b) states. Each item parallels the corresponding item for §1634 and SSI criteria states, but some of the choices differ, based on the requirements in 42 CFR §435.735 which govern post-eligibility in
Appendix B: Participant Access and Eligibility

§209(b) states. See the technical guidance for Item B-5-b-1/ItemB-5-b-2.

Item B-5-d: Post-Eligibility Treatment of Income Using Spousal Impoverishment Rules

Instructions

This item must be completed whenever a state uses spousal impoverishment rules to determine eligibility and elects to apply spousal post-eligibility rules.

Technical Guidance

In this item, the state establishes the post-eligibility rules that it will apply to waiver participants for whom eligibility has been determined using spousal impoverishment rules, provided that the state also has elected to apply spousal post-eligibility rules. In the case of individuals who do not have a community spouse as defined in §1924 of the Act, regular post-eligibility rules (as specified in Item B-5-b-2 or Item B-5-c-2) apply.

The spousal impoverishment post-eligibility rules provide for a more generous community spouse and family allowance than the rules under 42 CFR §435.726 and 42 CFR §435.735. The spousal protection rules also provide for a personal needs allowance (PNA) described in §1902(q)(1) of the Act for the needs of the institutionalized individual. This allowance is a "reasonable amount for clothes and other personal needs of the individual...while in an institution." For an institutionalized individual, this may be as low as $30 per month. However, unlike the institutionalized individual whose room and board is covered under Medicaid, the personal needs of a waiver participant must include a reasonable amount for food, shelter, clothing and other customary living expenses. The minimum monthly PNA is not sufficient to meet these needs when the individual lives in the community.

Therefore, states that elect to serve HCBS waiver participants with community spouses under the §1924 spousal rules must use as the personal needs allowance either the maintenance amount which the State has elected under 42 CFR 435.726 or 42 CFR 435.735 (as appropriate), or an amount that the State can demonstrate is a reasonable amount to cover the individual's maintenance needs in the community. If the PNA amount differs from the amount specified for the individual under regular post-eligibility rules, explain in Item B-5-d-ii why this amount is reasonable to meet the needs of the participant. Also, specify the state’s policies with respect to the deduction of incurred expenses for necessary medical and remedial care not covered under the State plan.

Item B-5-e: Regular Post-Eligibility Treatment of Income: SSI State - 2014 through 2018

Instructions

Complete the item if required based on Item B-4-a and Item B-5-a. See General Guidance Concerning Completing Appendix B-5.

Technical Guidance

The entries in this item apply only for the five-year period starting January 1, 2014. This item applies to waivers in §1634 or SSI Criteria States, as indicated in Item B-4-a in Appendix B-4. The rules governing post-eligibility treatment of income in §1634 and SSI criteria states are located at 42 CFR §435.726 (see Attachment C). All parts of the item must be completed. Under each part of the item (i-iii), select only one of the pre-specified choices. In the case of the allowance for the needs of an individual, the allowance may be based on a standard contained in the State plan (e.g., SSI standard) or spelling out another basis for the allowance. There is no ceiling on the amount of this allowance. States have latitude in establishing the maintenance allowance for the individual. As discussed previously, the amount of the allowance may vary depending on the needs of the individual or groups of individuals.

With respect to the allowances for the community spouse and the participant’s family, the choices available are defined under the provisions of 42 CFR §435.726. Select one of the choices specified for the community spouse and the family. With respect to incurred medical and remedial care expenses, indicate whether the state deducts all such expenses or imposes a reasonable limit on the amount that may be deducted and specify the nature of the limit.

If the amount protected for the individual’s maintenance allowance is equal to or greater than the amount calculated as the individual’s total income under the post eligibility process, select the “not applicable” choice under the allowance for a spouse and a family. If the State is a Miller Trust State see the preceding discussion of Miller Trusts.

Even though the state must use spousal impoverishment rules to determine eligibility and must use spousal post-eligibility rules, the state still must address post-eligibility treatment of income in the case of waiver participants who do not have a spouse. Item B-5-e provides for specifying an allowance for a spouse who does not meet the definition of a community spouse under the provisions of §1924 of the Act. As a general matter, such an allowance is not provided because spousal post-eligibility rules will apply and the “not applicable” choice should be selected. If, however, the state provides for such an allowance, it must specify the circumstances when an allowance for a spouse will be made under regular post-eligibility rules. CMS will review these circumstances to determine whether such an allowance may be made. Spousal post-eligibility rules must be used in all instances to which they apply. A state may not provide for the use of alternative rules to its spousal post-eligibility rules.

Item B-5-f: Regular Post-Eligibility Treatment of Income: §209(b) State – 2014 through 2018

Instructions
Complete the item if required based on Item B-4-a and Item B-5-a. See General Guidance Concerning Completing Appendix B-5.

Technical Guidance
The entries in this item apply only for the five-year period starting January 1, 2014. This item applies to waivers in §209(b) states, as indicated in Item B-4-a in Appendix B-4. Each item parallels the corresponding item for §1634 and SSI criteria states, but some of the choices differ, based on the requirements in 42 CFR §435.735 which govern post-eligibility in §209(b) states. See the technical guidance for Item B-5-e.

Item B-5-g: Post-Eligibility Treatment of Income Using Spousal Impoverishment Rules – 2014 through 2018

Instructions
Complete the item if required based on Item B-4-a and Item B-5-a. See General Guidance Concerning Completing Appendix B-5.

Technical Guidance
The entries in this item apply only for the five-year period starting January 1, 2014. In this item, the state establishes the post-eligibility rules that it will apply to waiver participants for whom eligibility has been determined using spousal impoverishment rules. In the case of individuals who do not have a community spouse as defined in §1924 of the Act, regular post-eligibility rules (as specified in Item B-5-e or Item B-5-f) apply.

The spousal impoverishment post-eligibility rules provide for a more generous community spouse and family allowance than the rules under 42 CFR §435.726 and 42 CFR §435.735.
The spousal protection rules also provide for a personal needs allowance (PNA) described in §1902(q)(1) of the Act for the needs of the institutionalized individual. This allowance is a "reasonable amount for clothes and other personal needs of the individual...while in an institution." For an institutionalized individual, this may be as low as $30 per month.
However, unlike the institutionalized individual whose room and board is covered under Medicaid, the personal needs of a waiver participant must include a reasonable amount for food, shelter, clothing and other customary living expenses. The minimum monthly PNA is not sufficient to meet these needs when the individual lives in the community.

Therefore, states that elect to serve HCBS waiver participants with community spouses under the §1924 spousal rules must use as the personal needs allowance either the maintenance amount which the state has elected under 42 CFR 435.726 or 42 CFR 435.735 (as appropriate), or an amount that the State can demonstrate is a reasonable amount to cover the individual's maintenance needs in the community. If the PNA amount differs from the amount specified for the individual under regular post-eligibility rules, explain in Item B-5-g-ii why this amount is reasonable to meet the needs of the participant. Also, specify the state’s policies with respect to the deduction of incurred expenses for necessary medical and remedial care not covered under the State plan.

Post Eligibility Treatment of Income Under 1915(b)/(c) Concurrent Waivers

Technical Guidance

Under the post-eligibility process, the income remaining after the required deductions are taken can only be applied to the cost of home and community-based waiver services. Excess income cannot be applied to the cost of regular Medicaid State plan services. This poses a problem in a capitated system because it is difficult to identify and separate 1915(c) waiver services for each individual.

Since excess income can only be applied to the cost of 1915(c) waiver services, the State may elect to use one of the following options regarding the application of excess income under a capitated system:

- The State could increase the amount of the waiver participant’s maintenance needs allowance to an amount equal to or greater than the amount of income an individual can have and be eligible under 42 CFR 435.217( for Miller Trust States this includes income that is placed in a Miller trust);
- The State could develop a method to carve out/identify the cost of home and community-based waiver services from the cost of other Medicaid services so that the individual’s patient liability is applied only to the cost of home and community-based waiver services; or
- The State could use the portion of the capitated payment rate that is attributable to home and community based waiver services as the “dollar” amount of waiver services that the individual is liable for since the capitated portion of the rate that is attributable to home and community based waiver services is the actual amount that the State pays to the managed care organization/entity for these services.

If the State elects to increase the maintenance needs allowance for the waiver participant, the State would provide this information in Appendix B-5, Post Eligibility Treatment of Income under the allowance for the maintenance needs of the waiver participant under the following formula, electing the appropriate sections based on the State Classification and whether or not the State is using the spousal impoverishment post eligibility rules.

If the State develops a method to carve out/identify the cost of home and community-based waiver services from the cost of other Medicaid services so that the individual’s patient liability is applied only to the cost of home and community-based waiver services, this methodology should be specified in Appendix B-5 under the allowance for the needs of the waiver participant.

If the State uses capitated payment rate that is attributable to home and community based waiver services as the “dollar” amount of waiver services that the individual is liable it must provide an explanation in Appendix B-5 under the allowance for the needs of the waiver participant that takes into account the following: Under a capitated system, the “benefit” becomes the amount the State is expending on behalf of the beneficiary, or the capitated payment and not necessarily the actual services that the individual receives. Therefore, States can isolate the amount of the capitation rate that applies to waiver services. When a State develops a capitation rate, factors that are used may include geographic area, age, target group, level or intensity of services. Thus, a State may have more than one capitation payment rate for the cost of home and community-based waiver services. If a State uses these factors in developing its rate, these amounts could be used for the amount of the waiver services that an individual uses in determining his/her patient liability.

CMS Review Criteria (Items B-5-b – B-5-g)

- The state has completed the appropriate Regular Post-Eligibility item, based on the selections made in Item B-5-a and Item B-4-a in Appendix B-4.
- For Regular Post Eligibility, the protected amounts comply with 42 CFR §435.726 or 42 CFR §435.735 as applicable.
- When the state imposes a limit on the amount of incurred medical or remedial care expenses that may be deducted, the limit is specified and is reasonable.
- For Spousal Impoverishment Post Eligibility, if the personal needs amount differs from the amount protected under regular post-eligibility rules, there is an explanation as to why the amount is reasonable to meet the maintenance needs of the waiver participant.

Appendix B-6: Evaluation/Reevaluation of Level of Care

Overview

In Appendix B-6, waiver level of care evaluation and reevaluation processes are specified. Only individuals who are determined to require an institutional level of care specified for the waiver may be enrolled in the waiver. The process that is used to make this determination for new waiver entrants is termed “evaluation.” The evaluation must find that there is a reasonable indication that the individual would need services in the appropriate level of care within the near future (one month or less). The periodic review of a waiver participant’s condition to verify that the individual continues to require the level of care is termed “reevaluation.”
Appendix B: Participant Access and Eligibility

Waiver level of care determinations must be consistent with those made for the appropriate institutional level of care under the State Plan. Level of care is typically assessed using a standardized instrument or form that evaluates and re-evaluates an individual’s need for the level of care. Most commonly, states utilize the same level of care evaluation instrument and procedures for the waiver as are used for hospital, NF, or ICF/IID services, as applicable. When an individual is determined not to require a level of care specified in the waiver, the person must be afforded the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing as provided in Appendix F-1.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix B-6

Item B-6-a: Reasonable Indication of Need for Services

Instructions

Specify: (a) the minimum number of services (at least one) that an individual must require in order to be determined to need waiver services and (b) the minimum frequency services must be needed - at least monthly or require monthly monitoring when services are furnished on less than a monthly basis. The state may establish a minimum frequency, other than monthly, that a participant must require services in order to be determined to need waiver services or require monthly monitoring when services are furnished on less than a monthly basis.

Technical Guidance

In order for an individual to be considered to require a level of care specified for the waiver, it must be determined that the person: (a) requires at least one waiver service (as evidenced by the service plan) and (b) requires the provision of waiver services at least monthly or, if less frequently, requires monthly monitoring (as documented in the service plan) to assure health and welfare. Individuals may not be enrolled in a waiver for the sole purpose of enabling them to secure Medicaid eligibility as members of the §435.217 group. Entrance to the waiver is contingent on a person’s requiring one or more of the services offered in the waiver in order to avoid institutionalization.

The need for the level of care specified for the waiver must be demonstrated by the individual’s needing one or more of the services offered by the waiver and the need to receive such services at least monthly. When services are not required on at least a monthly basis, the need for the level of care may instead be based on the need for at least monthly monitoring of the person’s health and welfare and include periodic “face-to-face” monitoring of the health and welfare of the participant. This monitoring must be consistent with the monitoring procedures as specified in Appendix D-2 of the application. Such monitoring may be conducted through the waiver or through another means (e.g., targeted case management). The need for monitoring must be specified in the person’s service plan and its performance recorded in the waiver record.

Post-entrance to the waiver, when a waiver participant is found not to be utilizing any waiver services for an extended period, the state should conduct a re-evaluation of level-of-care to reassess the need for waiver services.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver specifies that:

- An individual must require at least one waiver service.
- An individual must require the provision of waiver services monthly or other minimum frequency as established by the state or, if less frequently than monthly, require monthly monitoring to assure health and welfare.

Item B-6-b: Responsibility for Performing Evaluations and Reevaluations
Appendix B: Participant Access and Eligibility

Instructions
Select the entity that performs evaluations and reevaluations of level of care (i.e., the entity that makes the level of care determination).

Technical Guidance
The determination that an individual requires a level of care specified in the waiver may be made directly by the Medicaid agency or another entity that has been designated by the Medicaid agency. In the case of the latter, the Medicaid agency must oversee the performance of the other entity, including ensuring that applicable level of care criteria have been properly applied, and should describe this in Appendix A of the waiver application.

When different entities perform the initial evaluation of level of care and reevaluations, select the “other” choice and specify the entity that performs the initial evaluation and the entity that performs the reevaluation.

This item focuses on the entity that makes the level of care determination. Other entities (e.g., case management providers) may be responsible for performing assessments, gathering the information that is necessary to make this determination and submitting a level of care instrument or form to the state. Do not include such entities in the response to this item unless they also make the level of care determination. The role that such entities play in the level of care process may be described in Item B-6-h. Pre-entrance activities associated with the initial evaluation of level of care may not be claimed as a waiver service since Federal financial participation (FFP) for waiver services may only be claimed once a person has entered the waiver. The expenses for conducting such activities may be claimed as an administrative expense or, if provided in the State plan, under the coverage of Targeted Case Management services. Please note that administrative costs, necessary for the efficient administration of the Medicaid State Plan, must be in accordance with the CMS approved Medicaid cost allocation plan. Cost allocation plans are not approved via approval of the HCBS waiver application.

Item B-6-c: Qualifications of Individuals Performing Initial Evaluation

Instructions
In the text field, specify the educational/professional qualifications of individuals who perform the initial evaluation of level of care for waiver applicants.

Technical Guidance
42 CFR §441.303(c)(1) requires that the waiver specify the credentials (minimum qualifications) of level of care evaluators. The state has latitude in determining these credentials. However, the qualifications should be appropriate for the waiver’s target population. Examples might include a physician, registered nurse, licensed social worker, or qualified developmental disability professional. The qualifications of individuals who perform re-evaluations are specified in Item B-6-h.

CMS Review Criteria
The specified qualifications of evaluators are appropriate to the target groups specified in the waiver.

Item B-6-d: Level of Care Criteria

Instructions
In the text field, fully specify the level of care criteria that are used to evaluate and reevaluate whether an individual needs services through the waiver and that serve as the basis of the State’s level of care instrument/tool. Specify the level of care instrument/tool that is employed.

Technical Guidance

In this item specify the criteria that are used to evaluate/re-evaluate level of care. The description of the criteria should identify the factors that are assessed in evaluating level of care and the scoring system (if applicable) that is employed to determine level of care. Do not “paste” an instrument/tool or applicable protocols or regulations into the “text field” (when the web-based application is used, any material that is pasted into a text field will lose its underlying formatting). It is sufficient to identify the salient factors that are evaluated for level of care. The response may cite applicable state laws, regulations, and policies. When such citations are made, the documents must be available through the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable) to CMS upon request. Also specify the instruments/tools that are used (e.g., by referencing the name of the instrument or form or the name of the automated system).

States should keep in mind that the ICF/IID level of care instrument for waiver or institution should not limit participation to those with certain conditions but instead should encompass persons with intellectual disability and related conditions, as provided in 42 CFR §435.1009. (See discussion in section B-1-a). Waiver participation may be limited to individuals with certain conditions (e.g., autism), but those conditions must be explicitly specified in Appendix B-1-b, not embedded in a level of care evaluation.

When ICF/IID level of care is evaluated, it is not required that a physician recommend, certify, or verify that the individual should receive the level of care furnished through the waiver. Similarly, a physician certification or recommendation is not required for nursing facility level of care.

CMS Review Criteria

- The factors used to evaluate and re-evaluate level of care are consistent with and relevant to the level(s) of care specified for the waiver.
- ICF IID level of care is consistent with 42 CFR 435.1009, persons with IID or related conditions. The level of care evaluation tool is functional, and does not limit participation to individuals with certain conditions.

Item B-6-e: Level of Care Instrument(s)

Instructions

Select whether the instrument/tool that is used to evaluate level of care for the waiver differs from the instrument/tool used to evaluate institutional level of care. If the tools are different, furnish the information specified.

Technical Guidance

When the waiver level of care instrument/tool differs from the instrument/tool used to determine institutional level-of-care, 42 CFR §441.303(c)(1) requires the state to describe how and why they differ and explain how the outcome of the level of care determination under the waiver is reliable, valid, and fully comparable to the outcome for institutional evaluation. In particular, the state must be able to demonstrate that individuals who meet level of care via the application of the waiver instrument also would meet level of care when the institutional instrument is employed. Usually, states employ the same instrument/tool to evaluate level of care for the waiver and institutional services.
Appendix B: Participant Access and Eligibility

CMS Review Criteria
The waiver documents and provides evidence that when a different level of care instrument/tool is used for the waiver and institutional services, the outcomes of the evaluations are equivalent.

Item B-6-f: Process for Level of Care Evaluation/ Reevaluation

Instructions
In the text field, describe the process for evaluating waiver applicants for their need for the level of care under the waiver. If the reevaluation process differs from the evaluation process, describe the differences.

Technical Guidance
The description of the process to evaluate/reevaluate the need for a level of care specified in the waiver should include a description of the assessments that are performed and the information that is gathered as part of the process and who is responsible for performing or arranging for these assessments or obtaining the necessary additional information. The process used for the re-evaluation of level of care does need not exactly match the process used for the initial evaluation of level of care, although the level of care criteria that are applied must be the same. For example, it may be necessary to obtain a psychological assessment to determine that a person who has applied for services in a developmental disabilities waiver program has intellectual disability. However, a state need not require that such an assessment be performed as part of re-evaluation once the person’s diagnosis of intellectual disability has been confirmed. For re-evaluation, a state’s criteria may take into consideration the needs of the individual without the support provided through the waiver. When the re-evaluation process differs from the initial evaluation process, it must be sufficient to confirm that the person continues to require the level of care specified in the waiver, including the continuing need for the provision of waiver services. A state may not provide for the presumptive continuation of an individual on the waiver. The re-evaluation process must provide for an affirmative finding that the individual continues to require the level of care.

CMS Review Criteria
- The waiver describes the types of assessments and information that is used in support of the determination of level of care and who is responsible for ensuring that this information is obtained.
- When the re-evaluation process differs from the evaluation process, appropriate information is gathered to confirm that the waiver participant continues to require a level of care specified in the waiver.

Item B-6-g: Re-evaluation Schedule

Instructions
Select the minimum frequency for the performance of level of care re-evaluation.

Technical Guidance
42 CFR §441.303(c)(4) requires that the state specify how often level of care re-evaluations are performed. In response to this item, specify the minimum frequency for the performance of level of care re-evaluations. Level of care must be re-evaluated no less frequently than annually. Re-evaluation of level of care may be performed at any time due to a change in a person’s condition or service needs.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver specifies that level of care will be re-evaluated at least annually.

Item B-6-h: Qualifications of Individuals Who Perform Re-evaluations

Instructions

Select whether the qualifications of individuals who perform level of care re-evaluations are the same as the qualifications of the persons who perform initial evaluations. If the qualifications are different, specify the qualifications of individuals who perform re-evaluations in the text field.

Technical Guidance

Individuals who may perform re-evaluations need not have the same qualifications as persons who perform initial evaluations. For example, a state may require that a physician perform the initial evaluation but permit a nurse to perform the re-evaluation. The qualifications should be appropriate for the waiver’s target population.

CMS Review Criteria

The qualifications of individuals who perform re-evaluations are appropriate for the target groups specified in the waiver.

Item B-6-i: Procedures to Ensure Timely Re-Evaluations

Instructions

In the text field, specify the procedures that are used to ensure timely re-evaluations of level of care.

Technical Guidance

42 CFR §441.303(c)(4) requires that the state specify its procedures to ensure that level of care re-evaluations are performed on a timely basis. Timely re-evaluation means that the re-evaluation is completed prior to the end date of the previous evaluation to prevent a break in the continuity of a participant’s services. Eligibility for waiver services hinges on the determination of the need for a level of care specified in the waiver. If a re-evaluation is not performed timely, it may have an adverse impact on the participant. In addition, the state will not be able to claim FFP for the services furnished to the participant until waiver eligibility is restored and may not claim FFP for services delivered during the period in which level of care has lapsed. Examples of possible procedures include the use of tickler files, edits in computer systems, or components parts of case management.

CMS Review Criteria

The procedures specified ensure that re-evaluations will be performed on a timely basis.

Item B-6-j: Maintenance of Evaluation/Reevaluation Records

Instructions
In the text field, specify the location(s) where records of evaluations and reevaluations of level of care are maintained.

Technical Guidance

Records of waiver participant evaluations and re-evaluations must be kept in written (printed) or electronically-retrievable form for a minimum period of three years after the end of the waiver year when the evaluation or re-evaluation was performed. State law may dictate that these records be kept for a longer period. These records must be readily retrievable, including when requested by CMS. As provided in 42 CFR §441.303(c)(3), the location(s) where records of evaluations and reevaluations of level of care are maintained must be specified in the waiver. Records may be maintained at the Medicaid agency, the operating agency (if applicable), in case manager records, and/or in other locations (e.g., waiver provider offices). It is advisable that a set of records be maintained by a state agency (or, if applicable, by a state contractor) rather than only locally in order to ensure that the records are retrievable.

Quality Improvement: Level of Care

Level of Care (LOC) Determination

The state demonstrates that it implements the processes and instrument(s) specified in its approved waiver for evaluating/re-evaluating and applicant’s/waiver participant’s level of care consistent with care provided in a hospital, NF, or ICF/IID.

An evaluation for LOC is provided to all applicants for whom there is reasonable indication that services may be needed in the future.

The processes and instruments described in the approved waiver are applied appropriately and according to the approved description to determine participant LOC.

Instructions

The QIS must describe how the state Medicaid Agency will determine that each waiver assurance (and its associated component elements) is met. The waiver assurance and component elements are listed above. For each component element, this description must include:

- Activities or processes that are related to discovery and remediation, i.e., review, assessment or monitoring processes; who conducts the discovery or remediation activities and with what frequency. These monitoring activities provide the foundation for quality improvement by generating information regarding compliance, potential problems and individual corrective actions. The information can be aggregated and analyzed to measure the overall system performance in meeting the waiver assurances. The types of information used to measure performance, should include relevant quality measures/indicators.

- The entity or entities responsible for reviewing the results (data and information) of discovery and remediation activities to determine whether the performance of the system reflects compliance with the assurances; and,

- The frequency at which system performance is measured.

Technical Guidance
This QIS element focuses on discovery and remediation activities, that is, processes to assess, review, evaluate or otherwise analyze a program, process, operation, or outcome. Specifically, the evidence produced as a result of discovery and remediation activities should provide a clear picture of the state’s compliance in meeting an assurance.

CMS Review Criteria

- The discovery of compliance with this assurance and the remediation of identified problems must address:
  - How the Medicaid agency assures compliance with the following level of care subassurances:
  - An evaluation for LOC is provided to all applicants for whom there is reasonable indication that services may be needed in the future.
  - The LOC of enrolled participants are reevaluated at least annually or as specified in the approved waiver.
  - The processes and instruments described in the approved waiver are applied appropriately and according to the approved description to determine participant LOC;
  - How frequently oversight is conducted; and
  - The entity (or entities) responsible for the discovery and remediation activities.

Appendix B-7: Freedom of Choice

Overview

As provided in §1915(c)(2)(C) of the Act and 42 CFR §441.302(d), individuals have freedom of choice in the selection of home and community-based services or institutional services. The individual’s choice must be documented during entrance into the waiver program. When an individual is not given freedom of choice of institutional or home and community-based services, the person must be afforded the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing as provided in Appendix F-1.

A state must inform the person of the feasible alternatives under the waiver so that the individual (or the person’s legal representative) can make an informed choice. Feasible alternatives may only be determined after the assessment of an individual's needs and an evaluation of level of care. Feasible alternatives means the types of waiver services that would be available to the individual to address the person’s assessed needs, subject to the development of the person’s service plan. It is not expected that an individual will be offered entrance to the waiver unless the assessment indicates that person’s needs (including assuring the person’s health and welfare) can be met through the provision of waiver services in combination with State plan, other formal and informal supports, and appropriate safeguards. Appropriate safeguards may include ensuring that the individual is informed of alternatives and risks and responsibilities, as evidenced, for example, by the execution of a risk agreement (see Appendix D-1). In this Appendix, the process by which individuals are afforded freedom of choice is specified.
Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix B-7

Item B-7-a: Procedures

Instructions

In the text field, describe the procedures that are followed to inform the individual (or the person’s legal representative) of the feasible alternatives under the waiver and to document the individual’s choice of home and community-based services or institutional services.

Technical Guidance

42 CFR §441.303(d) requires that the waiver describe how eligible individuals are informed of the feasible alternatives available under the waiver and how such individuals are permitted to choose either institutional services or home and community-based services. In addition to describing the procedures for how these activities are performed, the description also should identify the entity or individual responsible for performing these activities. The procedures should include ensuring that the individual (or the individual’s legal representative) exercises an informed choice. This may entail orally explaining the feasible alternatives and the right to exercise freedom of choice or communicating with the individual through alternative means. A record must be established that documents the individual’s choice. Include in the description the name of the form/document that is used to document that the person has been informed of feasible alternatives and has been permitted to choose between waiver and institutional services.

CMS Review Criteria

- The procedures described ensure that individuals are provided information about the services that are available under the waiver and that they have the choice of institutional or home and community-based services prior to the enrollment into the waiver program.
- The waiver identifies the entity or individual responsible for providing information about feasible alternatives and informing the individual, or their legal representative, about their freedom of choice between waiver and institutional services.

Item B-7-b: Maintenance of Forms

Instructions

In the text field, specify the locations where copies of the forms that document that the participant has been informed of feasible alternatives and has exercised choice in the selection of waiver or institutional services are maintained.

Technical Guidance

States are not required to submit copies of the form that documents that an individual has been informed of the feasible alternatives under the waiver and has exercised freedom of choice in the selection of waiver or institutional services. However, the form (or forms) identified in Item B-7-c must be available from the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable) to CMS upon request.

The requirements for maintaining records concerning freedom of choice are the same as those that apply to the maintenance of documentation of level of care evaluations and re-evaluations.
Appendix B-8: Access to Services by Limited English Proficient Persons

Overview

Recipients of Federal assistance (including Medicaid) are required to provide oral and written assistance to persons who are limited English proficient (LEP) to aid them to access and use services in accordance with 42 CFR 435.905(b).

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix B-8

Instructions

In text field, describe the accommodations that are made for LEP persons who seek waiver services and post-entrance for LEP waiver participants.

Technical Guidance

Oral and written assistance to LEP persons may take various forms, including hiring bilingual staff, arranging for interpreters (interpreter services may be offered as a waiver service), and translating written materials when a significant number or percentage of program beneficiaries require information in a language other than English.

CMS Review Criteria

A variety of accommodations are described, both in conjunction with the waiver entrance process and for communicating with LEP persons on an ongoing basis (e.g., by providing for bilingual case managers).
Appendix C: Participant Services

Brief Overview

Appendix C specifies the services that are provided in the waiver. The Appendix has four components:

- Appendix C-1 is a summary listing of the services covered in the waiver;
- Appendix C-2 contains general service specifications;
- In Appendix C-3, the specifications of each waiver service are detailed; and,
- In Appendix C-4, the limitations (if any) that apply to the overall amount of waiver services are specified.

CMS policies and guidance concerning the coverage of waiver services are discussed in detail in the instructions for Appendix C-3.

Web-Based Application

The web-based waiver application combines Appendix C-1 and Appendix C-3 into a single module. In the web-based application, services are added one-by-one and a master list of services is created that is the equivalent of Appendix C-1. In addition, the web-based application uses the master list of services to populate the tables in Appendix J-2 that must be completed in order to calculate Factor D in the cost-neutrality demonstration. In addition, there also are linkages between the Appendix C-1/C-3 module and Appendix E with respect to waiver services that may be participant-directed.

Appendix C-1: Summary of Services Covered

Overview

In Appendix C-1, the services offered under the waiver are listed. Waiver services are categorized into four types. Each of these services is further specified in Appendix C-3. When case management is not provided as a waiver service, information also must be provided about how case management is furnished to waiver participants.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix C-1

Item C-1-a: Waiver Services Summary

Instructions

In the table, indicate whether the waiver includes one or more of the listed statutory services. If a statutory service has an alternate title, insert the title. Also list the titles of other waiver services, extended state plan services, and supports for participant direction that are covered in the waiver (as applicable). See the technical guidance for a discussion of the classification of waiver services by type. In the web-based application, drop-down menus are used to select and classify services.

Technical Guidance

This table serves as a master summary list of the services covered in the waiver. A service specification template (Appendix C-3) must be completed for each service listed in the summary. In addition, this table serves as the basis for the list of waiver services that are included in the estimate of the average per capita cost of waiver services in Appendix J-2 of the
Appendix C: Participant Services

The table is divided into four parts: (a) services that are specifically authorized or otherwise included in §1915(c) of the Act (“statutory services”); (b) “other services” not specified in the statute for which the state requests the authority to provide under the provisions of 42 CFR §440.180(b)(9); (c) extended state plan services; and (d) supports for participant direction. Each of these classifications is described as follows:

1. Statutory Services

This table lists each of the services that are specifically authorized or otherwise included in §1915(c) of the Act. The core definitions of these services (included in the attachment to this Appendix) describe the commonly understood scope and nature of each of these services. Indicate whether the waiver includes these services. The scope of the service (as specified in Appendix C-3) does not have to exactly match the core service definition. So long as the specified scope of the service aligns with the core service definition, the service is considered a statutory service. Similarly, it is not necessary that the title for the service be the same as statutory title. For example, if the scope of case management services aligns with the core definition, the waiver is considered to include this service, even though the state may use “care management” or “support coordination” as its title. When an alternative title is used, enter it in the text field provided. Also use the alternative title in the service specification template in Appendix C-3 and in the cost neutrality calculation table in Appendix J.

When case management services are not included as a waiver service, complete Items C-1-b and C-1-c (if applicable) (see below). Please note that when case management is provided as an administrative function, administrative costs must be in accordance with the approved cost allocation plan. Cost allocation plans are not approved via this waiver application.

2. Other Services

42 CFR §440.180(b)(9) permits a state to request the authority to offer “other” services that are not expressly authorized in the statute as long as it can be demonstrated that the service to be necessary to assist a waiver participant to avoid institutionalization and function in the community. In this part of the table, list the services that are offered in the waiver that are not statutory services. However, in this list, do not include “extended state plan” or “supports for participant direction” services, even though they are considered to be types of “other services.” These services are listed in the next two parts of the table. Some non-statutory services are included in the core service definitions (e.g., assisted living, personal emergency response system). However, the core service definitions are by no means inclusive of all the types of services and supports that states may offer in waivers. Again, if necessary, insert additional rows into this part of the table to accommodate all the other services offered through the waiver.

3. Extended State Plan Services

The services included in a waiver must not duplicate services that are provided under the State plan. However, through a waiver, a state may augment the services that it provides under the State plan. When a state wants to enhance the amount, duration or frequency of a State plan service but otherwise the scope of the service is the same as the State plan service, the service is considered an “extended State plan” service. For example, under a waiver, the number of home health aide visits that are allowed under the State plan can be augmented. The amount chargeable as waiver services is the amount incurred after any limits in State plan services are exhausted. In this part of the table, list any other extended State plan services that are included in the waiver. In the service specifications for these services, note that the service is covered under the State plan and describe how the amount, duration or frequency of the service differs from the State plan. While a waiver service may be similar in scope to a State plan service, it would be considered an “other” service rather than an extended State Plan service if the service delivery modality (i.e., availability of participant direction) is different under the waiver.

Services that a state chooses not to cover under their State plan (optional state plan services) but are included under a waiver, are considered “other” services or statutory services (e.g., personal care) as the case may be, not extended state plan services. When a service is covered under the waiver that is similar to but has a different scope and/or uses different types of providers than the service covered under the State plan, it is considered an “other” service, not an extended state plan service. A service is not considered to be an extended State plan service if it cannot be reimbursed in whole or in part under the State plan.

If an extended state plan coverage is proposed in order to provide a service in an amount greater than permitted under the State plan, the coverage may only apply to adults (individuals age 21 and older). When children are served in a waiver, the services that are included in the waiver must take into account the Early and Periodic Screening, Diagnostic and Treatment (EPSDT) benefit requirements. Federal requirements concerning EPSDT mandate that Medicaid eligible children receive all medically necessary services coverable under §1905(a) of the Act regardless of whether such services are specifically included in the State plan. The waiver may not provide for the coverage of services that could be furnished to children under EPSDT. If a waiver targets children exclusively, it may not provide for the coverage of any service that can be offered through the State plan.

4. Supports for Participant Direction

As discussed in more detail in the instructions for Appendix E, when a state provides the opportunity for participants to direct some or all of their waiver services, the state must make available certain supports to waiver participants who do so. These supports include “financial management services” and “information and assistance” to support waiver participants in directing and managing their services. The core service definitions include “financial management services” and “information and assistance in support of participant direction.”

When the waiver provides opportunities for participants to direct some or all of their waiver services, indicate in this part of the table whether either of these supports (along with any other supports for participant direction as defined by the state) are covered as waiver services. Please note that these supports for participant direction do not necessarily have to be provided as a distinct waiver service (for example, supports for participant direction may be offered in conjunction with the provision of waiver case management services. Both types of supports also may be furnished as administrative activities rather than as waiver services. When these supports are not covered as waiver services, their provision is described in Appendix E.

§1915(b)/§1915(c) Concurrent Waivers: §1915(b)(3) Services

When the HCBS waiver operates concurrently with a §1915(b) waiver, the state may have received CMS approval to offer additional services under the provisions of §1915(b)(3) of the Act. Because the provision of such services is authorized under the §1915(b) waiver authority rather than the §1915(c) waiver authority, do not include the additional §1915(b)(3) services in the listing of HCBS waiver services. Such services are specified in the §1915(b) waiver application and subject to separate CMS review and approval. Similarly, when the §1915(b) waiver permits managed care entities to use savings in order to provide alternative services to beneficiaries, do not include such services in the listing of HCBS waiver services. Also note that any additional services provided to §1915(c) waiver participants as part of a capitated arrangement under §1915(b), are provided without additional cost to the §1915(c) waiver — the cost to the §1915(c) waiver is the capitated rate, whether or not additional services are
Appendix C: Participant Services

CMS Review Criteria

- Services have been properly classified.
- There is no duplication of State Medicaid plan services.
- Non-statutory (“other”) services are necessary for assisting waiver participants to avoid institutionalization and function in the community.

Item C-1-b. Alternate Provision of Case Management Services to Waiver Participants

Instructions

Select the payment authority or authorities under which case management functions are conducted and complete Item C-1-c as applicable, including an indication as to whether case management is provided as a waiver service.

Technical Guidance

In the context of an HCBS waiver, case management usually entails (but is not limited to) conducting the following functions:

- Evaluation and/or re-evaluation of level of care;
- Assessment and/or reassessment of the need for waiver services;
- Development and/or review of the service plan;
- Coordination of multiple services and/or among multiple providers;
- Linking waiver participants to other Federal, state and local programs;
- Monitoring the implementation of the service plan and participant health and welfare,
- Addressing problems in service provision;
- Responding to participant crises; and
- For waivers with cost or service duration limits, monitoring to detect and resolve situations when the needs of an individual might exceed the limit(s) to ensure health and welfare of waiver participants.

Case management may be covered as a waiver service. When case management is covered as a waiver service, functions that are performed prior to the entrance of an individual to the waiver (e.g., initial evaluation of level of care) may not be billed as a waiver service (however, they potentially may be claimed as an administrative expense or billed to Targeted Case Management).

Case management also may be covered as a State plan service (Targeted Case Management) under §1915(g)(1) of the Act. When case management is covered as a waiver service, its scope and other information about the service is described in Appendix C-3. When case management is not covered as a waiver service, select the payment authority under which waiver case management functions are provided and complete Item C-1-c. This information assists CMS in understanding the overall structure of the waiver. In rare instances (e.g., small, highly specialized waiver programs), case management may not be furnished as a distinct activity but instead is furnished as a component of other waiver services. If this is the case, select “not applicable.”. Case management may also be covered as an administrative activity. States must ensure that costs are in accordance with the approved cost allocation plan. CMS does not approve cost allocation plans via the waiver application.

Item C-1-c: Delivery of Case Management Services
Instructions

In the text field, specify the entity or entities that conduct case management functions on behalf of waiver participants. Do not complete if case management is a service covered through the waiver and defined in C-1/C-3. In addition, if provided via another authority, please describe care coordination.

Overview

Appendix C-2 addresses topics that typically cut-across several waiver services rather than applying only to specific, individual services. In part, this appendix is designed to relieve states of having to repeat information multiple times in each service’s specification (e.g., a requirement that a direct service worker must undergo a criminal background investigation). Additional topics that are addressed include the provision of services in facilities that are subject to the requirements of the Keys Amendment (§1616(e) of the Social Security Act) and whether a state pays legally responsible individuals, relatives and/or legal guardians for the provision of waiver services.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix C-2

Item C-2-a: Criminal History/Background Investigations

Instructions

When individuals who provide waiver services must undergo a criminal history/background investigation, select the “yes” response and specify in the text field the types of positions (e.g., personal assistants) for which such investigations are required, the scope of the required investigation (e.g., state or national background check), and the process that is employed to ensure that mandatory investigations have been conducted, including the entity responsible for conducting the investigation. If the state does not require that such investigations be conducted for any type of position that furnishes waiver services, select the “no” response.

Technical Guidance

As a safeguard, most states require that individuals who provide direct support and/or other services to waiver participants undergo a pre-employment criminal history check and/or background investigation. Here, identify the types of positions for which such checks or investigations are required, the entity that is responsible for conducting checks or investigations (e.g., provider agency), and the nature of such investigations. When investigations or checks are required, explain how the state ensures that they have been conducted in accordance with the state’s policies (e.g., as part of the certification of workers or as part of the periodic review of provider agencies). The response may cite applicable state laws, regulations, or policies that pertain to this topic. The material cited must be readily available through the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable) upon request by CMS. When criminal history and/or background investigations are required, this information need not be repeated in the provider qualifications section of the applicable service specifications in Appendix C-3.

CMS Review Criteria

When criminal history/background investigations are required, the waiver specifies:
Appendix C: Participant Services

- The types of positions that must undergo such investigations;
- The entity responsible for conducting the checks or investigations;
- The scope of the required investigation; and
- The state’s process to ensure that mandatory investigations have been conducted.

Item C-2-b: Abuse Registry Screening

Instructions

If abuse registry screening is required, select the “yes” response and specify in the text field: (a) the entity (entities) responsible for maintaining the abuse registry; (b) the type of positions (e.g., personal assistants, case managers) for whom abuse registry screenings must be conducted; and, (c) the process for ensuring that mandatory screenings have been conducted, including the entity responsible for conducting the screening against the registry. If abuse registry screening is not conducted, select the “no” response.

Technical Guidance

As an additional safeguard, many states maintain abuse registries and require that workers who furnish direct services to waiver participants and other positions to undergo pre-employment screening through such a registry. This item asks whether such screening is required and, if so, requests that the state provide information about such screening. State laws, regulations, or policies cited in the response to this item must be readily available through the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable) when requested by CMS. When abuse registry screening is required, this information need not be repeated in the provider qualifications section of the applicable service specifications in Appendix C-3.

CMS Review Criteria

When abuse registry screening is required, the waiver specifies:

- The entity (entities) responsible for maintaining the abuse registry;
- The type of staff for whom abuse registry screenings must be conducted;
- The entity or entities responsible for conducting the screening against the registry; and,
- The State process for ensuring that mandatory screenings have been conducted.

Item C-2-c: Facilities Subject to §1616(e) of the Social Security Act

Instructions

With publication of final regulations and the addition of the new section Appendix C-5 regarding home and community-based setting requirements, this section of the waiver application is no longer needed. Therefore, states should not complete this section C-2-c, and all instructions and technical guidance for this section of the application have been removed from this version of the Technical Guide that includes changes implemented in 2014. States with existing approved 1915(c) waivers will need to complete the new section C-5 upon renewal or amendment. Eventually, once all existing waivers have the new section C-5 incorporated into their approved existing waivers, CMS will delete this section from the waiver application. In the interim, if a waiver provides services in residential facilities serving four or more unrelated individuals, states should only enter in the text box following Appendix C-2-c-ii: “Required information is contained in response to C-5” and complete Appendix C-5 for all settings that meet the HCB settings requirements.
Discussion: Items C-2-d and C-2-e

Items C-2-d and C-2-e address similar topics but are distinct. Both concern state policies regarding payment for the provision of waiver services by individuals who are related to the participant (and, in the case of Item C-2-e, a legal guardian of a participant). However, the scope of Item C-2-d is narrow. It solely concerns payment for the provision of personal care or similar services by legally responsible individuals (e.g., a parent of minor child or a spouse). The instructions for Item C-2-d below define “personal care or similar services.”

Item C-2-e addresses state policies regarding the payment for the provision of any type of waiver service by a relative or legal guardian, including the provision of services other than personal care by legally responsible individuals (keeping in mind that the provision of personal care or similar services by such persons has been addressed in Item C-2-d). In this item, a state specifies whether it permits payments to relatives or legal guardians for waiver services and, if so, any conditions or limitations that the state places on such payments. For example, a state may decide to make payments to relatives or legal guardians only in certain circumstances, for limited periods of time, or permit payment to be made only to specified types of relatives (e.g., relatives who do not reside in the same household as the participant).

It is up to the state to decide whether to provide for either type of payment and, when such payments are made, to specify the circumstances when they are permitted. In the Appendix C-3 service specification template, there are check-offs as to whether the state allows for the provision of a service by a legally responsible individual and/or a relative/legal guardian. The conditions on payment specified in Items C-2-d and C-2-e apply to these check-offs. For example, if a state provides in Item C-2-e that a relative may furnish waiver transportation services only when there is no other provider available, then that condition applies when “relative/legal guardian” is checked as a potential provider of the transportation service in Appendix C-3.

Whenever a legally responsible individual or relative/legal guardian is paid for the provision of a waiver service, the person must meet the provider qualifications that apply to a service and there must be a properly-executed provider agreement. In addition, other requirements such as the proper documentation and monitoring of the provision of services also apply.

Item C-2-d: Provision of Personal Care or Similar Services by Legally Responsible Individuals

Instructions

Select whether the waiver provides for extraordinary care payments to legally responsible individuals for the provision of personal care or similar services. If so, specify: (a) the types of legally responsible individual(s) who may be paid to furnish such services and the services they may provide; (b) applicable state policies that specify the circumstances when payment may be authorized for extraordinary care by a legally responsible individual and how the State ensures that the provision of services by a legally responsible individual is in the best interest of the participant; and, (c) the controls that are used to ensure that payments are made only for services rendered.

Technical Guidance

CMS policy is that payments for personal care or similar services delivered by legally responsible individuals (as defined in state law but typically the parent of a minor child or a spouse) are not eligible for Federal financial participation. Legally responsible individuals do not include the parent of an adult beneficiary (including a parent who also may be a legal
Appendix C: Participant Services

42 CFR §440.167 prohibits FFP for payments to legally responsible individuals for the provision of State plan personal care services. This prohibition is based on the presumption that legally responsible individuals may not be paid for supports that they are ordinarily obligated to provide. See also Section 4442.3.B.1 of the State Medicaid Manual.

Through an HCBS waiver, a state may elect to make payment for personal care or similar services that are rendered by legally responsible individuals when such services are deemed extraordinary care so long as the state specifies satisfactory criteria for authorizing such payments. The criteria must include how the state will distinguish extraordinary from ordinary care. By extraordinary, CMS means care exceeding the range of activities that a legally responsible individual would ordinarily perform in the household on behalf of a person without a disability or chronic illness of the same age, and which are necessary to assure the health and welfare of the participant and avoid institutionalization.

States are not required to, but may also specify other limitations, such as specific circumstances under which legally responsible individuals may be paid providers. Such limitations could include the lack of other providers who are available to serve the participant during periods when the legally responsible individual would otherwise be absent from the home and, thereby, must remain in the home to care for the participant or when the specific needs of the participant can only be met by a legally responsible individual. In any case, providing for payments to legally responsible individuals is a state option, not a Federal requirement.

In the context of this item, personal care or similar services mean: (a) personal care (assistance with ADLs or IADLs) whether furnished in the home or the community and however titled by the state in the waiver (e.g., personal assistance, attendant care, etc.) and (b) closely related services such as home health aide, homemaker, chore and companion services.

When a state provides for the payment to legally responsible individuals for extraordinary care, the service must meet all the waiver criteria required when delivered by a customary provider, as well as satisfy some additional protections. The legally responsible individual must meet the provider qualifications (as specified in Appendix C-3) that the state has established for the personal care or similar services for which payment may be made, and the state must conduct monitoring of such services as provided in Appendix D-2, including the required documentation and assurance that the services are delivered in accordance with the service plan. In addition, such arrangements require the proper execution of a provider agreement. State policies should include additional safeguards such as:

- Determining that the provision of personal care or similar services by a legally responsible individual is in the best interests of the waiver participant. A state should consider establishing safeguards when the legally responsible individual has decision-making authority over the selection of providers of waiver services to guard against self-referral.

- Limiting the amount of services that a legally responsible individual may furnish. For example, a state may decide to limit the amount to no more than 40 hours in a week and thereby take into account the amount of care that a legally responsible individual ordinarily would provide. When there is such a limitation, it should be reflected in the limitations section of the service specification in Appendix C-3.

- Implementing payment review procedures to ensure that the services for which payment is made have been rendered in accordance with the service plan and the conditions that the state has placed on the provision of such services.

- Addressing other foreseeable risks that might attend the provision of services by legally responsible individuals.

Instructions: Version 3.5 HCBS Waiver Application

responsible individuals. In addition, states should be aware that unless the waiver uses institutional eligibility rules that disregard the family income of a child waiver participant, paying a legally responsible relative may affect the child’s eligibility for Medicaid.

To summarize, when a state provides for payment to legally responsible individuals for the provision of personal care or similar services, the services will be equivalent to services supplied by other types of providers, with some additional protections. The waiver must specify:

- Whether payment is made to the parent(s) of minor children, spouses, or both or other (as defined by state law);
- The waiver personal care or similar services for which payment will be made;
- How the state distinguishes extraordinary care from ordinary care and any limitations of the circumstances under which payment will be authorized;
- Limitations on the amount of services for which payment will be made;
- How it is established that the provision of personal care or similar services by a legally responsible individual is in the best interests of the participant; and,
- How it is determined that payments are made for services rendered.

CMS Review Criteria

When the waiver provides for the payment for personal care or similar services to legally responsible individuals for extraordinary care, the waiver specifies:

- The types of legally responsible individuals to whom payment may be made;
- The waiver personal care or similar services for which payment may be made;
- The method for determining that the amount of personal care or similar services provided by legally responsible individual is “extraordinary care,” exceeding the ordinary care that would be provided to a person without a disability of the same age;
- Limitations on the amount of personal care or similar services for which payment may be made;
- How it is established that the provision of personal care or similar services by a legally responsible individual is in the best interests of the participant; and,
- The procedures that are used to ensure that payments are made for services rendered.

Item C-2-e: State Policies Concerning Payment for Waiver Services Furnished by Relatives/Legal Guardians

Instructions

This item concerns state policies regarding payment for waiver services rendered by relatives and/or legal guardians that do not fall within the scope of Item C-2-d. Select whether the state makes payments to relatives or legal guardians for any waiver service (besides personal care or a similar service furnished by a legally responsible individual as described in C-2-d). If the state makes payments to relatives and/or legal guardians for waiver services, select one of the next three choices and provide the additional information under the selected choice.

Technical Guidance

At the option of the state, waiver services may be provided by a relative and/or legal guardian of the participant. When responding to this item, keep in mind that Item C-2-d addresses extraordinary care payments to legally responsible individuals who furnish personal care or similar services to a waiver participant.  For the purposes of this item, legally responsible individuals are considered to be a type of “relative” with respect to payments for the provision of waiver services other than personal care or similar services. When a relative or legal guardian may be paid to provide waiver services, the relative or legal guardian must meet the provider qualifications that have been specified for the service. Services must be monitored as provided in Appendix D-2 and there must be a properly executed provider agreement.

This item presents four response choices as follows:

- No Payments. A state may elect not to make payments to relatives or legal guardians for the provision of any waiver services.

- Specific Circumstances. A state may elect to pay relatives or legal guardians for the provision of specified waiver services only in specific circumstances. Such circumstances must be specified by the state. Specific circumstances might include: (a) the lack of a qualified provider in remote areas of the state; (b) the lack of a qualified provider who can furnish services at necessary times and places; (c) the unique ability of a relative or legal guardian to meet the needs of a person; and/or, (d) other circumstances specified by the state.

When this choice is selected, the waiver must specify the following:

- The types of relatives or legal guardians that may be paid to furnish waiver services. For example, a state may specify that relatives may be paid to furnish services but not legal guardians. The state may specify that only relatives who do not live in the same household as the participant may be paid to furnish services. A state may specify that certain types of relatives may be paid to furnish services (e.g., grandparents of the participant) but others may not (e.g., legally responsible individuals). A state may provide that legally responsible individuals may be paid to furnish services (other than personal care or similar services, which have been addressed in Item C-2-d) that require specialized skills (e.g., nursing or physical therapy), provided that the legally responsible individual is not legally obligated to furnish such services.

- The types of waiver services for which payment may be made to a relative or legal guardian. Non-legally responsible individuals may be permitted to furnish personal care or similar services.

- The specific circumstances when payment may be made to a relative or legal guardian. The waiver also must describe the method for determining when these circumstances apply.

- When payment may be made to a legal guardian, the waiver should include safeguards for determining that the provision of services by a legal guardian are in the best interests of the waiver participant, especially when the legal guardian exercises decision making authority on behalf of the participant in the selection of waiver providers.

- The procedures that are followed to ensure that payment is made only for services rendered, and that services are rendered in the best interest of the individual.

In Appendix C-3, there is the opportunity to select whether a waiver service may be provided by a legally responsible individual or a relative/legal guardian. When this choice has been selected, the selection in Appendix C-3 is qualified by the response to this item (i.e., “relative/legal guardian” means the types that are specified in this item). It is not necessary to repeat the information provided in response to this item in the service.
Appendix C: Participant Services

specifications.

• Specific Circumstances Do Not Apply. A state may provide that relatives or legal guardians are permitted to be paid for rendering waiver services but not limit payment for such services to specific circumstances. That is, provided that the relative otherwise meets the qualifications to provide a service, the state will make payment to the relative or legal guardian. When this selection is made:
  - Specify any limitations on the types of relatives or legal guardians who may furnish services (e.g., whether legally responsible individuals are excluded).
  - In Appendix C-3, for each waiver service that a relative or legal guardian may furnish, check off relative/legal guardian as a provider type. When relative/legal guardian is not checked off in Appendix C-3, the state does not allow relatives or legal guardians to be paid to furnish the service. For example, if this selection has been made in Item C-2-e and transportation is the only service that has been checked off in Appendix C-3, then only the relatives or legal guardians specified here may be paid to furnish transportation and they may not be paid to provide any other waiver services.
  - Specify the procedures that have been established to ensure that payment is made only for services rendered.

• Other Policy. Select this choice when either of the foregoing two choices does not accommodate the state’s policies. For example, the state may restrict payment for waiver services to specific circumstances in the case of some services or certain types of relatives or legal guardians but not in the case of other services or other types of relatives or legal guardians. When this choice is selected, the information provided in the text field should parallel that required in the foregoing choices, depending on whether specific or extraordinary circumstance are involved.

CMS Review Criteria

When the waiver provides for the payment of services furnished by relatives or legal guardians:

- The types of relatives or legal guardians to whom payment may be made are specified.
- The waiver services for which payment may be made to relatives or legal guardians are specified.
- When relatives or legal guardians may be paid to furnish waiver services only in specific circumstances, the waiver specifies the circumstances and the method of determining that such circumstances apply.
- Limitations on the amount of services that may be furnished by a relative or legal guardian are specified.
- When a legal guardian who exercises decision making authority may be paid to provide waiver services, the waiver specifies how it is established that the provision of services by the guardian are in the best interests of the participant.
- The waiver specifies the procedures that are employed to ensure that payment is made only for services rendered and that services are furnished in the best interest of the individual.

Item C-2-f: Open Enrollment of Providers

Instructions
In the text field, specify the processes that are employed to assure that all willing and qualified providers have the opportunity to enroll as waiver service providers.

Technical Guidance

Except when a §1915(c) waiver operates concurrently with a waiver granted under §1915(b) of the Act waiving §1902(a)(23) with respect to Medicaid beneficiary free choice of provider, any willing and qualified provider must be afforded the opportunity to enroll as a Medicaid provider. A willing provider is an individual or entity that executes a Medicaid provider agreement and accepts the state’s payment for services rendered as payment in full. A qualified provider is a provider that meets the provider qualifications set forth in the approved waiver. The state must provide for the continuous, open enrollment of waiver service providers.

A state may not place obstacles in the way of open provider enrollment (e.g., by selecting only a limited number of providers to furnish a waiver service through an RFP process, requiring that a provider be capable of furnishing services on a statewide basis or requiring that a provider contract with a governmental entity (other than the Medicaid agency) or affiliate with an Organized Health Care Delivery System). States have latitude in establishing qualifications to ensure that providers possess the requisite skills and competencies to meet the needs of the waiver target population. However, a state may not specify qualifications that are unnecessary to ensure that services are performed in a safe and effective manner. When CMS reviews the qualifications associated with each waiver service, it examines whether the proposed qualifications create obstacles to the enrollment of all willing and qualified providers.

In response to this item, describe the processes that are employed in conjunction with the operation of the waiver to assure that all willing and qualified providers have the opportunity to enroll as waiver providers. Potential providers should have ready access to information regarding the requirements and procedures to enroll as waiver providers. Effective processes might include making provider enrollment information and forms continuously available via the internet and/or periodically soliciting open provider enrollment in which times any provider that met the waiver provider qualifications would be enrolled by the state.

§1915(b)(or other Managed Care Authorities)/§1915(c) Concurrent Waivers

In the case of §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers or other managed care authorities running concurrently with a 1915(c) waiver, it may be possible for a state may limit the providers of services by requesting a waiver of §1902(a)(23) of the Act. In general, this waiver (most frequently granted under the provisions of §1915(b)(4) of the Act) is employed to permit a state to contract with a limited number of managed care entities through which Medicaid beneficiaries obtain waiver and other services. Under a concurrent waiver, beneficiaries may be required to enroll with a managed care entity to receive services (when a waiver is granted under the provisions of §1915(b)(1) of the Act) or may elect to voluntarily receive services through a managed care entity rather than through the regular Medicaid program (i.e., a state does not request a waiver under the provisions of §1915(b)(1)).

In any case, a state must assure compliance with the provisions of 42 CFR §438.207 which provides that each managed care entity “maintains a network of providers that is sufficient in number, mix, and geographic distribution to meet the needs of the anticipated number of enrollees in the service area.” This requirement extends to providers of home and community-based waiver services that are furnished under the concurrent waivers.

In the case of §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers, a state should respond to this item by briefly describing how it will assure compliance with 42 CFR §438.207 with respect to the delivery of home and community-based waiver services, including describing any applicable provisions of its contracts with managed care entities.

The State should similarly respond here if the 1915(c) waiver is operating concurrently with another managed care authority, including §1932(a), §1915(a), or §1115 demonstrations.

CMS Review Criteria

- The provider enrollment processes described assure that all willing and qualified providers have the opportunity to enroll.
- Providers have ready access to information regarding requirements and procedures to qualify, and the timeframes established for qualifying and enrolling in the program.

Quality Improvement: Qualified Providers

Qualified Providers

The State demonstrates that it has designed and implemented an adequate system for assuring that all waiver services are provided by qualified providers.

The state verifies that providers initially and continually meet required licensure and/or certification standards and adhere to other standards prior to their furnishing waiver services.

The state monitors non-licensed/non-certified providers to assure adherence to waiver requirements.

The state implements its policies and procedures for verifying that provider training is conducted in accordance with state requirements and the approved waiver.

Instructions

The QIS must describe how the state Medicaid Agency will determine that each waiver assurance (and its associated component elements) is met. The waiver assurance and component elements are listed above. For each component element, this description must include:

- Activities or processes that are related to discovery and remediation, i.e., review, assessment or monitoring processes; who conducts the discovery or remediation activities and with what frequency. These monitoring activities provide the foundation for quality improvement by generating information regarding compliance, potential problems and individual corrective actions. The information can be aggregated and analyzed to measure the overall system performance in meeting the waiver assurances. The types of information used to measure performance, should include relevant quality measures/indicators.
- The entity or entities responsible for reviewing the results (data and information) of discovery and remediation activities to determine whether the performance of the system reflects compliance with the assurances; and,
- The frequency at which system performance is measured.

Technical Guidance

This QIS element focuses on discovery and remediation activities, that is, processes to assess, review, evaluate or otherwise analyze a program, process, operation, or outcome. Specifically, the evidence produced as a result of discovery and remediation activities should provide a clear picture of the state’s compliance in meeting an assurance.

CMS Review Criteria

- The discovery of compliance with this assurance and the remediation of identified problems must address:
  - How the Medicaid agency assures compliance with the following provider qualification subassurances:
    - The state verifies that providers initially and continually meet required licensure and/or certification standards and adhere to other standards prior to their furnishing waiver services.
    - The state monitors non-licensed/non-certified providers to assure adherence to waiver requirements.
    - The state implements its policies and procedures for verifying that provider training is conducted in accordance with state requirements and the approved waiver.
  - How frequently oversight is conducted; and
  - The entity (or entities) responsible for the discovery and remediation activities.
Overview

In Appendix C-3, the specifications of each service that is offered under the waiver (and listed in Appendix C-1) are detailed. The next section provides technical guidance concerning the coverage of services under a waiver and detailed instructions for completing the application’s waiver service specifications template.

Technical Guidance Concerning Service Coverage

Introduction

States have considerable latitude in selecting and specifying the services that are offered through a waiver. §1915(c) of the Act specifically authorizes the provision of several types of home and community-based services. A state may propose to offer other services that are not listed in the statute, subject to CMS approval. Waiver services complement and supplement services that are furnished under the State plan. Waiver services may not duplicate the services that are provided under the State plan but a waiver may expand upon the amount, duration, and frequency of services provided under the State plan except for EPSDT services. The selection of services to meet the needs of the waiver’s target population clearly is a critical consideration in designing an effective waiver program.

While states have flexibility in selecting and specifying a waiver’s services, there are certain requirements that must be met in specifying service coverage and additional considerations that states should take into account in designing their waiver programs and services. These topics are discussed in the following sections. There also is a brief overview discussion of waiver and Medicaid requirements as they pertain to providers of waiver services.

Requirements Concerning the Specification of the Scope of Services

As provided in 42 CFR 441.301(b)(4), a state is required to: “describe the services to be furnished so that each service is separately defined.” The definition of each waiver service must describe in concrete terms the goods and services that will be provided to waiver participants, including any conditions that apply to the provision of the service. The definition of the service (including any conditions that apply to its provision) is termed the “scope” of the service. When specifying the scope of a service do not use terms such as "including but not limited to . . .," "for example . . .," "including . . .," “etc.” CMS will not approve vague, open-ended or overly broad service definitions. The scope of a service must be readily ascertainable from the state’s service definition – that is, the nature of what is provided to a waiver participant is expressed in understandable terms. It is important to keep in mind that FFP is only available for the performance of activities or the provision of goods that fall within the scope of the approved waiver service.

The scope of a service may be defined in one of two ways. An exhaustive service definition may be employed. An exhaustive definition specifies in detail the types of activities that are undertaken on behalf of a waiver participant or the goods that may be provided to a participant. For example, if a waiver includes the coverage of medical equipment, the service definition could include a detailed list of each item of medical equipment that may be provided. Items not included in the list will not be provided or reimbursed. If a state wishes to alter an exhaustive service definition, it must submit an amendment request to CMS.

In the alternative, a service may be defined as to its purpose. For example, a state may elect to cover "only those medical supplies needed for the respirator-related needs of a respirator-dependent patient" without listing the specific supplies that might be furnished. When a service is defined as to its purpose, it is not necessary to submit a waiver amendment to reflect changes in the exact nature of the service that might occur post-approval. At the same time, when a service is defined as to its purpose, the service definition may not be expressed in open-ended terms. In addition, when a service is defined as to purpose, the service definition should specify at least the component elements of the service. Many of the core service definitions included as an attachment to the instructions for this Appendix are examples of how services may be defined as to their purpose.

As previously noted, states have the option of using the suggested core service definitions that are included in the attachment, modifying those definitions to meet their needs or developing their own service definitions. If a new service is proposed, its definition must use commonly accepted terms and may not be open ended in scope. When new services are proposed, CMS reviews the proposed service to ascertain whether the service:

- Contributes to the community functioning of waiver participants and thereby avoids institutionalization;
- Is reasonably related to addressing waiver participant needs that arise as a result of their functional limitations and/or conditions; and/or,
- Falls within the scope of §1915(c) of the Act and is not at odds with other provisions of the Act.

Services that are diversional/recreational in nature fall outside the scope of §1915(c) of the Act. In addition, with some exceptions, waiver funds may not be employed to pay for room and board expenses or to acquire goods and services that a household that does not include a person with a disability would be expected to pay for as household expenses (e.g., subscription to a cable television service).

The scope of the individual services included in a waiver may overlap. For example, the provision of personal assistance often is a common element in the delivery of many waiver services. It would be unreasonable and inefficient for CMS to require that services be defined in a fashion to eliminate overlapping activities by requiring that all forms of personal assistance be furnished under a single personal assistance service. At the same time, there must be mechanisms to prevent duplicate billing of services. When, for instance, a state provides for the “free-standing” coverage of personal assistance but includes the provision of personal assistance as an integral element of the delivery of a residential or day service, the state must prohibit the billing of the free-standing coverage for personal assistance activities that are performed during periods when the waiver participant receives the residential or day service that already includes the provision of personal assistance and payment for personal assistance activities have been included in the payment for the residential or day service.

In a similar vein, the situation may arise when a waiver participant may be concurrently receiving two services that are nominally duplicative or overlapping. For example, when a participant is directing waiver services, the participant may be concurrently receiving both case management and information and assistance in support of participant direction (a.k.a., support brokerage). The performance of both services may entail performing similar functions (e.g., assisting the participant to locate service providers). CMS does not require that service definitions be fashioned to eliminate all potential overlap (e.g., by only permitting support brokers or case managers to provide assistance in locating providers but not both). However, service definitions should be structured so that they prevent the duplicative performance of and billing for the same activity undertaken on behalf of a waiver participant by multiple providers. For example, it is permissible for a case manager to bill for the time that the case manager spends in developing a service plan and for a support broker to bill for the time spent advising the participant during the service plan development process. It would not be permissible for both the case manager and the support broker to bill for the preparation of the service plan. When there is the potential for duplicative billing for the performance of overlapping functions, states are advised to specify clearly in the relevant service definitions how the underlying activities are distinct and/or how duplicative billing will be prevented.

42 CFR §441.301(b)(4) also provides that “multiple services that are generally considered to be separate services may not be consolidated under a single definition.” The chief reasons why services may not be “bundled” are to: (a) ensure that waiver participants can exercise free choice of provider for each service and (b) ensure that participants have access to the full range of waiver services. Bundling means the combining of disparate services with distinct purposes (e.g., personal care and environmental modifications) under a single definition and providing that the combined services will be furnished by a single provider entity (e.g., one provider would furnish both personal care and environmental modifications) that is paid one rate for the provision of the combined services. CMS will consider a combined or bundled service definition only when it is established that the bundling of services will result in more efficient delivery of services but not compromise an individual’s access to services or free choice of providers. When a bundled service definition is proposed, the costs of each component service must be separately identified in the estimate of Factor D in Appendix J-2 and utilization/costs must be tracked during the period that the waiver is in effect (i.e., encounter-type data must be compiled).

A service usually is not deemed to be a “bundled” service in the following circumstances:

- When the tasks/activities that are conducted on behalf of a participant are closely related or require similar provider skills (e.g., the provision of homemaker, chore and personal care services by an “in-home supports” service worker);
- The state groups related services under a single broad service title (e.g., “employment-related services”) but clearly provides that: (a) each component service (e.g., prevocational, supported employment and supports for self-employment) is separately authorized in the service plan; (b) the participant may exercise free choice of providers for each component service; and, (c) each component service is separately billed. When services are grouped under a broad service title, the costs and expected utilization of each component service must be separately identified in the estimate of Factor D in Appendix J-2 and utilization/costs of each component service must be tracked during the period that the waiver is in effect; and,
- The service normally involves the co-provision of several services through a single provider in order to achieve the purpose of the service. Residential services typically fall into this category because of their round-the-clock nature.

Additional Considerations Concerning Service Coverage

There are several additional considerations that states should keep in mind when fashioning the coverage of services under a waiver. These include:

A. Relationship of Waiver Services to State Plan Services

Waiver services may complement the services that a state furnishes to Medicaid beneficiaries under the State plan by including services that are not covered under the State plan or supplement State plan services by providing for the coverage of services offered under the State plan in an amount, frequency or duration greater than allowed under the State plan) the services that a state furnishes to Medicaid beneficiaries under the State plan.
When reviewing proposed waiver service coverage, CMS will determine whether the service already is covered under the State plan. If so, the service will be approved when the state is proposing to exceed the limits imposed under the State plan (e.g., an extended state plan coverage is proposed). When a service coverage is proposed that appears to duplicate a State plan coverage, CMS will probe more deeply to determine whether the proposed waiver coverage is sufficiently distinct from the State plan coverage to warrant approval. The coverage generally will be considered distinct when: (a) the scope of the waiver coverage is materially different from the State plan service (b) the providers of the waiver service are different from the providers of the State plan service; and/or, (c) the method of service delivery is different (this difference may entail the availability of participant direction options under the waiver which are not available under the State plan). Coverage of services is not considered to be distinct when the sole difference lies in the amount of or the method of payment for the service. When proposing to cover a service that potentially overlaps the State plan coverage of a similar service, the state should include information in the service definition that clearly delineates how the two coverages differ.

In the case of certain services (e.g., specialized medical supplies and equipment), CMS recognizes that it would be overly burdensome to require states to spell out in detail how the waiver coverage does not duplicate coverage under the State plan. In such cases, it is acceptable for a state to specify that the authorization of such services will include making a determination that the State plan does not cover the item in question (either by determining that the State plan does not cover the item or requiring that an item be subject to a coverage determination under the State plan before it is authorized as a waiver service).

In addition, a state may not impair the access of waiver participants to services under the State plan. A state may not provide that the receipt of a waiver service is grounds for the denial of a State plan service for which the waiver participant may otherwise be eligible. For example, the receipt of personal assistance services under a waiver may not serve as the basis for denying the provision of home health services under the State plan. Similarly, a state may not require a waiver participant to terminate the receipt of a State plan service as a condition for receiving a waiver service. However, when authorizing waiver services, a state may take into account the services that a waiver participant receives through the State plan. The overarching objectives of this analysis are (1) to ensure that individuals have unfettered access to services to which they are entitled; and, (2) to ensure that there is no duplication (or potential duplication) of payment for services.

B. Pharmacy Services

Under the provisions of the Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit (Part D) of the Medicare Prescription Drug, Improvement, and Modernization Act of 2003, states may not claim Federal financial participation in the costs of most drugs that are furnished to dual-eligible Medicare/Medicaid beneficiaries on or after January 1, 2006. These beneficiaries will receive prescribed drugs through the Medicare Part D benefit. As a consequence, when a state covers pharmacy benefits under a waiver (usually as an extended State plan service in order to furnish prescribed drugs in an amount greater than permitted under the State plan), the service specification must exclude the provision of prescribed drugs available under Part D to dual eligible beneficiaries except when a drug is not covered under Part D.

State Medicaid Director Letter #05-002 (included in Attachment D to the Instructions) provides further information on drugs that are excluded from Part D coverage. When a state does not cover these excluded drugs for dual-eligible beneficiaries under its State plan, the excluded drugs may be covered under the waiver.
C. Relationship of Waiver Services to EPSDT Services

When a waiver serves children, the services that a state proposes to offer in the waiver must take into account the expanded benefits that must be provided to Medicaid child beneficiaries (individuals under the age of 21 who are eligible for Medicaid) under the Early and Periodic Screening, Diagnostic and Treatment (EPSDT) provisions contained in §1905(r) of the Act. These provisions apply to children who are served in waivers, including children who would not be eligible for Medicaid except by virtue of their enrollment in a waiver. The intersection of HCBS waivers and EPSDT services is discussed in more detail in Olmstead Letter #4 (included in Attachment D to the Instructions).

Among its other provisions, §1905(r) requires that Medicaid-eligible children receive coverage of all services necessary to diagnose, treat, or ameliorate defects identified by an EPSDT screen, as long as the service is within the scope of section 1905(a) of the Social Security Act. (Please note that any encounter with a health care professional practicing within the scope of his/her practice is considered an inter-periodic screening.). That is, under EPSDT requirements, a state must cover any medically necessary services that could be part of its basic Medicaid benefit were the state to elect the broadest benefits permitted under Federal law (not including HCBS, which are not a basic Medicaid benefit) irrespective of whether the state explicitly includes such benefits in its State plan.

In the case of waivers that serve children, the waiver still may be employed to provide services that supplement the services available under the State plan, beyond those EPSDT benefits, required under §1905(r). Services that may be provided under a waiver to children could include respite care, supported employment (in the case of older youth), and other services approved by CMS that are cost neutral and necessary to prevent institutionalization.

If a service is available to a child under the State plan or could be furnished as service required under the EPSDT benefit under the provisions of §1905(r), it may not be covered as a waiver service for child waiver participants. Thus, in a waiver that serves children, services such as rehabilitative services (as defined in 42 CFR §440.130), private duty nursing (as defined in 42 CFR §440.80), physical and occupational therapy (as defined in 42 CFR §440.110), and nurse practitioner services (as defined in 42 CFR §440.166) may not be furnished as waiver services to children.

When a waiver serves both children and adults, any waiver services that could be furnished in accordance with the provisions of EPSDT requirements at §1905(r) must be limited to adult waiver participants since comparable services for waiver participants under the age of 21 are provided as part of the EPSDT benefit. For example, if an extended state plan coverage is proposed in order to provide a service in an amount greater than permitted under the State plan, the coverage may only apply to adults.

States have an affirmative responsibility to ensure that all child waiver participants (including children who become eligible for Medicaid by virtue of their enrollment in a HCBS waiver) receive the medically necessary services that they require, including Medicaid coverable services available under EPSDT. Because the HCBS waiver can provide services not otherwise covered under Medicaid, and can also be used to expand coverage to children with special health care needs, EPSDT and HCBS waivers can work well in tandem. However, a child's enrollment in an HCBS waiver cannot be used to deny, delay, or limit access to medically necessary services that are required to be available to all Medicaid-eligible children under Federal EPSDT rules. While States may limit the number of participants under an HCBS waiver, they may not limit the number of eligible children who may receive EPSDT

services. Thus, children cannot be put on waiting lists for Medicaid coverable EPSDT services (those coverable under section 1905(a)). Children who are enrolled in the HCBS waiver must also be afforded access to the full array of EPSDT services. Moreover, under EPSDT, there is an explicit obligation to “make available a variety of individual and group providers qualified and willing to provide EPSDT services”.

D. Children’s Education Services

Waiver funding may not be used to pay for special education and related services that are included in a child’s Individualized Educational Plan (IEP) under the provisions of Individuals with Disabilities Education Improvement Act of 2004 (IDEA). The funding of such services is the responsibility of state and local education agencies. §1903(c)(3) of the Act provides that FFP is available for services included in an IEP when such services are furnished as basic Medicaid benefits. Waiver services are not considered to be basic Medicaid services and, therefore, FFP is not available for IEP special education and related services that may only be funded through an HCBS waiver.

E. Children’s Foster Care Services

Waiver services may be furnished to children in foster care living arrangements but only to the extent that waiver services supplement maintenance and supervision services furnished in such living arrangements and waiver services are necessary to meet the identified needs of children. Waiver funds are not available to pay for maintenance (including room and board) and supervision of children who are under the State’s custody, regardless of whether the child is eligible for funding under Title IV-E of the Act. The costs associated with maintenance and supervision of these children are considered a state obligation. The costs associated with the treatment of these children may be Medicaid reimbursable. Depending on the nature of the treatment (i.e., habilitation), the costs of treatment may be eligible for FFP under a waiver.

When waiver case management services are furnished to children in foster care who are eligible for Title IV-E funding, the state must ensure that the claim for FFP does not include costs that are properly charged as Title IV-E administrative expenses.

F. Rehabilitative Services

Waivers are not limited to the provision of habilitation services that are designed to teach individual skills. A state also may cover rehabilitative services where the purpose is to restore functioning. Rehabilitative services may be covered in a waiver as “other waiver services” since rehabilitative services are not mentioned in §1915(c) of the Act. When the State plan covers rehabilitative services, they also may be offered in a waiver on an extended state plan service basis. The receipt of rehabilitative services does not preclude the provision of enhanced habilitation services to a waiver participant.

G. Prevocational and Supported Employment Services

Prevocational and supported employment services may be furnished as expanded habilitation services under the provisions of §1915(c)(5)(C) of the Act. They may be offered to any target group for whom the provision of these services is appropriate and beneficial. As provided in Olmstead Letter #3 (included in Attachment D), the provision of these services is not limited to waiver participants with developmental disabilities.

However, such services may only be furnished to a waiver participant to the extent that they are not available as vocational rehabilitation services funded under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. When a state covers prevocational and/or supported employment services in a waiver, the waiver service definition of each service must specifically provide that the services do not include services that are available under the Rehabilitation Act (or, in the case of youth, under the provisions of the IDEA) as well as describe how the state will determine that such services are not available to the participant before authorizing their provision as a waiver service.

Waiver funding is not available for the provision of vocational services (e.g., sheltered work performed in a facility) where individuals are supervised in producing goods or performing services under contract to third parties. Employment related waiver services must be provided in accordance with CMCS Informational Bulletin dated September 16, 2011.

H. Services to Facilitate the Transition of Institutionalized Persons to the Community

In various State Medicaid Director Letters issued since 2000 (located in Attachment D), CMS has issued policy guidance concerning the provision of services for persons who transition from an institutional setting to the community. This guidance provides that certain services may be furnished in advance of the discharge of the person from the institutional setting and claimed for Federal financial participation once the individual enters the waiver. The basis of this policy guidance is to assure the continuity of services for individuals who are returning to the community. Community transition services may now be furnished to facilitate the transition of persons from any congregate setting (both institutional and non-institutional) to a more independent/less restrictive living arrangement.

All transition services must be reasonable and necessary, not available to the participant through other means, and clearly specified in the waiver participant’s service plan. States may not claim FFP for services that are furnished or activities that are performed in advance of the individual’s entrance to the waiver, but may claim FFP once the person is enrolled in the waiver. If the individual should not enroll in the waiver due to unforeseen circumstances such as death or change in eligibility status, the State may be able to claim for some or all of the transition activities as administrative costs in accordance with an approved Medicaid cost allocation plan.

States have the flexibility to cover transition case management activities as either an HCBS waiver service or as targeted case management under the State plan. States are encouraged to include these transition services in their waiver programs. The relevant service specification should indicate when a service is furnished on transition basis.

I. Participant Direction of Services

When the waiver provides for participant direction of services (as specified in Appendix E), it is permissible to limit the availability of Financial Management Services and Information and Assistance in Support of Participant Direction (when covered as a waiver service) to waiver participants who have elected to direct some or all of their services. It also is permissible to limit the availability of other waiver services to participants who have elected to direct their waiver services when the delivery of the waiver service is tied to the use of the Employer or Budget Authorities.

J. Provision of Waiver Services Out-of-State

Waiver services may be furnished in another state to a waiver participant. For example, it may be more convenient for waiver participants to obtain services in a bordering state. In addition, services such as personal assistance may be furnished to waiver participants who travel to another state to visit family members or for other purposes.

Applicable policies and considerations regarding the provision of waiver services out-of-state are delineated in Olmstead Letter #3 (included in Attachment D to the instructions). In brief, waiver services that are furnished out-of-state must meet the state of residence waiver standards and requirements in all respects. That is, the out-of-state provider that furnishes the services must meet the same qualifications as in-state providers and there must be a provider agreement in effect. In addition, when services are furnished out-of-state, they are subject to the same monitoring requirements as if they were furnished in-state. As discussed in Olmstead Letter #3, a state may enter into agreements with other states to facilitate the provision of services out-of-state.

Provider Requirements

The waiver assurances at 42 CFR §441.302(a) require that: (a) there are adequate standards for all types of providers that provide services under the waiver and (b) that the standards must be met when services are furnished. In other words, waiver services may only be furnished by providers who have been found to meet all applicable qualifications. In Appendix C-3, the standards that apply to each waiver service are specified along with the qualifications that providers must meet. Considerations that apply to the specification of provider qualifications are discussed below. In addition, the waiver’s Quality Improvement Strategy related to providers in Appendix C and in the systems improvement strategies described in Appendix H must address how the state will verify that providers meet applicable standards during the period that the waiver is in effect.

In addition, it is important to keep in mind that §1902(a)(27) of the Act (as further specified in 42 CFR §431.107(b)) requires that each provider of a Medicaid service have a provider agreement in effect with the Medicaid agency. This requirement applies to the provision of waiver services and assures accountability in the provision of Medicaid services. The Medicaid agency may authorize in writing that another entity (e.g., the operating agency) may perform the administrative task of executing and holding the provider agreement on its behalf. In the case of participant direction, a financial management services entity may be authorized to execute the provider agreement on behalf of the Medicaid agency. There are two exceptions to this requirement. When waiver services are delivered through managed care entities under a §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waiver, only the managed care entity has an agreement with the Medicaid agency; network providers contract with the managed care entity rather than the Medicaid agency. The other exception is when waiver services are delivered through an Organized Health Care Delivery System (OHCDS) arrangement. Such arrangements are discussed in more detail in the instructions for Appendix I.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix C-3

Appendix C-3 is a template that is designed to consolidate pertinent information about the specifications for each waiver service (e.g., its definition, pertinent limitations, and provider qualifications). In the web-based application, the required information is entered by completing web-pages that are linked to each service. Each element of the template is discussed below.

Service Specifications

Service Title

Instructions

Complete the text field with the title of the service. In the case of statutory services, select a service from the drop-down list and enter an alternate title if one has been assigned.

Also, select the HCBS Taxonomy category and sub-category from the drop-down list. To add a Taxonomy Category, select the category from the drop-down list under the Category heading.

To add a Taxonomy Sub-category, select the subcategory from the drop-down list under the Sub-category heading.

Technical Guidance

An important characteristic of 1915(c) Waivers is state flexibility to identify new services and supports. One challenge with this flexibility is that it is difficult to know what is happening in HCBS at a national level. Measuring what occurs is a necessary step to demonstrating the effectiveness of HCBS.

The HCBS Taxonomy, a standard categorization structure for Medicaid HCBS, was added to the 1915(c) application on March 1, 2014. A table with definition of the categories and subcategories in the HCBS Taxonomy, titled the “Medicaid Home and Community-Based Services (HCBS) Taxonomy Category and Subcategory Definitions,” is available on the WMS website. The HCBS taxonomy provides an orderly classification of services so CMS can aggregate data. CMS intends to use the taxonomy to provide national data regarding availability, utilization, and expenditures of categories of HCBS. It also will enable states or CMS to compare utilization and expenditures across states for categories of HCBS.

The HCBS Taxonomy does not change state flexibility to identify and define services and supports. States will be able to use the taxonomy to identify other states that provide a certain type of service, even if the states use different names.

A combination of Taxonomy Category and Taxonomy Sub-Category is a single match of a service to the HCBS Taxonomy. The Taxonomy Category includes a drop down field with 17 categories of service that indicate distinct types of services. The category field must be entered first.

The Taxonomy Sub-Category is a subset of a category to provide more specific information. A few categories have only one sub-category. The drop down options for the Sub-Category vary based on the entry for the Taxonomy Category.

A service may include more than one Taxonomy Category and Sub-Category combination. A state can enter up to four sets of Taxonomy Category and Taxonomy Sub-Category for a single service. Multiple combinations of Taxonomy Category and Sub-Category are likely only for the following:

- Round-the-Clock Services: for example, some waivers have a service with more than one type of residential habilitation
- Supported Employment: some waivers have a service that includes both job development and ongoing supported employment
- Day Services: some waivers have a service that includes two types of day support, such as adult day health and adult day care (social model); or day habilitation and prevocational services
- Nursing: some waivers combine private duty nursing and skilled nursing in a single service
- Caregiver Support: some waivers combine in-home and out-of-home respite in a single service
Appendix C: Participant Services

- Caregiver Support and Participant Training: some waivers combine caregiver and participant training in a single service
- Services Supporting for Self-Direction: some waivers combine financial management services and information and assistance in a single service
- Equipment, Technology, and Modifications: some waivers combine equipment and supplies in a single service

The service might have the same name as the Taxonomy Sub-Category, or the service might have one of the common names listed in the taxonomy table document. The state should check the definition to ensure the terms are used in the same manner, and if a match is not obvious, look at the taxonomy document from top to bottom.

It is possible that two or more services from the same waiver could have the same Taxonomy Category and Sub-Category. For example, a state may have separate services for case management and transition case management.

States should consider the service as a whole, and not as discrete tasks. For example, many states have an assisted living service that provides personal care, homemaker, and other supports. In such instances, the service should be considered as a whole (e.g., Group Living, other), rather than mapped separately to personal care, homemaker, etc.

Some states define some services in part by what is NOT provided. For example, homemaker does not include assistance with activities of daily living (ADLs). Therefore, the Taxonomy Sub-Categories within the home-based services category are presented approximately in a continuum from more to less assistance.

In addition, personal care might include homemaking tasks as well as ADL assistance, and home health aide and personal care might include similar assistance. If home health aide services include supervision by a registered nurse or licensed therapist AND services provided by a licensed home health agency, these services would fall under the HCBS Taxonomy category of personal care.

Carry Over Services

Instructions

This section of the template is reserved for renewal waivers, new waivers that replace an approved waiver and amendments that convert an approved waiver to the new application format. In the case of each waiver service, indicate whether the coverage of a service included in the approved waiver is being continued without modification, is carried over with modifications, or is a new service that was not previously covered. This information will facilitate CMS review.

Service Definition

Instructions

Describe the service definition in the text field.
Appendix C: Participant Services

Technical Guidance

The service definition specifies the scope of the service. The scope of a service describes the purpose of the service, the types of activities that comprise the service, including, as applicable, any goods that will be furnished to a waiver participant who receives the service. As appropriate, the service definition may include additional parameters that apply to or affect the provision of the service. Such parameters may include:

- Conditions under which the service is considered necessary and thereby will be authorized. For example, a state may limit the provision of skilled nursing services to waiver participants who have specified needs that require the performance of certain tasks by licensed nurses.
- Requirements that a service be subject to additional review before it is furnished. For example, a state may make the provision of behavioral support services subject to the review and approval of a behavioral services clinician. Alternatively, the provision of home accessibility modifications may require that a physical or occupational therapist review their appropriateness.
- Requirements that a service is subject to prior authorization by the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable).
- Other conditions that must be present in order for a service to be furnished. For example, the provision of respite care may be restricted only to participants who reside with unpaid caregivers. Alternatively, the waiver may provide that a service only will be furnished when it is not available through the State plan.
- Specifications concerning when a service may not be furnished to a participant who is the recipient of another service. For example, a state may provide that individuals who receive residential services may not also receive freestanding personal assistance services concurrently when such services are furnished as part of a residential service.
- As previously noted, a state may limit the provision of certain services to persons who have elected to direct their waiver services.

The parameters included in a service definition specify the circumstances when a service will or will not be furnished. However, do not include in the service definition limitations on the amount, frequency or duration of service. Such limitations are addressed in the next part of the template.

When a service may be participant-directed, the participant usually has the authority to establish additional parameters on the provision of the service (e.g., decide when the service will be furnished and how the service will be furnished). Additional participant-specified parameters are permissible as long as they comport with the underlying definition of the service.

Applicable Limits on Amount, Frequency, or Duration

Instructions

In the text field, specify applicable limits (if any) on the amount, frequency or duration of the service (e.g., maximum allowable units, maximum allowable expenditure).

Technical Guidance

A limit on the amount of a service may take the form of a maximum allowable expenditure for the service or the maximum number of units of the service that will be furnished during the period of the service plan. A limit on frequency is a limit that restricts the number of units of service that will be furnished during a shorter period of time (e.g., per week or per month). A limit on duration is the maximum period of time over which a service will be provided or authorized unless the necessity of the service is re-established.

When limits on amount, frequency or duration are applied, they must not pose obstacles to the service achieving its stated purpose. A state may include a dollar limit on the amount of a specific service per individual (for example home modifications may be limited to $10,000 in a year) so long as the state continues to assure the health and welfare of the waiver participant once the limit is reached. If the state establishes a dollar or other limit on a service, the state must explain the steps that it will take to ensure that the individual’s needs can be met within the dollar limit, what alternatives are available once the dollar limit is reached, and how the state will continue to assure the waiver participants’ health and welfare.

A state may exempt waiver participants who exercise Budget Authority as provided in Appendix E-2-b from a limitation on the amount, frequency, or duration of a service provided that: (a) the service is included in the participant-directed budget; (b) the exemption does not result in a change in the overall amount of the participant-directed budget; and, (c) the additional services are authorized in the service plan. If participants who exercise Budget Authority are exempt from the application of the limitation, include a statement to that effect in the text field.

When a state imposes limits on sets of services (e.g., a dollar limit applies to two or more services in combination) or limits on the overall amount of waiver services that may be furnished to a participant, such limits are specified in Appendix C-4.

Provider Specifications

This part of the template consolidates information about the providers of the service, including their qualifications. Provider means an individual or agency that performs the service on behalf of the waiver participant, holds a Medicaid provider agreement to furnish the service, and receives payment for services rendered. Each component of this part of the template is discussed below. Preceding this discussion is a brief discussion of the nature and role of the Medicaid provider agreement.

Provider Category(s)

Instructions

Indicate whether the service is provided by individual providers, agencies or both. For each category of provider, list the types of providers who furnish the service.

Technical Guidance

An individual provider is defined as a person who is in independent practice and not employed by a provider agency. Workers who are employed by a participant are considered to be individual providers. List the type of individual provider (e.g., personal assistant, psychologist, physical therapist).

An agency provider is an entity whose employees furnish the service or from which goods are purchased. When a service is provided by an agency, also list the types of agencies that furnish the service (e.g., home health agency, medical supply company, certified case management agency). Additional information about each type of provider listed in this part of the template is captured in the next two sections (provider qualifications and verification of provider qualifications).

The situation frequently arises that a state elects to specify that a service is furnished by an agency but requires that the agency employees who render the service meet specific qualifications. For example, a state may decide to purchase skilled nursing services only from home health agencies but require that the service may only be provided by licensed nurses who are employed by the home health agency. In this instance, home health agency is listed as the only provider type (because the agency holds the provider agreement and receives payment for the services furnished by its nurse employees). The nurse employee is not considered to be the provider even though the nurse renders the direct service. In the provider qualifications section of the template (discussed below), the state may indicate that only licensed nurses may perform the service.

The selection of the categories of providers who may furnish a service has implications for waiver participant exercise of free choice of provider and access to waiver services. As a general matter, free choice of provider and access to waiver services are enhanced when waiver participants are able to select from among a wide variety of providers, including both individual and agency providers. CMS will review the application to assess whether the types of providers specified is overly narrow and thereby poses obstacles to waiver participants obtaining waiver services from otherwise willing and qualified providers of services. This assessment will also include reviewing the proposed provider qualifications to ensure that they are reasonable and appropriate in light of the nature of the service and do not contain elements that would unnecessarily constrict participant free choice of provider. When only agency providers may provide a service, CMS may request that the state furnish additional justification for not permitting individual providers to furnish the service.

Provision by Legally Responsible Persons or Relatives/Legal Guardians

Instructions

Select whether the service may be furnished by a legally responsible person, relative and/or legal guardian.

Technical Guidance

Items C-2-d and C-2-e detail the state’s policies with respect to permitting: (a) legally responsible persons to furnish personal care or similar services and (b) relatives and/or legal guardians to furnish waiver services. The checkboxes provided in this part of the template link those policies to each waiver service. For example, if in Item C-2-e, the state provides that only certain types of relatives but not legal guardians may provide a service, then the checkboxes for relatives and legal guardians in this part of the template are interpreted in light of the policies expressed in Item C-2-e.

Provider Qualifications

Instructions

For each type of individual or agency provider identified under the provider category section of the template, specify the provider qualifications. Add as many providers as necessary in order to accommodate all types of providers.

Technical Guidance

Provider standards or qualifications are the criteria that a provider must meet in order to provide the waiver service. The template provides for three types of provider qualifications:

- A license issued under the authority of state law. In this instance, provide the legal citation of the applicable state law governing the issuance of the license. Do not include the text of the state law;
- A certificate issued by a state agency or other recognized body. For example, a certificate may be issued as a result of a quality review of the provider or by a recognized accreditation organization. In this instance, cite the applicable state regulations or policies that serve as the basis of the certification; and,

- Other standards specified by the state. These other standards may be in addition to a required license or certificate and must be specified.

One or more of these types of qualifications must be specified for each service.

CMS has not promulgated minimum provider qualifications for waiver services. States have latitude in establishing appropriate qualifications. Like other Medicaid services, waiver services are subject to any relevant requirements contained in state law. However, provider qualifications must be reasonable and appropriate in light of the nature of the service. They must reflect sufficient training, experience, and education to ensure that individuals will receive services from qualified persons in a safe and effective manner. Provider qualifications and standards should not contain provisions that have the effect of limiting the number of providers by the inclusion of requirements unrelated to quality and effectiveness.

As previously noted, there may be instances when a state elects to limit the providers of a service to specific types of agencies but the State should also describe the qualifications of the agency employees who furnish the service directly. Such requirements may be reflected in the template in various ways, depending on the nature of the requirement. In the example of skilled nursing services previously discussed, the requirement that such services be provided by home health agency employees who are licensed nurses can be reflected in the license column by citing the license that the home health agency must possess and adding an “employee” section to cite the license that the employee nurse must possess. Another alternative is to reflect employee qualifications in the “other standard” column.

It is important to keep in mind that FFP is only available for waiver services that are furnished by providers who have been determined to be qualified when the service is furnished. Consequently, when a provider must meet certain experience and training qualifications, the services that the provider renders may only be claimed for FFP if the provider has completed all necessary training.

A state may provide that additional qualifications may be incorporated into the service plan in order to meet the unique or specific needs of the participant. In addition, participants who exercise the Employer Authority may require that the workers whom they hire have skills or characteristics that the participant judges are important to meeting the participant’s particular needs. However, a state may not provide that provider qualifications will be solely specified in the service plan or by the participant. In other words, a state must establish the essential minimum qualifications that a provider must meet in order to be deemed a qualified provider and the state must ensure that those requirements are met when the service is provided.

Verification of Provider Qualifications

Instructions

For each type of provider (individual or agency), explain the entity or entities that are responsible for verifying that the provider possesses the qualifications specified for the service prior to delivery of the service and how often the qualifications are re-verified.

Technical Guidance

The verification of provider qualifications may be conducted by entities other than the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable) as specified in Appendix A. In the case of participant-directed services, the waiver may provide that the participant is responsible for the verification of some or all qualifications. Financial management services entities also may be tasked with verifying some or all provider qualifications.
Appendix C: Participant Services

There is no Federally-required schedule for the re-verification of provider qualifications. In the case of some types of providers (e.g., personal assistants), a state may provide that provider qualifications are only re-verified as necessary. Irrespective of the schedule that is employed to re-verify provider qualifications, the state has the responsibility to ensure that providers meet the qualifications for each service on an on-going basis.

Service Delivery Method

Instructions

Select whether the service is participant-directed, provider-managed or both. If the waiver does not provide for participant direction of services, select only the provider-managed service delivery method.

Technical Guidance

Provider-managed means that the service provider is responsible for managing all elements of service provision in accordance with the participant’s service plan, including taking into account any directives contained within the service plan regarding how and when the service is to be furnished and the expressed preferences of the participant.

Participant-directed means that the participant has the authority to manage some or all aspects of service provision as provided in Appendix E (Participant Direction of Services). A service may only be specified as participant-directed when the waiver makes available the participant direction opportunities that are specified in Appendix E. When a service may be participant-directed, it also must be listed in the table in Item E-1-g in Appendix E where the type of participant direction opportunity (or opportunities) that is employed in conjunction with the service is indicated. In the web-based application, each service that is specified as participant-directed is automatically listed in Item E-1-g. There is no limitation on the number of waiver services that may be participant-directed. When a service may be either provider-managed or participant-directed, the participant may decide which service delivery method to employ.

Independence Plus

When a state requests that a waiver be considered by CMS for Independence Plus designation, one of the criteria that the waiver must meet is that the participant-directed service delivery method is available for most waiver services that are commonly used by a significant number of waiver participants. In assessing whether a waiver meets this criterion, CMS reviews this Appendix, Appendix E, and Appendix J to ascertain whether participants may direct most, if not all, of their waiver services. Independence Plus designation does not require that participant direction be available for all waiver services. However, it is expected that participant direction will be available for day-by-day supports.

CMS Review Criteria

CMS applies the following criteria when reviewing each service in Appendix C-3:

CMS Review Criteria

- Each service is separately defined.
- The service does not duplicate coverage under the State plan.
- When the waiver serves individuals under age 21, the service does not duplicate a service that can be provided under the State plan as services required under EPSDT.
Appendix C: Participant Services

- The service definition clearly delineates the purpose and the scope of the service.
- The scope of the service does not span multiple, unrelated services, although similar or related services may be combined.
- When the scope of a service potentially overlaps with the scope of another service, there are mechanisms that prevent duplicate billing.
- In the case of non-statutory services, the service is necessary to avoid institutionalization and address functional impairments or other participant needs that, if left unaddressed, would prevent the person from engaging in everyday community activities.
- Any limits on the amount, duration and frequency for the service are consistent with assuring health and welfare for the target population.
- Provider qualifications are specified for each service and are appropriate to the nature and type of the service.
- Provider qualifications include requirements for training, experience and education that are sufficient to ensure that waiver participants will receive services in a safe and effective manner.
- Provider qualifications do not include requirements that would unnecessarily restrict the number of providers, including unnecessarily restricting the provision of a service to agency providers.

Independence Plus Designation

The participant-directed service delivery method is available for most waiver services that are commonly used by a significant number of waiver participants.

Appendix C-4: Additional Limits on Amount of Waiver Services

Overview

In Appendix C-3, a state specifies the limits (if any) on the amount, frequency and duration that apply to each specific waiver service, including a dollar limit. In this Appendix, a state may specify dollar limits that apply to a set (or sets) of waiver services (two or more services in combination). A state also may establish limits on the maximum dollar amount of waiver goods and services that is authorized in a participant’s service plan. Sometimes such limits are termed “budget allocations.” Dollar limits on the overall amount of services that apply after entrance to the waiver are distinguished from the individual cost limit (specified in Appendix B-2) that a state may apply in determining whether to enroll or maintain an individual in the waiver. For example, when a state does not impose an individual cost limit, it still may subject service plans to overall dollar limits post-entrance to the waiver. Since limits on sets of services or dollar limits on the overall dollar amount of a service plan constitute limits on the amount of services, the state must specify in the waiver any such limits that apply. If the limit is only applicable to one service, that limit should be identified in the limitation section of the service specification in Appendix C-3.

Types of Limits

The appendix pre-identifies three types of limits that a state might employ:

- Limits on Sets of Services. This type of dollar limit is applied to two or more waiver services, usually services that are closely related or might serve as substitutes for one another (e.g., personal care and chore services). A state may define several sets or groupings of services to which dollar limits apply.

- Prospective Individual Budget Amount. Some states have developed and implemented methodologies that determine a specific budget amount that is uniquely assigned to each individual waiver participant. The assigned budget amount constitutes a limit on the overall amount of services that may be authorized in the service plan. This method is termed “prospective” because the amount that is assigned is determined in advance of the development of the participant’s service plan.

- Budget Limit by Level of Support. Other states have developed and implemented methodologies that group waiver participants who share similar characteristics or support needs. States assign budget limits to each of these levels or participant groupings. These limits specify the maximum dollar amount of waiver goods and services that may be included in the service plans of participants who fall into each level or grouping.

Other approaches also have been implemented by states. For example, some states have established “baseline” budget allocations that apply to all waiver participants but provide for stepping-up the baseline allocation in certain pre-defined circumstances.

When a state also provides for the participant direction budget authority opportunity (in Appendix E), there may be a relationship between the participant-directed waiver budget and the budget allocation methods described here. This appendix addresses limits that apply to all waiver participants, regardless of whether the waiver provides for participant direction. If the waiver only provides for the use of individual budgets when participants have budget authority as provided in Appendix E, then this appendix does not apply. The methods for how self-directed budgets are developed would be described only in Appendix E.

Applicability

This Appendix must be completed whenever a state imposes a dollar limit on the amount of waiver services that may be authorized in a service plan over and above any limits on amount, duration and frequency that apply to individual waiver services. The “not applicable” selection should be made only when no such dollar limits are applied. If one of the pre-identified selections does not appropriately describe the dollar limits that the state applies, select “other” and describe the dollar limit that is imposed.

Basic Information Requirements

Regardless of the type of limit that is applied to waiver services, certain basic information must be provided, including:

(a) The waiver services to which the limit applies. A budget limit, for example, might be applied to all waiver services or, alternatively, some services (e.g., crisis services) may be excluded from the limit and furnished in amounts necessary outside the budget;

(b) The basis of the limit, including its basis in historical expenditure/utilization patterns and, as applicable, the processes and methodologies that are used to determine the amount of the limit to which a participant’s services are subject. When dollar limits are imposed, CMS expects that the amount of the limit will be based on evidence that the limit is a realistic estimate of the expected amount of services that waiver participants are likely to require. Limits may not be arbitrary or lack foundation in observed experience. The methodology that is employed to determine the amount of the limit must be fully described. When the amount of the limit is based on assessment information or other factors, how such information is used to determine the limit should be fully explained.
Appendix C: Participant Services

(c) How the limit will be adjusted over the course of the waiver period. Describe whether the limit will be adjusted to take into account cost increases and/or whether the methodology will be periodically re-evaluated in light of changes in utilization patterns or other factors.

(d) Provisions for adjusting or making exceptions to the limit based on participant health and welfare needs or other factors specified by the state. Especially in the case of limits on the overall amount of waiver services that may be authorized in a service plan, describe the conditions under which the limit may be adjusted to assure participant health and welfare.

(e) The safeguards that are in effect when the amount of the limit is insufficient to meet a participant’s needs. Such safeguards may include referring the participant for enrollment in another waiver program where more resources may be available.

(f) How participants are notified of the amount of the dollar limit. Because a dollar limit constitutes a limitation on the amount of waiver services that a participant may receive, it is important that the participant be made aware of the limit.

In the case of some types of limits, additional information is required, as discussed below.

Whenever dollar limits of the types addressed in this Appendix are employed, the state must afford participants the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing in the event that they are denied waiver services as a result of a dollar limit.

Additional Information Requirements

As previously noted, certain additional information requirements attach to specific types of limits. In particular:

Limit(s) on Set(s) of Waiver Services

In addition to the basic information specified above, explain the basis for the grouping of services in each set. As a general matter, the services in a set should address participant needs that are reasonably related. For example, clinical services might be grouped separately from daily support services such as chore and homemaker services.

Prospective Individual Budget Amount

In addition to the basic information specified above:

- Specify the entity that determines the budget amount;
- Include a complete description of the participant-related factors that are taken into account when determining the budget amount and how these factors affect the individual budget amount. If assessment results are used in determining the budget amount, specify the types of assessments that are employed;
- If the budget amount varies geographically, explain the basis for adjusting the budget based on participant location; and,
- Describe how the methodology that is employed is open for public inspection. When a formula is employed to determine the individual budget amount, the numeric values that are inserted into the formula need not be disclosed as part of public inspection.

Budget Limits by Level of Support

In addition to the basic information specified above, describe:

- The levels of support or groupings that have been established and the basis for these groupings;
Appendix C: Participant Services

- The procedures that are followed to assign participants to a level of support or participant grouping, including the entity or entities responsible for determining the assignment of individuals. If assessment results are used to assign individuals to groupings, specify the types of assessments that are employed;
- Whether the budget limit varies geographically and, if applicable, the factors that are used to adjust budget amounts based on geographic considerations; and,
- How the state makes its methodology for determining budget limits by level of support open for public inspection. When a formula is employed to determine the budget amount, the numeric values that are inserted into the formula need not be disclosed as part of public inspection.

Other Type of Limit

In addition to the basic information specified above:
- Fully describe the limit and its basis;
- To the extent that the limit combines elements of the other types of limits addressed in this Appendix, include the additional information associated with those types of limits. For example, if the limit is structured by sets of services but also includes limits based on level of support within each set, include information about how individuals are assigned to each level of support.

CMS Review Criteria

When reviewing this Appendix, CMS applies the following review criteria:

CMS Review Criteria

General Criteria:

- The waiver specifies the services to which the limit applies.
- The method of determining the limit is objective and evidence based (e.g., the method of determining the individual budget amount is based on the analysis of historical costs and utilization and other factors that are likely to affect costs).
- The waiver specifies the processes that are used to determine the amount of the limit to which a participant’s services are subject.
- The waiver specifies how the amount of the limit is adjusted during the period that the waiver is in effect.
- The waiver contains provisions for adjusting or making exceptions to the limit based on participant health and welfare needs or other factors specified by the state. Any criteria that are applied to adjust the budget are clear and explicit.
- The waiver specifies safeguards that are in effect when the amount of the limit is insufficient to meet a participant’s needs.
- The waiver provides for notifying participants of the amount of the limit to which their waiver services are subject.

Criteria Applicable to Specific Types of Limits

Limit(s) on Set(s) of Waiver Services

The services in the set to which the limit applies are reasonably related to one another.

Prospective Individual Budget Amount
Appendix C: Participant Services

The waiver specifies the assessment and other participant information upon which the individual budget amount is based.

The waiver explains how assessment and other participant information is employed in determining the individual budget amount.

The entity responsible for determining the individual budget amount is identified.

If geographic factors affect the budget amount, the waiver explains how such adjustments are made.

The waiver specifies how the methodology for determining the individual budget amount is open for public inspection.

Budget Limits by Level of Support

The waiver specifies the levels of support or participant groupings that have been established and the basis for such groupings.

The waiver specifies the procedures that are followed to assign participants to a level of support or participant grouping.

The waiver specifies the entities responsible for determining the assignment of individuals by level of support.

When assessment results are used to assign individuals to groupings, the waiver specifies the types of assessments that are employed.

If geographic factors affect the budget amount, the waiver explains how such adjustments are made.

The waiver specifies how the methodology for determining the budget limit based on level of support amount is open for public inspection.

Other Type of Limit

Based on the nature of the other type of limit that is used, any of the foregoing criteria may apply.

Appendix C-5: Home and Community-Based Settings Requirements

Overview

Since April, 2008, CMS has engaged in ongoing discussions with stakeholders, states and federal partners about the qualities of community-based settings that distinguish them from institutional settings. As part of this stakeholder engagement, CMS issued a 1915(c) Waiver Advanced Notice of Proposed Rule Making (ANPRM) and various proposed rules relating to home and community-based services authorized by different sections of the Medicaid law, including 1915(c) HCBS waivers, 1915(i) State Plan HCBS and 1915(k) Community First Choice State Plans. CMS’ definition of home and community-based settings has benefited from and evolved as a result of this stakeholder engagement.

In final rules published on January 16, 2014, CMS moved away from defining home and community-based settings by “what they are not,” and toward defining them by the nature and quality of individuals’ experiences. The home and community-based setting provisions in the final rules established a more outcome-oriented definition of home and community-based settings, rather than one based solely on a setting’s location, geography, or physical characteristics. The purpose of the home and community-based settings requirements is to maximize the opportunities for participants in HCBS programs to have access to the benefits of community living and to receive services in the most integrated setting. The requirements effectuate the law’s intention for Medicaid HCBS to provide alternatives to services provided in institutions. States’ implementation of these requirements will contribute significantly to the quality and experience of participants in Medicaid HCBS waiver programs and will further expand their opportunities for meaningful community integration in support of the goals of the Americans with Disabilities Act and the Supreme Court’s decision in Olmstead v. L.C.

Instructions

This section was added to the waiver application for states to document state compliance with the final regulations published on January 16, 2014 regarding the home and community-based (HCB) settings requirements at 42 CFR 441.301(c)(4)-(5). In this section, states are to describe the settings where waiver participants reside, where waiver services are provided, and how these settings meet the HCB setting requirements at 42 CFR 441.301(c)(4)-(5). States must also specify how the state Medicaid agency determined that the settings meet the HCB settings requirements at the time of submission to CMS, as well as how the state will ensure that all settings will continue to meet the HCB settings requirements in the future. This section includes a large text field (allows up to 60,000 characters), to ensure ample space for the state’s response.

Technical Guidance

The HCB setting requirements support home and community-based settings that serve as an alternative to institutional care and that take into account the quality of individuals’ experiences. They require that all home and community-based settings meet certain qualifications, including, at a minimum:

- Is integrated in and supports full access to the greater community, including opportunities to seek employment and work in competitive integrated settings, engage in community life, control personal resources, and receive services in the community, to the same degree of access as individuals not receiving Medicaid HCBS;
- Is selected by the individual from among setting options, including non-disability specific settings and an option for a private unit in a residential setting. The setting options are identified and documented in the person-centered service plan and are based on the individual's needs, preferences, and, for residential settings, resources available for room and board;
- Ensures individual rights of privacy, dignity and respect, and freedom from coercion and restraint;
- Optimizes, but does not regiment, individual initiative, autonomy and independence in making life choices; including but not limited to, daily activities, physical environment, and with whom to interact;
- Facilitates choice regarding services and who provides them.
The regulation also includes additional requirements for provider-owned or controlled home and community-based residential settings. These requirements include ensuring:

- The individual has a lease or other legally enforceable agreement providing similar protections. The unit or dwelling is a specific physical place that can be owned, rented, or occupied under a legally enforceable agreement by the individual receiving services, and the individual has, at a minimum, the same responsibilities and protections from eviction that tenants have under the landlord/tenant law of the State, county, city, or other designated entity. For settings in which landlord tenant laws do not apply, the State must ensure that a lease, residency agreement or other form of written agreement will be in place for each HCBS participant, and that the document provides protections that address eviction processes and appeals comparable to those provided under the jurisdiction's landlord tenant law.

- The individual has privacy in their sleeping or living unit including:
  - Units have entrance doors lockable by the individual, with only appropriate staff having keys to doors.
  - Individuals sharing units have a choice of roommates in that setting.
  - Individuals have the freedom to furnish and decorate their sleeping or living units within the lease or other agreement.

- The individual has the freedom and support to control their schedule and activities, including access to food at any time;
- The individual can have visitors of their choosing at any time; and
- The setting is physically accessible to the individual.

Any modification to these additional requirements for provider-owned home and community-based residential settings must be supported by a specific assessed need and justified with documentation in the person-centered service plan including the following:

- Identify a specific and individualized assessed need.
- Document the positive interventions and supports used prior to any modifications to the person-centered service plan.
- Document less intrusive methods of meeting the need that have been tried but did not work.
- Include a clear description of the condition that is directly proportionate to the specific assessed need.
- Include regular collection and review of data to measure the ongoing effectiveness of the modification.
- Include established time limits for periodic reviews to determine if the modification is still necessary or can be terminated.
- Include the informed consent of the individual.
- Include an assurance that interventions and supports will cause no harm to the individual.
Appendix C: Participant Services

The regulations at 42 CFR 441.301(c)(5) excludes certain settings as permissible settings for the provision of Medicaid home and community-based services. These excluded settings include nursing facilities, institutions for mental disease, intermediate care facilities for individuals with intellectual disabilities, and hospitals. Other Medicaid funding authorities support services provided in these institutional settings.

The regulations 441.301(c)(5)(v) also identify other settings that are presumed to have institutional qualities, and do not meet the threshold for Medicaid HCBS. These settings include:

- any setting that is located in a building that is also a publicly or privately operated facility that provides inpatient institutional treatment,
- any setting that is located in a building on the grounds of, or immediately adjacent to, a public institution, or
- any other setting that has the effect of isolating individuals receiving Medicaid HCBS from the broader community of individuals not receiving Medicaid HCBS.

If states seek to include such settings in a 1915(c) waiver, CMS will make a determination through heightened scrutiny, based on information presented by the state demonstrating that the setting is home and community-based and does not have the qualities of an institution. This process is intended to be transparent and therefore, must include input and information from the public.

Settings that Isolate

Some settings have the effect of isolating individuals receiving HCBS from the broader community. Settings that have the following two characteristics alone might, but will not necessarily, meet the criteria for having the effect of isolating individuals:

- The setting is designed specifically for people with disabilities, and often even for people with a certain type of disability.
- The individuals in the setting are primarily or exclusively people with disabilities and on-site staff provides many services to them.

Settings that isolate people receiving HCBS from the broader community may have any of the following characteristics:

- The setting is designed to provide people with disabilities multiple types of services and activities on-site, including housing, day services, medical, behavioral and therapeutic services, and/or social and recreational activities.
- People in the setting have limited, if any, interaction with the broader community.
- Settings that use/authorize interventions/restrictions that are used in institutional settings or are deemed unacceptable in Medicaid institutional settings (e.g. seclusion).

The following is a non-exhaustive list of examples of residential settings that typically have the effect of isolating people receiving HCBS from the broader community:

- Farmstead or disability-specific farm community: These settings are often in rural areas on large parcels of land, with little ability to access the broader community.
outside the farm. Individuals who live at the farm typically interact primarily with people with disabilities and staff who work with those individuals. Individuals typically live in homes only with other people with disabilities and/or staff. Their neighbors are other individuals with disabilities or staff who work with those individuals. Daily activities are typically designed to take place on-site so that an individual generally does not leave the farm to access HCB services or participate in community activities. For example, these settings will often provide on-site a place to receive clinical (medical and/or behavioral health) services, day services, places to shop and attend church services, as well as social activities where individuals on the farm engage with others on the farm, all of whom are receiving Medicaid HCBS. While sometimes people from the broader community may come on-site, people from the farm do not go out into the broader community as part of their daily life. Thus, the setting does not facilitate individuals integrating into the greater community and has characteristics that isolate individuals receiving Medicaid HCBS from individuals not receiving Medicaid HCBS.

- Gated/secured “community” for people with disabilities: Gated communities typically consist primarily of people with disabilities and the staff that work with them. Often, these locations will provide residential, behavioral health, day services, social and recreational activities, and long term services and supports all within the gated community. Individuals receiving HCBS in this type of setting often do not leave the grounds of the gated community in order to access activities or services in the broader community. Thus, the setting typically does not afford individuals the opportunity to fully engage in community life and choose activities, services and providers that will optimize integration into the broader community.

- Residential schools: These settings incorporate both the educational program and the residential program in the same building or in buildings in close proximity to each other (e.g. two buildings side by side). Individuals do not travel into the broader community to live or to attend school. Individuals served in these settings typically interact only with other residents of the home and the residential and educational staff. Additional individuals with disabilities from the community at large may attend the educational program. Activities such as religious services may be held on-site as opposed to facilitating individuals attending places of worship in the community. These settings may be in urban areas as well as suburban and rural areas. Individuals experience in the broader community may be limited to large group activities on “bus field trips.” The setting therefore compromises the individual’s access to experience in the greater community at a level that isolates individuals receiving Medicaid HCBS from individuals not receiving Medicaid HCBS.

Multiple settings co-located and operationally related (i.e., operated and controlled by the same provider) that congregate a large number of people with disabilities together and provide for significant shared programming and staff, such that people’s ability to interact with the broader community is limited. Depending on the program design, this could include, for example, group homes on the grounds of a private ICF or numerous group homes co-located on a single site or close proximity (multiple units on the same street or a court, for example). In CMS’ experience, most Continuing Care Retirement Communities (CCRCs), which are designed to allow aging couples with different levels of need to remain together or close by, do not raise the same concerns around isolation as the examples above, particularly since CCRCs typically include residents who live independently in addition to those who receive HCBS.

More information regarding the home and community-based setting requirements is available on the CMS website at:
CMS Review Criteria

The State’s description of settings where waiver participants reside and receive HCBS demonstrates how the state will ensure that all HCB setting requirements at 42 CFR 441.301(c)(4)-(5) will be met and includes:

- A list of the specific settings where individuals will reside;
- A list of the specific settings where individuals will receive services;
- The process that the state Medicaid agency used to assess and determine that all waiver settings meet the HCB settings requirements; and
- The process that the state Medicaid agency will use to ensure that all settings will continue to meet the HCB settings requirements in the future.

Attachment: Core Service Definitions

Overview

This attachment contains core waiver service definitions that states may adapt when completing Appendix C-3 (waiver service specification template) in the waiver application. Many of these definitions are based on the service definitions contained in the 1995 standard waiver application format. Definitions of additional services also are included. The definitions are listed in the following order: (a) statutory services; (b) other services; (c) extended state plan services; and, (d) services in support of participant direction. The “core definitions” specify the essential scope of each service. States may modify or supplement the core definition in order to more precisely reflect the nature and scope of each service included in a waiver. For example, if a core service definition includes an activity that a state does not wish to provide, the activity may be removed. The definitions are accompanied by instructions that specify coverage parameters that should be addressed in the service definition. Also, as appropriate, guidance is included concerning service coverage.

As noted in the instructions, states are not required to use these core service definitions. They are suggested rather than mandatory definitions and are provided solely to assist states in waiver design. A state may propose an alternate definition. However, each service must be fully described and not described in open-ended terms. Alternate definitions will be reviewed by CMS to determine whether the scope and nature of the service as defined is consistent with waiver service coverage policy.

In addition, a state may propose to cover services beyond those that are included here. When coverage of another service is proposed, CMS will review the proposed coverage to ensure that the service is necessary in order to avoid institutionalization and addresses participant needs that stem from their disability or condition.
Appendix C: Participant Services

In Appendix C-3 of the waiver application, separate provision has been made for specifying limitations on the amount, frequency and duration of waiver services (e.g., limiting respite care to no more than 720 hours in a year). Such limitations should not be incorporated in the service definition itself but instead specified in the appropriate location in the waiver service specification template. However, limitations on the scope of the service should be included in the definition. For example, if a service (e.g., personal assistance) is available only to participants who reside in their own private residence, the limitation should be reflected in the service definition. Similarly, any additional criteria that apply to the provision of a service also should be incorporated into the definition (e.g., the provision of a service requires the determination by a professional that the service is necessary to address specific participant needs). Also, do not include provider qualifications in the service definition.
Provider qualifications are specified separately in the Appendix C-3 waiver service specification template.

A. Statutory Services

Statutory services are services specifically contained in §1915(c) of the Act and 42 CFR §440.180. They also are listed in the Appendix C1/C3 Service Specification section of the web-based application. Core service definitions are provided for each of these services. As discussed in the instructions for Appendix C-1, a waiver is considered to cover a statutory service as long as the state’s definition aligns with the core service definition included here, even though an alternate title is used (e.g., support coordination instead of case management or attendant care instead of personal care).

1. Case Management

Core Service Definition

Services that assist participants in gaining access to needed waiver and other State plan services, as well as medical, social, educational and other services, regardless of the funding source for the services to which access is gained.

Instructions

• When case managers perform other activities/functions (e.g., crisis response) that are not included in the core definition, specify the additional activities/functions.

• When case managers are responsible for the ongoing monitoring of the provision of services included in the participant’s service plan and/or participant health and welfare, include a statement to that effect in the service definition.

• When case managers are responsible for initiating the process to evaluate and/or re-evaluate the individual's level of care and/or the development of service plans as specified in Appendices B & D of the application, include a statement to that effect in the service definition.

• When the state claims the cost of case management furnished to institutionalized individuals prior to their transition to the waiver (as provided in Olmstead Letter No.3
  (see Attachment D), include a statement to that effect in the service definition.
  Specify the period that such services may be furnished. Providers may not bill for this service until the date of the person’s entry into the waiver program.

• When case management includes providing supports to assist participants to direct their services, specify the types of supports that case managers furnish. For example, a case manager may have responsibility for monitoring the expenditure of funds included in the participant-directed budget when the Budget Authority opportunity is provided under the waiver.

Guidance

- When case management is furnished as a waiver service, a state may not limit the providers of case management to specific classes of entities (e.g., county human services agencies). All willing and qualified providers must be offered a provider agreement. Participants must be able to select from among all qualified providers.
- When activities related to the assessment of level of care and service plan development are furnished as waiver case management activities, payment for such services may not be made until the individual is actually enrolled in the waiver.
- The scope of case management services may not include activities/services that constitute the provision of direct services to the participant that normally are covered as distinct services.
- Case management must comport with conflict of interest requirements at 42 CFR 441.301(1)(vi) and in accordance with Appendix D-1-b.

2. Homemaker Services

Core Service Definition

Services that consist of the performance of general household tasks (e.g., meal preparation and routine household care) provided by a qualified homemaker, when the individual regularly responsible for these activities is temporarily absent or unable to manage the home and care for him or herself or others in the home.

Instructions

- If homemaker services include other activities/functions that are not reflected in the core definition, modify the core definition to specify the activities/functions.
- If homemaker services are limited to the performance of a specific household task(s), list the specific task(s) in the definition.

Guidance

- Homemaker services are distinguished from personal care services. Personal care services include assistance in activities of daily living whereas homemaker services usually are confined solely to the performance of household tasks.
- The core service definition may be modified to include the performance of “chore-type” services by a homemaker.

3. Home Health Aide Services

Background

Home health services are a mandatory State plan service. Home health aide services are a component of the State plan coverage. In a waiver, a state may elect to furnish home health aide services that are different in their scope and nature than the services offered under the State plan. Alternatively, if there are limitations on the amount, frequency and duration of the provision of home health aide services in the State plan, a state may elect to provide additional services over and above those permitted under the State plan. Two alternative core service definitions are provided depending on how the state elects to cover home health aide services under the waiver.
Core Service Definition (Services differ in scope and nature from the State plan):

Services defined in 42 CFR §440.70 that are provided in addition to home health aide services furnished under the approved State plan. Home health aide services under the waiver differ in nature, scope, supervision arrangements, or provider type (including provider training and qualifications) from home health aide services in the State plan. The differences from the State plan are as follows:

Core Service Definition (Extended State Plan Service):

Services defined in 42 CFR §440.70 that are provided when home health aide services furnished under the approved State plan limits are exhausted. The scope and nature of these services do not differ from home health aide services furnished under the State plan. Services are defined in the same manner as provided in the approved State plan. The provider qualifications specified in the State plan apply. The additional amount of services that may be provided through the waiver is as follows:

Instructions

- If the only difference between the coverage of home health aide services under the State plan and the waiver is that waiver services supplement State plan services over and above State plan limitations on amount, duration and frequency, use the home health aide services “extended State plan service” definition above. For example, if the State plan limits home health aide services to no more than ten visits per month but the state wishes to provide for additional visits for waiver participants, use the extended State plan service definition. Specify the additional services that are provided when the State plan benefit is exhausted.

- When the scope and nature of home health aide services under the waiver differ from the coverage under the State plan, use the first core definition and specify how the scope and nature of services differs from the State plan, including the other activities/functions that home health aides perform in addition to those specified under the State plan.

Guidance

- If home health aide services may be furnished outside the participant’s home, include a statement to that effect in the service definition. This is an example of how the scope of coverage may differ from the State plan.

- One source of difference between the coverage of home health aide services under the State plan and the waiver may arise from provider qualifications. Home health services (including home health aide services) under the State plan may only be furnished by home health agencies that meet the requirements for participation in Medicare, as provided in 42 CFR §489.28.

- The coverage of home health aide services under a waiver does not permit a state to restrict access by waiver participants to home health services that are offered under the state plan. Waiver participants are entitled to receive all benefits for which they are eligible under the State plan.

- Home health aide services that can be covered under the State plan should be furnished to waiver participants under age 21 as services required under EPSDT rather than through the waiver.

4. Personal Care
Appendix C: Participant Services

Background
Personal care services are an optional benefit that a state may furnish under its State plan, as provided in 42 CFR §440.167. A state may offer personal care under a waiver when: (a) it does not offer personal care under its State plan; (b) its coverage under the waiver differs in scope and nature from the coverage under the State plan; or, (c) the state wishes to furnish personal care services in an amount, duration or frequency that exceed the limits in the State plan. Two core service definitions are provided:

Core Service Definition (Services differ in scope and nature from personal care under the State plan or personal care is not provided under the State plan):

A range of assistance to enable waiver participants to accomplish tasks that they would normally do for themselves if they did not have a disability. This assistance may take the form of hands-on assistance (actually performing a task for the person) or cuing to prompt the participant to perform a task. Personal care services may be provided on an episodic or on a continuing basis. Health-related services that are provided may include skilled or nursing care and medication administration to the extent permitted by State law.

Core Service Definition (Extended State Plan Service):

Services that are provided when personal care services furnished under the approved State plan limits are exhausted. The scope and nature of these services do not differ from personal care services furnished under the State plan. The provider qualifications specified in the State plan apply. The additional amount of services that may be provided through the waiver is as follows:

Instructions

• If personal care under the waiver is furnished to supplement personal care under the State plan but otherwise the scope of the coverage and who may provide the service is the same as under the State plan, use the “extended State plan service” core definition. Specify the additional amount of services that may be provided under the waiver.

• When personal care services are not provided under the State plan, use the first core definition.

• When personal care is covered under the State plan but the scope and nature of personal care furnished to waiver participants differs from the State plan, also use the first core definition and include the following statement: “Personal care under the waiver differs in scope, nature, supervision arrangements, and/or provider type (including provider training and qualifications) from personal care services in the State plan.” Also, briefly describe the differences between the waiver coverage and the State plan coverage.

• When the first core definition is used, as appropriate, supplement the core definition by specifying the types of assistance furnished. Such assistance may include assistance in performing ADLs (bathing, dressing, toileting, transferring, maintaining continence) and IADLs (more complex life activities, e.g. personal hygiene, light housework, laundry, meal preparation, transportation, grocery shopping, using the telephone, medication and money management). Such assistance also may include the supervision of participants as provided in the service plan.

• If personal care is furnished outside the participant’s home, include a statement to that effect in the first core definition.

• A state may elect to make retainer payments to personal assistants when the waiver participant is hospitalized or absent from his/her home for a period of no more than 30-

5. Adult Day Health
Core Service Definition

Services generally furnished 4 or more hours per day on a regularly scheduled basis, for one or more days per week, or as specified in the service plan, in a non-institutional, community-based setting, encompassing both health and social services needed to ensure the optimal functioning of the participant. Meals provided as part of these services shall not constitute a "full nutritional regimen" (3 meals per day).

Instructions

• Supplement or modify the core definition as appropriate to encompass specific service elements/activities furnished as adult day health under the waiver.

• If physical, occupational and/or speech/language therapies included in the participant’s service plan are furnished as components of this service, include a statement to that effect in the definition.

• If transportation between the participant's place of residence and the adult day health site is provided as a component of adult day health services and the cost of this transportation is included in the rate paid to adult day health providers, include a statement to that effect in the definition.

• While adult day health services generally are provided for four or more hours per day, they may be furnished for fewer hours. It also is not required that participants receive adult day health services each day.

Habilitation Services

General Guidance

Habilitation may be covered as a distinct waiver service. Usually, however, the coverage of habilitation takes the form of the coverage of day and residential habilitation as separate services. In addition, states may cover enhanced habilitation services (supported employment, education, and prevocational services). In general, when enhanced habilitation services are covered, they must be covered as distinct services rather than combined as a single service. Core definitions are provided for habilitation, residential habilitation, day habilitation, prevocational, supported employment, and education.

While habilitation is frequently identified with the provision of services to persons with intellectual disability and other related conditions, habilitation services (including enhanced habilitation services) may be furnished to other target groups (e.g., persons who have experienced a brain injury) who may benefit from them. Services that are habilitative in nature may not be covered under the State Plan except in an ICF/IID.

6. Habilitation

Core Service Definition

Services designed to assist participants in acquiring, retaining and improving the self-help, socialization and adaptive skills necessary to reside successfully in home and community-based settings.

Instructions

• Supplement or modify the core definition as appropriate to specify the specific service elements/activities that are furnished as habilitation under the waiver.

• Specify the settings in which habilitation is furnished.

Guidance
• Habilitation may be furnished in a home or other community setting.
• When habilitation is provided as a single service (rather than broken down into component parts), the provider qualifications specified must not have the effect of unnecessarily limiting the providers of the service.
• Retainer payments may be made to providers of habilitation while the waiver participant is hospitalized or absent from his/her home for a period of no more than 30-days. See Olmstead Update #3 (July 25, 2000) in Attachment D for additional information. If the state elects to make such payments, describe the circumstances under which such payments are authorized and applicable limits on their duration. Such payments are not permissible when the State has included a cost-center in the rate paid to providers to address absences.

7. Residential Habilitation

Core Service Definition

Residential habilitation means individually tailored supports that assist with the acquisition, retention, or improvement in skills related to living in the community. These supports include adaptive skill development, assistance with activities of daily living, community inclusion, transportation, adult educational supports, social and leisure skill development, that assist the participant to reside in the most integrated setting appropriate to his/her needs. Residential habilitation also includes personal care and protective oversight and supervision.

Payment is not made for the cost of room and board, including the cost of building maintenance, upkeep and improvement. The method by which the costs of room and board are excluded from payment for residential habilitation is specified in Appendix I-5. Payment is not made, directly or indirectly, to members of the individual's immediate family, except as provided in Appendix C-2.

Instructions

• Supplement or modify the core definition as appropriate to encompass the specific service elements/activities furnished as residential habilitation.
• Residential habilitation may be furnished in the following living arrangements: participant’s own home, the home of a relative, a semi-independent or supported apartment or living arrangement, or a group home. Supplement the core definition by specifying the types of settings where residential habilitation is furnished.

Guidance

• Residential habilitation services may be provided in the participant’s living arrangement or in the surrounding community, provided that such services do not duplicate services furnished to a participant as other types of habilitation.
• Provider owned or leased facilities where residential habilitation services are furnished must be compliant with the Americans with Disabilities Act.
• Home accessibility modifications when covered as a distinct service under the waiver may not be furnished to individuals who receive residential habilitation services except when such services are furnished in the participant’s own home. Compensation for the costs of life safety code modifications and other necessary accessibility modifications that a provider makes may be included in provider rate (as amortized costs) so long as they are necessary to meet the needs of residents and are not basic housing costs.
Residential habilitation services may include the provision of medical and health care services that are integral to meeting the daily needs of residents (e.g., routine administration of medications by nurses or tending to the needs of residents who are ill or require attention to their medical needs on an ongoing basis). The provision of such routine health services and the inclusion of the payment for such services in the payment for residential habilitation services is not considered to violate the requirement that a waiver may not cover services that are available through the State plan. Medical and health care services such as physician services that are not routinely provided to meet the daily needs of residents may not be included.

Personal care/assistance or other similar services may be a component part of residential habilitation services but may not comprise the entirety of the service. When personal care or another similar service is covered as a distinct waiver service but also is furnished as a component of residential habilitation, there must be mechanisms that prevent the duplicative billing of the provision of personal care services.

If transportation between the participant's place of residence and other service sites or places in the community is provided as a component of residential habilitation services and the cost of this transportation is included in the rate paid to providers of residential habilitation services, include a statement to that effect in the service definition.

Respite care may be made available to persons who receive residential habilitation or other types of residential services under the waiver (e.g., adult foster care) for the relief of a primary caregiver, provided that there is no duplication of payment. When respite is furnished for the relief of a foster care provider, foster care services may not be billed during the period that respite is furnished. Respite care may not be furnished for the purpose of compensating relief or substitute staff for a waiver residential service. The costs of such staff are met from payments for the waiver residential service.

When residential habilitation services are furnished in living arrangements subject to §1616(e) of the Social Security Act (the Keys Amendment), the standards for such services must address the topics specified in Appendix C-2 (item C-2-c-ii), including assuring that the living arrangement is homelike rather than institutional in character.

Retainer payments may be made to providers of residential habilitation while the waiver participant is hospitalized or absent from his/her home for a period of no more than 30-days. See Olmstead Update #3 (July 25, 2000) in Attachment D for additional information. If the state elects to make such payments, describe the circumstances under which such payments are authorized and applicable limits on their duration.

8. Day Habilitation

Core Service Definition

Provision of regularly scheduled activities in a non-residential setting, separate from the participant’s private residence or other residential living arrangement, such as assistance with acquisition, retention, or improvement in self-help, socialization and adaptive skills that enhance social development and develop skills in performing activities of daily living and community living.

Activities and environments are designed to foster the acquisition of skills, building positive social behavior and interpersonal competence, greater independence and personal choice. Services are furnished consistent with the participant’s person-centered service plan. Meals provided as part of these services shall not constitute a "full nutritional regimen" (3 meals per day).

Day habilitation services focus on enabling the participant to attain or maintain his or her maximum potential and shall be coordinated with any needed therapies in the individual’s person-centered service plan, such as physical, occupational, or speech therapy.

Instructions

• Supplement or modify the core definition as appropriate to specify service elements/activities furnished as day habilitation under the waiver.

• Day habilitation may be furnished in any of a variety of settings in the community other than the person’s private residence. Day habilitation services are not limited to fixed-site facilities. Supplement the core definition by specifying where day habilitation is furnished.

• If transportation between the participant’s place of residence and the day habilitation site, or other community settings in which the service is delivered, is provided as a component part of day habilitation services and the cost of this transportation is included in the rate paid to providers of day habilitation services, the service definition must include a statement to that effect in the definition.

Guidance

• Day habilitation may not provide for the payment of services that are vocational in nature (i.e., for the primary purpose of produces goods or performing services).

• Personal care/assistance may be a component part of day habilitation services as necessary to meet the needs of a participant but may not comprise the entirety of the service.

• Participants who receive day habilitation services may also receive educational, supported employment and prevocational services. A participant’s person-centered service plan may include two or more types of non-residential habilitation services. However, different types of non-residential habilitation services may not be billed during the same period of the day.

• Day habilitation services may be furnished to any individual who requires them and chooses them through a person-centered planning process. Such services are not limited to persons with intellectual or developmental disabilities.

• For individuals with degenerative conditions, day habilitation may include training and supports designed to maintain skills and functioning and to prevent or slow regression rather than acquiring new skills or improving existing skills.

• Day habilitation services may also be used to provide supported retirement activities. As some people get older they may no longer desire to work and may need supports to assist them in meaningful retirement activities in their communities. This might involve altering schedules to allow for more rest time throughout the day, support to participate in hobbies, clubs and/ or other senior related activities in their communities.

• If States wish to cover “career planning” activities they may choose to include it as a component part of day habilitation services or it may be broken out as a separate stand alone service definition.
9. Education

Core Service Definition

Educational services consist of special education and related services as defined in Sections (22) and (25) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Improvement Act of 2004 (IDEA) (20 U.S.C. 1401 et seq.), to the extent to which they are not available under a program funded by IDEA. Documentation is maintained in the file of each individual receiving this service that the service is not otherwise available under section 110 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 or the IDEA.

Instructions

- If transportation between the participant's place of residence and the educational services site is provided as a component of education services and the cost of this transportation is included in the rate paid to providers of education services, include a statement to that effect in the service definition.
- Supplement or modify the core definition as appropriate to specify the service elements/activities that are furnished under the waiver and where education services are furnished.
- Supplement the core definition to specify the process by which it will be determined that education services do not fall within the requirements of the IDEA.

Guidance

- The IDEA requires the provision of comprehensive education and related services to children and youth with disabilities who are enrolled in special education programs. As a consequence, when a state proposes to include education services in its waiver, CMS will review the proposed waiver coverage to ensure that it does not provide for the payment of services that are mandated under IDEA.
- §1903(c)(3) of the Act permits Medicaid payment for services included in an eligible child’s Individualized Education Plan (IEP). However, this provision is limited to services that are provided under the State plan and does not include services that are furnished under the §1915(c) waiver authority. Consequently, HCBS waiver FFP may not be claimed for services included in a child’s IEP.

10. Prevocational Services

Core Service Definition

Services that provide learning and work experiences, including volunteer work, where the individual can develop general, non-job-task-specific strengths and skills that contribute to employability in paid employment in integrated community settings. Services are expected to occur over a defined period of time and with specific outcomes to be achieved, as determined by the individual and his/her service and supports planning team through an ongoing person-centered planning process, to be reviewed not less than annually or more frequently as requested by the individual. Individuals receiving prevocational services must have employment-related goals in their person-centered service plan; the general habilitation activities must be designed to support such employment goals. Competitive, integrated employment in the community for which an individual is compensated at or above the minimum wage, but not less than the customary wage and level of benefits paid by the employer for the same or similar work performed by individuals without disabilities is considered to be the successful outcome of prevocational services.

Prevocational services should enable each individual to attain the highest level of work in the most integrated setting and with the job matched to the individual’s interests, strengths, priorities, abilities, and capabilities, while following applicable federal wage guidelines. Services are intended to develop and teach general skills that lead to competitive and integrated employment including, but not limited to: ability to communicate effectively with supervisors, co-workers and customers; generally accepted community workplace conduct and dress; ability to follow directions; ability to attend to tasks; workplace problem solving skills and strategies; general workplace safety and mobility training.

Participation in prevocational services is not a required pre-requisite for individual or small group supported employment services provided under the waiver. Many individuals, particularly those transitioning from school to adult activities, are likely to choose to go directly into supported employment. Similarly, the evidence-based Individual Placement and Support (IPS) model of supported employment for individuals with behavioral health conditions emphasizes rapid job placement in lieu of prevocational services. Documentation is maintained in the file of each individual receiving this service that the service is not available under a program funded under section 110 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 or the IDEA (20 U.S.C. 1401 et seq.).

Instructions

• Supplement or modify the core definition as appropriate to incorporate the specific service elements furnished under the waiver.
• Prevocational services may be furnished in a variety of locations in the community and are not limited to fixed-site facilities. Specify in the service definition where these services are furnished.
• If transportation between the participant's place of residence and the prevocational services site/s is provided as a component part of prevocational services and the cost of this transportation is included in the rate paid to providers of prevocational services, the service definition must include a statement to that effect.
• Specify in the definition how the determination is made that the services furnished to the participant are prevocational rather than vocational in nature in accordance with 42 CFR §440.180(c)(2)(i).

Guidance

• Pre-vocational services include activities that are not primarily directed at teaching skills to perform a particular job, but at underlying habilitative goals (e.g., attention span, motor skills, interpersonal relations with co-workers and supervisors) that are associated with building skills necessary to perform compensated work in community integrated employment. Vocational services, which are not covered through waivers, are services that teach job task specific skills required by a participant for the primary purpose of completing those tasks for a specific facility based job and are not delivered in an integrated work setting through supported employment. The distinction between vocational and pre-vocational services is that pre-vocational services, regardless of setting, are delivered for the purpose of furthering habilitation goals that will lead to greater opportunities for competitive and integrated employment and career advancement at or above minimum wage. These goals are described in the individual’s person centered services and supports plan and are designed to teach skills that will lead to integrated competitive employment.

• A person receiving pre-vocational services may pursue employment opportunities at any time to enter the general work force. Pre-vocational services are intended to assist individuals to enter the general workforce.
• Individuals participating in prevocational services may be compensated in accordance with applicable Federal laws and regulations and the provision of prevocational services is always delivered with the intention of leading to permanent integrated employment at or above the minimum wage in the community.
• All prevocational and supported employment service options should be reviewed and considered as a component of an individual’s person-centered services and supports plan no less than annually, more frequently as necessary or as requested by the individual. These services and supports should be designed to support successful employment outcomes consistent with the individual’s goals.
• Personal care/assistance may be a component of prevocational services, but may not comprise the entirety of the service.
• Individuals who receive prevocational services may also receive educational, supported employment and/or day habilitation services. A participant’s person-centered service plan may include two or more types of non-residential habilitation services. However, different types of non-residential habilitation services may not be billed during the same period of the day.
• If states wish to cover “career planning” activities they may choose to include it as a component part of pre-vocational services or it may be broken out as a separate stand alone service definition.
• Prevocational services may include volunteer work, such as volunteer learning and training activities that prepare a person for entry into the paid workforce.
• Prevocational services are not limited to persons with intellectual or developmental disabilities.

- The service definition must specify the location(s) (if any) where FFP is claimed for the cost of room and board. FFP may not be claimed for room and board when respite is provided in the participant’s home or place of residence.

Guidance

- Receipt of respite care does not necessarily preclude a participant from receiving other services on the same day. For example, a participant may receive day services (such as supported employment, adult day care, personal care, nursing care, etc.) on the same day as he/she receives respite care. Payment may not be made for respite furnished at the same time when other services that include care and supervision are provided.

- Respite care may be made available to persons who receive residential habilitation or other types of residential services under the waiver (e.g., adult foster care) for the relief of a primary caregiver, provided that there is no duplication of payment. When respite is furnished for the relief of a foster care provider, foster care services may not be billed during the period that respite is furnished. Respite care may not be furnished for the purpose of compensating relief or substitute staff for a waiver residential service. The costs of such staff are met from payments for the waiver residential service.

Mental Health Services

42 CFR §440.180(b)(8) provides that a state may furnish under a waiver certain services (day treatment, partial hospitalization, psychosocial rehabilitation, and clinic services) to individuals with chronic mental illness. A state may offer other types of mental health services in addition to these as “other” waiver services. However, the provision of mental health services under a waiver is not limited to persons who have a primary diagnosis of chronic mental illness. They may be furnished to any participant who requires them regardless of waiver target group. As is the case with other services, mental health services under a waiver may be furnished on an “extended State plan services” coverage basis or may provide for the coverage of services furnished that differ from State plan services.

Mental health services offered under the State plan sometimes are limited to Medicaid beneficiaries who have been diagnosed as having serious (severe or persistent) mental illnesses. Under a waiver, a state may offer mental health services to persons who would benefit from them but who do not meet State plan criteria.

When a state proposes to cover mental health services under a waiver, CMS will review the State plan to ensure that the proposed coverage does not duplicate the coverage under the State plan. In the case of waivers that serve individuals under age 21, this review also will encompass the extent to which the proposed mental health services can be provided under the State plan and, therefore, should be furnished as services required under EPSDT.

13. Day Treatment

Core Service Definition

Services that are necessary for the diagnosis or treatment of the individual's mental illness. The purpose of this service is to maintain the individual's condition and functional level and to prevent relapse or hospitalization. These services consist of the following elements:

a. individual and group therapy with physicians or psychologists (or other mental health professionals to the extent authorized under State law);
Appendix C: Participant Services

b. occupational therapy, requiring the skills of a qualified occupational therapist;
c. services of social workers, trained psychiatric nurses, and other staff trained to work with individuals with psychiatric illness;
d. drugs and biologicals furnished for therapeutic purposes, provided that the medication is not otherwise available under the State plan or as a Medicare benefit to a participant;
e. individual activity therapies that are not primarily recreational or diversionary;
f. family counseling (the primary purpose of which is treatment of the individual's condition);
g. training and education of the individual (to the extent that training and educational activities are closely and clearly related to the individual's care and treatment); and,
h. diagnostic services.

Meals provided as part of these services shall not constitute a "full nutritional regimen" (3 meals per day).

Core Service Definition (Extended State Plan Service):

When day treatment or partial hospitalization services are covered under the waiver on an “extended State plan service” basis (e.g., the services furnished differ from the State plan coverage only in amount, duration and frequency but not scope or type of provider), extend the following alternate service core service definition:

Services that are provided when day treatment services furnished under the approved State plan limits are exhausted. The scope and nature of these services do not differ from day treatment services furnished under the State plan. The provider qualifications specified in the State plan apply. The additional amount of services that may be provided through the waiver is as follows:

Instructions

• Supplement or modify the core definition’s list of service elements as appropriate to reflect the specific service elements covered under the waiver.
• If transportation between the participant's place of residence and the day treatment is provided as a component part of day treatment/partial hospitalization services and the cost of this transportation is included in the rate paid to providers of these services, include a statement to that effect in the service definition.
• In the definition, specify whether these services are only furnished to individuals with chronic mental illness or whether they are available to all individuals served on this waiver who may require them, whether or not they have a formal diagnosis of chronic (serious) mental illness.
• If day treatment services are covered under the State plan but the waiver coverage is different, include the following statement in the service definition: “Day treatment (partial hospitalization) services under the waiver differ in nature, scope, supervision arrangements, or provider type (including provider training and qualifications) from day treatment (partial hospitalization) services in the State plan.” Also, specify the differences between the waiver and the State plan coverage. If day treatment or partial hospitalization is not covered under the State plan, do not include this statement.

14. Psychosocial Rehabilitation Services
Appendix C: Participant Services

Core Service Definition

Medical or remedial services recommended by a physician or other licensed practitioner of the healing arts under State law, for the maximum reduction of physical or mental disability and the restoration of maximum functional level. Specific services include the following:

a. restoration and maintenance of daily living skills (grooming, personal hygiene, cooking, nutrition, health and mental health education, medication management, money management and maintenance of the living environment);

b. social skills training in appropriate use of community services;

c. development of appropriate personal support networks, therapeutic recreational services (which are focused on therapeutic intervention rather than diversion);

and,

d. telephone monitoring and counseling services.

The following are specifically excluded from payment for psychosocial rehabilitation services:

a. vocational services,

b. prevocational services,

c. supported employment services, and

d. room and board.

Core Service Definition (Extended State Plan Service):

When psychosocial rehabilitation services are covered under the waiver solely on an “extended State plan service” basis (e.g., the services furnished differ from the State plan coverage only in amount, duration and frequency but not scope or type of provider), use the following alternate service core service definition:

Services that are provided when psychosocial rehabilitation services furnished under the approved State plan limits are exhausted. The scope and nature of these services do not differ from psychosocial services furnished under the State plan. The provider qualifications specified in the State plan apply. The additional amount of services that may be provided through the waiver is as follows:

Instructions

• Supplement or modify the core definition list of service elements as appropriate to reflect the specific service elements covered under the waiver.

• In the definition, specify whether these services are only furnished to individuals with chronic mental illness or whether they are made available to all waiver participants who need the service, whether or not they have a formal diagnosis of chronic (serious) mental illness.

• Psychosocial rehabilitation services may be furnished in any of a variety of locations in the community, including the participant’s own home, provider-operated living arrangements and other community settings. In the service definition, specify where these services will be furnished. When services are furnished in a residence, Federal financial participation may not be claimed for the cost of room and board.

• If psychosocial rehabilitation services (mental health rehabilitation services) are covered under the State plan but the waiver coverage is different, include the following in the service definition: “Psychosocial rehabilitation services under the waiver differ

in nature, scope, supervision arrangements, or provider type (including provider training and qualifications) from psychosocial rehabilitation services in the State plan.” Also, specify the differences between the waiver coverage and the State plan coverage. If psychosocial rehabilitation services are not covered under the State plan, do not include this statement.

Guidance

- The term “psychosocial rehabilitation services” subsumes the various types of mental health services that may be covered as rehabilitative services in the State plan under 42 CFR §440.130.
- Participants who are furnished psychosocial rehabilitation services may be provided prevocational and/or supported employment services when such services are included in the waiver as enhanced habilitation services. However, these services may not be combined with psychosocial rehabilitation services.

15. Clinic Services

Core Service Definition

Clinic services (whether or not furnished in a facility) are services as defined in 42 CFR §440.90.

Instructions

- In the definition, specify whether these services are only furnished to individuals with chronic mental illness or whether they are made available to all individuals served on this waiver, whether or not they have a formal diagnosis of chronic (serious) mental illness.
- In the definition, specify whether clinic services may only be furnished on the premises of a clinic or may be furnished outside the clinic facility. If services may be furnished offsite, specify the locations where they may be furnished.
- If (mental health) clinic services are covered under the State plan but the waiver coverage is different, include the following statement in the service definition: “Clinic services under the waiver differ in nature, scope, supervision arrangements, or provider type (including provider training and qualifications) from clinic services in the State plan.” Also, specify the differences between the waiver coverage and the State plan coverage. One way that the coverage of clinic services under the waiver may differ from coverage under the State plan is when services are furnished off-site from the clinic. Describe the difference between the waiver and the state plan coverage.
- When mental health clinic services are covered under the waiver only on an “extended State plan service” basis (e.g., the services furnished differ from the State plan coverage only in amount, duration and frequency but not scope), employ the following alternate service core service definition:

  Core Service Definition (Extended State Plan Service):

  Services that are provided when mental health clinic services (as defined in 42 CFR §440.90) furnished under the approved State plan limits are exhausted.
  The scope and nature of these services do not otherwise differ from clinic services furnished under the State plan. The provider qualifications specified in the State plan apply. The additional amount of services that may be provided through the waiver is as follows: (specify)

16. Live-in Caregiver

Core Service Definition

The payment for the additional costs of rent and food that can be reasonably attributed to an unrelated live-in personal caregiver who resides in the same household as the waiver participant. Payment will not be made when the participant lives in the caregiver’s home or in a residence that is owned or leased by the provider of Medicaid services.

Instructions

- In the revised waiver application, live-in caregiver is treated as a service that must be included in the listing of services in Appendix C-1.
- Method of determining the amount paid is specified in Appendix I-6.
- The expected costs and utilization of live-in caregiver payments must be accounted for as a distinct item in the computation of Factor D in Appendix J-2.

B. Other Services

Other services are services that are not: (a) statutory services; (b) extended state plan services; or, (c) services in support of participant direction.

1. Home Accessibility Adaptations (a.k.a., environmental accessibility adaptations)

Core Service Definition

Those physical adaptations to the private residence of the participant or the participant’s family, required by the participant's service plan, that are necessary to ensure the health, welfare and safety of the participant or that enable the participant to function with greater independence in the home. Such adaptations include the installation of ramps and grab-bars, widening of doorways, modification of bathroom facilities, or the installation of specialized electric and plumbing systems that are necessary to accommodate the medical equipment and supplies that are necessary for the welfare of the participant.

Excluded are those adaptations or improvements to the home that are of general utility, and are not of direct medical or remedial benefit to the participant. Adaptations that add to the total square footage of the home are excluded from this benefit except when necessary to complete an adaptation (e.g., in order to improve entrance/egress to a residence or to configure a bathroom to accommodate a wheelchair).

Instructions

- Supplement or modify the core definition list of service elements as appropriate to reflect the specific service elements covered under the waiver.
- An exhaustive listing of the specific adaptations may be included in the definition rather than the more general types of adaptations contained in the definition. In the core definition, the sentence beginning “Such adaptations …” may be deleted and the sentence “Adaptations include:” substituted, followed by the exhaustive listing of the specific home adaptations included in the coverage.
- The scope of home accessibility modifications may include the performance of necessary assessments to determine the types of modifications that are necessary. The cost estimates and claiming for this activity would need to be itemized separately in Appendix J as a cost component of the service.

Guidance

- Home accessibility adaptations may not be furnished to adapt living arrangements that are owned or leased by providers of waiver services.
- When, as provided in Olmstead Letter No. #3 (see Attachment D to the Instructions), the state authorizes home accessibility modifications up to 180 consecutive days of admission in advance of the community transition of an institutionalized person, the definition should reflect that provision has been made for such modifications. In such cases, the home modification begun while the person was institutionalized is not considered complete, and may not be billed until, the date the individual leaves the institution and enters the waiver.

2. Vehicle Modifications

Core Service Definition

Adaptations or alterations to an automobile or van that is the waiver participant’s primary means of transportation in order to accommodate the special needs of the participant. Vehicle adaptations are specified by the service plan as necessary to enable the participant to integrate more fully into the community and to ensure the health, welfare and safety of the participant. The following are specifically excluded:

1. Adaptations or improvements to the vehicle that are of general utility, and are not of direct medical or remedial benefit to the individual;
2. Purchase or lease of a vehicle; and
3. Regularly scheduled upkeep and maintenance of a vehicle except upkeep and maintenance of the modifications.

Instructions

- Modify or supplement the core definition to reflect the scope of vehicle modifications furnished under the waiver. If such modifications are limited to specific modifications, list the modifications for which payment will be made.
- The scope of vehicle modifications may include the performance of necessary assessments to determine the types of modifications that are necessary. The cost estimates and claiming for this activity would need to be itemized separately in Appendix J as a cost component of the service.

Guidance

- The vehicle that is adapted may be owned by the individual, a family member with whom the individual lives or has consistent and on-going contact, or a non-relative who provides primary long-term support to the individual and is not a paid provider of such services.
- Payment may not be made to adapt the vehicles that are owned or leased by paid providers of waiver services. The costs of necessary adaptations to provider vehicles may be compensated in the payment rate for transportation or other services (e.g., day habilitation) that include the cost of transportation.

3. Non-Medical Transportation
Appendix C: Participant Services

Core Service Definition

Service offered in order to enable waiver participants to gain access to waiver and other community services, activities and resources, as specified by the service plan. This service is offered in addition to medical transportation required under 42 CFR §431.53 and transportation services under the State plan, defined at 42 CFR §440.170(a) (if applicable), and does not replace them. Transportation services under the waiver are offered in accordance with the participant’s service plan. Whenever possible, family, neighbors, friends, or community agencies which can provide this service without charge are utilized.

Instructions

- Modify or supplement the core definition to reflect the scope of non-medical transportation furnished under the waiver.
- If transportation services are limited to specific situations, specify when transportation services are furnished in the definition.

Guidance

- Waiver transportation services may not be substituted for the transportation services that a state is obligated to furnish under the requirements of 42 CFR §431.53. For example, transportation of a waiver participant to receive medical care that is provided under the State plan must be billed as a State plan transportation service or charged as an administrative expense, not as a waiver service. Payment for transportation under the waiver is limited to the costs of transportation needed to access a waiver service included in the participant’s service plan or access other activities and resources identified in the service plan.
- When the costs of transportation are included in the provider rate for another waiver service (e.g., adult day health), there must be mechanisms to prevent the duplicative billing of non-medical transportation services.
- Non-medical transportation services may be furnished to waiver participants under age 21.
- If some providers have capacity to transport and it is incidental to the service the provider is delivering, then the state would need to incorporate the cost of transportation into the rate or add a cost component to cover it. If there are also providers that don’t have the capacity to transport, then the state should reflect the different reimbursement methodologies in Appendix I, and the range of cost estimates in Appendix J.

4. Specialized Medical Equipment and Supplies

Core Service Definition

Specialized medical equipment and supplies include: (a) devices, controls, or appliances, specified in the plan of care, that enable participants to increase their ability to perform activities of daily living; (b) devices, controls, or appliances that enable the participant to perceive, control, or communicate with the environment in which they live; (c) items necessary for life support or to address physical conditions along with ancillary supplies and equipment necessary to the proper functioning of such items; (d) such other durable and non-durable medical equipment not available under the State plan that is necessary to address participant functional limitations; and, (e) necessary medical supplies not available under the State plan. Items reimbursed with waiver funds are in addition to any medical equipment and supplies furnished under the State plan and exclude those items that are not of direct medical or remedial benefit to the participant. All items shall meet applicable standards of manufacture, design and installation.

Instructions

- Modify or supplement the core definition to reflect the scope of medical equipment and supplies furnished under the waiver.
- When coverage is limited to specific supplies or equipment, include a listing in the definition.
- If the coverage includes the costs of maintenance and upkeep of equipment, include a statement to that effect in the definition.
- When the coverage includes training the participant or caregivers in the operation and/or maintenance of the equipment or the use of a supply, include a statement to that effect in the definition.
- If the coverage includes the performance of assessments to identify the type of equipment needed by the participant, include a statement to that effect in the definition. The cost estimates and claiming for this activity would need to be itemized separately in Appendix J as a cost component of the service.
- When necessary equipment is purchased in advance of the community placement of an institutionalized person and claimed as a waiver cost post-entrance of the person to the waiver, include a statement to that effect.

Guidance

- This coverage may be used to supplement medical supplies and equipment under the State plan, items that the state makes available, or items that Medicare covers under Durable Medical Equipment.
- States have employed this coverage to furnish a wide variety of adaptive positioning devices, mobility aids, and adaptive equipment.
- The coverage also may include augmentative communication devices and services or such services may be covered as a distinct service.
- Medical equipment and supplies that can be covered under the State plan should be furnished as services required under EPSDT to waiver participants under age 21.

5. Assistive Technology

Core Service Definition

Assistive technology means an item, piece of equipment, service animal or product system, whether acquired commercially, modified, or customized, that is used to increase, maintain, or improve functional capabilities of participants. Assistive technology service means a service that directly assists a participant in the selection, acquisition, or use of an assistive technology device. Assistive technology includes--

(A) the evaluation of the assistive technology needs of a participant, including a functional evaluation of the impact of the provision of appropriate assistive technology and appropriate services to the participant in the customary environment of the participant;
Appendix C: Participant Services

(B) services consisting of purchasing, leasing, or otherwise providing for the acquisition of assistive technology devices for participants;

(C) services consisting of selecting, designing, fitting, customizing, adapting, applying, maintaining, repairing, or replacing assistive technology devices;

(D) coordination and use of necessary therapies, interventions, or services with assistive technology devices, such as therapies, interventions, or services associated with other services in the service plan;

(E) training or technical assistance for the participant, or, where appropriate, the family members, guardians, advocates, or authorized representatives of the participant; and

(F) training or technical assistance for professionals or other individuals who provide services to, employ, or are otherwise substantially involved in the major life functions of participants.

Instructions

• Modify or supplement the core definition to reflect the scope of assistive technology services and devices furnished under the waiver. If such devices, items and/or services are limited to specific types, list the types for which payment will be made.

• If the coverage includes the performance of assessments to identify the type of equipment needed by the participant, include a statement to that effect in the definition. The cost estimates and claiming for this activity would need to be itemized separately in Appendix J as a cost component of the service.

6. Personal Emergency Response System (PERS)

Core Service Definition

PERS is an electronic device that enables waiver participants to secure help in an emergency. The participant may also wear a portable "help" button to allow for mobility. The system is connected to the participant’s phone and programmed to signal a response center once a "help" button is activated. The response center is staffed by trained professionals, as specified herein.

Instructions

• Supplement or modify the core definition as appropriate to reflect the specific covered devices and services under the waiver.

• If installation, upkeep and maintenance of devices/systems are provided, include a statement to that effect in the definition. The cost estimates and claiming for this activity would need to be itemized separately in Appendix J as a cost component of the service.

7. Community Transition Services

Core Service Definition

Community Transitions Services are non-recurring set-up expenses for individuals who are transitioning from an institutional or another provider-operated living arrangement to a living arrangement in a private residence where the person is directly responsible for his or her own living expenses. Allowable expenses are those necessary to enable a person to establish a basic household that do not constitute room and board and may include: (a) security deposits that are required to obtain a lease on an apartment or home; (b) essential household furnishings and moving expense required to occupy and use a community domicile, including furniture, window coverings, food preparation items, and bed/bath linens; (c) set-up fees or deposits for utility or service access, including telephone, electricity, heating and water; (d) services necessary for the individual’s health and safety such as pest eradication and one-time cleaning prior to occupancy; (e) moving expenses; (f) necessary home accessibility adaptations; and, (g) activities to assess need, arrange for and procure need resources. Community Transition Services are furnished only to the extent that they are reasonable and necessary as determining through the service plan development process, clearly identified in the service plan and the person is unable to meet such expense or when the services cannot be obtained from other sources. Community Transition Services do not include monthly rental or mortgage expense; food, regular utility charges; and/or household appliances or items that are intended for purely diversional/recreational purposes.

Instructions

- Supplement or modify the core definition as appropriate to reflect the specific community transition services that are included under the waiver.
- The service definition may be modified as necessary to reflect specific items and services that are included or excluded.
- Community Transition Services may not include payment for room and board. The payment of a security deposit is not considered rent.

Guidance

- See State Medicaid Director Letter #02-008 (Attachment D to Instructions) for further information.
- When Community Transition Services are furnished to individuals returning to the community from a Medicaid institutional setting through entrance to the waiver, the costs of such services are considered to be incurred and billable when the person leaves the institutional setting and enters the waiver. The individual must be reasonably expected to be eligible for and to enroll in the waiver. If for any unseen reason, the individual does not enroll in the waiver (e.g., due to death or a significant change in condition), transitional services may be billed to Medicaid as an administrative cost.
- At the state’s option, Community Transition Services may be furnished as a waiver service to individuals who transition from provider-operated settings other than Medicaid reimbursable institutions to their own private residence in the community.
- Community Transition Services may not be used to pay for furnishing living arrangements that are owned or leased by a waiver provider where the provision of these items and services are inherent to the service they are already providing.

8. Skilled Nursing

Core Service Definition

Services listed in the service plan that are within the scope of the State's Nurse Practice Act and are provided by a registered professional nurse, or licensed practical or vocational nurse under the supervision of a registered nurse, licensed to practice in the State.

Instructions

- If skilled nursing services are limited to specific types of nursing services, specify the types of services in the definition.
- If skilled nursing services are covered under the State plan but the waiver coverage is different, include the following statement in the service definition: “Skilled nursing services under the waiver differ in nature, scope, supervision arrangements, or provider type (including provider training and qualifications) from skilled nursing services in the State plan.” Also, specify the differences between the waiver coverage and the State plan coverage. If skilled nursing services are not covered under the State plan, do not include this statement. Describe the difference between the waiver coverage and the state plan coverage.
- If skilled nursing services are covered under the waiver only on an “extended State plan service” basis (e.g., the services furnished differ from the State plan coverage only in amount, duration and frequency but not scope), employ the following alternate service core service definition:

  Core Service Definition (Extended State Plan Service)

  Services that are provided when nursing services furnished under the approved State plan limits are exhausted. The scope and nature of these services do not otherwise differ from nursing services furnished under the State plan. The provider qualifications specified in the State plan apply. The additional amount of services that may be provided through the waiver is as follows:

Guidance

- Skilled nursing is the provision of nursing services on an intermittent or part-time basis. “Private duty nursing” (see below) entails the provision of nursing services on a continuous or full time basis.
- Skilled nursing services that can be furnished under the State plan should be furnished as services required under EPSDT to waiver participants under age 21.

9. Private Duty Nursing

Core Service Definition

Individual and continuous care (in contrast to part time or intermittent care) provided by licensed nurses within the scope of State law. These services are provided to a participant at home.

Instructions

- If private duty nursing services are limited to specific types of nursing services, specify the types of services in the definition.
- When private duty nursing services are covered under the State plan but the waiver coverage is different, include the following statement in the service definition: “Private duty nursing services under the waiver differ in nature, scope, supervision arrangements, or provider type (including provider training and qualifications) from private duty nursing services in the State plan.” Also, specify the differences between the waiver coverage and the State plan coverage. If private duty nursing services are not covered under the State plan, do not include this statement. Describe the difference in waiver coverage and state plan coverage.

- If private duty nursing services are covered under the waiver only on an “extended State plan service” basis (e.g., the services furnished differ from the State plan coverage only in amount, duration and frequency but not otherwise), employ the following alternate service core service definition:

  Core Service Definition (Extended State Plan Service):

  Services that are provided when the limits of private duty nursing furnished under the approved State plan are exhausted. The scope and nature of these services do not otherwise differ from private duty nursing services furnished under the State plan. The provider qualifications specified in the State plan apply. The additional amount of services that may be provided through the waiver is as follows:

Guidance

- As defined in 42 CFR §440.80, private duty nursing is the provision of nursing services on a continuous or full-time basis. “Skilled nursing” is the provision of nursing services on a periodic or intermittent basis.

- Private duty nursing services that can be provided under the State plan should be furnished to waiver participants under age 21 as services required under EPSDT.

10. Adult Foster Care

Core Service Definition

Personal care and supportive services (e.g., homemaker, chore, attendant care, companion, medication oversight (to the extent permitted under State law)) provided in a licensed (where applicable) private home by a principal care provider who lives in the home. Adult foster care is furnished to adults who receive these services in conjunction with residing in the home. The total number of individuals (including participants served in the waiver) living in the home, who are unrelated to the principal care provider, cannot exceed [insert number]. Separate payment is not made for homemaker or chore services furnished to a participant receiving adult foster care services, since these services are integral to and inherent in the provision of adult foster care services.

Payments for adult foster care services are not made for room and board, items of comfort or convenience, or the costs of facility maintenance, upkeep and improvement. Payment for adult foster care services does not include payments made, directly or indirectly, to members of the participant's immediate family. The methodology by which the costs of room and board are excluded from payments for adult foster care is described in Appendix I.

Instructions

- Modify or supplement the core definition to reflect the scope of adult foster care furnished under the waiver.

- In the core definition, insert the total maximum number of individuals not related to the caregiver who may reside in the home.

Guidance
Appendix C: Participant Services

- Adult foster care is a residential service that is furnished in the primary caregiver’s own private home. In some states, these services are entitled “host home services.”
- A state may contract with each primary caregiver for the provision of adult foster care services and/or contract with agencies that, in turn, contract with and supervise individual caregivers.
- Adult foster care is considered a residential habilitation service only when habilitation is included in the defined scope of the adult foster care service. Adult foster care is not considered a residential habilitation service when habilitation services are furnished in the adult foster care setting by a different provider and billed separately.

11. Assisted Living Services

Core Service Definition

Personal care and supportive services (homemaker, chore, attendant services, meal preparation) that are furnished to waiver participants who reside in a setting that meets the HCB setting requirements and includes 24-hour on-site response capability to meet scheduled or unpredictable resident needs and to provide supervision, safety and security. Services also include social and recreational programming, and medication assistance (to the extent permitted under State law). Services that are provided by third parties must be coordinated with the assisted living provider.

Nursing and skilled therapy services are incidental rather than integral to the provision of assisted living services. Payment is not made for 24-hour skilled care. Federal financial participation is not available for room and board, items of comfort or convenience, or the costs of facility maintenance, upkeep and improvement. The methodology by which the costs of room and board are excluded from payments for assisted living services is described in Appendix I-5.

Instructions

- Modify or supplement the core definition to reflect the scope of assisted living services furnished under the waiver.
- Indicate whether payment for assisted living services includes any of the following:
  - Home health care
  - Physical therapy
  - Occupational therapy
  - Speech therapy
  - Medication administration
  - Intermittent skilled nursing services
  - Transportation specified in the service plan
  - Periodic nursing evaluations
  - Other specified services
- When assisted living services are furnished in living arrangements subject to §1616(e) of the Social Security Act (the Keys Amendment), the standards for such services must address the topics specified in Appendix C-2 (item C-2-c-ii), including assuring that the living arrangement is homelike rather than institutional in character.

Guidance

- Note: While this version of the waiver application continues to list “assisted living” as a service definition, CMS encourages states to use a more accurate name for the service. The term assisted living describes a setting, not a service. Medicaid never pays for “assisted living” in the ordinary sense of the monthly fee to the facility for room, board and services. Medicaid may cover, as a waiver service, some of the supportive services provided to assisted living residents. These services may be appropriately titled to reflect their nature and scope.

- Payment for assisted living services may encompass a comprehensive array of services and supports that are normally furnished on an integrated basis by an assisted living provider to residents.
- When the scope of assisted living services includes services (e.g., personal care or chore services) that are also covered as distinct services under the waiver, there must be mechanisms that ensure, when such services are included in the comprehensive rate that is paid to the assisted living provider, the services may not also be billed separately.
- When a comprehensive payment is made to a provider for assisted living services, the provider’s own employees must directly furnish some or all services to residents. The provider may arrange for the provision of some services on a contractual basis.
- The scope of assisted living services may include services that may be offered through the State plan to the extent such services are normally furnished as part of a comprehensive array of on-site assisted living services. There must be mechanisms to ensure that, when such services are included in the comprehensive rate that is paid to the assisted living provider, the services may not also be billed separately as State plan services.
- When a waiver includes assisted living services, the locations of service delivery must meet criteria described in Appendix C-2 with regard to the home and community based nature of the facility.

12. Chore Services

Core Service Definition

Services needed to maintain the home in a clean, sanitary and safe environment. This service includes heavy household chores such as washing floors, windows and walls, tacking down loose rugs and tiles, moving heavy items of furniture in order to provide safe access and egress. These services are provided only when neither the participant nor anyone else in the household is capable of performing or financially providing for them, and where no other relative, caregiver, landlord, community/volunteer agency, or third party payor is capable of or responsible for their provision. In the case of rental property, the responsibility of the landlord, pursuant to the lease agreement, is examined prior to any authorization of service.

Instructions

Supplement or modify the core definition as appropriate to reflect covered service elements/tasks under the waiver.

13. Adult Companion Services

Core Service Definition

Non-medical care, supervision and socialization, provided to a functionally impaired adult. Companions may assist or supervise the participant with such tasks as meal preparation, laundry and shopping. The provision of companion services does not entail hands-on nursing care. Providers may also perform light housekeeping tasks that are incidental to the care and supervision of the participant. This service is provided in accordance with a therapeutic goal in the service plan.

Instructions

- Supplement or modify the core definition as appropriate to reflect the specific covered service elements under the waiver.
- When the waiver also covers personal care, chore and/or homemaker services, the definition must describe how the provision of adult companion services does not duplicate the provision of such services.

14. Training and Counseling Services for Unpaid Caregivers

Core Service Definition

Training and counseling services for individuals who provide unpaid support, training, companionship or supervision to participants. For purposes of this service, individual is defined as any person, family member, neighbor, friend, companion, or co-worker who provides uncompensated care, training, guidance, companionship or support to a person served on the waiver. This service may not be provided in order to train paid caregivers. Training includes instruction about treatment regimens and other services included in the service plan, use of equipment specified in the service plan, and includes updates as necessary to safely maintain the participant at home. Counseling must be aimed at assisting the unpaid caregiver in meeting the needs of the participant. All training for individuals who provide unpaid support to the participant must be included in the participant’s service plan.

Instructions

Modify or supplement the core definition to reflect the specific types of training furnished that is furnished to unpaid persons who support the participant.

Guidance

- Training furnished to persons who provide uncompensated care and support to the participant must be directly related to their role in supporting the participant in areas specified in the service plan.
- Counseling similarly must be aimed at assisting unpaid individuals who support the participant to understand and address participant needs.
- FFP is available for the costs of registration and training fees associated with formal instruction in areas relevant to participant needs identified in the service plan. FFP is not available for the costs of travel, meals and overnight lodging to attend a training event or conference.

15. Consultative Clinical and Therapeutic Services

Core Service Definition

Clinical and therapeutic services that assist unpaid caregivers and/or paid support staff in carrying out individual treatment/support plans, and that are not covered by the Medicaid State Plan, and are necessary to improve the individual’s independence and inclusion in their community. Consultation activities are provided by professionals in psychology, nutrition, counseling and behavior management. The service may include assessment, the development of a home treatment/support plan, training and technical assistance to carry out the plan and monitoring of the individual and the provider in the implementation of the plan. This service may be delivered in the individual’s home or in the community as described in the service plan.

Instructions
Modify or supplement the core definition to reflect the specific types of consultative services that are furnished.

Guidance
The purpose of consultative services is to improve the ability of unpaid caregivers and paid direct support staff to carry out therapeutic interventions.

16. Individual Directed Goods and Services

Core Service Definition

Individual Directed Goods and Services are services, equipment or supplies not otherwise provided through this waiver or through the Medicaid State Plan that address an identified need in the service plan (including improving and maintaining the participant’s opportunities for full membership in the community) and meet the following requirements: the item or service would decrease the need for other Medicaid services; AND/OR promote inclusion in the community; AND/OR increase the participant’s safety in the home environment; AND, the participant does not have the funds to purchase the item or service or the item or service is not available through another source. Individual Directed Goods and Services are purchased from the participant-directed budget. Experimental or prohibited treatments are excluded. Individual Directed Goods and Services must be documented in the service plan.

Instructions
Modify or supplement the core definition to reflect the scope of individual directed goods and services in the waiver.

Guidance

• The coverage of this service permits a state to authorize the purchase of goods and services that are not otherwise offered in the waiver or the State plan.
• The coverage of this service is limited to waivers that incorporate the Budget Authority participant direction opportunity.
• Goods and services purchased under this coverage may not circumvent other restrictions on the claiming of FFP for waiver services, including the prohibition against claiming for the costs of room and board.
• The specific goods and services that are purchased under this coverage must be documented in the service plan.
• The goods and services that are purchased under this coverage must be clearly linked to an assessed participant need established in the service plan.

17. Bereavement Counseling

Core Service Definition
Counseling provided to the participant and/or family members in order to guide and help them cope with the participant’s illness and the related stress that accompanies the continuous, daily care required by a terminally ill child. Enabling the participant and family members to manage this stress improves the likelihood that the child with a life-threatening condition will continue to be cared for at home, thereby preventing premature and otherwise unnecessary institutionalization. Bereavement activities and opportunities for dialog offer the family a mechanism for expressing emotion and asking questions about death and grieving in a safe environment thereby potentially decreasing complications for the family after the child dies. Bereavement counseling is initiated and billed while the child is on the waiver but may continue after the death of the child for a period of up to six months.

Instructions
Modify or supplement the core definition to reflect the scope of bereavement counseling in the waiver.

Guidance
- Bereavement counseling services are associated with waivers that target children with terminal illnesses.
- Payment for bereavement counseling services may be provided for on-going counseling to family members after the child’s death so long as such services were initiated prior to the child’s death. The expected costs of such counseling must be billed in advance.

18. Career Planning

Core Service Definition
Career planning is a person-centered, comprehensive employment planning and support service that provides assistance for waiver program participants to obtain, maintain or advance in competitive employment or self-employment. It is a focused, time limited service engaging a participant in identifying a career direction and developing a plan for achieving competitive, integrated employment at or above the state’s minimum wage. The outcome of this service is documentation of the participant’s stated career objective and a career plan used to guide individual employment support.

Instructions:
- Supplement or modify the core definition as appropriate to incorporate the specific service elements furnished in the waiver.
- Supplement the core service definition by specifying where in the community career planning may be furnished.
- If transportation between the participant's place of residence and the site where career planning is delivered is provided as a component part of career planning services and the cost of this transportation is included in the rate paid to providers of career planning services, the service definition must include a statement to that effect in the definition.

Guidance:
- For young people with disabilities transitioning out of high school or college into adult services, it is important to have the opportunity to plan for sufficient time and experiential learning opportunities for the appropriate exploration, assessment and discovery processes to learn about career options as one first enters the general workforce.
Appendix C: Participant Services

• Individuals who receive career planning services may also receive educational, supported employment, pre-vocational and/or day habilitation services. A participant’s person-centered services and supports plan may include two or more types of non-residential habilitation services. However, different types of non-residential habilitation services may not be billed during the same period of the day.

• If a waiver participant is receiving prevocational services or day habilitation services, career planning may be used to develop experiential learning opportunities and career options consistent with the person’s skills and interests.

• If a waiver participant is employed and receiving either individual or small group supported employment services, career planning may be used to find other competitive employment more consistent with the person’s skills and interests or to explore advancement opportunities in his or her chosen career.

• All prevocational and supported employment service options, including career planning, should be reviewed and considered as a component of an individual’s person-centered services and supports plan no less than annually, more frequently as necessary or as requested by the individual. These services and supports should be designed to support successful employment outcomes consistent with the individual’s goals.

• Career planning furnished under the waiver may not include services available under a program funded under section 110 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 or section 602(16) and (17) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (20 U.S.C. 1401(16 and 17).

• Career planning may include benefits support, training and planning, as well as assessment for use of assistive technology to increase independence in the workplace.

• If a state wishes to cover “career planning” it may choose to include it as a component part of day habilitation, pre-vocational services or supported employment small group or individual employment support services or it may be broken out as a separate stand alone service definition.

• Career planning services may be furnished to any individual who requires and chooses them. They are not limited to persons with intellectual or developmental disabilities.

C. Extended State Plan Services

Discussion

When a service is included as an extended State plan service, the coverage parameters (e.g., nature of the service and provider qualifications) contained in the State plan apply. The coverage of a State plan service on an extended basis means providing the service in an amount over and above that permitted under the state plan (e.g., if the plan limits physician visits to three per month, extended coverage may permit additional visits). When a service is defined in a fashion that is different from the coverage under the State plan, it is considered an “other service” that is separately defined in the application. Services that could be covered under the State plan but which are not are considered “other services” for the purpose of the waiver application.

Core Service Definition

The following core service definition may be employed for each extended state plan service included in the waiver:
Appendix C: Participant Services

Services that are provided when the limits of [State plan service] under the approved State plan are exhausted. The scope and nature of these services do not otherwise differ from [State plan service] services furnished under the State plan. The provider qualifications specified in the State plan apply. The additional amount of services that may be provided through the waiver is as follows: (specify)

Instructions

- Insert the name of the specific state plan service that is offered on an extended basis under the waiver. Extended State plan services may include but are not limited to:
  - Physician services
  - Home health care services
  - Physical therapy
  - Occupational therapy
  - Speech, hearing and language services
  - Prescribed drugs, except drugs furnished to participants who are eligible for Medicare Part D benefits
  - Dental services
  - Other services specified by the state

- For each extended state plan service, specify the extent of the extended coverage (e.g., the provision of additional therapeutic treatments over and above the amount allowed in the state plan).

D. Services in Support of Participant Direction

Discussion

Services in Support of Participant Direction are offered whenever a waiver affords participants the opportunity to direct some or all of their waiver services. Two core service definitions are provided: (a) information and assistance in support of participant direction and (b) financial management services. States may propose additional types of supportive services.

1. Information and Assistance in Support of Participant Direction (Supports Brokerage)

Core Service Definition

Service/function that assists the participant (or the participant’s family or representative, as appropriate) in arranging for, directing and managing services. Serving as the agent of the participant or family, the service is available to assist in identifying immediate and long-term needs, developing options to meet those needs and accessing identified supports and services. Practical skills training is offered to enable families and participants to independently direct and manage waiver services. Examples of skills training include providing information on recruiting and hiring personal care workers, managing workers and providing information on effective communication and problem-solving. The service/function includes providing information to ensure that participants understand the responsibilities involved with directing their services. The extent of the assistance furnished to the participant or family is specified in the service plan. This service does not duplicate other waiver services, including case management.

Instructions

Modify or supplement the core definition to accurately reflect the scope and nature of supports for participant direction furnished under the waiver

Guidance

- This service is limited to participants who direct some or all of their waiver services.
- As discussed in the instructions for Appendix E (Participant Direction of Services), the scope and nature of this service hinges on the type and nature of the opportunities for participant direct afforded by the waiver.
- Through this service, information may be provided to participant about:
  - person centered planning and how it is applied;
  - the range and scope of individual choices and options;
  - the process for changing the plan of care and individual budget;
  - the grievance process;
  - risks and responsibilities of self-direction;
  - free of choice of providers;
  - individual rights;
  - the reassessment and review schedules; and,
  - such other subjects pertinent to the participant and/or family in managing and directing services.

Assistance may be provided to the participant with:

- defining goals, needs and preferences, identifying and accessing services, supports and resources;
- practical skills training (e.g., hiring, managing and terminating workers, problem solving, conflict resolution);
- development of risk management agreements;
- development of an emergency back up plan;
- recognizing and reporting critical events;
- independent advocacy, to assist in filing grievances and complaints when necessary; and,
- other areas related to managing services and supports.

- This service may include the performance of activities that nominally overlap the provision of case management services. In general, such overlap does not constitute duplicate provision of services. For example, a “support broker” may assist a participant during the development of a person-centered plan to ensure that the participant’s needs and preferences are clearly understood even though a case manager is responsible for the development of the service plan. Duplicate provision of services generally only arises when exactly the same activity is performed and billed on behalf of a waiver participant. Where the possibility of duplicate provision of services exists, the participant’s service plan should clearly delineate responsibilities for the performance of activities.

2. Financial Management Services

Core Service Definition

Service/function that assists the family or participant to: (a) manage and direct the disbursement of funds contained in the participant-directed budget; (b) facilitate the employment of staff by the family or participant, by performing as the participant’s agent such employer responsibilities as processing payroll, withholding Federal, state, and local tax and making tax payments to appropriate tax authorities; and,
(c) performing fiscal accounting and making expenditure reports to the participant or family and state authorities.

Instructions

Supplement or modify the core definition to accurately reflect the scope and nature of financial management services furnished under the waiver.

Guidance

- This service is limited to participants who direct some or all of their waiver services.
- As discussed in the instructions for Appendix E (Participant Direction of Services), the scope and nature of this service hinges on the type and nature of the opportunities for participant direct afforded by the waiver. In general, the functions that may be performed in conjunction with the provision of financial management services include (but are not necessarily limited to):

Employer Authority
- Assist the participant to verify worker citizenship status
- Collect and process timesheets of support workers
- Process payroll, withholding, filing and payment of applicable Federal, state and local employment-related taxes and insurance

Budget Authority
- Maintain a separate account for each participant’s participant-directed budget
- Track and report participant funds, disbursements and the balance of participant funds
- Process and pay invoices for goods and services approved in the service plan
- Provide participant with periodic reports of expenditures and the status of the participant-directed budget

Additional functions/activities
- Execute and hold Medicaid provider agreements as authorized under a written agreement with the Medicaid agency
- Receive and disburse funds for the payment of participant-directed services under an agreement with the Medicaid agency or operating agency
- Provide other entities specified by the State with periodic reports of expenditures and the status of the participant-directed budget

- When financial management services are provided as a waiver service, entities that perform these services may be deemed by the state to function as an Organized Health Care Delivery System.
- When entities are not deemed to be an Organized Health Care Delivery System, such entities must have a written agreement with the Medicaid agency in order to execute and hold Medicaid provider agreements and receive and disburse funds.
- When financial management services are furnished as a waiver service, the number of providers may not be limited.
- The waiver may provide that entities which furnish financial management services undergo a readiness review as part of the determination that such entities are qualified to furnish these services.
Appendix D: Participant-Centered Planning and Service Delivery

Brief Overview

This Appendix addresses the following:

- Service plan development (Appendix D-1)
- Service plan implementation and monitoring (Appendix D-2)

Appendix D-1: Service Plan Development

Background

A well-designed process for developing and implementing waiver participant service plans is perhaps the most critical component of the waiver program. Service planning is the process through which each waiver participant’s needs, goals and preferences are identified and strategies are developed to address those needs, goals and preferences. It is the process through which the participant exercises choice and control over services and supports and through which risks are assessed and planned for. A well designed process incorporates and maximizes the resources and supports present in the person’s life and community. It is important that the planning process also enables and supports each participant (and/or family or legal representative, as appropriate) to fully engage in and direct the planning process to the extent he/she chooses. It is through the planning process that roles and responsibilities are clarified for participants who direct their own services.

The service plan (plan of care) identifies the waiver services as well as other services and supports that a person needs in order to live successfully in the community and, therefore, avoid institutionalization. In accordance with 42 CFR §441.301 (b)(1)(i), all waiver services must be furnished pursuant to a written service plan that is developed for each waiver participant. The service plan must reflect the full range of a participant’s service needs and include both the Medicaid and non-Medicaid services along with informal supports that are necessary to address those needs. The service plan commits the state to provide the Medicaid services and supports that are specified in the plan.

FFP may be claimed only for those waiver services that are included in the service plan and may not be claimed for services furnished prior to the development of the service or for services not included in the service plan.

When non-waiver services and supports are included in the service plan, the waiver administering agency is not responsible for ensuring their availability or actual delivery. As necessary and appropriate, activities should be undertaken to link, refer or advocate for such services. When non-waiver services and supports are needed to meet the needs of the participant, their provision must be monitored during the implementation of the service plan.

CMS encourages and supports the use of person/family-centered planning methods in service plan development. Such methods actively engage and empower the participant and individuals selected by the participant in leading and directing the design of the service plan and, thereby, ensure that the plan reflects the needs and preferences of the participant (and/or family, if applicable). Person/family-centered planning is an integral element of participant direction of services. In order to secure Independence Plus designation, the waiver must reflect the application of person-centered planning principles.

The service plan must contain, at a minimum: the services that are furnished, the amount and frequency of each service, and the type of provider to furnish each service. The service plan need not identify the specific provider of each waiver service. It is not necessary to submit a copy of the form or forms used to document the service plan along with the application. However, the form or forms employed must be readily available to CMS upon request through the Medicaid agency or operating agency (if applicable). The form or forms employed in conjunction with the waiver must meet the minimum standards just described. Meeting these standards is a condition of claiming Federal financial participation in the cost of waiver services furnished to a waiver participant.

The service plan must be revised as necessary to add or delete services or modify the amount and frequency of services. Service plans must be reviewed at least annually or whenever necessary due to a change in the participant’s needs.

How the waiver assures that service plans address all participants’ assessed needs (including health and safety risk factors) and personal goals, either by the provision of waiver services or through other means is one of the six waiver assurances and other requirements that must be addressed in the Quality Improvement Strategy described throughout the application.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix D-1

Service Plan Title

Instructions

Specify the title that the state has adopted for the service plan and, if applicable, its abbreviation (e.g., Individual Service Plan (ISP)).

Item D-1-a: Responsibility for Service Plan Development

Instructions

From the choices listed, select who is responsible for service plan development. As applicable, specify the qualifications of these individuals.

Technical Guidance

Responsibility for the development of the service plan means ensuring that all applicable policies and procedures associated with service plan development are carried out. These policies and procedures include but are not limited to the following: (1) the participant has the opportunity to engage and/or direct the process to the extent they wish; (2) those whom the participant wishes to attend and participate in developing the service plan are provided adequate notice; (3) the planning process is timely; (4) needs are assessed and services meet the needs and, (5) the responsibilities are identified. It does not mean that the individual who is responsible for service plan development has decision-making authority over the services included in the plan. The qualifications of individuals who are responsible for service plan development should be reflective of the nature of the waiver’s target population. It is not a Federal requirement that medical professionals (e.g., physicians, nurses) must be responsible for service plan development.

CMS Review Criteria

The State has specified qualifications of the individuals responsible for service plan development that reflect the nature of the waiver’s target groups.
Item D-1-b: Service Plan Development Safeguards

Instructions

Indicate whether the entities and/or individuals responsible for the development of the person-centered service plan are permitted to provide other direct (non-case management) services to the waiver participant, or whether they have an interest in or are employed by a provider of HCBS. If such entities are permitted to furnish other services, explain how and why they are the only willing and qualified entity to be responsible for the person-centered service plan, and describe the safeguards that the state has established to ensure that person-centered service plan development is conducted in the best interests of the waiver participant.

Technical Guidance

Regulations at 42 CFR 441.301(c)(1)(vi) require that providers of HCBS for the individual, or those who have an interest in or are employed by a provider of HCBS for the individual must not provide case management or develop the person-centered service plan, except when the State demonstrates that the only willing and qualified entity to provide case management and/or develop person-centered service plans in a geographic area also provides HCBS. In these cases, the State must devise conflict of interest protections including separation of entity and provider functions within provider entities, which must be approved by CMS. Individuals must be provided with a clear and accessible alternative dispute resolution process.

The safeguards to mitigate and addresses the potential problems that may arise when the individual’s HCBS provider, or an entity with an interest in or employed by a provider of HCBS, performs service plan development (ex. self-referral) need to include, at a minimum:

a. Full disclosure to participants and assurance that participants are supported in exercising their right to free choice of providers and are provided information about the full range of waiver services, not just the services furnished by the entity that is responsible for the person-centered service plan development;

b. An opportunity for the participant to dispute the state’s assertion that there is not another entity or individual that is not that individual’s provider to develop the person-centered service plan through a clear and accessible alternative dispute resolution process;

c. Direct oversight of the process or periodic evaluation by a state agency;

d. Restricting the entity that develops the person-centered service plan from providing services without the direct approval of the state; and

e. Requiring the agency that develops the person-centered service plan to administratively separate the plan development function from the direct service provider functions.

CMS Review Criteria

When a state allows for an entity that is responsible for person-centered service plan development to also provide other direct waiver services, the state has:
1. Demonstrated that the entity is the only willing and qualified provider to develop the person-centered service plan; and

2. Described safeguards that mitigate and addresses the potential problems that may arise, with the service providers’ influence on the person-centered planning process (exercising free choice of providers, controlling the content of the plan, including assessment of risk, services, frequency and duration, and informing the participant of their rights) including:

   a) Full disclosure to participants and assurance that participants are supported in exercising their right to free choice of providers and are provided information about the full range of waiver services, not just the services furnished by the entity that is responsible for the person-centered service plan development;

   b) An opportunity for the participant to dispute the state’s assertion that there is not another entity or individual that is not that individual’s provider to develop the person-centered service plan through a clear and accessible alternative dispute resolution process;

   c) Direct oversight of the process or periodic evaluation by a state agency;

   d) Restricting the entity that develops the person-centered service plan from providing services without the direct approval of the state; and

   e) Requiring the agency that develops the person-centered service plan to administratively separate the plan development function from the direct service provider functions.

Item D-1-c: Supporting the Participant in Service Plan Development

Instructions

In the text field, specify: (a) the supports and information that are made available to the participant (and/or family or legal representative, as appropriate) to direct and be actively engaged in the service plan development process and (b) the participant’s authority to determine who is included in the process.

Technical Guidance

An effective service plan development process provides the waiver participant the opportunity to actively lead and engage in the development of the plan, including identifying individuals who will be involved in the process. The participant should be furnished supports that are necessary to enable the participant to actively engage in the planning process, including providing information about the range of services and supports offered through the waiver in advance of service plan development and engaging individuals (e.g., a support broker) to assist the participant or facilitate a person-centered planning process. Participants also may be offered other education/training opportunities initially and on an ongoing basis.

When Independence Plus designation is requested for a waiver, the responses to this item and the following item will be assessed in determining whether the waiver employs a personcentered planning approach. See CMS review criteria for the next item.

CMS Review Criteria

- The participant’s authority to include individuals of his/her choice to participate in the service plan development process is specified.
- The description identifies the meaningful information and supports that are available to the participant (or others designated by the participant) to actively engage in and direct the process.

Item D-1-d. Service Plan Development Process

Instructions

In four pages or less (no more than 24,000 characters), provide a comprehensive description of the process that is used to develop the participant-centered service plan, including: (a) who develops the plan, who participates in the process, and the timing of the plan; (b) the types of assessments that are conducted to support service plan development, including securing information about participant needs, preferences and goals, and health status, including who conducts the assessments; (c) how the participant is informed of the services that are available under the waiver; (d) how the plan development process ensures that the service plan addresses participant goals, needs (including health care needs), and preferences; (e) how waiver and other services are coordinated and by whom; (f) how the plan development process provides for the assignment of responsibilities to implement and monitor the plan; and, (g) how and when the plan is updated, including when the participant’s needs change; and, (h) how the participant engages in and/or directs the planning process.

Technical Guidance

This item requires furnishing a comprehensive description of the dimensions of the service plan development process, including the sequence of activities, the integration of assessment information into service planning, and the distribution of roles and responsibilities. The next item separately addresses how the service plan development process identifies potential risks to the participant and how strategies to mitigate risk are incorporated into the service plan. State laws, regulations, and policies cited in response to this item that affect the service plan development process must be available to CMS upon request through the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable)

When the service plan development process results in an individual being denied the services of their choice or the providers of their choice, the state must afford the individual the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing. The Fair Hearing process is addressed in Appendix F-1.

When the waiver provides for participant direction opportunities, the response to this item should identify any activities that are undertaken during the service plan development process that are specific to participant direction (e.g., furnishing information and assistance in setting up the participant-directed budget).

When provision is made to develop a temporary interim service plan in order to initiate services in advance of the finalization of a full service plan, describe the procedures used to develop the interim plan and the duration of the interim plan.

When Independence Plus designation is sought for the waiver, the response to this and previous item will be evaluated to determine whether the service plan development process is participant-led and person-centered when waiver participants elect to direct some or all of their waiver services. See the Independence Plus review criteria below.

CMS Review Criteria
The description of the service plan development process addresses:

- Who develops the plan and who participates in the process;
- The timing of the plan and how and when it is updated, including in response to changing circumstances and needs (including how the planning meetings are scheduled at times and locations convenient to the individual and the person(s) he/she wants to participate);
- The types of assessments that are conducted as part of the service plan development process, including securing information about participant strengths, capacities, needs, preferences, and desired outcomes, health status, and risk factors;
- How participant is informed of services available under the waiver;
- How the process ensures that the service plan addresses participant desired outcomes, needs and preferences;
- How responsibilities are assigned for implementing the plan;
- How the process addresses participants’ health care needs;
- How waiver and other services (i.e., State Plan services and services furnished through other state and Federal programs) are coordinated;
- The assignment of responsibility to monitor and oversee the implementation of the service plan; and,
- If the State uses temporary, interim service plans to get services initiated until a more detailed service plan can be finalized, the state has described the procedures for developing interim plans and the duration of not more than 60 days for such interim plans.

Independence Plus Designation
In order to secure Independence Plus designation, the responses to this and the preceding item must demonstrate that:

- The participant is the center of all planning activities.
- The participant and his/her representative or support team:
  - Have the requisite information to assume a controlling role in the development, implementation and management of their services.
  - Are the primary source of information and decision-making
  - Are provided with the option to direct and manage the planning process
  - May identify and access paid and non-paid supports and services to achieve personally-defined outcomes in the most inclusive setting
  - Have identified an individualized backup plan, specific additional staff qualifications, detailed support needs, a risk management plan, and any additional information necessary to personalize the planning process and budget development
  - Have an assessment that identifies participant’s strengths, capacities, and desires.

Item D-1-e. Risk Assessment and Mitigation

Instructions
In the text field, specify how potential risks to the participant are assessed during the service plan development process and how strategies to mitigate risk are incorporated into the service plan, subject to participant needs and preferences. In addition, describe how the service plan
Appendix D: Participant-Centered Planning and Service Delivery

The development process addresses backup plans and the arrangements that are used for backup.

Technical Guidance

The presence of risks does not mean that an individual should not be offered waiver services, or that they should not have decision making authority over their services. The identification of potential risks to waiver participants and the development of strategies to mitigate such risks are integral to enabling participants to live as they choose in the community while assuring their health and welfare. Critical risks should be addressed during the service plan development process by incorporating strategies into the plan to mitigate whatever risks may be present. Methods to identify potential risks may include the use of risk assessment tools/instruments to systematically identify risks.

Strategies to mitigate risk should be designed to respect the needs and preferences of the waiver participant. Such strategies might include supports other than waiver services and the use of individual risk agreements that permit the participant to acknowledge and accept the responsibility for addressing certain types of risks. When individuals are supported in their own private residence or other settings where staff might not be continuously available, the service plan should include a backup plan to address contingencies such as emergencies, including the failure of a support worker to appear when scheduled to provide necessary services when the absence of the service presents a risk to the participant’s health and welfare. An effective back-up plan is one that is crafted to meet the unique needs and circumstances of each waiver participant. The response to this item should also describe the types of back-up arrangements that are employed. Such arrangements may include arranging for designated provider agencies to furnish staff support on an on-call basis as necessary.

Item D-1-f: Informed Choice of Providers

Instructions

Describe how participants are assisted in obtaining information about and selecting from among qualified providers of the waiver services in the service plan.

Technical Guidance

Waiver participants have the right to freely select from among any willing and qualified provider of waiver services (except when an HCBS waiver operates concurrently with a §1915(b) waiver of free choice of provider). In order to effectively exercise this right, participants should have ready access to accessible information about the qualified waiver providers that are available to furnish the services included in the plan. Such information may be furnished as part of the service plan development process or by other means (e.g., making available resource directories in printed form or via the Internet).
Appendix D: Participant-Centered Planning and Service Delivery

CMS Review Criteria

- Participants are initially provided with, and on an ongoing basis have ready access to accessible information (in a manner consistent with their needs) about choice of qualified providers and available service providers.
- Participants are supported in selecting providers

Item D-1-g: Process for Making Service Plan Subject to the Approval of the Medicaid Agency

Instructions

In the text field, describe the process by which the service plan is made subject to the approval of the Medicaid agency

Technical Guidance

42 CFR §441.301(b)(1)(i) requires that waiver service plans must be subject to the approval of the Medicaid agency. This requirement does not mean that the Medicaid agency must review and approve each and every service plan. While the waiver operating agency or other entities (e.g., counties) may approve service plans as part of day-to-day waiver operations when authorized by the Medicaid agency, the Medicaid agency must retain responsibility for service plan approval and at a minimum must review at least a sample of service plans retrospectively or employ other methods that ensure that plans have been developed in accordance with applicable policies and procedures and plans ensure the health and welfare of waiver participants. This oversight activity is a critical element of the Medicaid agency’s responsibility to actively oversee the operation of the waiver and ensure health and welfare of recipients.

When this oversight is conducted through an in-depth review of a sample of service plans, specify the basis for the size of the sample, how frequently retrospective review is conducted, the methods for conducting the review, and the persons or entities who conduct the review. Reviews may be conducted jointly by the Medicaid agency and the operating agency as part of the operating agency’s routine oversight. When other methods are employed to satisfy this requirement, describe the methods that are used and how they ensure that service plans meet applicable requirements.

CMS Review Criteria

- The process described to review plans indicates that the Medicaid agency exercises oversight of service plans on a routine and periodic basis.
- If an in-depth review of a sample of service plans is conducted, the state has specified the basis for the sample size, the frequency of these retroactive reviews, review methodology, and persons/entities who conduct the review.

Item D-1-h: Service Plan Review and Update

Instructions

From the choices provided, specify the minimum schedule for the review and update of the service plan.

Technical Guidance

The service plan is the fundamental tool for assuring the participant’s health and welfare. As such, it must be subject to periodic review and update. Such reviews determine the ongoing appropriateness and adequacy of the services and supports identified in the plan and ensure that the services furnished are consistent with the nature and severity of the individual's disability and continue to be responsive to the individual’s needs and preferences. A service plan must be reviewed and updated no less than annually.

Specify the minimum frequency for reviewing and updating service plans, so long as the frequency is at least annual. If the frequency is other than the selections offered, specify the frequency in the “other” selection. A state may provide that the service plans of specific types of participants are reviewed and updated on different schedules (e.g., the service plan of a person who has significant medical issues might be reviewed more frequently than the plans of other participants). A state may not provide for the automatic continuation of service plans. The plan must be reviewed and updated as necessary.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver service plan review schedule provides for conducting reviews no less than annually.

Item D-1-i: Maintenance of Service Plan Forms

Instructions

In the text field, specify the location or locations where copies of the services plan are maintained.

Technical Guidance

As provided in 45 CFR § 92.42, copies of service plans must be maintained in written or electronic facsimile form for a period of three years from their ending date (or longer when required by state law).

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver specifies where copies of service plans are maintained for a period of at least three years.

Appendix D-2: Service Plan Implementation and Monitoring

Background

In order to assure participant health and welfare and the effective delivery of waiver services, active, continuous monitoring of the implementation of the service plan is an essential component of the waiver. The purpose of monitoring is to ensure that waiver services are furnished in accordance with the service plan, meet the participant’s needs and achieve their intended outcomes. Monitoring also is conducted to identify any problems related to the participant’s health and welfare that may require action. In addition to the on-going monitoring of service plan implementation that most typically is conducted by case management agencies, a state may specify that other entities perform this monitoring. In addition, states may supplement service plan monitoring. For example, a state may perform additional monitoring of health and welfare, satisfaction with services, and the use of behavioral interventions. The state may specify a minimum monitoring schedule and/or... provide that the monitoring schedule and methods of monitoring are incorporated into each participant’s service plan. The frequency with which monitoring is performed may vary based on participant risk factors.

In its Quality Improvement Strategy, the state must describe the discovery, remediation and improvement processes that it employs to ensure that there is continuous monitoring of the health and welfare of waiver participants and remediation actions are initiated when appropriate.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix D-2

Item D-2-a: Service Plan Implementation and Monitoring

Instructions

In the text field, specify: (a) the entity (entities) responsible for monitoring the implementation of the service plan and participant health and welfare; (b) the monitoring and follow-up method(s) that are used; and, (c) the frequency with which monitoring is performed.

Technical Guidance

At a minimum, the description of monitoring methods and processes must address the following:

- The entity or entities responsible for monitoring service plan implementation and participant health and welfare;
- The minimum frequency of monitoring, including the frequency of direct, in-person contact with the participant;
- How monitoring methods determine whether:
  - Services are furnished in accordance with the service plan;
  - Participants have access to waiver services identified in the service plan (e.g., has the participant encountered problems in securing services authorized in the service plan?);
  - Services meet the needs of the participant;
  - Back-up plans are effective;
  - Participant health and welfare is assured;
  - Participants exercise free choice of providers; and,
  - Participants have access to non-waiver services identified in the service plan, including access to health services.
- Methods to ensure prompt follow up of identified problems, including problems identified by participants, service providers and others; and,
- How information derived from monitoring is compiled and reported to the state.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver specifies:

- The entity(ies) responsible for monitoring;
- Monitoring methods and frequency to the target population, e.g. including the frequency of direct, in-person contact with the participant.

- How monitoring methods address:
  - Services furnished in accordance with the service plan;
  - Participant access to waiver services identified in service plan;
Participants exercise free choice of provider;
Services meet participants’ needs;
Effectiveness of back-up plans;
Participant health and welfare; and Participant access to non-waiver services in service plan, including health services.

- Methods for prompt follow-up and remediation of identified problems.
- Methods for systematic collection of information about monitoring results is compiled, including how problems identified during monitoring, are reported to the state.

Item D-2-b: Monitoring Safeguards

Instructions

Indicate whether entities and/or individuals that are responsible for monitoring service plan implementation and participant health and welfare are permitted to provide other direct (non-case management) services to the waiver participant. If such entities and/or individuals are permitted to furnish other direct waiver services, describe the safeguards that have been established to ensure that monitoring is conducted in the best interests of the participant.

Technical Guidance

Safeguards should be established when entities that furnish direct waiver services have responsibility for service plan monitoring to avoid problems (e.g., self-monitoring) that may arise in this circumstance. The safeguards should include an option for the participant to choose a different entity or individual to monitor the plan; direct oversight of the process; conducting an independent assessment of the effectiveness of monitoring or periodic evaluation by a state agency; restricting the entity that develops the plan from monitoring services without the direct approval of the state; requiring that agency monitoring functions be administratively separate from service provision functions.

CMS Review Criteria

When service plan monitoring is performed by entities/individuals that furnish direct services, the safeguards described ensure that monitoring is conducted in the best interests of the waiver participant.

Quality Improvement: Service Plan

Service Plan

The state demonstrates it has designed and implemented an effective system for reviewing the adequacy of service plans for the waiver participants.

Service plans address all participants’ assessed needs (including health and safety risk factors) and personal goals, either by waiver services or through other means.

Service plans are updated/revised at least annually or when warranted by changes in the waiver participant’s needs.
Appendix D: Participant-Centered Planning and Service Delivery

Services are delivered in accordance with the service plan, including in the type, scope, amount, duration, and frequency specified in the service plan.

Participants are afforded choice between/among waiver services and providers.

Instructions

The QIS must describe how the state Medicaid Agency will determine that each waiver assurance (and its associated component elements) is met. The waiver assurance and component elements are listed above. For each component element, this description must include:

- Activities or processes that are related to discovery and remediation, i.e., review, assessment or monitoring processes; who conducts the discovery or remediation activities and with what frequency. These monitoring activities provide the foundation for quality improvement by generating information regarding compliance, potential problems and individual corrective actions. The information can be aggregated and analyzed to measure the overall system performance in meeting the waiver assurances. The types of information used to measure performance, should include relevant quality measures/indicators.

- The entity or entities responsible for reviewing the results (data and information) of discovery and remediation activities to determine whether the performance of the system reflects compliance with the assurances; and,

- The frequency at which system performance is measured.

Technical Guidance

This QIS element focuses on discovery and remediation activities, that is, processes to assess, review, evaluate or otherwise analyze a program, process, operation, or outcome. Specifically, the evidence produced as a result of discovery and remediation activities should provide a clear picture of the state’s compliance in meeting an assurance.

CMS Review Criteria

- The discovery of compliance with this assurance and the remediation of identified problems must address:
  - How the Medicaid agency assures compliance with the following service plan subassurances:
  - Service plans address all participants’ assessed needs (including health and safety risk factors) and personal goals, either by waiver services or through other means.
  - The state monitors service plan development in accordance with its policies and procedures.
  - Service plans are updated/revised at least annually or when warranted by changes in the waiver participant’s needs.
  - Services are delivered in accordance with the service plan, including in the...

Appendix E: Participant Direction of Services

Brief Overview

Appendix E addresses how the waiver affords participants the opportunity to direct some or all of their waiver services. The addition of Appendix E to the waiver application recognizes that participant direction is an increasingly common feature of waivers. Appendix E facilitates the incorporation of participant direction opportunities into any waiver, including waivers where participants may elect to receive traditional provider-managed services.

There are two parts to this Appendix:

• Appendix E-1 describes the waiver’s overall approach to participant direction.
• In Appendix E-2, more detailed information is provided about the specific participant direction opportunities that are available under the waiver.

Both parts of the Appendix must be completed whenever a waiver incorporates one or both of the participant direction opportunities (i.e., the Employer Authority and/or Budget Authority) that are described in more detail below.

Independence Plus Designation

CMS urges that all states afford waiver participants the opportunity to direct some or all of their waiver services. Participant direction of services has been demonstrated to promote positive outcomes for individuals and families, improve participant satisfaction and be a cost-effective service delivery method.

In 2002, CMS released the Independence Plus HCBS waiver application template. Through the Independence Plus initiative, CMS identified how participant direction could be implemented within the §1915(c) HCBS waiver framework and established essential, baseline expectations for participant direction, including necessary participant protections and safeguards. Several states have used the Independence Plus waiver template to design and implement waivers that feature participant-direction as their primary service delivery method. When the waiver met certain criteria, CMS conferred the Independence Plus designation to recognize the state’s especially strong commitment to participant direction.

The Version 3.5 HCBS Waiver Application incorporates the principal features of participant direction from the Independence Plus waiver template. The development of the new application benefited from the experience that both CMS and states gained through the Independence Plus initiative in implementing participant direction. CMS encourages the use of the Version 3.5 HCBS Waiver Application to incorporate participant direction opportunities into waivers rather than the Independence Plus waiver template.

Going forward, CMS will continue to award the Independence Plus designation to recognize each state that provides all participants the opportunity to direct their services and makes available to them a full range of supports for participant direction. In Appendix E, a state may request that CMS review the waiver to determine whether it qualifies for Independence Plus designation. In making this determination, CMS will review several application items to assess whether the waiver meets Independence Plus criteria. This supplemental review will not affect waiver approval or the amount of time that CMS requires to review the waiver.
The Independence Plus criteria and related application items that CMS examines when deciding whether to confer the Independence Plus designation are as follows:

- All waiver participants have the opportunity to elect to direct some or all of their waiver services. [Waiver elements reviewed: Application: Item: 4-c (waiver of statewideness); Appendix E: Items E-1-c and E-1-d] Independence Plus designation will not be conferred when participant direction opportunities are limited by a waiver of statewideness. When the state applies screening criteria (as specified in Item E-1-d) that affect whether waiver participants may direct their services, criteria that eliminate individuals based on “capacity” or other such blanket exclusion may impede a state’s ability to secure Independence Plus designation.

- All participants live with their families, in their own private residence or in a living arrangement where services are furnished to fewer than four persons unrelated to the proprietor: [Waiver elements reviewed: Appendix B: Item B-1-b (additional targeting criteria); Appendix E: Item E-1-c]. Independence Plus designation will not be conferred when waiver services are furnished in living arrangements where four or more persons are served. This requirement is met when participants in a larger congregate facility, such as an assisted living facility, reside in a private, independent unit (e.g., with bath, lockable door, and unscheduled access to food and activities).

- The service planning process is participant-led and person-centered [Waiver elements reviewed: Appendix D: Items D-1-c, D-1-d, and D-1-e];

- Participant direction is available for most waiver services, including services that are used most frequently by a significant number of waiver participants [Waiver elements reviewed: Appendix C-3; Appendix E: Item E-1-g; Appendix J-2-d]. This criterion will be applied by examining a projected service utilization and not solely on the number of waiver services that may be participant directed.

- The Employer Authority is available to all waiver participants who elect to direct their waiver services. Participants may exercise the full range of decision-making authority over their workers and the full array of supports is available to participants who exercise the Employer Authority [Waiver elements reviewed: Appendix C-3 (waiver coverage of “information and assistance in support of participant direction” and financial management services); Appendix E: Items E-1-b, E-1-i (provision of financial management services as an administrative activity), E-1-j (use of other payment authorities to furnish information and assistance in support of participant direction), and Item E-2-a];

- The Budget Authority is offered to all waiver participants who elect to direct their waiver services. Participants may exercise complete decision-making authority over the participant-directed budget and the full array of supports is available to participants who exercise budget authority [Waiver elements reviewed: Appendix C-3 (waiver service coverage of financial management services and information and assistance in support of participant direction); Appendix E: Items E-1-b, E-1-i (provision of financial management services as an administrative activity), E-1-j (use of other payment authorities to furnish information and assistance in support of participant direction), and Item E-2-b];

- An appropriate method is used to determine the participant-centered budget [Waiver element reviewed: Appendix E: Item E-2-b-ii]; and,

- There is a separate advocacy function available to participants who direct their services. This function is performed by individuals or entities that do not provide other direct services, perform assessments, or have monitoring, oversight or fiscal responsibilities [Waiver element reviewed: Appendix E: Item E-1-k].
For each waiver element cited above, the additional, distinct Independence Plus criteria are applied over and above the basic CMS review criteria to determine whether to confer Independence Plus designation. When Independence Plus designation is sought, these additional review criteria should be taken into account. CMS will notify the state that it has conferred the Independence Plus designation in the waiver approval letter.

Overview: Participant Direction of Waiver Services

Participant direction of waiver services means that the waiver participant has the authority to exercise decision making authority over some or all of her/his waiver services and accepts the responsibility for taking a direct role in managing them. Participant direction is an alternative to provider management of services wherein a service provider has the responsibility for managing all aspects of service delivery in accordance with the participant-centered service plan. Participant direction promotes personal choice and control over the delivery of waiver services, including who provides services and how they are delivered. For example, the participant may be afforded the opportunity and be supported to recruit, hire, and supervise individuals who furnish daily supports. When a waiver service is provider-managed, a provider selected by the participant carries out these responsibilities.

Incorporating participant direction into a waiver involves several interrelated dimensions. The following is an overview of the main dimensions of participant direction under a waiver:

Participant Choice

A waiver may be designed to exclusively serve individuals who want to direct some or all of their waiver services. Usually when this is the case, there is another waiver program that is available to individuals who do not wish to direct their services. Alternatively, a waiver may permit participants to direct some or all of their services or opt instead to receive provider-managed services exclusively. The Version 356 HCBS Waiver Application supports both basic waiver designs. When a waiver exclusively serves persons who want to direct some or all of their waiver services, this design must be reflected in Appendix B-1 (Item B-1-b – additional targeting criteria) and in Appendix E-1. In Appendix E-1, the waiver may further specify that participant direction opportunities are limited to individuals who reside in designated types of living arrangements.

Whenever the application refers to the election of participant direction or the exercise of decision making authority, references to the participant mean: (a) the participant acting independently on her/his own; (b) the parent(s) of a minor child who is a waiver participant acting on behalf of the child; (c) a legal representative when the representative has the authority to make pertinent decisions on behalf of the participant; and, (d) when permitted by the state, a non-legal representative who has been freely chosen by the participant to make decisions on the participant’s behalf.

Geographic Limitation

As discussed in the instructions for Item 4-c (statewideness) in the Application Module (statewideness), the waiver may make participant direction opportunities available in some but not all the geographic regions where the waiver is in effect.

Service Specifications

In Appendix C-3, each service offered under the waiver may be specified as provider-managed, participant-directed, or both. The instructions for Appendix C-3 discuss the considerations associated with the specification of service delivery method. In general, the exercise of the participant direction opportunities (authorities) that are discussed below applies only to the waiver services that have been designated as participant-directed.
Participant Direction Opportunities

Appendix E-1 provides for the selection of two basic participant direction opportunities that may be made available through a waiver. These opportunities may be and often are used in combination and are not mutually exclusive. The opportunities are:

- Participant Employer Authority. Under the Employer Authority, the participant is supported to recruit, hire, supervise and direct the workers who furnish supports. The participant functions as the common law employer or the co-employer of these workers. When the Employer Authority is utilized, the participant rather than a waiver provider agency carries out employer responsibilities for workers. The dimensions of participant decision making under the Employer Authority are specified in Appendix E-2-a of the application; and,

- Participant Budget Authority. Under the Budget Authority, the participant has the authority and accepts the responsibility to manage a participant-directed budget. Depending on the dimensions of the budget authority that are specified in Appendix E-2-b, this authority permits the participant to make decisions about the acquisition of waiver goods and services that are authorized in the waiver service plan and to manage the dollars included in a participant-directed budget.

As noted above, these two authorities are often used in combination to promote full-featured participant direction of waiver services.

Supports for Participant Direction

When a waiver offers participant direction opportunities, two types of supports must be made available to facilitate participant direction. These supports may be furnished as a waiver service (as specified in Appendix C-3) or under another Medicaid payment authority (principally as a Medicaid administrative activity). Supports furnished as a Medicaid administrative activity must be in accordance with the approved cost allocation plan. When one or both types of supports are furnished under another payment authority, they are described in detail in Appendix E-1. These supports are:

- Information and Assistance in Support of Participant Direction. These supports are made available to participants to help them manage their waiver services. For example, assistance might be provided to help the participant locate workers who furnish direct supports or in crafting the service plan. The type and extent of the supports that must be available to participants depends on the nature of the participant direction opportunities provided under the waiver.

- Financial Management Services. These services are furnished for two purposes: (a) to address Federal, state and local employment tax, labor and workers’ compensation insurance rules and other requirements that apply when the participant functions as the employer of workers and (b) to make financial transactions on behalf of the participant when the participant has budget authority. There are two types of FMS services that may be employed to support participants who exercise the Employer Authority: (1) Fiscal/Employer Agent (Government or Vendor) where the entity is the agent to the common law employer who is either the participant or his or her representative or (2) Agency with Choice, where the participant and the agency function as co-employers of the participant’s worker(s).

While their main purpose is to facilitate participant direction of services, these supports also provide important protections and safeguards for participants who direct their own waiver services. More detailed information about each of these dimensions of participant direction is

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix E

Appendix E must be completed when there is an affirmative response to Item 3-E in the Application Module.

Appendix E: Initial Section

Item: Applicability

Instructions
Indicate whether the waiver provides for one or both of the participant direction opportunities that are specified in the Appendix. If the response is “no,” do not complete the remainder of the Appendix. If “yes,” proceed to Appendix E-1. In the web-based application, this item is linked to Item 3-E in Module 1. The responses to both items must be consistent.

Technical Guidance
As discussed in the technical guidance for item 3-E in the Application Module, this selection should be made after carefully reviewing these instructions in order to determine the applicability of this Appendix.

Item: Request for Consideration for Independence Plus Designation

Instructions
Indicate whether Independence Plus designation is requested for the waiver. See the discussion above concerning this designation. A “yes” or “no” response does not affect the completion of the remainder of this Appendix, only the criteria that CMS applies when reviewing the application. A “no” response will not affect the CMS decision to approve the waiver.

Appendix E-1: Overview

Overview of Appendix E-1

In this Appendix, the following topics are addressed:

• The waiver’s overall approach to participant direction;
• The participant direction opportunity or opportunities offered under the waiver;
• Whether there are limitations on the election of participant direction;
• The role of representatives in participant direction;
• The waiver services that may be participant directed along with the participant direction opportunity or opportunities that apply to each;
• How the waiver provides for financial management services and information and assistance in support of participant direction;
• Whether independent advocacy is available to participants who direct their services;
• The circumstances under which participant direction may be terminated; and,
• The state’s goals regarding the number of participants who will direct some or all of their waiver services.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix E-1

Item E-1-a: Description of Participant Direction

Instructions
Appendix E: Participant Direction of Services

In no more than two pages (12,000 characters), provide an overview description of the participant direction opportunities that are afforded in the waiver. This overview is intended to provide CMS with a broad understanding of the waiver’s participant direction opportunities, including: (a) the nature of the opportunities afforded to participants; (b) how participants may take advantage of these opportunities; (c) the entities (e.g., support brokers, case management, financial management services entities) that play a role in supporting individuals who direct their services and the types of supports that they provide; and, (d) other relevant information about the waiver’s approach to participant direction that may not be addressed elsewhere in this Appendix or the remainder of the application.

CMS Review Criteria

The overview contains a description of all of the following:

- The participant direction opportunities afforded to waiver participants;
- The process by which participants may access these participant direction opportunities;
- The entities involved in supporting participant direction; and,
- The types of supports that each entity provides.

Item E-1-b: Participant Direction Opportunities

Instructions

Select whether the waiver provides for the Employer Authority, the Budget Authority or both opportunities for participant direction in combination. When the Employer Authority is selected, Item E-2-a must be completed in Appendix E-2. When the Budget Authority is selected, Item E-2-b must be completed in Appendix E-2. When the “Both Authorities” selection is made, both Items E-2-a and E-2-b must be completed in Appendix E-2.

Technical Guidance

In brief, these two opportunities for participant direction entail the following:

- Employer Authority. Under the Employer Authority, the participant exercises choice and control over workers who furnish supports. The participant directly selects and supervises the workers who furnish waiver services to which this authority applies (e.g., personal assistance, attendant services). As provided in Item E-2-a, this authority may be exercised by the participant functioning as the co-employer or the common law employer of support workers. Item E-2-a specifies the dimensions of participant decision-making authority under this opportunity. The Employer Authority has been used in its own right in many waivers in conjunction with the provision of personal assistance, attendant care and similar services. The principal defining characteristic of this authority is that the participant functions as the employer of workers.

- Budget Authority. Under the Budget Authority, the participant exercises decision-making authority and management responsibility for a participant-directed budget from which the participant authorizes the purchase of waiver goods and services that are authorized in the service plan. The participant also may be afforded the flexibility to shift funds among authorized services within the total amount of the budget without prior review and approval (however, changes that affect the service plan must be documented). Item E-2-b specifies the dimensions of participant decision-making authority under this opportunity, including how the participant-directed budget is determined. The principal defining characteristic of this authority is the establishment of a participant-directed budget. Budget authority usually means that the participant may exercise ongoing decision making over the mix of waiver goods and services.
Each of these authorities may stand on its own. It is increasingly common practice for waivers to offer both authorities (i.e., the participant manages a budget and functions as the employer or co-employer of workers).

CMS Review Criteria

One or both opportunities must be selected.

Independence Plus Designation

In order for a waiver to qualify for Independence Plus designation, both opportunities must be selected.

---

Item E-1-c: Availability of Participant Direction by Type of Living Arrangement

Instructions

The waiver may limit participant direction by type of living arrangement. Here, by checking each choice that applies, specify whether participant direction is available for:

- Participants who live with their families or in their own private residence;
- Participants who reside in living arrangements where services (regardless of funding source) are furnished to fewer than four persons who are unrelated to the proprietor (e.g., supported living or housing); and/or,
- Persons who reside in other living arrangements as specified by the state. Such living arrangements might include assisted living facilities and similar arrangements. This choice also may be selected when the first two choices do not accurately describe the living arrangements where participant direction is supported. For example, participant direction may be supported in some but not all types of smaller living arrangements. Specify the other types of living arrangements where participant direction is available in the text field, including the size of these living arrangements (i.e., the number of individuals who are served in each type of living arrangement).

Technical Guidance

A state has the option to limit opportunities for participant direction by type of participant living arrangement. Participant direction is commonly associated with individuals who live on their own or reside with their families. Participant direction may be less feasible when individuals are served in larger, provider-controlled living arrangements such as group homes. It is up to the state to decide whether participant direction is supported in some or all types of living arrangements.

There are two implications to limiting participant direction to some but not all types of participant living arrangements. The first implication is that, although a participant’s service plan may include one or more waiver services that the state has designated (in Appendix C-3) as available for participant direction, participant direction of the service(s) will not be made available to participants who reside in a living arrangement where opportunities for participant direction are not supported. When participant direction is available in all types of living arrangements, then all participants regardless of living arrangement may elect to direct any service that has been designated in Appendix C-3 as participant-directed.

The second implication of limiting participant direction by type of living arrangements is that, in order to direct their services, participants who reside in living arrangements where participant direction is not supported must change their living arrangement to a type of living arrangement where participant direction is supported.

CMS Review Criteria

When the third choice (other living arrangement) is selected, the waiver specifies the types of other living arrangements where participant direction is supported, including the size of the living arrangement (e.g., the number of persons unrelated to the proprietor who are served in the living arrangement).

Independence Plus Designation

Independence Plus designation is limited to waivers that support only individuals who reside with their families, live in their own private residence or reside in living arrangements where fewer than four persons unrelated to the proprietor receive services (regardless of funding source). This criterion is met when the waiver targets only individuals who reside in these types of living arrangement, as specified in Item B-1-b, Appendix B-1. Independence Plus designation is not granted when a waiver serves individuals in congregate facilities that serve four or more persons. However, participants in a larger congregate facility, such as an assisted living facility, residing in private, independent units (e.g., with bath, lockable door, and unscheduled access to food and activities), would be considered to occupy a single private residence.

Item E-1-d: Election of Participant-Direction

Instructions

Select one and only one of the three choices. When the third choice is selected, specify the additional criteria that are applied in determining whether a participant may direct some or all of their waiver services. These additional criteria should not include participant living arrangement (addressed in the foregoing item).

Technical Guidance

A waiver may be designed to serve only individuals who want to direct their services. When this is the case, select the first choice. If a waiver only serves persons who want to direct their services (e.g., it is expected that all waiver participants will direct at least some of their waiver services), Item B-1-b in Appendix B (additional targeting criteria) also must specify that the waiver is limited to individuals who want to direct some or all of their services.

The second selection applies in waivers where participants may elect to direct their waiver services but also have the option of receiving their waiver services solely on a provider-managed basis (i.e., the waiver does not solely target persons who want to direct their waiver services) or a combination of both service delivery options. The waiver must provide that there are comparable provider-managed services available for participants who elect not to direct their services. When this choice is selected, the waiver does not impose additional criteria on the election of participant direction. Any participant may freely elect to direct some or all of their waiver services.

If the waiver does not support participant direction in some types of living arrangements, then the election of participant direction choice applies only to participants who reside in living arrangements where participant direction is supported. The election of participant direction also is affected by whether a person’s service plan includes services that may be participant-directed, as specified in Appendix C-3.
Appendix E: Participant Direction of Services

The third selection permits specifying whether the election of participant direction is subject to additional criteria (over and above participant living arrangement, if applicable). For example, participant direction might not be offered to participants who have substantial cognitive impairments and who do not have a representative or circle of support to assist in directing their services. Alternatively, participant direction might not be offered to persons who are involved in the criminal justice system or exhibit other challenges that require close supervision. A waiver may reasonably require that participant direction only will be offered to participants who have received an orientation to participant direction in advance of deciding to direct some or all of their services.

When additional criteria are specified that have the effect of restricting the participants who may elect participant direction, state them clearly in the text field. In general, these criteria should not deny the choice of participant direction based on factors that can be reasonably accommodated through the provision of information and assistance and other supports that would enable the participant to direct his/her services. For example, a participant’s lack of experience in directing services generally is not a reasonable criterion for not offering participant direction since training and other supports can be offered to assist the participant to acquire the necessary skills. CMS urges states not to impose restrictions based on assessment of “ability” or “capacity” that have the effect of denying opportunity to direct their services based on disability. States will also wish to consider the Olmstead implications of such exclusions. Under this selection, participants who are afforded the opportunity to direct their services also must have the option to receive provider-managed services exclusively. A determination not to afford a participant the opportunity to direct waiver services is not subject to the Fair Hearing process since participant direction is a method of service delivery and the services that the participant may receive are unaffected when the opportunity to direct the services is denied.

CMS Review Criteria

- When the first choice is selected, the additional targeting criteria in Item B-1-b in Appendix B-1 specify that the waiver is limited to persons who want to direct their services.
- When the third choice is selected, the additional criteria that are used to determine whether a person may direct some or all of their services:
  - Are specified and well-defined
  - Do not include a blanket exclusion of individuals solely on the basis that they have specific cognitive or other disabilities
  - Do not exclude participants solely on the basis of an assessment that the individual, in isolation, is unable to carry out some of the responsibilities associated with participant direction

Independence Plus Designation

In order for a waiver to qualify for Independence Plus designation, the first or second choice must be selected. Independence Plus designation does not require that all participants direct their services but rather that all participants may elect to direct their services to the extent that they choose. If the third choice is selected, Independence Plus designation may be conferred provided that the additional criteria do not eliminate individuals based on “capacity” or “ability” or other such blanket exclusion.

Item E-1-e: Information Furnished to Participants

Instructions

In the text field, specify: (a) the information about the participant direction opportunities (e.g., the benefits of participant-direction, participant responsibilities, and potential liabilities) that is provided to the participant (or the participant’s representative) to inform decision-making about the election of participant direction; (b) the entity or entities responsible for furnishing this information; and, (c) how and when this information is provided. If the response cites formal state policies, procedures and/or written materials that are furnished to waiver participants to inform their decision making, the materials cited must be readily available to CMS upon request through the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable).

Technical Guidance

There are many potential benefits to participants in directing their services. At the same time, participant direction entails the participant accepting many responsibilities that service providers usually assume (e.g., recruiting, hiring, supervising and discharging workers) and shouldering some potential liabilities (which may be mitigated through the provision of supports for participant direction). As a result, participants should have available timely information about participant direction to inform their decision making about whether to direct their waiver services. Information about participant direction may be furnished to participants during the service plan development process, through conducting separate orientations to participant direction, and/or by other means (the availability of employer skills training).

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver:

- Provides that participants are furnished information about the benefits and potential liabilities associated with participant direction along with information about their responsibilities when they elect to direct their services.
- Specifies a specific entity or entities that are responsible for furnishing this information.
- Describes the process (e.g., as part of service plan development or by other means) by which this information is provided to individuals and/or representatives.
- Provides that information is furnished on a timely basis to permit informed decision making by the participant – i.e., prior to or during entrance to the waiver or as part of service plan development – allowing sufficient time for the participant to weigh the pros and cons of participant direction and obtain additional information as necessary before electing participant direction.

Item E-1-f: Participant Direction by a Representative

Instructions

Select whether waiver services may be directed by a representative on behalf of the waiver participant and, if so, the type or types of representatives who may direct services. When a representative who is not a legal guardian may direct services, provide information about the policies that apply to the role of such representatives.

Technical Guidance

The waiver may provide that services may be directed by a representative on behalf of the participant. In the case of child (legal minors) waiver participants, parents exercise decision making on behalf of the child. For the purpose of the application, parents of minor children are considered to be legal representatives.

The waiver may limit decision making to legal representatives (e.g., legally appointed guardians of adults) and/or may provide that an individual who is not a legal representative and has been freely chosen by the participant may direct services in consultation with the participant. With respect to the latter, non-legal representatives could include a parent of an adult or a spouse who is not a legal guardian or representative. A non-legal representative also could be another relative of the participant or a friend of the participant.

When the waiver provides that a non-legal representative may direct services on behalf of the participant, specify in the text field the state’s policies concerning the appointment of this type of representative (e.g., a requirement that the participant assign decision-making responsibility by executing a limited power of attorney) and the extent of the decision-making authority that these individuals may exercise on behalf of the participant.

When a non-legal representative may serve as a decision maker, the safeguards that ensure the representative will function in the best interests of the participant also must be specified. An example of such a safeguard could be that such a representative may not also be paid to provide waiver services to the participant.

CMS Review Criteria

The use of representatives to direct waiver services on behalf of a participant is at the discretion of the state. When waiver services may be directed by a non-legal representative:

- The waiver describes the process for the appointment of this type of representative and the extent of the decision-making authority exercised by the non-legal representative.
- The waiver includes safeguards to ensure that a non-legal representative functions in the best interests of the participant.

Item E-1-g: Participant Directed Services

Instructions

List in the table the services that are specified in Appendix C-3 as participant-directed. For each listed service, specify whether the Employer Authority, Budget Authority or both authorities apply to the service. In the web-based application, this table is auto-populated with the services that have been specified as participant-directed in Appendices C-1/C-3.

Technical Guidance

See the instructions for Appendix C-3 concerning the designation of a service as participant-directed, provider-managed or both.

CMS Review Criteria

- When the Employer Authority is offered (as specified in Item E-1-b), it applies to at least one waiver service.
- When the Budget Authority is offered (as specified in Item E-1-b), it applies to at least one but usually to two or more waiver services.

Independence Plus Designation

In order for a waiver to qualify for Independence Plus designation:

- The Budget Authority must be selected for each service in the table.
- The Employer Authority must be selected for each service where a participant could function as the employer of her/his support workers.
- Independence Plus designation does not require that participant direction must be available for all of the services offered in a waiver. The determination of whether participant direction opportunities are sufficiently broad with respect to a waiver’s... services to justify Independence Plus designation is based on a review of the Factor D tables in Appendix J-2-d and ascertaining whether the services that are expected to be utilized frequently by waiver participants may be participant-directed. In other words, it is not sufficient that the waiver provide that a majority of services may be participant-directed. In general, the Independence Plus designation will not be conferred when this review reveals that participant direction is available for only a few services that are expected to be utilized by only a relatively small number of participants.

Overview: Financial Management Services

The next two application items concern Financial Management Services (FMS). FMS are a critical support for participant direction, especially under the §1915(c) HCBS waiver framework. The §1915(c) waiver authority does not permit making payments for services directly to a waiver participant, either to reimburse the participant for expenses incurred or enable the participant to directly pay a service provider. Instead, payments must be made through an intermediary organization that performs financial transactions (paying for goods and services or processing payroll for participants’ workers included in the participant’s service plan) on behalf of the participant.

An FMS entity plays this role when the waiver includes the Employer Authority or Budget Authority opportunity. Under the Employer Authority, when a participant functions as the employer of direct support workers, FMS are an important safeguard for participants and workers alike. The provision of Fiscal/Employer Agent FMS ensures that Federal, state and local employment taxes and labor and workers’ compensation insurance rules related to household employment and payroll are implemented in an accurate and timely manner and, if included in a state’s Fiscal/Employer Agent FMS model, that invoices for goods and services included in the participant’s service plan are paid appropriately and in a timely manner. The provision of Agency with Choice (co-employer) FMS ensures that the necessary employer-related duties and tasks, including payroll, are carried out. FMS provided under these two models is an important safeguard for participants because it ensures that participants are in compliance with Federal and state tax, labor, workers’ compensation insurance and Medicaid regulations. The term “Financial Management Services” or “FMS” is used to distinguish this important participant direction support from the activities that are performed by intermediary organizations that function as Medicaid fiscal agents.

With respect to each participant direction opportunity, FMS entities generally perform the following basic functions:

Budget Authority

- Act as a neutral bank, receiving and disbursing public funds, tracking and reporting on the participant’s budget funds (received, disbursed and any balances) (Fiscal/Employer Agent FMS);
- Process and pay invoices for goods and services in the participant’s approved service plan (Fiscal/Employer Agent FMS); and,
- Prepare and distribute reports (e.g., budget status and expenditure reports) to participants and other entities specified in the waiver (Fiscal/Employer Agent and Agency with Choice FMS).

Employer Authority

- Assist the participant in verifying workers’ citizenship or legal alien status (e.g., completing and maintaining a copy of the BCIS Form I-9 for each support service worker the participant employs) (Fiscal/ Employer Agent and Agency with Choice FMS);
Appendix E: Participant Direction of Services

- Collect and process support worker’s timesheets; (Fiscal/ Employer Agent and Agency with Choice FMS) and,

- Operate a payroll service, (including withholding taxes from workers’ pay, filing and paying Federal (e.g., income tax withholding, FICA and FUTA), state (e.g., income tax withholding and SUTA), and, when applicable, local employment taxes and insurance premiums); and, distribute payroll checks on the participant’s behalf (Fiscal/ Employer Agent and Agency with Choice FMS).

When specified in the waiver, an FMS entity may perform additional functions, including executing provider agreements on behalf of the Medicaid agency or brokering and paying worker’s compensation or other types of insurance premiums on behalf of participants. A waiver also might provide that the FMS entity furnish orientation/skills training to participants about their responsibilities when they function as either the common law employer or co-employer of their direct support workers. The nature and scope of necessary financial management services hinges on the participant direction opportunities that are available under the waiver. The scope of FMS is necessarily broader when the waiver provides for both the Employer and Budget Authorities.

FMS may be furnished as a waiver service. The “Core Service Definitions” attachment to the Appendix-C instructions includes information and guidance about the coverage of FMS as a waiver service. FMS also may be provided as a Medicaid administrative activity in accordance with the approved cost allocation plan. The technical guidance for Item E-1-j (below) provides more information about this option. As a general matter, under either option, an FMS entity may furnish the same range of supports to waiver participants who direct their services. However, there are some differences between the two ways of underwriting the costs of FMS under Medicaid. The following table summarizes some of the key differences associated with funding FMS under either of the payment authorities and may assist in selecting the option under which FMS are furnished.

Purchase of Certain Goods and Services through an FMS Entity

In some instances, it is more economical and efficient to purchase goods and services on behalf of participants from vendors on a retail basis. Requiring that there be a formal agreement with such vendors could prove to be unnecessarily burdensome and delay the acquisition of goods and services that have been authorized in the service plan. For example, in lieu of securing the services of a homemaker, it might be more appropriate for a participant to engage a commercial cleaning company to perform tasks such as household cleaning. Some types of goods (e.g., household appliances) are readily obtainable through retail establishments.

When FMS entities function as an OHCDS, the state may include the provision of goods and services (when a covered as a service in the waiver) in its provider agreement with such entities. The FMS may then purchase goods and services authorized in the service plan on the participant’s behalf and bill the costs of such goods and services to the state. An agreement with a vendor is not required but there must be documentation to verify the purchase of the good or service and the goods and services must meet the standards specified in the waiver. Providers of the goods and services benefit cannot be limited to those FMS entities willing to operate as an OHCDS.

When FMS entities do not function as an OHCDS (e.g., FMS is funded as an administrative activity and that entity does not meet the criteria to operate as an OHCDS), the state may specifically authorize in its agreement with such entities to acquire goods and services from... retail vendors on behalf of the participant. In general, this authorization should only extend to incidental, non-routine purchases of goods and services on behalf of a waiver participant rather than services that are regularly provided to the participant. In its agreement with the FMS entity, the state should require the FMS entity to document such purchases by obtaining receipts or other documentation to verify that the goods and services were delivered in accordance with the standards specified in the waiver. The agreement must hold the FMS entity accountable for such purchases.

Item E-1-h: Financial Management Services

Instructions

Specify whether financial management services are provided. If such services are provided, indicate whether they are provided by governmental or private entities or both (by selecting both types). If the “no” response is selected, do not complete item E-1-i.

Technical Guidance

In almost all cases, the provision of FMS is a necessary feature of participant direction of waiver services. A wide range of entities may furnish FMS. When the participant is the common law employer of his or her worker, a state may choose to provide Fiscal/Employer Agent FMS directly or use a reporting or subagent through its fiscal intermediary in accordance with Section 3504 of the IRS code and Revenue Procedure 80-4 and Notice 2003-70 (See Attachment D to the instructions). Or a state also may choose to provide Fiscal/Employer Agent FMS through vendor organizations that have the capabilities to perform the required tasks in accordance with Section 3504 of the IRS code and Revenue Procedure 70-6 (either through a contract or through a Medicaid provider agreement). When a state elects to furnish FMS solely through governmental entities, administrative claiming must be employed to underwrite the cost of FMS.

When the participant is a co-employer of his or her worker(s), agencies that support the philosophy of participant direction may provide Agency with Choice services acting as a co-employer with the participant. A State may allow an FMS entity or a traditional provider organization to fulfill such a function. In either event, the State should establish qualifications for agencies with choice.

When a State allows individuals the opportunity for a co-employer arrangement utilizing an agency with choice model, but utilizes traditional Medicaid payment mechanisms to remit payment to the provider (rendering a “no” response in E-1-h appropriate), or when the entity is more akin to an FMS (rendering a “yes” in E-1-h), the State must describe in E-2-a.i, the entities serving as co-employers, the standards and qualifications that the State requires of such entities, and the safeguards in place to ensure that individuals maintain control and oversight of the employee.

In addition, states should consider conducting initial FMS readiness reviews and ongoing performance reviews of their FMS providers to ensure that the FMS providers are providing the required services in accordance with Federal and state requirements.

CMS Review Criteria

The selection is at the discretion of the state. However, it is expected that in nearly all instances that the “yes” response will be selected. If the no response is selected, then the application should be reviewed to determine that the selection is appropriate.

Item E-1-i: Provision of Financial Management Services
Appendix E: Participant Direction of Services

Instructions
Specify whether financial management services are provided as a waiver service or conducted as a Medicaid administrative activity.

Technical Guidance
As previously noted, FMS may be furnished as a waiver service or performed as a Medicaid administrative activity. If furnished as Medicaid administrative activity, it must be done in accordance with the approved cost allocation plan. Cost allocation plans are not approved via the HCBS Waiver application.

Information must be provided about the nature and scope of the activities performed by the FMS. In particular:

i. Types of Entities. Specify the types of entities that furnish FMS (e.g., Vendor or Government Fiscal Employer Agent or Agency with Choice provider). See the discussion of this topic above. States should be cautious about using the Agency with Choice FMS option to support the Budget Authority, especially with respect to ensuring that waiver participants can exercise free choice of provider when the entity that serves as the Agency with Choice also furnishes other waiver services. Also describe the procurement method that is used to select entities to furnish FMS. When private entities furnish FMS, the procurement method must meet the requirements that are set forth in 45 CFR § 92.42. The description of the procurement method also should include whether the procurement results in the selection of a single entity or multiple entities to furnish FMS.

ii. Payment for FMS. Specify how entities are compensated for furnishing FMS (e.g., a per transaction fee, a monthly fee per participant, a combination of both types of fees, or another method). FMS services may not be compensated on the basis of a percentage of the total dollar volume of transactions that an FMS entity processes. It is not necessary to specify the specific amount of the fees that are paid for FMS.

iii. Scope of FMS. This item provides for check offs for the FMS that are furnished in support of participants who exercise the Employer Authority and the Budget Authority. The first two sections lists the FMS participant-oriented supports that are related to each participant direction opportunity as described in the overview of financial management services above. Select the supports that are provided under each applicable authority.

The final section (“additional administrative functions/activities”) lists additional activities/functions. As discussed in the instructions for Appendix A, the Medicaid agency may specifically authorize in writing that another entity (including an FMS entity) may execute the Medicaid provider agreement. Under such an arrangement, the FMS entity, for example, may execute the provider agreement with personal assistants selected by the individual. The second check-off indicates that the FMS functions as a limited fiscal agent on behalf of the Medicaid agency. That is, the entity processes billings, receives payment from the Medicaid agency for approved claims and disburses funds to providers. The final check-off is linked to the Budget Authority. It identifies whether the FMS prepares and distributes reports about expenditures and the participant budget to other entities in addition to the participant.

In each case, provision has been made for describing additional supports (e.g., training participants in worker supervision or maintaining a roster of qualified workers) in addition to those listed. When additional supports are specified, the activity must be necessary for the proper and efficient administration of the waiver in order to qualify for administrative FFP.

iv. Oversight of FMS Entities. In the text field, specify: (a) the methods that are used to monitor and assess the performance of FMS entities, including ensuring the integrity of the financial transactions that they perform; (b) the entity (or entities) responsible for performing this monitoring; and, (c) how frequently performance is assessed. Performance monitoring and assessment may include conducting periodic audits of FMS activities, requiring that FMS entities conduct customer satisfaction surveys and periodically report the results of such surveys to the state, conducting independent participant satisfaction surveys, and/or using other methods/procedures.

CMS Review Criteria
The necessary minimum scope of financial management services hinges on the participant direction opportunities (Employer and/or Budget Authority) that are available under the waiver and further specified in Appendix E-2. FMS may be furnished either as a waiver service (as specified in Appendix C-3) or an administrative activity in accordance with an approved cost allocation plan (as specified in this item). Regardless of the payment authority (service or administrative) that is used to underwrite the costs of FMS, the minimum types of supports that must be furnished to participants under either authority are the same. In particular:

Employer Authority
The minimum supports that must be furnished are:

- Assist participants in verifying support worker citizenship status;
- Collect and processes timesheets of support workers; and,
- Process payroll, withholding, filing and payment of applicable Federal, state and local employment-related taxes and insurance.

Budget Authority
- Maintain a separate account for each participant’s budget.
- Track and report disbursements and balances of participant funds.
- Process and pay invoices for goods and services approved in the service plan.
- Provide participant with periodic reports of expenditures and the status of the participant – directed budget.

When these supports are provided as a waiver service, the specification of FMS in Appendix C-3 must include the foregoing supports, depending on the participant direction opportunities available under the waiver. The service specification also must meet all other requirements associated with service coverage (e.g., freedom of choice of provider).

Criteria Specific to Administrative Claiming
When FMS are furnished as an administrative activity, the following specific review criteria apply:

- The types of entities that furnish FMS are specified.
- The method of procuring FMS services is specified and comports with the applicable regulations at 45 CFR § 92.42.
- The method of compensating FMS entities is specified.
- The scope of the supports the FMS entities provide is specified. When supports over and above those listed are included, the activities are necessary for the proper and efficient administration of the waiver.
Appendix E: Participant Direction of Services

- The method and frequency of assessing the performance of the FMS entities are specified.
- The entities responsible for assessing performance are specified.
- The CMS waiver analyst should advise the financial staff that the State has indicated that it is using administrative claiming. This applies to all Medicaid administrative claiming activities specified (for example, case management, financial management services and supports broker). Medicaid administrative claiming must be in accordance with the approved cost allocation plan. Cost allocation plans are not reviewed or approved under the 1915(c) waiver process.

Information and Assistance in Support of Participant Direction: Overview

In addition to financial management services, participants must have access to information and assistance to support their direction of services. The waiver must provide that these supports are available to participants; however, in general, participants may elect whether to avail themselves of these supports and may determine the extent of the support that they require (within any limits established by the state). The supports that must be available to a participant also depend on the extent of decision making authority that the participant elects to exercise. For example, if a participant decides to exercise the Budget Authority but not Employer Authority, only supports associated with the Budget Authority would pertain to the participant.

The type of information and assistance supports for participant direction that must be made available hinges on the waiver’s participant direction opportunities and how these opportunities have been further defined in Appendix E-2. For example, if the waiver provides only for the Employer Authority opportunity, the types of supports that must be available will be less extensive than when both opportunities are offered.

In general, information and assistance should be available to support participants in exercising each of the specific decision making authorities that are specified for the Employer Authority (Appendix E-2, Item E-2-a-ii) and/or the Budget Authority (Appendix E-2, Item E-2-b-i). For example, if the participant has the authority to supervise staff, then support must be available to assist the participant in exercising this authority (by, for example, making information or training available concerning worker supervision). Other supports also may be furnished, including supporting the participant during the service plan development process.

As is the case with FMS, Federal financial participation in the costs of information and assistance in support of participant direction may be claimed as a waiver service or as an administrative activity. Item E-1-j is structured to identify the payment authority or authorities that are used to underwrite the costs of these supports as well as specify the types of supports that are furnished.

Item E-1-j: Information and Assistance in Support of Participant Direction

Instructions

Select the payment authority or authorities under which information and assistance in support of participant direction are furnished. Where required, provide the additional information that is specified.

Technical Guidance

Information and assistance in support of participant direction may be underwritten in three ways. More than one payment authority may be used to furnish these supports:

- Case Management Activity. Information and assistance supports may be furnished as an element of waiver case management. When case management is covered as a waiver service, its service specifications in Appendix C-3 should specify the supports that case managers furnish to participants who direct their services.

When the case management payment authority is employed to underwrite information and assistance supports, specify in detail the supports that are provided with respect to each participant direction opportunity under the waiver. When these supports are furnished as part of the provision of waiver case management services, it is sufficient to limit this description to a reference to the case management service specifications contained in Appendix C-3 so long as those specifications clearly delineate the supports that are furnished. When case management is provided under another authority, provide a complete description of the supports that are provided.

- Waiver Service Coverage. Information and assistance in support of participant direction may be offered as one or more distinct waiver services. These service or services must be specified in Appendix C-3, including the scope of supports that are furnished and provider qualifications. Some states have covered these supports as “support broker,” “supports brokerage,” or personal agent services. When these supports are covered as a waiver service, the participant has free choice from among all willing and qualified providers of these supports and the state must provide for the enrollment of all qualified providers. In addition, Federal financial participation in the costs of these supports is available at the state’s FMAP rate. When information and assistance supports are covered as distinct waiver services, enter the title or titles of the services. Especially with respect to the Employer Authority opportunity, such supports may be furnished as part of financial management services. If this is the case and financial management services also are a waiver service, specify that FMS is a source of these supports.

When information and assistance supports are covered as a waiver service, they generally may not be combined with financial management services when both are furnished as waiver services. Usually, both types of support must be covered as distinct services. The main exception is that Employer Authority-related supports may be included as part of the scope of Financial Management Services. When information and assistance supports are covered as a service distinct from FMS as a waiver service, FMS providers may furnish information and assistance supports when they meet applicable qualifications. However, participants may not be required to receive both FMS and information and assistance supports from the same waiver service provider.

- Administrative Activity. Information and assistance supports also may be furnished as a Medicaid administrative activity, furnished either by Medicaid agency personnel or by one or more contracted entities. Select this choice when these supports are furnished as an administrative activity. The considerations in using the administrative payment authority rather than a service payment authority to underwrite the costs of these supports are much the same as those that apply to financial management services. If furnished as Medicaid administrative activity, it must be done in accordance with the approved cost allocation plan. Cost allocation plans are not approved via the HCBS Waiver application.

When information and assistance supports are furnished as an administrative activity, specify the types of entities that furnish these supports, how the supports are procured and compensated; describe in detail the supports that are furnished in conjunction with each participant direction opportunity under the waiver; and, the responsible entity (or entities), methods and frequency of assessing the performance of entities that furnish these supports.

As noted above, the waiver may use more than one payment authority to underwrite the provision of information and assistance supports. For example, some supports might be furnished as part of waiver case management and other supports as a distinct waiver service. When more than one payment authority is used, the state must have controls in place to ensure that duplicate claims for Federal financial participation are not made for supports that are furnished to waiver participants.

CMS Review Criteria

Sufficiency of Supports

The scope of information and assistance in support of participant direction must align with the range of participant decision-making authorities specified in Appendix E-2. This requirement may be met by employing one or more payment authorities. Consequently, the relevant service specifications in Appendix C-3 and the response to this item may have to be reviewed in tandem to ascertain whether the overall scope of supports is sufficient.

Criteria Specific to the Provision of Supports as Case Management Activity

- When information and assistance supports are furnished as part of waiver case management services, the case management service specification identifies the supports.
- When information and assistance supports are furnished as part of TCM services, the supports are detailed by participant direction opportunity. The nature of the supports is consistent with the statutory scope of TCM and the coverage of TCM contained in the State plan.

Criteria Related to Provision of Information and Assistance Supports as an Administrative Activity

- The types of entities that furnish information and assistance supports are specified.
- The method of procuring information and assistance supports is specified and comports with applicable regulations at 45 CFR § 92.42.
- The method of compensating entities for furnishing information and assistance is specified;
- The scope of information and assistance supports is specified by type of participant direction opportunity.
- The supports are necessary for the proper and efficient administration of the waiver.
- The method and frequency of assessing the performance of entities that furnish information and assistance are specified.
- The entity (or entities) responsible for assessing performance is specified.
- The CMS waiver analyst should advise the financial staff that the State has indicated that it is using administrative claiming. This applies to all Medicaid administrative claiming activities specified (for example, case management, financial management services and supports broker). Medicaid administrative claiming must be in accordance with the approved cost allocation plan. Cost allocation plans are not reviewed or approved under the 1915(c) waiver process.

Item E-1-k: Independent Advocacy

Instructions

Select whether independent advocacy is available to participants who direct their services. If such advocacy is available, describe the nature of such advocacy and how participants may access this support.

Technical Guidance
Independent advocacy is advocacy that is furnished on behalf of a participant by an individual or organization that does not provide other direct services (under either the waiver or the State plan) to the participant, perform assessments, or conduct waiver monitoring, oversight or fiscal functions that have a direct impact on a participant. Independent advocacy is person-specific advocacy rather than advocacy that is performed on behalf of a group of individuals collectively. When independent advocacy is available, participants have a source of neutral assistance available to them to address problems that may arise with respect to any aspect of their waiver services, including participant direction. A state may contract for independent advocacy or enter into agreements with individuals or organizations to furnish this advocacy as needed.

In order to be considered for Independence Plus designation, the waiver must provide for access to independent advocacy by all waiver participants who direct some or all of their waiver services. While arranging for access to independent advocacy is encouraged for all waivers, it is not a general waiver approval requirement.

When independent advocacy is available, describe its nature (including the types of individuals and/or entities that furnish the advocacy) and how participants may access such advocacy (e.g., by providing information to participants about how to contact organizations that have agreed to provide such advocacy and the types of problems/issues for which such organizations provide assistance). This function may be conducted through an alternate dispute resolution system as specified in Appendix F-2 (if applicable) or a grievance/complaint system specified in Appendix F-3 (if applicable) provided that the system is independent.

CMS Review Criteria: Independence Plus Designation

In order to qualify for Independence Plus designation, the waiver must provide access to independent advocacy by all waiver participants who direct some or all of their waiver services. In particular:

- The waiver specifies the individuals and/or organizations that offer independent advocacy.
- The individuals and/or organizations do not furnish other direct services or perform other waiver functions that have a direct impact on a participant.
- The waiver describes how participants may access independent advocacy.

Item E-1-I: Voluntary Termination of Participant Direction

Instructions

In the text field, describe how the State accommodates a participant who voluntarily terminates participant direction in order to receive services through an alternate service delivery method, including how the State assures continuity of services and participant health and welfare during the transition from participant direction to the alternative service delivery method.

Technical Guidance

Participants who elect to direct some or all of their services may decide to switch to provider-managed services instead. When a waiver includes participant direction, a state should establish policies and procedures to accommodate this choice, including processes that ensure the continuity of the participant’s services and assure the participant’s health and welfare during the transition period. Such policies and procedures are important participant safeguards. Transition may be accommodated by timely revision of the service plan and quickly linking the participant with alternate waiver providers so that there is no break in the delivery of vital
Appendix E: Participant Direction of Services

When a waiver program targets only individuals who want to direct their services, describe how individuals who decide to terminate participant direction will be accommodated (e.g., by providing for their timely transition to another waiver for which they are eligible or by arranging for alternate services). In this instance, provision may be made for the use of provider-managed services during the transition period.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver describes how:
- The choice to voluntarily terminate participant direction and receive provider-managed alternative services is accommodated.
- Service continuity is ensured and participant health and welfare is assured during the transition period.

Item E-1-m: Involuntary Termination of Participant Direction

Instructions

In the text field, specify the circumstances under which the State will involuntarily terminate the use of participant direction and require the participant to receive provider-managed services instead, including how continuity of services and participant health and welfare is assured during the transition.

Technical Guidance

The waiver may provide for the involuntary termination of participant direction of services. Involuntary termination may be necessary when the participant does not carry out his/her responsibilities under participant direction. Involuntary termination of participant direction also may be necessary in order to assure the participant’s health and welfare. The provision of additional supports may prevent involuntary termination of participant direction. Involuntary termination of participant direction is not a basis for terminating the person from the waiver except when a waiver targets only individuals who elect to direct their services. When termination from the waiver is necessary, the person must be informed of the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing in accordance with the procedures specified in Appendix F-1.

In this item, specify in detail the circumstances (if any) when participant direction will be involuntarily terminated and process for transitioning the person to provider-managed services (e.g., by revising the service plan). Also specify the steps that are taken to ensure continuity of services that are vital to the participant’s well being and assure the participant’s health and welfare during the transition period.

If the waiver targets only persons who elect to self-direct, then provision should be made to transition the person to another waiver for which the person is eligible or by arranging for alternate services. In this instance, provision may be made for the use of provider-managed services during the transition period.

CMS Review Criteria

When participant direction is terminated involuntarily, the waiver specifies:
- The circumstances under which participant direction is terminated.
- The safeguards that ensure continuity of services and assure participant health and welfare during the transition period.

Item E-1-n: Goals for Participant-Direction
Appendix E: Participant Direction of Services

Instructions
In Table E-1-n, specify the state’s goal for the unduplicated number of waiver participants who are expected to avail themselves of the waiver’s participant direction opportunities. In the case of a new waiver, numeric goals should be provided for Years 1-3, or Years 1-5 if applicable, that the waiver is in effect. In the case of a renewal, a goal for each of the five years that the waiver will be in effect should be provided.

Technical Guidance
The information that is provided in this table will aid CMS in understanding the expected extent of the use of the waiver’s participant direction opportunities. The use of the term “goal” is intentional – it recognizes that the use of participant direction opportunities depends on many factors, including primarily the choices that are made by waiver participants themselves. Over the duration of the waiver, the goal may be over or underachieved. The goals that a state establishes are not to be interpreted as a limit on how many individuals may elect to direct their services (except in the case of waivers that only serve participants who want to self-direct). Approval of the waiver is not contingent on a minimum number of waiver participants electing to direct their services.

The “Employer Authority Only” column is used when the waiver provides only for the Employer Authority. The second column is used when a waiver provides for only the Budget Authority or the combination of the Budget Authority and the Employer Authority. If the waiver provides only for the Budget Authority, enter the number of participants who are expected to use that authority. When a waiver provides for both authorities, enter the number of participants who are expected to use one or both authorities.

Appendix E-2: Opportunities for Participant Direction

Overview of Topics Addressed in Appendix E-2
Appendix E-2 specifies the dimensions of the Employer Authority and Budget Authority opportunities for participant direction in the waiver. Item E-2-a is completed when the waiver offers the Employer Authority opportunity. Item E-2-b is completed when the waiver offers the Budget Authority opportunity.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix E-2

Item E-2-a: Participant – Employer Authority

Instructions
This item must be completed whenever the waiver offers the Employer Authority participant direction opportunity, as indicated in Appendix E-1, Item E-1-b.

Item E-2-a-i: Participant Employer Status

Instructions
Select the Co-Employer or Common Law Employer choice or both.

Technical Guidance
There are two ways in which to position the participant to direct staff who provide supports to the participant:

- Co-Employment. Under this approach, the participant is supported by an agency that functions as the common law employer of workers recruited by the participant. The participant directs the workers and is considered their co-employer (a.k.a., “managing employer”). This approach is sometimes termed the “Agency with Choice FMS model.” The Agency with Choice FMS provider conducts all necessary payroll functions and is legally responsible for discharging the employment-related functions and duties for participant-selected workers with the participant based on the roles and responsibilities identified for the two co-employers. The agency performs financial management services tasks that are related to the Employer Authority. Under this option, the Agency with Choice provider must hold a provider agreement with the state in order to submit billings and receive payments for the waiver services furnished by participant-selected workers or enter into an administrative services agreement/contract to function as a limited fiscal agent. An Agency with Choice FMS provider may function solely to support participant employment of workers or it may provide other employer-related supports to the participant, including providing traditional agency-based support workers. When the Agency with Choice FMS option is selected, specify the types of agencies that support co-employment, the standards and qualifications that the State requires of such entities, and the safeguards in place to ensure that individuals maintain control and oversight of the employee.

- Common Law Employer. Under this approach, the participant is considered the legally responsible employer (common law employer) of workers whom he or she (or his or her representative) hires, supervises and discharges directly. The participant or his or her representative is liable for the performance of necessary employment-related tasks and uses a Government or Vendor Fiscal/Employer Agent. When this approach is used, a financial management services entity is engaged to support the participant by performing necessary payroll and other employment related functions as the participant’s agent in order to ensure that employer-related legal obligations are fulfilled. This entity must be an IRS-approved Fiscal/Employer Agent.

Indicate which of these approaches are used in the waiver. A waiver may use both approaches.

CMS Review Criteria

- When the co-employer option is selected, the types of agencies that serve as co-employers are specified as Agency with Choice FMS.
- The State has mechanisms in place to ensure that individuals maintain authority and control over employees when opting for a co-employer arrangement, and that the agency with choice service delivery model truly reflects the key elements of self-direction.

Item E-2-a-ii. Participant Decision Making Authority

Instructions

Indicate how the participant exercises decision making authority over workers by checking off the employment-related functions that the participant may perform under the Employer Authority in the list provided (additional functions may be indicated in text box associated with the “other” selection).

Technical Guidance

The employer functions listed are generally self-explanatory. The selection of an employer-related function means that the participant may conduct the function. The waiver may provide that the performance of any of the selected functions is a matter of participant choice.

Four of the listed functions warrant additional discussion:
Appendix E: Participant Direction of Services

• Criminal History and/or Background Checks. A state’s policies concerning the performance of criminal history and/or background checks are described in Appendix C-2, Item C-2-1. When the participant is the common law employer, responsibility for conducting necessary background checks devolves to the participant whenever a participant-selected worker is subject to such a check under state law. However, a FMS or other entity may arrange for the background check on behalf of the participant. Under the Agency with Choice model, the agency is generally responsible for conducting necessary background checks. In either case, when workers are subject to mandatory background checks, this item should be checked. When participant-selected workers are not subject to such mandatory checks, the participant may request that such checks be conducted. The costs of conducting criminal history and/or background checks may be compensated as part of the payment to a financial management services entity. In general, when such checks are mandated under state law, the costs of conducting these checks should not be deducted from the participant-directed budget unless the cost is incorporated into the budget. Describe how the costs of criminal history and/or background checks are compensated.

• Additional Staff Qualifications. In Appendix C-3, the provider qualifications for each service are specified. These qualifications are controlling – that is, providers must meet these qualifications regardless of whether a service is provider-managed or participant-directed. However, the waiver may provide that the participant may establish additional staff qualifications based on her/his needs and preferences. For example, if a participant is hearing-impaired, the participant may specify that workers must be able to sign. So long as the additional participant-specified qualifications do not contravene the qualifications set forth in Appendix C-3, they are permissible. See the instructions for Appendix C-3 for a discussion of policies concerning staff qualifications.

• Staff Duties. Under the Employer Authority, the participant – like any employer – exercises authority over workers by specifying their duties – i.e., the specific tasks that the worker will perform on behalf of the participant. These duties must fall within the scope of the pertinent service specifications contained in Appendix C-3. For example, the participant may determine the specific tasks that a personal assistant will perform. These tasks must fall within the scope of personal assistance services as specified in Appendix C-3 in order to be considered eligible for Medicaid payment. Tasks that are outside the scope of a service’s specifications may not be billed to Medicaid.

• Staff Compensation. The waiver may provide that the participant has the authority to determine worker wages and benefits. In general, making provision for participant-determined wages and benefits implies that the participant also has Budget Authority. When this selection is made, the waiver may make participant decisions regarding worker wages and benefits subject to applicable state policies. For example, a state may establish a maximum hourly compensation amount but permit participants to negotiate hourly compensation rates that are lower than the maximum. Also, a state may provide that participant-determined worker wages comport with applicable Federal and state wage laws. When this selection is not made, worker wages and benefits are subject to the rates that the state establishes for each service.

The selections that are made for this item have important implications for the range of supports that the waiver makes available to participants who exercise Employer Authority. In general, the waiver must make support available to participants for each employer-related function that a participant may perform. This support may take the form of financial management services and/or information and assistance in support of participant direction.
Appendix E: Participant Direction of Services

CMS Review Criteria
In order for the waiver to be considered to offer Employer Authority to participants, the participant must have the authority to conduct the following functions at a minimum:

- Recruit workers
- Hire and discharge staff (common law employer)
- Refer for hire and discharge from providing services (co-employer)
- Specify staff qualifications
- Determine staff duties
- Schedule staff
- Supervise staff
- Evaluate staff performance

Independence Plus Designation
The participant must have the authority to conduct the full range of employer functions that are listed and supports must be available for each function.

Item E-2-b: Participant – Budget Authority

Instructions
This item must be completed whenever the waiver offers the Budget Authority participant direction opportunity, as indicated in Appendix E-1, Item E-1-b.

Item E-2-b-i: Participant Decision Making Authority

Instructions
Indicate how the participant exercises control over a participant-directed budget by checking the decision-making authorities that the participant may exercise under the Budget Authority in the list provided (additional functions may be indicated in text box associated with the “other” selection).

Technical Guidance
The selection of a budget control authority means that the participant may exercise decision making over a wide range of service delivery elements. The waiver may provide that the exercise of decision making authority for any particular element is a matter of participant choice. The budget control authorities are generally self-explanatory. With respect to the participant’s determining the amount paid for a service, specifying additional provider qualifications, or specifying how services are provided, the considerations are parallel to those identified in the foregoing instructions for the Employer Authority.

As is the case with the Employer Authority, the selections that are made for this item have implications for the range of supports that the waiver makes available to participants who exercise Budget Authority. In general, the waiver must make support available to participants for each decision-making authority that a participant may exercise. This support may take the form of financial management services and/or information and assistance in support of participant direction.

CMS Review Criteria
In order for the waiver to be considered to offer Budget Authority to participants, the participant must at a minimum have the authority to:

- Determine the amount paid for each service in accordance with the state's policies
- Schedule when services are provided
Appendix E: Participant Direction of Services

- Identify service providers and refer for enrollment
- Review and approve provider invoices

Independence Plus Designation

The participant must have decision making authority to conduct the full range of Budget Authority elements that are listed and supports must be available for each element.

Item E-2-b-ii: Participant-Directed Budget

Instructions

In the text field, describe in detail the method(s) that are used to establish the amount of the participant-directed budget for waiver goods and services over which the participant has authority, including how the method makes use of reliable cost estimating information and is applied consistently to each participant. Information about these method(s) must be made publicly available.

Technical Guidance

The exercise of Budget Authority requires that the participant have a budget in hand to manage. The participant-directed budget (sometimes termed the individual budget) may encompass all the services included in a participant’s service plan or only include the services that may be participant-directed (as provided in Appendix C-3) and that the participant decides to direct. In the case of the latter, services that fall outside the participant-directed budget are controlled by the authorizations in the service plan. The description of the budget methodology should clearly spell out the scope of the participant-directed budget.

The amount of the participant-directed budget may be determined in a variety of ways. For example, if prospective budget amounts are uniquely assigned to each participant or by level of support as provided in Appendix C-4, then the participant-directed budget may be based on the methods that are used to determine those budget amounts. Alternatively, the amount of the individual budget may be based on the amounts that are authorized in the service plan for the services that the participant has elected to direct. Other methods can be employed so long as they are based on reliable cost-estimating methodology that is described in detail. Whatever method is employed, the waiver must describe how it is applied consistently to each participant who elects to direct a budget. In addition, the waiver must provide that information about how the budget methodology is publicly available.

CMS Review Criteria

The state has specified:

- The basis of the method of determining participant-directed budget.
- How the method is rooted in the participant’s service plan, the budget determination method spelled out in Appendix C-4 (if applicable), or an alternative approach that is based on reliable cost-estimating techniques.
- When the method provides that the budget may vary based on additional factors, the factors that are used and how they affect the budget.
- How the method is applied consistently to each waiver participant.
- How information about the budget methodology is made publicly available.

Independence Plus Designation

The participant-directed budget must span the majority of services in a participant’s service plan.
Item E-2-b-iii. Informing Participant of Budget Amount

Instructions

In the text field, describe the process by which the participant is informed of the amount of the participant-directed budget and the procedures by which the participant may request an adjustment in the budget amount.

Technical Guidance

The participant must be informed of the amount of his/her budget. This may be done during the service plan development process or through an alternate means. This information should be provided to the participant before the service plan is finalized. In addition, the waiver should include procedures by which the participant may request an adjustment in the budget amount (e.g., by requesting a review of the service plan). The procedures should be described in this item, including (if applicable) the policies that the state follows in considering an adjustment to the budget. When the budget functions as a limit on the amount of waiver goods and services that a participant may receive, the participant must be offered the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing when the participant’s request for an adjustment to the budget is denied or the amount of the budget is reduced.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver describes:

- How the participant is informed of the budget amount before the service plan is finalized.
- How the waiver provides for procedures for the participant to request an adjustment in the budget.
- How participants are afforded the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing when the participant’s request for a budget adjustment is denied or the amount of the budget is reduced.

Item E-2-b-iv. Participant Exercise of Budget Flexibility

Instructions

Select whether participants who exercise Budget Authority may modify the services included in the participant-directed budget without advance approval of a change in the service plan.

Technical Guidance

The waiver service plan is the official authorization for the provision of waiver services to a participant. The service plan specifies the services that are furnished to the participant, including their amount, frequency and duration. The Budget Authority gives the participant control over a participant-directed budget. Such control implies the ability to reallocate funds among services. However, the waiver service plan and the participant-directed budget must be kept in alignment. This may be accomplished in one of two ways:

- The waiver may permit participants to reallocate funds among services without a prior change to the service plan so long as the reallocation of funds is documented in the service plan. If the waiver follows this policy, specify how changes in the participant-directed budget are documented, including updating the service plan. The waiver also may provide that, under specified circumstances (e.g., the participant wants to make a major change in the distribution of funds), a change in the budget is subject to prior review before it takes effect. If so, specify the circumstances when a budget change is subject to prior review.
Alternatively, the waiver may provide that all changes in the participant budget must be preceded by a change in the service plan. In this instance, the waiver’s procedures for updating or modifying the service plan are followed.

Budget flexibility may not be employed to permit the purchase of waiver goods and services that have not been authorized in the service plan. When a participant wishes to purchase waiver goods and services that are not included in the service plan, the service plan must be modified to include the desired goods and services, as specified within the waiver’s parameters.

CMS Review Criteria

When the waiver provides that participants have the authority and flexibility to modify the distribution of funds in the participant-directed budget without prior change to the service plan, the waiver specifies:

- How the changes to the budget and service plan are documented.
- If applicable, the circumstances when changes are subject to prior review and the entity responsible for conducting this review.

Item E-2-b-v: Expenditure Safeguards

Instructions

In the text field, describe the safeguards that are in effect for the timely prevention of the premature depletion of the participant-directed budget or to address potential service delivery problems that may be associated with budget underutilization and the entity (or entities) responsible for implementing these safeguards.

Technical Guidance

The waiver must provide safeguards to prevent the premature depletion of the participant-directed budget. Similarly, there should be safeguards to identify potential service delivery problems that might be associated with budget underutilization (e.g., the participant is unable to arrange for waiver services). These safeguards may take various forms, including the monitoring of expenditures by a case manager or support broker; requiring the FMS entity to flag significant budget variances (over and under expenditures) and bring them to the attention of the participant, case manager or support broker; and, allocating the budget on a monthly or quarterly basis. The safeguards should be designed so that budget problems are identified on a timely basis so that corrective action may be taken, if necessary.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver describes:

- Safeguards to prevent the premature depletion of the participant budget or address potential service delivery problems that may be associated with budget underutilization.
- Identifies the entity (or entities) responsible for ensuring the implementation of safeguards.
- How the safeguards ensure that potential budget problems are identified on a timely basis.
- Safeguards that include flagging potential budget over expenditures or budget underutilization.
Appendix F: Participant Rights

Brief Overview

Appendix F addresses the following:

- How participants are afforded the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing (Appendix F-1);
- Whether there is an alternate dispute resolution process available to participants to appeal decisions that adversely affect their services (Appendix F-2); and,
- The system (if any) that is available to participants to register grievances and complaints about their services (Appendix F-3)

Appendix F-1: Opportunity to Request a Fair Hearing

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix F-1

Process for Offering Opportunity to Request a Fair Hearing

Instructions

In the text field, describe the policy and procedures under the waiver for informing individuals of the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing under the provisions of 42 CFR 431, Subpart E. The description must include how, when and by whom individuals are informed of Fair Hearing procedures during entrance to the waiver. Procedures for notifying individuals of the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing must encompass the following adverse actions: (a) not providing an individual the choice of home and community-based services as an alternative to institutional care; (b) denying an individual the service(s) of their choice or the provider(s) of their choice; and, (c) actions to deny, suspend, reduce or terminate services. Include in the description how notice of an adverse action is given to individuals (e.g., by written notice only or verbally along with formal written notice). Specify the entity or entities responsible for notifying individuals and the extent of assistance that is provided to individuals affected by an adverse action to request a Fair Hearing. Also specify where documentation concerning Fair Hearing notification is maintained and include references to the notice forms that are employed. As appropriate, include in the description references to applicable state laws, regulations and policies.

Technical Guidance

The opportunity to request a Fair Hearing is a fundamental protection that is afforded Medicaid beneficiaries under the provisions of §1902(a)(3) of the Act. Federal Fair Hearing regulations are located in 42 CFR §431, Subpart E (included in Attachment C to the Instructions) and are further detailed in Section 2900 of the State Medicaid Manual (also included in Attachment D). Medicaid Fair Hearing requirements apply to HCBS waivers. Individuals must be afforded the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing in all instances when they: (a) are not provided the choice of home and community-based services as an alternative to institutional care; (b) are denied the service(s) of their choice or the provider(s) of their choice; and/or, (c) their services are denied, suspended, reduced or terminated.

Individuals must be informed in writing of the procedures for requesting a Fair Hearing as part of the waiver entrance process. If entrance to the waiver is denied, the person must be given formal written notice of the denial and information about how to request a Fair Hearing to appeal the denial of entrance to the waiver. In order to ensure that the participant is fully informed of their right to Fair Hearing, it may be appropriate and even necessary to supplement the written information with a verbal explanation of the Right to Fair Hearing.

Whenever an action is taken that adversely affects a waiver participant post-enrollment (e.g., services are denied, reduced or terminated), the participant must be notified of the action in writing on a timely basis in advance of the effective date of the action in accordance with 42 CFR §431.211. In accordance with 42 CFR §431.210, the notice must include information about how the participant may appeal the action by requesting a Fair Hearing. Services may not be terminated or reduced pending hearing, except as permitted in 42 CFR §431.230. Copies of notices must be maintained in the person’s record. It is up to the participant to decide whether to request a Fair Hearing.

Ultimate responsibility for compliance with Fair Hearing requirements is vested with the Medicaid agency. However, the Medicaid agency may elect to delegate aspects of the Fair Hearing process to the operating agency as provided in 42 CFR §431.10. This is often the case when waiver administration is delegated to counties or local authorities. For example, a state may offer beneficiaries the option of first pursuing an evidentiary hearing at the local level. In the event the outcome of that hearing is not satisfactory to the participant, the participant must be afforded the opportunity to pursue the Fair Hearing process at the state level. The participant cannot be required to pursue evidentiary hearing at the local level before requesting a Fair Hearing.

§1915(b)/§1915(c) Concurrent Waivers. When a HCBS waiver operates concurrently with a §1915(b) waiver, access to the Fair Hearing process may be affected by whether the state has provided that individuals must first avail themselves of the internal grievance process that an MCO or PIHP must operate. Indicate in the response to the item if this is the case and include a reference to the appropriate section of the §1915(b) application.

CMS Review Criteria
- The description must specify how individuals are informed about the Fair Hearing process during entrance to the waiver, including how, when and by whom this information is provided to individuals to ensure that the participant is knowledgeable about their right to fair hearing.
- The description must address all instances when notice must be made to an individual of an adverse action: choice of HCBS vs. institutional services; choice of provider or service; and denial, reduction, suspension or termination of service. The description must specify: (a) how notice is made; (b) the entity or entities responsible for issuing the notice; and, (c) the assistance (if any) that is provided to individuals in pursuing a Fair Hearing.
- The description must specify where notices of adverse actions and the opportunity to request a Fair Hearing are kept.

Appendix F-2: Additional Dispute Resolution Process

Overview

Many states operate an additional dispute resolution process in addition to the Fair Hearing process. This is permissible so long as an individual is not required to use this process as a pre-requisite to accessing the Medicaid Fair Hearing process or the process operates in lieu of the Fair Hearing process. To be acceptable, the mechanism must preserve the individual’s right to pursue a Fair Hearing. In this Appendix, indicate whether there is an additional dispute resolution process available to individuals and, if so, provide information about the process.
Appendix F: Participant Rights

This item only applies to dispute resolution processes operated by a state agency. In some cases, dispute resolution processes are entirely local or provider-based. In these cases, it is required that participants be informed that the right to a Medicaid Fair Hearing is preserved when they elect to make use of the process.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix F-2

Item F-2-a: Availability of Additional Dispute Resolution Process

Instructions

Select whether there is an additional dispute resolution process. If “yes” is selected, complete Item F-2-b. If “no,” do not complete Item F-2-b.

Technical Guidance

§1915(c) Waivers. Select the “yes” response only if the additional dispute resolution process operates under the aegis of a state agency (e.g., a state agency operates the process or the process includes provision for referring disputes from the local level to the state for resolution). Do not select “yes” if additional dispute resolution processes are entirely local or provider-based. Also, do not select “yes” if the additional dispute resolution process only involves offering a person the opportunity for a local evidentiary hearing under the Fair Hearing process. Offering such hearings should be addressed in Item F-1-b instead.

§1915(b)/1915(c) Concurrent Waivers. Select “yes” when the state contracts with Managed Care Organizations (MCOs) or Prepaid Inpatient Hospital Plans (PIHPs) for the provision of waiver services to reflect the requirement that such entities have an internal grievance system as required by 42 CFR §438 Subpart H. Also, select “yes” when the state contracts with Prepaid Ambulatory Health Plans (PAHPs) for the provision of waiver services and the state elects to operate an optional PAHP grievance procedure as specified in the §1915(b) waiver application.

Item F-2-b: Description of Additional Dispute Resolution Process

Instructions

Describe the additional dispute resolution process, including: (a) the state agency that operates the process; (b) the nature of the process (i.e., procedures and timeframes), including the types of disputes addressed through the process; and, (c) how the right to a Medicaid Fair Hearing is preserved when a participant elects to make use of the process. State laws, regulations, and policies referenced in the description must be available to CMS upon request through the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable).

In the case of §1915(b)/1915(c) concurrent waivers that includes an internal grievance system or optional grievance procedure, the description may simply reference the §1915(b) waiver application.

Technical Guidance

The operation of an additional dispute resolution process over and above the Fair Hearing process is not a Federal requirement except in the case of certain managed care service delivery models. This item is included in the application in order to provide a complete picture of the procedural protections afforded to waiver participants. From a Medicaid perspective, the operation of an additional dispute resolution process must not impede in any way a person’s...
Appendix F: Participant Rights

opportunity to request a Fair Hearing.

CMS Review Criteria

When there is an additional dispute resolution process:

- The state agency that operates the dispute mechanism is identified.
- The state describes the types of disputes that can be addressed, including the process and timelines.
- When a participant elects to make use of the dispute mechanism, the participant is informed that the dispute resolution mechanism is not a pre-requisite or substitute for a Fair Hearing.

Appendix F-3: State Grievance/Complaint System

Overview

States often operate grievance and complaint systems that afford waiver participants the opportunity to identify and seek the resolution of problems and issues with the services that they receive and/or accessing services that they have been authorized to receive. The operation of such a system is not mandated under Federal regulations. These systems typically address problems that are outside the scope of the Fair Hearing process (e.g., issues with provider performance in furnishing a waiver service). The operation of such a system may not in any fashion undermine the opportunity of a participant to request a Fair Hearing to address problems that fall under the scope of the Fair Hearing process. Sometimes these systems are multi-tiered (e.g., designed to resolve a problem at the local level before the problem is referred to a state agency). In this Appendix, indicate whether there is a grievance and complaint system available to individuals and, if so, provide information about the process.

This item only applies to a grievance/complaint system operated by a state agency. In some cases, there are grievance/complaint systems that are entirely local or provider-based. When this is the case, participants must be informed that the right to a Medicaid Fair Hearing is preserved when a participant elects to make use of the process.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix F-2

Item F-3-a: Operation of Grievance/Complaint System

Instructions

Select whether there is a grievance/complaint system that affords participants the opportunity to register grievances or complaints concerning the provision of services under this waiver. When there is such a system, complete the remaining two items. If there is not a system, do not complete the remainder of Appendix F-3.

Technical Guidance

Only select “yes” when the grievance/complaint system is operated by the state (i.e., grievances or complaints are registered directly with the state) or, if operated at the local or provider agency level, the system provides for state involvement when the complaint or grievance cannot be satisfactorily resolved at the local or provider level). Do not select the affirmative response if grievance/complaint mechanisms are operated entirely locally or by providers with no direct involvement by a state agency.

Item F-3-b: Operational Responsibility

Instructions
Specify the state agency that is responsible for the operation of the grievance/complaint system.

Technical Guidance
The agency that operates the grievance/complaint system may be the Medicaid agency, the operating agency, or another state agency (e.g., a state ombudsman office). If more than one state agency is involved in addressing complaints and grievances, specify each and, in the response to the next item, distinguish the roles and responsibilities of these agencies in resolving grievances and complaints.

Item F-3-c: Description of System

Instructions
Describe the grievance/complaint system, including (a) the types of grievances/complaints that participants may register; (b) the process and timelines for addressing grievances/complaints; and, (c) the mechanisms that are used to resolve grievances/complaints. When multiple entities are involved in the system, identify the role that each plays. Also, specify how the system is structured to preserve the participant’s opportunity to request a Fair Hearing. State laws, regulations, and policies that are referenced in the description must be available when requested by CMS through the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable).

In the case of a §1915(b)/1915(c) concurrent waiver that includes an internal grievance system or optional grievance procedure, the description may simply reference the §1915(b) waiver application.

CMS Review Criteria
When there is a grievance/complaint system:
- The state agency that operates the grievance/complaint system is identified.
- The state describes the types of complaints that can be addressed, the process and timelines.
- When a participant elects to file a grievance or make a complaint, the participant is informed that doing so is not a pre-requisite or substitute for a Fair Hearing.
Appendix G: Participant Safeguards

Brief Overview

Appendix G addresses the following safeguards to assure the health and welfare of waiver participants:

- Response to Critical Events or Incidents (Appendix G-1)
- Safeguards Concerning Restraints and Restrictive Interventions (Appendix G-2)
- Medication Management and Administration (Appendix G-3)

Appendix G-1 and Appendix G-2 Item C-2-c-ii apply to all waivers. Appendices G-2 (except for Item C-2-c-ii) and G-3 may not apply to some waivers. See the instructions for these Appendices for a discussion of their applicability.

Appendix G-1: Response to Critical Events or Incidents

Overview

This appendix applies to all waiver programs. It focuses on the identification and follow-up to critical events or incidents (e.g., abuse, neglect and exploitation) that bring harm, or create the potential for harm, to a waiver participant. Effective incident management is essential to assuring the health and welfare of waiver participants. In this appendix, the state describes the operational features of managing incidents at the individual and provider level as well as its activities to assure that reports are filed and incidents investigated in a timely fashion and to analyze incident data (e.g., about specific types of incidents, providers, participant characteristics, results of investigations, the timeliness of reports and investigations) in order to develop strategies to reduce the risk and likelihood of the occurrence of incidents in the future.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix G-1

Item G-1-a: Critical Event or Incident Reporting and Management Process.

Instructions

Indicate whether the State operates Critical Event or Incident Reporting and Management Process that enables the State to collect information on sentinel events occurring in the waiver program.

Item G-1-b: State Critical Event or Incident Reporting Requirements

Instructions

List and briefly define the types of critical events or incidents (including alleged abuse, neglect and exploitation) that the state requires to be reported for review and follow-up action (e.g., a follow-up investigation) by an appropriate authority (e.g., child or adult protective services). Also identify the individuals and/or entities (e.g., waiver providers) that must report such events and incidents and the reporting method or methods that are employed. Specify the time-frames for reporting critical events and incidents. The response to this item may include citations of relevant state laws, regulations, and other published policies. Referenced documents must be... available through the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable) upon request by CMS.

Technical Guidance

This item focuses on critical events or incidents that the state itself deems as sufficiently serious to warrant near-term review and follow-up by an appropriate authority. Such incidents may include but are not limited to: (a) abuse and neglect as defined by the state; (b) the unauthorized use of restraint, seclusion or restrictive interventions; (c) serious injuries that require medical intervention and/or result in hospitalization; (d) criminal victimization; (e) death; (f) financial exploitation; (g) medication errors; and, (h) other incidents or events that involve harm or risk of harm to a participant. In general, the types of critical events and incidents that must be reported to and monitored by an appropriate authority are specified in state law, regulations or policies. When the waiver serves both children and adults, specify whether different reporting requirements apply to children and adults, including who has responsibility to report critical events or incidents.

CMS Review Criteria

- The state provides for the reporting and investigation of major and serious incidents (abuse, neglect, and exploitation at a minimum).
- The description includes:
  - Definitions of the types of critical events or incidents that must be reported;
  - Identification of the individuals/entities that must report critical events and incidents;
  - The timeframes within which critical events or incidents must be reported; and,
  - The method of reporting (e.g., phone, written form, web-based reporting system).

Item G-1-c: Participant Training and Education

Instructions

Describe how training and/or information is provided to participants (and involved family or other unpaid caregivers, as appropriate) concerning the state’s protections from abuse, neglect, and exploitation, including how participants (or their informal caregivers) can notify appropriate authorities or entities when the participant may have experienced abuse, neglect or exploitation. Identify the entity or entities that are responsible for providing this training and/or information and how frequently training and education are furnished.

Technical Guidance

This item focuses on how participants (and involved family or other unpaid caregivers, as appropriate) are informed about abuse, neglect and exploitation protections. This might involve formal training concerning whom to contact when the participant believes that s/he has experienced abuse, neglect or exploitation. Alternatively, information about reporting might be furnished verbally and/or in written form to the participant and other involved individuals. The scope of the item does not include training/education that might be furnished to providers or direct support workers about identifying and reporting abuse, neglect, and exploitation.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver describes:
Appendix G: Participant Safeguards

- How training and/or information are furnished to participants or their informal caregivers concerning protections from abuse, neglect and exploitation, including how to notify the appropriate authorities.
- The entities responsible for providing training and/or information are specified.
- The frequency of providing training and/or information is specified.

Item G-1-d: Responsibility for Review of and Response to Critical Events or Incidents

Instructions

Identify the entity (or entities) to which reports are made of each type of critical event or incident specified in Item G-1-a above. Describe the methods employed to evaluate critical incident reports (e.g., determine that follow-up action is required), and the processes and time frames for responding to critical events or incidents, including conducting investigations.

Technical Guidance

The purpose of this item is to describe how reports of critical events or incidents are reviewed and how follow-up of reports is performed when warranted. The response must:

- For each type of critical incident or event identified in Item G-1-a, specify the entity or entities to which reports are submitted. Such entities might include the state’s adult protective services agency, the child protective services agency, a licensing authority and/or a program authority (e.g., the state developmental disabilities agency);
- Identify the entity that is responsible for evaluating reports (e.g., making a determination that follow-up is necessary) and how reports are evaluated (e.g., the criteria that are applied in deciding whether follow-up action is warranted);
- Identify the entity that is responsible for follow-up investigations and how investigations are conducted (e.g., whether methods are determined based on severity according to a prescribed protocol, accommodations that are made for participant interviews);
- The timeframe for conducting and completing an investigation (i.e., how promptly an investigation is initiated) and the time-frame for completing an investigation (e.g., within 48-hours, 7-days, 30-days depending on severity and criticality); and,
- The process and time frames for informing the participant (or the participant’s family or legal representative as appropriate) and other relevant parties (e.g., the waiver provider, licensing and regulatory authorities, the operating agency) of the investigation results.

The description may be structured in any appropriate manner so long as it addresses each of the elements listed above.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver specifies:

- The entity (or entities) that receives reports of each type of critical event or incident.
- The entity that is responsible for evaluating reports and how reports are evaluated.
- The entity that is responsible for conducting investigations and how investigations are conducted.
- The timeframes for conducting an investigation and completing an investigation.
Appendix G: Participant Safeguards

- The process and timeframes for informing the participant including the participant (or the participant’s family or legal representative as appropriate) and other relevant parties (e.g., the waiver providers, licensing and regulatory authorities, the waiver operating agency) of the investigation results.

Item G-1-e. Responsibility for Oversight of Critical Incidents and Events

Instructions

In the text field, identify the state agency (or agencies) responsible for overseeing the reporting of and response to critical incidents or events, how this oversight is conducted and how frequently.

Technical Guidance

An effective incident management system entails conducting oversight to make sure that applicable policies and procedures are being followed for the reporting of critical incidents or events and that necessary follow-up is being conducted on a timely basis. A critical element of effective oversight is the operation of data systems that support the identification of trends and patterns in the occurrence of critical incidents or events in order to identify opportunities for improvement and thus support the development of strategies to reduce the occurrence of incidents in the future.

The response to this item must specify the following:

- The state agency or agencies responsible for overseeing the operation of the incident management system. When this responsibility is not carried out directly by the Medicaid agency and/or the operating agency (if applicable), indicate how the information and findings from oversight activities are communicated to the Medicaid agency and/or the operating agency by the state agency (or agencies) responsible for oversight. Since addressing critical incidents or events is an integral component of assuring the health and welfare of waiver participants, it is critical that the Medicaid agency and/or the operating agency (if applicable) play an active role in the oversight of the operation of the incident management system. For example, if the state’s adult protective services (APS) agency has primary oversight responsibility for incident management, there should be processes whereby the APS agency regularly furnishes the Medicaid agency and/or operating agency with information about critical incidents that involve waiver participants and that the agencies work together to identify strategies to reduce the occurrence of critical incidents.

- How oversight is conducted. System-wide oversight methods should include gathering information about types of incidents, participant characteristics, providers, how quickly reports are reviewed and investigated, how promptly follow-up takes place, the results of investigations, and whether participants are informed of the investigation results. Oversight includes using information to reduce the occurrence of incidents in the future. The response should describe

  1) How information about critical incidents and events is collected and compiled so that it can be analyzed to enable the identification of trends/patterns and the development of quality improvement strategies to reduce future occurrence of critical incidents or events. For example, reports may be filed by phone, in written form, or through the use of information technology, each of which requires specific practices to collect, compile and analyze the information.
2) How information from critical incident reports is used to identify issues within the waiver population, specific providers at a system-wide level, and how that information is used to develop strategies to reduce occurrences in the future.

3) The frequency of oversight activities.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver specifies:

- The state entity or entities responsible for overseeing the operation of the incident management system.
- When oversight is not performed by the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable), the process for the oversight agency to communicate information and findings to the Medicaid agency and/or operating agency.
- The methods for overseeing the operation of the incident management system, including how data are collected, compiled, and used to prevent re-occurrence.
- The frequency of oversight activities.

Appendix G-2: Safeguards Concerning Restraints and Restrictive Interventions

Overview

This Appendix concerns the use of restraints and/or restrictive interventions during provision of waiver services. When either is permitted, the state must specify the safeguards that it has established concerning their use and how the state ensures that such safeguards are followed. Providing effective safeguards in the use of restraints and/or restrictive interventions is integral to assuring the health and welfare of waiver participants. When restraints and/or restrictive interventions are not permitted, the state must have a means to detect unauthorized use. The terms used in this Appendix are defined in the Glossary.

Detailed Instructions for Completion of Appendix G-2

Item G-2-a: Use of Restraints

Instructions

Select one of the two main choices. If the state does not permit the use of restraints as part of the provision of waiver services and/or their use is prohibited under state policy, select the first choice. Also, identify the state agency or agencies that are responsible for detecting the unauthorized use of restraints and how oversight is performed to ensure that unauthorized use does not take place. If the use of restraints by a paid caregiver is permitted during the course of providing waiver services, including in the participant’s private residence, select the second choice and complete the next two items. Use of restraints must comport with the home and community-based setting requirements at Section 42 CFR 441.301(c)(4)(iii) and (vi)(F), and person-centered service planning and plan requirements at 42 CFR 44.301(c)(1) and (c)(2).

Technical Guidance

For the purposes of this item, restraints include personal restraints (e.g., holds), drugs used as restraints, and mechanical restraints. When a state prohibits the use of restraints during the delivery of waiver services, it still must have processes that are designed to detect their unauthorized use. Such processes may include regular monitoring of participant health and welfare, the performance of periodic provider quality reviews, and an incident management system in which unauthorized restraint is a reportable incident.

Item G-2-a-i: Safeguards Concerning the Use of Restraints

Instructions
Specify the safeguards that have been established concerning the use of each type of restraint (i.e., personal restraints, drugs used as restraints, mechanical restraints). If state laws, regulations, and policies are referenced in the response to this item, they must available upon request to CMS through the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable).

Technical Guidance
When the use of restraints is permitted, identify the types of restraints (i.e., personal restraints, drugs used as restraints, mechanical restraints) that are allowed and describe in detail the safeguards that the state has established concerning the use of each type of restraint that is permitted. If the use of specific types of restraint is explicitly prohibited in policy, identify the restraints that are not allowed. For example, personal restraints may be permitted but the use of mechanical restraints prohibited.

For each type of restraint that is allowed, the safeguards should address:

1) Requirements concerning the use of alternative strategies to avoid the use of restraints;
2) Methods for detecting the unauthorized use of or misapplication of restraints;
3) The protocols that must be followed when restraints are employed (including the circumstances when their use is permitted and when they are not) and how their use is authorized;
4) The practices that must be employed in the administration of a restraint to ensure the health and safety of individuals;
5) Required documentation (record keeping) concerning the use of restraints; and,
6) The education and training requirements that provider agency personnel must meet who are involved in the administration of a restraint.

Item G-2-a-ii: State Oversight Responsibility

Instructions

Specify the State agency (or agencies) responsible for overseeing the use of restraints and ensuring that State safeguards concerning their use are followed. Describe how this oversight is conducted and its frequency

Technical Guidance

• Identify the state agency (or agencies) responsible for overseeing the use of restraints and ensuring that state safeguards concerning their use are followed. When the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable) does not conduct this oversight, describe how the results of monitoring the use of restraints are regularly communicated to the agency that operates the waiver. Since the use of restraints has potential implications for the health and welfare of waiver participants, it is important that the agency that administers the waiver be informed and aware of potential violations of state policies concerning the use of restraints in order for them to undertake appropriate remedial and system improvement activities.

• How oversight is conducted. Oversight methods include monitoring the use of restraints to ensure that all applicable state requirements are followed and to detect unauthorized, inappropriate/ineffective use or over use. Oversight methods should include gathering information about frequency, length of time of each use and the duration of use over time as well as the impact of restraints on the individual. Oversight also includes using information to assure proper use and to reduce the use of restraints in the future. The response should include

1) How information about restraints is collected and compiled so that it can be analyzed to enable the identification of trends/patterns and the development of quality improvement strategies. For example, reports may be filed by phone, in written form, or through the use of information technology, each of which requires specific practices to collect and then compile and analyze the information

2) How information about the use of restraints is used to identify issues related to the waiver populations, providers at the system-wide level and how that information is used to develop strategies to ensure the proper use and achieve a reduction in the use of restraints.

3) The frequency of oversight activities.

CMS Review Criteria

The response specifies:

• The state agency (or agencies) responsible for overseeing the use of restraints and ensuring that the state’s safeguards are followed.

• When oversight is not performed by the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable), the process for the oversight agency to communicate information and findings to the Medicaid agency and/or operating agency.

• Methods for detecting unauthorized use, over use or inappropriate/ineffective use of restraints and ensuring that all applicable state requirements are followed.

• How data are analyzed to identify trends and patterns and support improvement strategies.

• The methods for overseeing the operation of the incident management system including how data are collected, compiled, and used to prevent re-occurrence.

• The frequency of the oversight activities.

Item G-2-b: Use of Restrictive Interventions

Instructions

Select one of the two main choices. If the state does not permit the use of restrictive interventions during the provision of waiver services and/or their use is prohibited under state policy, select the first choice. Also, identify the state agency or agencies that are responsible for detecting the unauthorized use of restrictive interventions and how oversight is performed to ensure that unauthorized use does not take place. If the use of restrictive interventions by a paid provider is permitted during the course of providing waiver services, including in the participant’s private residence, select the second choice and complete the next two items. Use of restrictive interventions must comport with the home and community-based setting requirements at Section 42 CFR 441.301(c)(4)(iii) and (vi)(F), and person-centered service planning and plan requirements at 42 CFR 44.301(c)(1) and (c)(2).

Technical Guidance

Restrictive interventions limit an individual’s movement; a person’s access to other individuals, locations or activities, or restrict participant rights. Restrictive interventions also include the use of other aversive techniques (not including restraint or seclusion) that are designed to modify a person’s behavior.

When a state prohibits the use of restrictive interventions during the delivery of waiver services, it still must have specific processes that are designed to detect their unauthorized use.

CMS Review Criteria

• The response is consistent with the remainder of the waiver application.

• When the first choice is selected, the state specifies methods to detect unauthorized use of restrictive intervention, and the state agency (or agencies) responsible for conducting this oversight.

• Use of restrictive interventions must comport with the home and community-based setting requirements at Section 42 CFR 441.301(c)(4)(iii) and (vi)(F), and person-centered service planning and plan requirements at 42 CFR 44.301(c)(1) and (c)(2).

Item G-2-b-i: Safeguards Concerning the Use of Restrictive Interventions

Instructions
Specify the safeguards that the State has in effect concerning the use of interventions that restrict participant movement, participant access to other individuals, locations or activities, restrict participant rights or employ aversive methods (not including restraints or seclusion) to modify behavior. State laws, regulations, and policies referenced in the specification must be available to CMS upon request through the Medicaid agency or the operating agency.

Technical Guidance

The use of restrictive interventions has potential adverse ramifications for the health and welfare of waiver participants. Consequently, when their use is permitted during the course of the provision of waiver services, it is important that there be effective safeguards in place to ensure that such interventions are only used when necessary and are carried out in a manner that avoids harm to the waiver participant.

When the use of restrictive interventions is permitted during the course of the provision of waiver services, identify the types of interventions that are allowed (including the circumstances under which they are allowed) and the types of restrictive interventions that are specifically prohibited. For example, a state may prohibit the use of aversive methods altogether. Do not include here restraints or seclusion that already have been addressed in Item G-2-a and G-2-c.

Describe in detail the safeguards that have been established for each type of permitted restrictive intervention. These safeguards should address:

1) First use of non-aversive methods (i.e., a requirement that aversive methods may only be employed as a last resort);
2) Methods to detect the unauthorized use of restrictive interventions;
3) Protocols for authorizing the use of restrictive interventions, including treatment planning requirements and review/reauthorization procedures (including, as applicable the use of Human Rights Committees);
4) Required documentation (record keeping) when restrictive interventions are used; and,
5) Required education and training of personnel involved in the authorization and administration of restrictive interventions.

CMS Review Criteria

The response specifies:

- The types of restrictive interventions that are permitted, the circumstances under which they are allowed, and the types of restrictive interventions that are not allowed.
- For each type of restrictive intervention that is permitted, the state’s safeguards address:
  - First use of non-aversive methods;
  - Methods to detect the unauthorized use of restrictive interventions;
  - Protocols for authorizing the use of restrictive interventions, including treatment planning requirements and review/reauthorization procedures;
  - Required documentation when restrictive interventions are used; and
  - Required education and training of personnel involved in authorization and administration of restrictive interventions.

Item G-2-b-ii: State Oversight Responsibility

Instructions

Specify the State agency (or agencies) responsible for monitoring and overseeing the use of restrictive interventions, how this oversight is conducted, and its frequency. When the state does not permit the use of restrictive interventions, the response to this item should focus on how the state detects the unauthorized use of restrictive interventions.

Technical Guidance

- Identify the state agency (or agencies) responsible for overseeing the use of restrictive interventions and ensuring that state safeguards concerning their use are followed. When this oversight is not carried out by the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable), describe how the results of monitoring the use of restrictive interventions are regularly communicated to the agency that operates the waiver. Since use of restrictive interventions has potential implications for the health and welfare of waiver participants, it is important that the agency that administers the waiver be aware of potential violations of state policies concerning the use of restrictive interventions in order for them to undertake appropriate remedial and system improvement activities.

- How oversight is conducted. Oversight methods include monitoring the use of restrictive interventions to ensure that all applicable state requirements are followed and detecting their unauthorized, inappropriate/ineffective use or overuse. Oversight methods should include gathering information about frequency, length of time of each use and the duration of use over time as well as the impact of restrictive interventions on the individual. Oversight also includes using information to assure proper use and to reduce the use of restrictive interventions in the future. The response should include:
  1) How information about restrictive interventions is collected and compiled so that it can be analyzed to enable the identification of trends/patterns and the development of quality improvement strategies. For example, reports may be filed by phone, in written form, or through the use of information technology, each of which requires specific practices to collect, compile and analyze the information.
  2) How information about the use of restrictive interventions used to identify issues related to the waiver populations, providers and at the system-wide level and how that information is used to develop strategies to ensure the proper use and achieve a reduction in the use of restrictive interventions in the future.
  3) The frequency of oversight activities.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver specifies:

- The state agency (or agencies) responsible for overseeing the use of restrictive procedures and ensuring that the state’s safeguards are followed.
- When oversight is not performed by the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable), the process for the oversight agency to communicate information and findings to the Medicaid agency and/or operating agency.
- Methods for detecting unauthorized use, over use or inappropriate/ineffective use of restrictive procedures and ensuring that all applicable state requirements are followed.
- How data are analyzed to identify trends and patterns and support improvement strategies.
- The methods for overseeing the operation of the incident management system including how data are collected, compiled, and used to prevent re-occurrence.
- The frequency of oversight activities.

Item G-2-c: Use of Seclusion
Appendix G: Participant Safeguards

Instructions
Select one of the two main choices. If the state does not permit the use of seclusion as part of the provision of waiver services and/or their use is prohibited under state policy, select the first choice. Also, identify the state agency or agencies that are responsible for detecting the unauthorized use of seclusion and how oversight is performed to ensure that unauthorized use does not take place. If the use of seclusion by a paid caregiver is permitted during the course of providing waiver services, including in the participant’s private residence, select the second choice and complete the next two items. Use of seclusion must comport with the home and community-based setting requirements at Section 42 CFR 441.301(c)(4)(iii) and (vi)(F), and person-centered service planning and plan requirements at 42 CFR 44.301(c)(1) and (c)(2).

Technical Guidance
For the purposes of this item, seclusion means involuntarily isolating an individual as a means of controlling the person’s behavior. Seclusion is distinguished from “time out” which does not involve preventing a person from leaving an area and which is considered to be a restrictive intervention. Consult the Glossary for the definition of the terms used in this item.

When a state prohibits the use of seclusion during the delivery of waiver services, it still must have processes that are designed to detect their unauthorized use. Such processes may include regular monitoring of participant health and welfare, the performance of periodic provider quality reviews, and an incident management system in which unauthorized seclusion is a reportable incident.

CMS Review Criteria
- When the first choice is selected, the response is consistent with the remainder of the waiver application.
- When the first choice is selected, the state provides specific methods to detect unauthorized use of seclusion, and specifies the state agency (or agencies) responsible for conducting this oversight.
- Use of restrictive interventions must comport with the home and community-based setting requirements at Section 42 CFR 441.301(c)(4)(iii) and (vi)(F), and person-centered service planning and plan requirements at 42 CFR 44.301(c)(1) and (c)(2).

Item G-2-c-i: Safeguards Concerning the Use of Seclusion

Instructions
Specify the safeguards that have been established concerning the use of seclusion. If state laws, regulations, and policies are referenced in the response to this item, they must be available upon request to CMS through the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable).

Technical Guidance
When the use of seclusion is permitted, describe in detail the safeguards that the state has established concerning the use of seclusion that is permitted. The safeguards should address:

1) Requirements concerning the use of alternative strategies to avoid the use of seclusion;
Appendix G: Participant Safeguards

2) Methods for detecting the unauthorized use of or misapplication of seclusion;
3) The protocols that must be followed when seclusion is employed (including the circumstances when it is permitted and when it is not) and how its use is authorized;
4) The practices that must be employed in the administration of seclusion to ensure the health and safety of individuals;
5) Required documentation (record keeping) concerning the use of seclusion; and,
6) The education and training requirements that provider agency personnel must meet who are involved in the administration of seclusion.

CMS Review Criteria

For each type of seclusion permitted, the State has identified safeguards that address:
- The use of alternative methods to avoid the use of seclusion;
- Methods for detecting the unauthorized use of seclusion;
- The protocols that must be followed when seclusion is employed (including the circumstances when its use is permitted) and how its use is authorized;
- The practices that must be employed to ensure the health and safety of individuals;
- Required documentation concerning the use of seclusion; and
- Education and training requirements that personnel who are involved in the administration of seclusion must meet.

Item G-2-c-ii: State Oversight Responsibility

Instructions

Specify the State agency (or agencies) responsible for overseeing the use of seclusion and ensuring that State safeguards concerning its use is followed. Describe how this oversight is conducted and its frequency.

Technical Guidance

- Identify the state agency (or agencies) responsible for overseeing the use of seclusion and ensuring that state safeguards concerning its use is followed. When the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable) does not conduct this oversight, describe how the results of monitoring the use of seclusion are regularly communicated to the agency that operates the waiver. Since the use of seclusion has potential implications for the health and welfare of waiver participants, it is important that the agency that administers the waiver be informed and aware of potential violations of state policies concerning the use of seclusion in order for them to undertake appropriate remedial and system improvement activities.

- How oversight is conducted. Oversight methods include monitoring the use of seclusion to ensure that all applicable state requirements are followed and to detect unauthorized, inappropriate/ineffective use or over use. Oversight methods should include gathering information about frequency, length of time of each use and the duration of use over time as well as the impact of seclusion on the individual. Oversight also includes using information to assure proper use and to reduce the use of seclusion in the future. The response should include
  1) How information about seclusion is collected and compiled so that it can be analyzed to enable the identification of trends/patterns and the development of quality improvement strategies. For example, reports may be filed by phone, in written form, or through the use of information technology, each of which requires specific practices to collect and then compile and analyze the information.

2) How information about the use of seclusion is used to identify issues related to the waiver populations, providers at the system-wide level and how that information is used to develop strategies to ensure the proper use and achieve a reduction in the use of seclusion.

3) The frequency of oversight activities.

CMS Review Criteria

The response specifies:

- The state agency (or agencies) responsible for overseeing the use of seclusion and ensuring that the state’s safeguards are followed.
- When oversight is not performed by the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable), the process for the oversight agency to communicate information and findings to the Medicaid agency and/or operating agency.
- Methods for detecting unauthorized use, over use or inappropriate/ineffective use of seclusion and ensuring that all applicable state requirements are followed.
- How data are analyzed to identify trends and patterns and support improvement strategies.
- The methods for overseeing the operation of the incident management system including how data are collected, compiled, and used to prevent re-occurrence.
- The frequency of the oversight activities.

Appendix G-3: Medication Management and Administration

Overview

This section addresses two distinct topics: (a) medication management, which means the review of waiver participant medication regimens (e.g., the appropriateness of the medications that a person receives) and (b) medication administration (the administration of medications to participants who are unable to administer their own medications by waiver providers). Both of these topics have potential ramifications for the health and welfare of waiver participants.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix G-3

Item G-3-a: Applicability

Instructions

Select whether this section applies to the waiver. If it applies, then complete the remainder of the section. If not, do not complete the rest of the section.

Technical Guidance

This question must be completed when waiver services are furnished to participants who are served in licensed or unlicensed living arrangements where a provider has round-the-clock responsibility for the health and welfare of residents. The question does not need to be completed when waiver participants are served exclusively in their own private residences or in the home of a family member. However, a state may include this Appendix if it wishes. This... may be the case when supporting waiver participants who live in their own private residences or the home of a family member entails the involvement of waiver providers in the management and/or administration of their medications.

Item G-3-b: Medication Management and Follow-Up

Medication management means the review of a participant’s full medication regimen to ensure its appropriateness. When individuals receive medications for the purpose of modifying or controlling behavior, the state is expected to have policies and procedures concerning the effective use and management of such medications. Medication management also is relevant when a participant receives multiple medications in order to guard against over or inappropriate medication.

Item G-3-b-i: Responsibility

Instructions

Specify the entity (or entities) that have ongoing responsibility for monitoring participant medication regimens, the methods for conducting monitoring, and the frequency of monitoring.

Technical Guidance

First-line responsibility for monitoring participant medication regimens resides with the medical professionals who prescribe medications. The response to this item should identify the entity or entities that conduct second-line monitoring.

This second-line monitoring may or may not be conducted by a state agency. Entities responsible for second-line monitoring may include licensing agencies, case or care managers, or others. Monitoring also might include the review of medication regimens by Medicaid agency utilization review staff or contractors. When behavior modifying medications are employed, second line monitoring responsibility must be specified. It is not expected that in-depth monitoring will be conducted in the case of medications that are prescribed for the short-term treatment of an illness.

The response must describe how second-line monitoring is conducted, by whom and how frequently (e.g., periodic review of medication regimens by a care manager or nurse). Monitoring methods should be designed to detect potentially harmful practices and provide for follow-up to address such practices. Specify whether monitoring has been designed to focus on waiver participants who have especially complex medication regimens or who are prescribed behavior modifying medications as part of their treatment programs. Monitoring may be conducted as part of the periodic monitoring of participant health and welfare.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver specifies:

- The entity or entities responsible for ongoing monitoring of participant medication regimens.
- The scope of monitoring (i.e., whether monitoring is designed to focus on certain types of medications or medication usage patterns).
- Methods for conducting monitoring.
- Frequency of monitoring.
- How monitoring has been designed to detect potentially harmful practices and follow-up to address such practices.
- How second-line monitoring is conducted on the use of behavior modifying medications.
Item G-3-b-ii: State Oversight and Follow-up

Instructions
Describe how the state oversees or monitors second-line medication management processes to ensure that participant medications are managed appropriately, including: (a) the identification of potentially harmful practices (e.g., the concurrent use of contraindicated medications); (b) the method(s) for following up on potentially harmful practices; and, (c) the State agency (or agencies) responsible for follow-up.

Technical Guidance
Provide an overview of how the state oversees the performance of second-line medication monitoring processes to ensure that potentially harmful practices are identified and addressed. Specify the state agency (or agencies) responsible for this oversight and how frequently oversight is performed. If the Medicaid agency or operating agency (if applicable) does not directly conduct this oversight, describe how oversight results are regularly shared with the agency that administers the waiver program.

If improvements in oversight are planned during the period that the waiver is in effect, such improvements should be briefly identified here and described in more detail in Appendix H.

CMS Review Criteria
The waiver specifies:
- The state agency (or agencies) responsible for oversight
- When oversight is not conducted by the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable), the process to communicate information and findings from monitoring are regularly communicated to the Medicaid agency and the operating agency (if applicable).
- How state monitoring is performed and how frequently
- How the state monitoring program gathers information concerning potentially harmful practices and employs such information to improve quality.

Item G-3-c: Medication Administration by Waiver Providers
This item concerns the administration of medications by waiver providers to waiver participants who are not able to self-administer their medications or the oversight by waiver providers of participant self-administration of medications.

Item G-3-c.i: Provider Administration of Medications
Instructions
Select the “yes” response when waiver providers administer medications or oversee the self-administration of medications by waiver participants. Complete the remainder of the item. If waiver providers do not administer medications or oversee self-administration, select the second response. Do not complete the remainder of the item.

Item G-3-c.ii: State Policy
Instructions
Summarize the state policies that apply to administration of medications by waiver providers or waiver provider responsibilities when participants self-administer medications, including (if applicable) policies concerning medication administration by non-medical personnel. State laws, regulations, and policies that are referenced in the summary must be available to CMS.
upon request through the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable).

Technical Guidance

When waiver providers administer medications to participants who are unable to self-administer, states typically have adopted formal policies (in law and/or regulation) that govern this practice. The response to this item should summarize the applicable policies, including whether administration is restricted to licensed medical personnel or may be performed by non-medical waiver provider personnel. In the case of the latter, the summary should identify the training/education that such personnel must have in order to administer medications and the extent of oversight by licensed medical professionals that is performed. The summary also should describe the state’s policies with respect to waiver providers overseeing the self-administration of medications by waiver participants.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver specifies:

- Policies concerning the administration of medications to individuals who are unable to self-administer and the responsibilities of providers for overseeing self-administration.
- If applicable, the training/education that non-medical waiver providers must have in order to administer medications to participants who cannot self-administer and the extent of the oversight of these personnel by licensed medical professionals.

Item G-3-c.iii: Medication Error Reporting

Instructions

Select whether providers who administer medications to waiver participants who are unable to self-administer must both record and report medication errors to a state agency. If this choice is selected, specify the state agency to which errors are reported and the types of medication errors that providers must: (a) record and (b) report. If providers are required to record errors but not report them to a state agency, select the second choice and specify the types of errors that providers must record. If providers are not required to record and/or report errors or waiver providers do not administer medications but only oversee their self-administration by waiver participants, select the “not applicable” choice.

Technical Guidance

Medication error recording and reporting are important medication administration quality assurance/improvement tools. In some states, providers are required to record medication errors and report some or all errors to a state agency. In other states, providers are required to record but not report errors (in this instance, recorded errors may be reviewed during a periodic provider quality review). Medication errors include such errors as wrong dose, wrong time, wrong route, wrong medication or missed medication.

CMS Review Criteria

If applicable, the waiver specifies:

- The types of medication errors that providers must record and/or report.
- When reporting is required; the agency to which errors must be reported is specified.

Item G-3-c.iv: State Oversight Responsibility
Appendix G: Participant Safeguards

Instructions

Specify the state agency (or agencies) responsible for monitoring the performance of waiver providers in the administration of medications to waiver participants who are unable to self-administer, how monitoring is performed and its frequency.

Technical Guidance

Here, describe how the performance of waiver providers in administering medications is monitored. If monitoring is not performed by the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable), describe how monitoring results are regularly communicated to the agency that is responsible for administering the waiver.

Monitoring may take the form of reviewing provider records or analyzing provider-reported errors. The response should indicate how frequently monitoring of medication administration is conducted. A state also may have linked the reporting of specific types of medication errors to its critical incident management system. Describe how this monitoring is designed to identify problems in provider medication administration, support remediation as appropriate and contribute to quality improvement efforts in this arena.

The response should describe how information about medication monitoring is compiled and explain how the collection of these data supports the identification of trends/patterns and the development of quality improvement strategies.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver specifies:

- The state agency (or agencies) responsible for the on-going monitoring of waiver provider agencies’ performance in administering participant medications.
- When oversight is not conducted by the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable), the process to communicate information and findings to the Medicaid agency or the operating agency.
- Monitoring methods include the identification of problems in provider performance and support follow-up remediation actions and quality improvement activities.
- How data are acquired to identify trends and patterns and support improvement strategies.

Quality Improvement: Health and Welfare

Health and Welfare

The State demonstrates it has designed and implemented an effective system for assuring waiver participant health and welfare.

The State demonstrates on an ongoing basis that it identifies, addresses and seeks to prevent instances of abuse, neglect, exploitation and unexplained death.

The State demonstrates that an incident management system is in place that effectively resolves those incidents and prevents further similar incidents to the extent possible.

State policies and procedures for the use or prohibition of restrictive interventions (including restraints and seclusion) are followed.
The State establishes overall health care standards and monitors those standards based on the responsibility of the service provider as stated in the approved waiver.

Instructions

The QIS must describe how the state Medicaid Agency will determine that each waiver assurance (and its associated component elements) is met. The waiver assurance is listed above. For each assurance, this description must include:

- Activities or processes that are related to discovery and remediation, i.e., review, assessment or monitoring processes; who conducts the discovery or remediation activities and with what frequency. These monitoring activities provide the foundation for quality improvement by generating information regarding compliance, potential problems and individual corrective actions. The information can be aggregated and analyzed to measure the overall system performance in meeting the waiver assurances. The types of information used to measure performance, should include relevant quality measures/indicators.

- The entity or entities responsible for reviewing the results (data and information) of discovery and remediation activities to determine whether the performance of the system reflects compliance with the assurances; and,

- The frequency at which system performance is measured.

Technical Guidance

This QIS element focuses on discovery and remediation activities, that is, processes to assess, review, evaluate or otherwise analyze a program, process, operation, or outcome. Specifically, the evidence produced as a result of discovery and remediation activities should provide a clear picture of the state’s compliance in meeting an assurance.

CMS Review Criteria

- The discovery of compliance with this assurance and the remediation of identified problems must address:
  - How the Medicaid agency assures compliance with the following health and welfare assurance:
    - The state, on an on-going basis, identifies, addresses, and seeks to prevent the occurrence of abuse, neglect and exploitation.
  - How frequently oversight is conducted; and
  - The entity (or entities) responsible for the discovery and remediation activities.
Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix H

Quality Improvement Strategy in Waiver Application 3.5

The initial QIS is submitted as part of the waiver application. When the waiver is renewed, an updated QIS is submitted as part of the waiver application. Modifications or updates to the QIS are submitted to CMS as part of the State’s Annual Report on Home and Community-Based Services Waivers (HCFA 372(S) form), required under the provisions of 42 CFR §441.302(h).

The State has been asked to provide components of a Quality Improvement Strategy (QIS) in the Appendices of the application as follows:

- The measures and processes the state will use to determine that each waiver assurance is met during the period that the waiver is in effect (discovery);
- The measures and processes employed to correct identified problems (remediation);
- The roles and responsibilities of the parties involved in measuring performance and making improvements;
- The processes employed to aggregate and analyze trends in the identification and remediation of problems,
- The processes employed to establish priorities, develop strategies for, and assess implementation of system improvements (system improvement);
- The process and timelines for compiling the information and communicating to waiver participants, families, service providers, other interested parties, and the public; and,
- The frequency and processes used to evaluate and revise the QIS.

Additionally, Appendix H asks the state to describe:
- How information about performance is used to identify and prioritize areas for system improvement;
- How quality improvement information is compiled and communicated; and,
- The process that the state will follow to assess the effectiveness of both the system improvement and the QIS and revise it as necessary and appropriate.

General Instructions

Instructions

Planned Quality Improvements. A state may not have a fully developed QIS when the waiver application is submitted. For example, a state may not have a system to compile information about the occurrence of and response to critical incidents but may plan to design and implement such a system during the period the waiver is in effect. Or a state may plan to create a Quality Improvement Council to identify and prioritize quality improvement activities but does not expect the Council to be established prior to the effective date of the waiver renewal. When elements of the QIS are not in place in a submitted application but will be developed and implemented during the period the waiver is in effect, the QIS should include a detailed work plan.
plan with specific steps and timelines for addressing the gap(s). The work plan should describe at minimum the specific tasks to be undertaken, major milestones associated with completing each task, estimated timeline for completion, and the entity (or entities) responsible for completing the tasks.

Multiple Waivers. It may be more efficient and effective for a QIS to span multiple HCBS waivers and other related long-term care services, especially when a state operates more than one waiver that serves the same or similar waiver target groups or multiple waivers employ similar quality improvement methods. While the QIS may span multiple waivers and/or other Medicaid long-term services, it must be designed to ensure it encompasses all requirements and assurances specific to each waiver. Unless the state has requested and received approval from CMS for the consolidation of multiple waivers for the purpose of reporting, then the state must stratify information for each approved waiver program, i.e., employ a representative sample for each waiver. Also include: (a) the control numbers for the other waivers and (b) the other Medicaid long-term services to which the QIS applies.

Concurrent §1915(b)/§1915(c) Waivers. When a §1915(c) waiver operates concurrently with a §1915(b) waiver, the quality-related requirements under each authority must be met in their own right. The §1915(b) waiver quality requirements do not supplant the §1915(c) requirements and vice versa. In general, the §1915(c) waiver assurances are not addressed in the §1915(b) waiver application and, hence, must be addressed in the QIS. However, if there is information in the §1915(b) waiver application that is pertinent to addressing a waiver assurance, include a reference to the section/item in the §1915(b) application.

CMS Review Criteria

When the State does not have a fully developed Quality Improvement Strategy, there is a work plan that addresses each element where improvements will take place during the waiver period including the following:

- Specific tasks associated with the improvement.
- Major milestones and dates for completing the improvements.
- The entity (or entities) responsible for completing these tasks.

When the QIS spans more than one waiver and/or other types of long-term care services under the Medicaid State Plan, the QIS:

- Provides control numbers of the other waivers.
- Provides the other long term care services addressed in the QIS.

Quality Improvement Strategy: Systems Improvement in Version 3.5

The initial QIS is submitted as part of the waiver application. When the waiver is renewed, an updated QIS is submitted as part of the waiver application. Modifications or updates to the QIS are submitted to CMS as part of the State’s Annual Report on Home and Community-Based Services Waivers (CMS 372(S) form), required under the provisions of 42 CFR §441.302(h).

In its application the State has been asked to provide components of a Quality Improvement Strategy (QIS) in the Appendices of the application as follows:

- The measures and processes the state will use to determine that each waiver assurance is met during the period that the waiver is in effect (discovery);
- The measures and processes employed to correct identified problems (remediation);
Appendix H: Systems Improvement

- The roles and responsibilities of the parties involved in measuring performance and making improvements;
- The processes employed to aggregate and analyze trends in the identification and remediation of problems,

Appendix H specifically asks the state to identify:

- The processes employed to establish priorities, develop strategies for, and assess implementation of system improvements (system improvement);
- The process and timelines for compiling the information and communicating to waiver participants, families, service providers, other interested parties, and the public; and,
- The frequency and processes used to evaluate and revise the QIS.
- How and by whom information about performance is used to identify and prioritize areas for system improvement;
- How quality improvement information is compiled and communicated; and,
- The process that the state will follow to assess the effectiveness of both the system improvement and the QIS and revise it as necessary and appropriate.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix H

Instructions

The Quality Improvement Strategy must describe roles and responsibilities of the parties involved in discovery, remediation, and improvement activities. In other appendices the state has described the roles and responsibilities of parties involved in discovery and remediation. In Appendix H, the description should include the roles and responsibilities of the Medicaid agency, operating agency and non-state entities (as applicable), other state agencies, participants, families and advocates, providers, and other contractors (if appropriate) in effectuating the processes in the quality improvement strategy such as collecting and analyzing individual and system-level information, determining whether the waiver requirements and assurances are met, implementing remediation, and planning system improvement activities.

The focus of Appendix H is on identifying who is involved in appraising the state’s performance in meeting the waiver assurances based on the results of discovery processes. The parties involved in performance appraisal may vary by assurance, depending on the nature of the assurance. The state may organize the involvement of individuals and entities in any number of ways including, but not limited to, establishing a quality improvement unit, forming quality improvement councils, and establishing standing committees. It is not necessary that the Medicaid agency directly conducts every aspect of the quality improvement strategy. However, since the QIS revolves around meeting the waiver assurances, it is necessary that the Medicaid agency be the source of the delegation of activities in the QIS, and the recipient of the monitoring, remediation and system improvement reports that pertain to meeting the assurances. The Medicaid agency must also perform its own monitoring of all delegated activities.

CMS Review Criteria

The QIS describes the roles and responsibilities of entities and persons involved in analyzing information derived from discovery and remediation activities (described in other appendices), recommending system improvements, and analyzing the effectiveness of the improvement
Appendix H: Systems Improvement

QIS Processes to Establish Priorities, Develop, and Assess System Improvements

Instructions
The QIS must describe the processes employed to review findings from its discovery and remediation activities, to establish priorities for system improvement, and to evaluate the effectiveness of the improvements.

Technical Guidance
The purpose of state performance appraisal is to identify areas that warrant improvement. While remediation often addresses correction of individual situations, system improvements result from the analysis of the discovery and remediation activities. Often, the appraisals identify many potential opportunities for system improvement. CMS recognizes that it may be necessary to prioritize the design and implementation of system improvement strategies.

Appendix H asks for a description of how the state will identify, prioritize and develop strategies for system improvements. This is likely to involve multiple approaches, including the use of researchers, special advisory consultants, research organizations, and consumer and/or provider focus groups. The focus here is on describing the process the state will follow during the waiver period, to identify the improvement initiatives it will pursue. The results of these initiatives will be reported in the CMS annual report.

CMS Review Criteria
The QIS describes the processes that are employed to review findings, establish priorities, develop strategies, and assess effectiveness of system improvements.

Compilation and Communication of Quality Improvement Information

Instructions
In Appendix H, the Quality Improvement Strategy must describe how the State compiles quality improvement information and the frequency with which the State communicates this information (in report or other forms) to waiver participants, families, waiver services providers, other interested parties and the public.

Technical Guidance
List and briefly summarize the major types of quality improvement information that will be prepared during the period the waiver is in effect. Indicate for each source of information, the topic addressed, the frequency with which it is developed and communicated, and the primary audience (i.e. the groups for which the report(s) are prepared). Quality improvement information may be designed to focus on specific areas of concern; may be related to a specific location, type of service or subgroup of participants; may be designed as administrative management reports; and/or may be developed to inform stakeholders and the public. Describe how quality improvement results are communicated to other agencies, participants, families, waiver providers, other interested parties, and the public. Results may be posted to a website. Not all sources of information need be disseminated to each stakeholder group.

Reports may be targeted to specific entities for the purpose of ongoing quality improvement such as routine incident management summary reports issued to providers for response and action or reports issued to Medicaid agency by the operating agency on compliance with assurance requirements.
Appendix H: Systems Improvement

CMS Review Criteria

The QIS describes
- The types of quality improvement reports that are compiled.
- The frequency with which such reports are compiled.
- How results are communicated, and with what frequency, to agencies, waiver providers, participants, families and other interested parties, and the public.

Periodic Evaluation and Revision of the QIS

Instructions

Describe the process to periodically evaluate and revise, as appropriate, the Quality Improvement Strategy.

Technical Guidance

Quality Improvement Strategies are dynamic. They can and do change over time in response to changing needs and conditions in the waiver program/state. Because of this dynamic nature, it is important for states to periodically evaluate their QI strategies. The results of the evaluation might demonstrate the need to change priorities, use different approaches to measure progress, modify roles and responsibilities of key entities, and modify data sources in order to retrieve the information needed for measurement.

In this section, briefly describe the process that will be used to periodically evaluate the QIS and the frequency with which the evaluation/re-evaluation will occur. The description should also identify the key entities involved in the evaluation. It is up to the state to determine the frequency for evaluating the QIS. However, the QIS should be evaluated at least once during the waiver period and evaluated in advance of the submission of the waiver renewal application.

If the result of the evaluation process is revision of the QIS, the revised QIS should be communicated to CMS as part of the submission of the annual waiver report.

CMS Review Criteria

The QIS describes the process and frequency for evaluating and updating the QIS (i.e., once during the waiver period and prior to renewal).

Planned Quality Improvements. A state may not have a fully developed QIS when the waiver application is submitted. For example, a state may not have a system to compile information about the occurrence of and response to critical incidents but may plan to design and implement such a system during the period the waiver is in effect. Or a state may plan to create a Quality Improvement Council to identify and prioritize quality improvement activities but does not expect the Council to be established prior to the effective date of the waiver renewal. When elements of the QIS are not in place in a submitted application but will be developed and implemented during the period the waiver is in effect, Appendix H should include a detailed work plan with specific steps and timelines for addressing the gap(s). The work plan should describe at minimum the specific tasks to be undertaken, major milestones associated with completing each task, estimated timeline for completion, and the entity (or entities) responsible for completing the tasks.

Multiple Waivers. It may be more efficient and effective for a QIS to span multiple HCBS waivers and other related long-term care services, especially when a state operates more than one waiver that serves the same or similar waiver target groups or multiple waivers employ similar quality improvement methods. While the QIS may span multiple waivers and/or other Medicaid long-term services, it must be designed to ensure it encompasses all requirements and assurances specific to each waiver. If the QIS applies to more than one waiver, the State must be sure to stratify information for each waiver separately. Also include: (a) the control numbers for the other waivers and (b) the other Medicaid long-term services to which the QIS applies.

Concurrent §1915(b)/§1915(c) Waivers. When a §1915(c) waiver operates concurrently with a §1915(b) waiver, the quality-related requirements under each authority must be met in their own right. The §1915(b) waiver quality requirements do not supplant the §1915(c) requirements and vice versa. In general, the §1915(c) waiver assurances are not addressed in the §1915(b) waiver application and, hence, must be addressed in the QIS. However, if there is information in the §1915(b) waiver application that is pertinent to addressing a waiver assurance, include a reference to the section/item in the §1915(b) application.

CMS Review Criteria

When the State does not have a fully developed Quality Improvement Strategy, there is a work plan that addresses each element where improvements will take place during the waiver period including the following:

- Specific tasks associated with the improvement.
- Major milestones and dates for completing the improvements.
- The entity (or entities) responsible for completing these tasks.
- When the QIS spans more than one waiver and/or other types of long-term care services under the Medicaid State Plan, the QIS:
  - Stratifies information for each respective waiver;
  - Provides control numbers of the other waivers.
  - Provides the other long term care services addressed in the QIS.
Appendix I: Financial Accountability

Brief Overview

This Appendix addresses the following financial elements of HCBS waiver operations:

• Financial Integrity and Accountability (Appendix I-1)
• Rates, Billings and Claims (Appendix I-2)
• Payments (Appendix I-3)
• Non-Federal Matching Funds (Appendix I-4)
• Exclusion of Medicaid Payment for Room and Board (Appendix I-5)
• Payment for Rent and Food Expenses of an Unrelated Live-In Caregiver (Appendix I-6)
• Participant Co-Payments for Waiver Services and Other Cost Sharing (Appendix I-7)

NOTE: When a HCBS waiver operates concurrently with a §1915(b) waiver and waiver services are furnished through managed care entities (e.g., MCOs, PIHPs or PAHPs), the responses to several items in Appendices I-1, I-2 and I-3 are affected. The instructions contain guidance about how responses to the certain items are affected when there is a concurrent waiver.

APPENDIX I-1: Financial Integrity and Accountability

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix I-1

Instructions

In the text field, describe the methods that are employed to ensure the integrity of payments that have been made for waiver services, including: (a) requirements concerning the independent audit of provider agencies; (b) the financial audit program that the state conducts to ensure the integrity of provider billings for Medicaid payment of waiver services, including the methods, scope and frequency of audits that are conducted; and, (c) the agency (or agencies) responsible for conducting the financial audit program.

Technical Guidance

This item focuses on how the state assures the integrity of payments that have made for waiver services. It concentrates on post-payment financial audit activities rather than on the methods of ensuring the validity of provider billings prior to payment (those methods are addressed in Item 2-d below).

The description must address each of the following:

• State requirements concerning the independent audit of provider agencies – i.e., whether waiver providers are required to secure an independent audit of their financial statements;
• The state’s own financial audit program to ensure the integrity of provider billings for Medicaid payment of waiver services, including the methods, scope and frequency of audits conducted by the State. A financial audit program might include testing a sample of provider billings to ensure that they are properly supported by documentation of the actual provision of waiver services or the review of provider cost accounting systems to ensure that, when rates are based on provider costs, costs have been properly recorded and do not include unallowable expenses; and,
Appendix I: Financial Accountability

- The state agency (or agencies) responsible for conducting the state’s financial audit program. If the financial audit program is conducted by contractors, specify the state agency responsible for overseeing contractor performance.

If the description cites applicable state laws, regulations, and policies, the documents cited must be readily available through the Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable) when requested by CMS.

HCBS waivers (like other Medicaid services) also are subject to requirements of the Single Audit Act (31 U.S.C. 7501-7507) as amended by the Single Audit Act Amendments of 1996 (P.L. 104-146). The description should also identify the entity that is responsible for conducting the periodic independent audit of the waiver program as required by the Single Audit Act.

§1915(b) / §1915(c) Concurrent Waivers

When the HCBS waiver operates concurrently with a §1915(b) waiver and waiver services are furnished through managed care entities (e.g., MCOs, PIHPs or PAHPs), the §1915(b) waiver financial accountability requirements apply. Under such arrangements, the state does not make payments directly to waiver providers but instead pays a capitated payment rate to the managed care entity for the delivery of waiver services and the entity in turn pays other providers (except, if applicable, services that are furnished on a fee-for-service basis outside the capitated rate). Alternative methods are used to ensure financial accountability, including ensuring that payments are only made to a managed care entity only for eligible persons who have been properly enrolled in the waiver. Therefore, the description of the methods to ensure payment integrity should only briefly address the methods to ensure the integrity of payments to managed care entities unless payments are also made on a fee-for-service basis for some waiver services outside the capitation rate. The summary may include references to the §1915(b) waiver application or provisions of the state’s contract with managed care entities.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver:

- Specifies the independent audit requirements that apply to waiver providers, including the scope and frequency of the audit that is required.
- Describes the state’s post-payment financial audit program.
- Provides for a post-payment financial audit program that is adequate to assure the integrity of payments.
- Specifies responsibilities for conducting financial audit activities.
- Identifies the entity responsible for conducting the periodic independent audit of the waiver program under the provisions of the Single Audit Act.

In the case of §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers, the foregoing criteria apply only to services not included in the capitation rate and §1915(b) waiver requirements and criteria apply to ensuring financial accountability of payments made to managed care entities.
Quality Improvement: Financial Accountability

The State must demonstrate that it has designed and implemented an adequate system for insuring financial accountability of the waiver program.

The State provides evidence that claims are coded and paid for in accordance with the reimbursement methodology specified in the approved waiver and only for services rendered.

The State provides evidence that rates remain consistent with the approved rate methodology throughout the five-year waiver cycle.

Instructions
The QIS must describe how the state Medicaid Agency will determine that each waiver assurance (and its associated component elements) is met. The waiver assurance and component elements are listed above. For each component element, this description must include:

- Activities or processes that are related to discovery and remediation, i.e., review, assessment or monitoring processes; who conducts the discovery or remediation activities and with what frequency. These monitoring activities provide the foundation for quality improvement by generating information regarding compliance, potential problems and individual corrective actions. The information can be aggregated and analyzed to measure the overall system performance in meeting the waiver assurances. The types of information used to measure performance, should include relevant quality measures/indicators.
- The entity or entities responsible for reviewing the results (data and information) of discovery and remediation activities to determine whether the performance of the system reflects compliance with the assurances; and,
- The frequency at which system performance is measured.

Technical Guidance
This QIS element focuses on discovery and remediation activities, that is, processes to assess, review, evaluate or otherwise analyze a program, process, operation, or outcome. Specifically, the evidence produced as a result of discovery and remediation activities should provide a clear picture of the state’s compliance in meeting an assurance.

CMS Review Criteria
- The discovery of compliance with this assurance and the remediation of identified problems must address:
  - How the Medicaid agency assures compliance with the following assurance:
  - State financial oversight exists to assure that claims are coded and paid for in accordance with the reimbursement methodology specified in the approved
Appendix I: Financial Accountability

- How frequently oversight is conducted; and
- The entity (or entities) responsible for the discovery and remediation activities.

APPENDIX I-2: Rates, Billing and Claims

Overview

This Appendix addresses the following topics: (a) waiver service rate determination methods; (b) the flow of provider billings (a.k.a., provider claims for payment for services furnished to waiver participants) to the state; (c) the practice of certifying public expenditures; (d) processes for validating provider payments; and, (e) billing maintenance requirements.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix I-2

Item I-2-a: Rate Determination Methods

Instructions

In the text field and in two pages or less (no more than 12,000 characters), describe the methods that are employed to establish provider payment rates for waiver services and the entity or entities that are responsible for rate determination. Indicate any opportunity for public comment in the process for establishing rates. If different methods are employed for various types of services, the description may group services where the same method is employed.

Technical Guidance

Waiver payment rates may be determined in a variety of ways and frequently the methods that are employed vary by type of service. While rate determination methods may vary, payments for waiver services (like other Medicaid services) must be consistent with the provisions of §1902(a)30(A) of the Act (i.e., “payments are consistent with efficiency, economy, and quality of care and are sufficient to enlist enough providers”) and the related Federal regulations at 42 CFR §447.200-205. The state should have a monitoring process to ensure that these requirements are met.

Rates may be prospective or provide for retrospective cost settlement of interim rates. Rates may be established by maintaining a state established fee-for-service schedule. Rates may incorporate “difficulty of care” factors to take into account the level of provider effort associated with serving individuals who have differing support needs; rates may also include geographic adjustment factors to reflect differences in the costs of furnishing services in different parts of a state. If state-established rates vary for different providers of a waiver service, indicate the basis for the variation. The same rate determination method may be used for several waiver services. When this is the case, the description may group the services to which the same method applies. When a service is available for participant direction, identify whether a rate determination is used that in any way differs from the methodology used when the service is provider-managed. State laws, regulations or policies cited in this description must be readily available through the State Medicaid agency or the operating agency (if applicable) when requested by CMS.

Participant Direction. When a service may be participant directed, describe whether the method of rate determination in any way differs from the methodology that is utilized when service is provider managed.

A state must have uniform rate determination methods or standards that apply to each waiver service. Rates may be established by the operating agency so long as they are in accordance with methods or standards that have been adopted or approved by the Medicaid agency. The same methods or standards must be applied in all jurisdictions where waiver services are furnished. When local government agencies establish provider payment rates, the rates must be determined employing the uniform methods or standards that have been adopted by the state in order to ensure that payments across all areas of the state are equivalent (differences in rates are based on factors specified in the methodology or formula – e.g., difficulty of care or geographic adjustment factors). The description of rate determination methods must clearly identify the entity (or entities) that perform the rate determination function and the oversight process that is employed to assure the integrity of the rate setting activity (i.e., the methodology is adhered to and any differences in rates for a waiver service are consistent with the methodology). Also, describe the extent to which public comment is solicited concerning rate determination methods.

Also, describe how the state makes information available about payment rates available to waiver participants so that they are aware of the costs of waiver services.

§1915(b)/§1915(c) Concurrent Waivers

When the HCBS waiver operates concurrently with a §1915(b) waiver and waiver services are furnished through managed care entities (e.g., MCOs, PIHPs or PAHPs), the state establishes a captitation (per member per month) payment rate that it makes the managed care entity. The managed care entity then establishes the payments it makes to waiver providers who furnish services to waiver participants. When such arrangements are in effect, only describe the rate setting methods that are employed for the waiver services that are not included in the capitation rate (i.e., services that will continue to be furnished on a fee-for-service basis). Do not describe how the capitation rate is established. Instead simply make reference to the §1915(b) waiver application and associated materials.

Administrative Claiming

Some services such as case management, supports broker, and financial management services may be provided as a Medicaid administrative activity rather than as a waiver service. The State must assure that the administrative costs, necessary for the efficient administration of the Medicaid State Plan, are in accordance with the approved cost allocation plan. Please note that cost allocation plans are not approved via approval of the HCBS waiver application.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver:

- Describes the rate setting method that it used for each waiver service. If rates are not uniform for every provider of a waiver service, the waiver describes the basis for the variation.
- Specifies the entity (or entities) responsible for rate determination and how oversight of the rate determination process is conducted.
Appendix I: Financial Accountability

- Describes how the Medicaid agency solicits public comments on rate determination methods.
- Describes how information about payment rates is made available to waiver participants.

In the case of §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers, the foregoing criteria apply only to services not included in the capitation rate. The method of determining the capitation rate is subject to §1915(b) requirements and criteria.

Item I-2-b: Flow of Billings

Instructions

Describe the flow of billings for waiver services, specifying whether provider billings flow directly from providers to the State’s claims payment system or whether billings are routed through other intermediary entities. If billings flow through other intermediary entities, specify the entities.

Technical Guidance

Indicate whether billings for waiver services flow directly from service providers to the state’s Medicaid claims processing system (MMIS) or pass through intermediate entities (e.g., an Organized Health Care Delivery System, a Financial Management Services entity, a local government agency (e.g., county), a state agency or via another route). If the flow of billings differs among types or classes of waiver services, describe each flow of billings. The description should provide a clear picture of how a provider invoice becomes a claim for Medicaid payment.

There is no Federal requirement that all waiver provider billings must flow directly from the waiver provider to the state. Alternative arrangements may be made to flow billings through intermediate entities (e.g., public or private local management entities or a limited fiscal agent). The various types of alternative arrangements that may be employed are subject to other Federal requirements. A state must provide that a provider may bill Medicaid directly rather than require that all billings flow through an intermediate entity such as an OHCDS, a county or local government, etc.

§1915(b)/§1915(c) Concurrent Waivers

When the HCBS waiver operates concurrently with a §1915(b) waiver and waiver services are furnished through managed care entities (e.g., MCOs, PIHPs or PAHPs), provider billings flow to the managed care entity except for services that are furnished on a fee-for-service basis outside the capitation (per member per month) payment to the managed care entity. Only describe the flow of billings for services that are furnished on a fee-for-service basis. Indicate that managed care entity billings to the state are made in accordance with the provisions of the §1915(b) waiver and provider billings to the managed care entity are made in the terms of the provider’s contract with the managed care entity.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver:

- Describes the flow of billings from the waiver service provider to the state so that it is clear how a provider invoice becomes a claim to Medicaid.
- Provides for the direct provider billing of waiver services to the state, or the option of direct provider billing of waiver services to the state.

In the case of §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers, the foregoing criteria apply only to Item I-2-c: Certifying Public Expenditures

Instructions
Select whether Certified Public Expenditures (CPEs) are made for waiver services and, if so, whether the CPEs are made by state and/or local government agencies, specifying: (a) the local government agencies that make the CPEs; (b) how it is assured that the CPE is based on the total computable costs for waiver services; and, (c) how the state verifies that the CPEs are eligible for Federal financial participation in accordance with 42 CFR §433.51(b).

Technical Guidance
In some instances, a State or local government agency directly incurs the costs of furnishing waiver services and submits its costs (termed “certified public expenditures” or CPEs) to the Medicaid agency in lieu of providers billing the services directly to the Medicaid agency. For example, a state agency or county that contributes part or all of the cost of service may directly pay provider billings for waiver services on behalf of the Medicaid agency and then submit the total amount it paid for waiver services to the Medicaid agency via a CPE. The CPE serves as the basis for the Medicaid agency’s claim to CMS for Federal financial participation (FFP). The Medicaid agency would submit the CPE to CMS and FFP would be available as a percentage of the total cost incurred/payments made by the State or local government agency. The Medicaid agency payment to the State or local government agency would be the Federal share of waiver costs. [N.B., CPEs also are addressed in Appendix I-4 where the sources of funds that underlie the CPEs must be detailed.]

When CPEs are made as part of the state’s claim for FFP, the state must have a process to assure that the CPE is based on total computable costs for waiver services. This means the CPE represents the total costs incurred/payments made by the State or local government agency and that FFP is available as a percentage of these total costs incurred/payments made. In addition, the CPE is net of any third-party recoveries for the cost of services and/or waiver participant financial liability computed under post-eligibility treatment of income requirements). This process must be described in the response to this item. Finally, the state must have a process to verify that the CPEs are eligible for FFP in accordance with 42 CFR §433.51(b). This process also must be described in the response to this item.

CMS Review Criteria
When CPEs are made, the waiver specifies:

• The state and/or local government agencies that certify the expenditures.
• The processes used to ensure that CPEs are based on total computable waiver costs.
• The processes to verify that the CPEs are eligible for Federal financial participation.

Item I-2-d: Billing Validation Process

Instructions
In the text field, describe the process or processes that are employed to validate provider billings that are included in the state’s claim for Federal financial participation.

Technical Guidance
“Billing validation” means pre-payment and other processes that are designed to ensure that the provider’s billing for waiver services meets essential tests and that only valid billings are included in the state’s claim for Federal financial participation. The essential tests are: (a) the individual was eligible for the Medicaid waiver payment on the date of service; (b) the service billed was included in the participant’s approved service plan; and, (c) the services were provided. Billing validation is essential for ensuring the integrity of payments for Medicaid services.

Billing validation may entail using the MMIS to validate claims (e.g., verifying that the individual for whom the billing was made was eligible for Medicaid on the date of service) and/or additional pre-payment audit activities conducted by other entities (e.g., verifying that the service billed was included in the participant’s service plan). Some billing validation processes may be conducted post-payment (e.g., surveillance and utilization review), including verification that the service billed was actually rendered. When a validation process that is conducted post-payment reveals a problem with a billing, the state must remove the problem billing from its claim for FFP and recoup the inappropriate payment.

Item I-2-e: Billing and Claims Record Maintenance Requirement

Instructions

No response required.

Technical Guidance

Adequate records and information must be maintained to support financial accountability. In accordance with 45 CFR § 92.42, records and additional documentation to support financial accountability must be maintained, at a minimum, 3 years from the submission of each CMS-372(S) report. These records must be sufficient to ensure that there is an audit trail documenting payments made to providers for waiver services. The audit trail must begin at the point of service to the participant (and, thereby, include sufficient documentation that the service was actually rendered on the date shown on the provider billing) and continue through to the claim for FFP.

APPENDIX I-3: Payment

Overview

This section concerns processes for the payment of provider billings (i.e., the transmittal of funds from the state to the waiver provider who furnished the service). Item I-3-g also provides for the identification of other payment arrangements (e.g., reassignment of payments to a governmental agency) that are recognized under Federal law.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix I-3

Item I-3-a: Method of Payment -- MMIS
Appendix I: Financial Accountability

Instructions
Indicate whether payments to providers for waiver services are made exclusively through the state’s Medicaid Management Information System (MMIS). If not, then select one of the other choices. Also, select the first choice because the Medicaid agency must always retain the capability to make direct payment to a provider whether or not it has other methods for making payment.

Technical Guidance
Usually, direct state payments to providers of waiver services are made through the state’s MMIS. Use of the MMIS to make payments permits employing MMIS sub-systems to validate claims (e.g., ensuring that the individual for whom the payment is made was eligible on the date of service). Use of the MMIS provides a direct linkage between provider payments and the claim for FFP.

When payments to providers for some or all waiver services are made outside the MMIS, a complete description of the process that is employed must be provided, clearly identifying the entities that make payments and how the audit trail is maintained to ensure the integrity of payments (i.e., the payment for each waiver service can be directly linked to the original validated provider billing for the service). In the case of some waivers, an operating agency receives provider billings, processes the billings, and makes payment to providers. When this is the case, the arrangement should be further specified in Item I-3-b (limited fiscal agent) or Item I-3-g-i (reassignment to a governmental entity) as the case may be. Participant-directed services can give rise to another instance when payments to providers are made outside the MMIS when a financial management services entity makes payments to participant-employed workers under an agreement with the Medicaid agency.

§1915(b)/§1915(c) Concurrent Waivers
In the case of §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers, payments to providers are made by the managed care entity which receives a capitated payment from the state. Describe how payments are made to managed care entities, including how such payments are made through the MMIS.

CMS Review Criteria
When payments to providers are made outside the MMIS, the waiver specifies:
- The processes that are used to make payment.
- How the processes ensure the maintenance of a proper audit trail
- Providers may receive payment directly from the Medicaid agency.

Item I-3-b: Direct Payment

Instructions
Check each applicable mechanism that is employed to make payments to waiver providers.

Technical Guidance
§1902(a)(32) of the Act requires that payments are made by the Medicaid agency directly to the actual providers of waiver and State plan services. This requirement is satisfied when the Medicaid agency itself makes the payment or the payment is made by the same state fiscal agent that makes payments on behalf of the Medicaid agency for other Medicaid services. As a general matter, the Medicaid agency must always retain the capability to make direct payment to a provider and, thus, the first choice always should be selected.

In the alternative, payments may be made by a limited fiscal agent that is subject to Medicaid agency oversight. If a limited fiscal agent is used, identify the agent, describe the functions that the limited agent performs, and how the Medicaid agency exercises oversight of this agent. A limited fiscal agent might be a waiver operating agency or a financial management services entity. This selection should be made when payments for some or all waiver services are made outside the MMIS, as indicated in Item I-3-b.

§1915(b)/§1915(c) Concurrent Waivers

In the case of §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers, only describe how payments are made for services that are not included in the capitation rate that is paid to the managed care entity. If no services are paid outside the capitation rate, simply respond “not applicable.”

CMS Review Criteria

When a limited fiscal agent is employed, the waiver specifies:

- The entity or entities that serve as a limited fiscal agent.
- The payment functions performed by the limited fiscal agent.
- How providers are informed about the process for billing Medicaid directly.
- How the Medicaid agency exercises appropriate oversight of the limited fiscal agent.

Item I-3-c: Supplemental or Enhanced Payments

Instructions

Indicate whether supplement or enhanced payments are made to the providers of waiver services. If they are, then provide the additional information specified.

Technical Guidance

A supplemental or enhanced payment is a payment for waiver services that is in addition to the amount billed by the provider for a service. §1902(a)(30)(A) of the Act requires that payments for Medicaid services be consistent with efficiency, economy, and quality of care. §1903(a)(1) of the Act provides for FFP to states for expenditures for services under an approved State plan/waiver.

If any additional payments are made, describe (a) the nature of the supplemental or enhanced payments that are made and the waiver services for which these payments are made; (b) the types of providers to which such payments are made; (c) the source of the non-Federal share of the supplemental or enhanced payments; and, (d) whether providers eligible to receive the supplemental or enhanced payment must be able to retain 100% of the total computable expenditure claimed by the Medicaid agency to CMS. An example of a type of payment that might be classified as a supplement or enhanced payment is the payment of a performance incentive. For the purpose of this item, payments that are made to providers as adjustments to interim payment rates or for reconciliation purposes are not considered supplemental or enhanced payments. When supplemental or enhanced payments are made, the state must furnish CMS upon request detailed information about the total amount of supplemental or enhanced payments to each provider type in the waiver.

§1915(b)/§1915(c) Concurrent Waivers

In the case of §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers, the §1915(b) waiver might provide for payments in addition to the monthly capitation rate based on performance or other factors. If so, select the “yes” response and reference the applicable provisions of the §1915(b) waiver.

CMS Review Criteria

When supplement or enhanced payments are made:

- The waiver specifies the nature of the payments that are made and the waiver services for which these payments are made; the types of waiver providers that receive such payments.
- The waiver specifies the source of the non-Federal share of the supplemental or enhanced payments.
- The waiver specifies that providers eligible to receive the supplemental or enhanced payment must be able to retain 100% of the total computable expenditure claimed by the Medicaid agency to CMS.
- The basis of such payments is transparent (i.e., it is clear to the public which providers would receive the additional payments and under what circumstances).

Item I-3-d: Payments to State or Local Government Providers

Instructions

Indicate whether payment is made to State or local government providers for the provision of waiver services. If so specify the State or local government providers that receive payment and the waiver services that they furnish. Also complete Item I-3-e.

Technical Guidance

State or local governmental entities may furnish waiver services, provided that they meet the pertinent provider qualifications. A state may not limit the provision of any waiver service solely to State or local government providers.

CMS Review Criteria

When State or local government providers furnish waiver services, the waiver specifies the types of entities that furnish services and the services that they furnish.

Item I-3-e: Amount of Payment to State or Local Government Providers

Instructions

When payment is made to State or local government providers for the provision of waiver services, indicate whether State or local government providers are paid the same amount as other providers of the same service. If not, then indicate whether payments to State or local government providers in the aggregate exceed their reasonable costs of providing waiver services.

Technical Guidance

Medicaid payments to State or local government providers are subject to an additional test when the amount paid to a State or local government provider differs from the amount paid to other providers of the same service. Specifically, the aggregate payments to State or local government providers (including regular and supplemental or enhanced payments) that exceed their reasonable costs of furnishing a service would be an area of significant interest during CMS’ review and would likely require additional information.

Payments to State or local government providers may differ from payments to other providers when the payment amount itself is based on the reasonable costs that State or local... government providers incur in furnishing the service. Select the second choice when payments are based on a determination of reasonable costs.

Otherwise the state must have in effect mechanisms to determine whether the aggregate payments made to State or local government providers exceed their reasonable costs in furnishing waiver services. When it is determined that aggregate payments exceed reasonable costs, the state must recoup the excess payment and return the Federal share of the excess payment to the Federal government within 60-days. Federal Medicaid funds may not be diverted to underwrite the costs of State or local providers furnishing non-approved services or providing services to ineligible individuals.

CMS Review Criteria

When the third choice is selected:

- The state has established a mechanism to determine whether payments to State or local government providers exceed their reasonable costs of furnishing waiver services.
- The state has specified a satisfactory recoupment process.

Item I-3-f: Provider Retention of Payments

Instructions

Indicate whether providers receive and retain 100 percent of the total computable expenditure claimed by the Medicaid agency to CMS for waiver services. In the case of §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers, select the second choice and indicate whether managed care entities receive and retain 100 percent of the amount that the state claims for capitation payments to such entities.

Technical Guidance

The amount claimed to CMS for waiver services must match the amount paid to waiver providers less the application of any third-party (e.g., Medicare) recoveries and additional adjustment adjustments for co-pays or participant financial liability as determined through the post-eligibility treatment of income process. In other words, the computable costs of waiver services must match adjudicated provider billings less the foregoing adjustments. A state may not claim an amount that exceeds the computable costs of waiver services. Provider payments may not be claimed but then reduced in a manner that has the effect of reducing the non-Federal share of waiver services, including requiring that providers return some portion of their payments to the state. Claims to CMS for FFP for waiver services must represent actual expenditures of public funds.

§1915(b)/§1915(c) Concurrent Waivers

In the case of §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers, indicate in the text field whether the capitation payments that are made to managed care entities are reduced or returned to the state in a fashion that results in a disparity between the amount that is claimed to CMS and the amounts actually paid to managed care entities. If so, describe the methodology for reduced or returned payments and specify the use of the funds retained or returned to the state.

CMS Review Criteria

Waiver providers must receive and retain 100 percent of the total computable expenditure claimed by the Medicaid agency to CMS.
Item I-3-g: Additional Payment Arrangements

This item addresses additional payment arrangements that may be employed for waiver services. Two of these arrangements (reassignment of payment to a governmental agency and Organized Health Care Delivery System) are recognized exceptions to the requirement contained in §1902(a)(32) of the Act that prohibits State payments for Medicaid services to any entity other than the provider of the service.

Item I-3-g-i: Voluntary Reassignment of Payments to a Governmental Agency

Instructions
Indicate whether the state provides for the voluntary reassignment of payments for waiver services and, if so, specify the governmental agency or agencies to which such reassignments may be made.

Technical Guidance
Under the provisions of 42 CFR §447.10(e), a provider may reassign the payment for waiver services to a governmental agency. This provision is a recognized exception to the requirement contained in §1902(a)(32) of the Act that prohibits State payments for Medicaid services to any entity other than the provider of a service. Reassignment is typically employed when a governmental agency pays a provider for a service and reassignment is used to permit the governmental agency to recover its outlay. Reassignment arrangements must be voluntary on the part of the provider and the state must provide for the payment to providers who elect not to reassign payment. Reassignment is described further in the December 20, 1993 State Medicaid Director included in Attachment D to the Instructions.

Item I-3-g-ii: Organized Health Care Delivery System

Instructions
Indicate whether the waiver employs OHCDS arrangements. If so, in the text field provide the additional information specified in the item.

Technical Guidance
Waiver services may be provided by an Organized Health Care Delivery System (OHCDS), as defined in 42 CFR §447.10. An OHCDS must provide at least one Medicaid service directly (utilizing its own employees) and may contract with other qualified providers to furnish other waiver services. When an OHCDS arrangement is used, the required Medicaid provider agreement is executed between the state and the OHCDS. Since the OHCDS acts as the Medicaid provider, it is not necessary for each subcontractor of an OHCDS to sign a provider agreement with the Medicaid agency. However, subcontractors must meet the standards under the waiver to provide waiver services for the OHCDS. The use of an OHCDS arrangement does not alter fundamental waiver requirements with respect to provider qualifications or service standards.

When an OHCDS arrangement is used to provide waiver services, payment is made directly to the OHCDS and the OHCDS reimburses its subcontractors. Waiver providers may not be required to affiliate with an OHCDS. Such an arrangement must be voluntary and the state must provide for entering into a provider agreement with providers that elect not to affiliate with an OHCDS. Moreover, waiver participants may not be required to secure services exclusively through an OHCDS. Additional information concerning OHCDS arrangements is contained in the December 20, 1993 State Medicaid Director letter located in Attachment D to these instructions.

When a waiver provides for participant direction of services and financial management services are furnished as a waiver service (rather than as an administrative activity), entities that furnish financial management services may be designated as an OHCDS (by virtue of the fact that their employees furnish a waiver service). Designation of financial management services providers as OHCDS entities may facilitate contracting for and purchase of participant-directed services.

When OHCDS arrangements are employed, the waiver must specify:

- The entities that are or may be designated as an OHCDS and how these entities qualify for designation as an OHCDS;
- The procedures for direct provider enrollment when a provider does not voluntarily agree to contract with a designated OHCDS. Again, it is important to keep in mind that providers may not be mandated to contract with an OHCDS;
- The method(s) for assuring that participants have free choice of qualified providers when an OHCDS arrangement is employed. Participants must be able to select any qualified provider that has contracted with the OHCDS or select a provider that has not contracted with the OHCDS;
- The method(s) for assuring that providers that furnish services under contract with an OHCDS meet applicable provider qualifications under this waiver. The use of an OHCDS arrangement does not in any way negate the requirement that providers meet applicable qualifications;
- How the State assures that OHCDS contracts with subcontracted providers meet applicable Medicaid requirements (e.g., the maintenance of necessary documentation for the services furnished by the subcontractor); and
- How the State assures financial accountability when an OHCDS arrangement is used. That is, how the state ensures that the billings made by the OHCDS are valid. In addition, describe how the flow of billings and payments between the state and the OHCDS and its subcontractors must not result in excessive payments to the OHCDS.

When an OHCDS arrangement is employed, it may not be structured in a fashion that has the effect of claiming administrative expenses as service expenses. For example, when an OHCDS entity performs administrative activities, a state may compensate the OHCDS for such activities and claim such costs at the appropriate administrative claiming rate and in accordance with the approved cost allocation plan. In other words, the amount that the OHCDS is paid for the provision of waiver services may not be diverted to administrative activities.

Similarly, the amount that an OHCDS bills for waiver services must match in the aggregate the amount that it expends to provide services plus the amount that it pays its subcontractors. An OHCDS may not retain excess payments and divert those payments to other uses.

CMS Review Criteria

When a waiver employs OHCDS arrangements:

- The state describes the types of entities that are designated as an OHCDS.
- The state’s methods of designating entities to function as OHCDS are specified, and these entities meet the regulatory definition of an OHCDS.
- OHCDS arrangements preserve participant free choice of providers.
- Waiver providers are not required to contract with an OHCDS in order to furnish

Instructions: Version 3.5 HCBS Waiver Application

262
Appendix I: Financial Accountability

- There are adequate safeguards to ensure that OHCDS subcontractors possess the required qualifications.
- The OHCDS arrangement provides for appropriate financial accountability safeguards.

Item I-3-g-iii: Contracts with MCOs, PIHPs or PAHPs

Instructions

Indicate whether the state contracts with MCOs, PIHPs, or PAHPs to furnish waiver services. If so, specify whether such contracts fall under the authority of §1915(a)(1) of the Act or are entered into under the provisions of a §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waiver. When the state does not contract with managed care entities to furnish waiver services, select “not applicable.”

Technical Guidance

When a state contracts with managed care entities under the provisions of §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waiver, the §1915(b) waiver application will be reviewed by CMS to obtain information about the types of entities with which the state contracts. In addition, state contracts with managed care entities are subject to Regional Office review.

Under the provisions of §1915(a)(1) of the Act, a state may contract with a Managed Care Organization (MCO), a prepaid inpatient health plan (PIHP) or prepaid ambulatory health plan (PAHP) organizations (as defined in 42 CFR §438.2) to furnish waiver and other services to waiver participants. Such organizations may furnish not only waiver services but other services under the State plan. Contracts with these organizations may be risk-based, provide for shared risk, or be no-risk arrangements. The state may make capitated prepayments to these organizations. Absent a concurrent §1915(b) waiver, waiver participants may not be required to obtain waiver services through these organizations. Participants must have free choice in electing to enroll with a health plan to obtain waiver or other services or to obtain services from other waiver providers not affiliated with the health plan.

MCO, PIHP and PAHP contracts entered into under the provisions of §1915(a)(1) are subject to separate CMS review. This 1915(c) waiver application itself does not provide the authority for a state to contract with such organizations. When managed care entities are used to furnish waiver services under the provisions of §1915(a)(1), specify (a) the geographic areas served by these organizations; (b) the waiver and other services furnished by these organizations; and, (c) how payments are made to organizations.

CMS Review Criteria

When waiver services are furnished by managed care entities under the provisions of §1915(a)(1) that provide for the voluntary enrollment of waiver participants, the waiver specifies:

- The geographic areas served by these organizations.
- The services furnished by these organizations.
- How payments are made to organizations.

APPENDIX I-4: Non-Federal Matching Funds

Overview
In this section, the sources of the non-Federal share (e.g., matching funds) of computable waiver costs must be delineated. “Computable waiver costs” means adjudicated payments that have been made to waiver providers less any adjustments that change the cost of the service to Medicaid (e.g., the liability by another party for part of the cost of care, such as co-pays indicated in Appendix I-7, or third party (e.g., Medicare) obligations). Only computable waiver costs may be claimed for Federal financial participation. The non-Federal share of computable waiver costs must be provided exclusively by the state or by the state and local governmental entities (e.g., counties), as provided in 42 CFR §433.51.

The Appendix requires the identification of the sources of the non-Federal share provided by the state and, if applicable, localities. In each case, the sources are broken down into various subcategories. Terms used in this Appendix are defined as follows:

Intergovernmental Transfer (IGT) means funds are transferred from another state agency or a local government entity to the Medicaid agency to be utilized as the non-Federal share. For example, if funds are appropriated to a state’s developmental disabilities agency that operates the waiver but provider billings are paid using the MMIS system at the Medicaid agency, the developmental disabilities agency may make an intergovernmental transfer to the Medicaid agency to provide the non-Federal share. Similarly, if local government entities are obligated to provide all or a portion of the non-Federal share they may meet this obligation by transferring funds to the Medicaid agency.

Certified Public Expenditure (CPE) means that a State or local government agency expends funds (i.e., pays providers for waiver services or directly incurs expenses for services furnished by the entity) and submits the total amount expended to the State Medicaid agency. For example, a county may be responsible for 20% of the costs of waiver services. The county pays providers of waiver services using county funds and submits the amount of its total computable payments to the State Medicaid agency. The Medicaid agency would submit the CPE to CMS and FFP would be available as a percentage of the total computable cost of the service. The Medicaid agency payment to the county would be the Federal share of the county waiver costs funded through CPEs. The State Medicaid agency would make payment to the county for the remaining 80% of the computable costs of waiver services whereby the non-Federal share is derived from other state sources (e.g., appropriations to the State Medicaid agency or an IGT from another state agency).

It is permissible for local government resources to constitute a portion of the non-Federal share of waiver computable costs, as provided in 42 CFR §433.53(b). However, in accordance with 42 CFR §433.53(c)(2), whenever a state provides for local financial participation in the costs of waiver services (either by way of CPEs or IGTs), the lack of funds from local sources may not result in lowering the amount, duration, scope, or quality of services in any part of the State.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix I-4

Item I-4-a: State Government Level Source(s) of the Non-Federal Share of Computable Waiver Costs

Instructions

Select the applicable state sources of the non-Federal share of computable waiver costs. Where specified, provide the additional information about these sources.

Technical Guidance

State sources of the non-Federal share may include:

- The direct appropriation of state tax revenues to the State Medicaid agency;
• State tax revenues appropriated to another state agency that are transferred to the State Medicaid agency via IGT or are certified as expenditures (CPE). When the source of the non-Federal share is another state agency, specify the state agency or entity to which the appropriation is made, the underlying sources of revenue of the funds that are transferred (e.g., state tax revenues), and describe in detail the mechanism (IGT or CPE) that is utilized to transfer the funds to the Medicaid agency; and,

• If there are other State level source(s) of funds other than the appropriation of state tax revenues, specify in detail: (a) the source of funds (e.g., program revenues, provider fees (but not taxes)); (b) the State entity or agency that receives the funds; and, (c) the mechanism (IGT or CPE) that is employed to transfer and/or certify the funds to the Medicaid agency. Also specify any matching arrangement (e.g., whether the funds fully provide for the non-Federal share or only a portion of the non-Federal share).

CMS Review Criteria

When the non-Federal share is from sources other than the direct appropriation of state tax revenues to the Medicaid agency:

• The state-level sources of the non-Federal share of computable waiver costs are specified.

• When funds are transferred from another state agency or other funds are used for the non-Federal share, the underlying sources of these funds meet applicable Federal requirements.

• When IGTs or CPEs are used, the mechanism used to transfer funds to the State Medicaid agency or verify the expenditures are specified and meet Federal requirements.

• When CPEs are utilized, the criteria must be consistent with I-2-c.

Item I-4-b: Local Government or Other Source(s) of the Non-Federal Share of Computable Waiver Costs

Instructions

If local government entities do not provide any part of the non-Federal share through IGT or CPE, select not applicable. If local governments provide a portion of the non-Federal share, select one or both of the next two responses and provide the information requested.

Technical Guidance

When local government entities provide a portion of the non-Federal share, provide the following as applicable:

• Appropriation of Local Government Revenues. When the funds provided by local government are local tax revenues, specify the governmental body that levies taxes that underwrite the non-Federal share, the sources of revenue that are utilized as the non-Federal share, and the mechanism (IGT) or (CPE) for transferring and/or certifying funds to the Medicaid agency. Include a citation for any applicable state laws concerning the provision of local funds to the state to meet the non-Federal share of computable waiver costs.

• Other Local Government Sources. If there are local government sources of funds other than local tax revenues that are used to meet the non-Federal share of computable waiver costs, specify the source(s) of these funds, the local government entity or agency that receives these funds, and the mechanism (IGT or CPE) used to...
CMS Review Criteria
When there are local government sources of the non-Federal share:
- The local government sources of the non-Federal share of computable waiver costs are specified.
- When local tax funds are transferred by local governments or other funds are used for the non-state Federal share, the underlying sources of these funds meet applicable Federal requirements.
- When IGTs or CPEs are used, the mechanism used to transfer funds to the State Medicaid agency or verify the expenditures are specified and meet Federal requirements.
- When CPEs are utilized, the criteria must be consistent with I-2-c.

Item I-4-c: Information Concerning Certain Sources of Funds

Instructions
Indicate whether any of the sources of funds listed make up any part of the non-Federal share of computable waiver costs. If any are used, describe the source of funds in detail.

Technical Guidance

Health Care-Related Taxes. The levying of health care-related taxes to meet the non-Federal share of Medicaid costs is controlled by the regulations at 42 CFR §433.55 et seq. Waiver services are not among the classes of services for which a broad-based provider tax may be levied.

Provider-Related Donations. Provider-related donations are considered a permissible source of the non-Federal share of the computable costs of waiver services to the extent that such donations comply with the provisions of 42 CFR §433.54 concerning bona fide provider-related donations.

Federal Funds. In general, Federal funds regardless of source may not be used to meet the non-Federal share of computable waiver costs. One exception has been the CMS-approved use of Real Choice Systems Change grant funds in some instances to meet the non-Federal share of Medicaid services furnished under the auspices of a grant. Only when there is specific authorization in Federal law may Federal funds be used for the non-Federal share.

CMS Review Criteria
Only permissible sources may be utilized to fund the non-Federal share.

APPENDIX I-5: Exclusion of Medicaid Payment for Room and Board

Overview
42 CFR §441.310(a)(2) prohibits making Medicaid payments for room and board (i.e., housing, food, and utility costs) except when the participant is receiving respite outside his/her private residence in a facility approved by the State or when the participant requires a live-in caregiver (addressed in Appendix I-6). For purposes of this provision, the term “board” means three meals a day or any other full nutritional regime. Medicaid payments may be made for a meal provided to a person in a day activity such as adult day health services. The State must assure CMS that payments are not made for room and board except as explicitly allowed in 42 CFR §441.310(a)(2).
Appendix I: Financial Accountability

When waiver services are provided in residential settings that are not the participant’s own home or the family home, the state must describe the methodology that is employed to exclude the costs of room and board from the payments for the services furnished in such living arrangements (i.e., ensure that payment is only made for the service component).

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix I-5

Item I-5-a: Services Furnished in Residential Settings

Instructions

Select whether waiver services are furnished in residential settings other than the participant’s own private residence. If so, complete Item I-5-b. Otherwise, do not complete I-5-b.

Item I-5-b: Method for Excluding the Cost of Room and Board Furnished in Residential Settings

Instructions

In the text field, describe the methodology that is used to exclude Medicaid payment for room and board in residential settings

Technical Guidance

Acceptable methods to exclude the costs of room and board may include separating room and board costs from service costs in determining payment rates or basing payments solely on service costs.

CMS Review Criteria

The methodology that is employed assures that the costs of room and board have been isolated and excluded from payments for services in applicable residential settings.

APPENDIX I-6: Payment for Rent and Food Expenses of an Unrelated Live-In Caregiver

Overview

Section 4741(a) of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990 amended §1915(c)(1) of Act to provide that the room and board exclusion does not include an amount established by the state to reflect the portion of costs of rent and food attributable to an unrelated personal caregiver who resides in the same household with a participant who requires a live-in caregiver. Regulations concerning this provision are located at 42 CFR §441.310(a)(2)(ii). Unrelated is defined as someone who is unrelated by blood or marriage to any degree. A personal caregiver provides a covered waiver service (as specified in the waiver) to meet the participant’s physical, social, or emotional needs (as opposed to services not directly related to personal care giving, i.e., housekeeping or chore services). When a waiver service is provided by an unrelated, live-in personal caregiver, FFP is available to compensate the waiver recipient for the additional costs he/she may incur for the rent and food for such caregiver. Under Medicaid and §1634 and SSI criteria rules, in order for the payment not to be considered income to the recipient, payment for the portion of the costs of rent and food attributable to an unrelated live-in personal caregiver must be routed through the provider specifically for the reimbursement of the waiver participant. FFP for live-in caregivers is not available in situations when the participant lives in the caregiver's home or a residence owned or leased by the provider of waiver services.

This provision does not provide an exception to other Medicaid requirements resulting in a change in the way an individual's income may be counted in determining Medicaid eligibility or allow payment to a participant rather than a provider of service.

In the application, live-in caregiver is treated as a waiver service and must be included in the list of services contained in Appendix C-1 and specified in Appendix C-3. The costs of live-in caregiver must be broken out separately in Appendix J-2 in the computation of Factor D.

Completion of Appendix I-6

Instructions

Select whether the waiver provides for the payment of the rent and food expenses of an unrelated caregiver. If so, explain: (a) the method that is used to apportion the additional costs of rent and food attributable to the unrelated live-in personal caregiver that are incurred by the individual served on the waiver and (b) the method used to reimburse these costs that routes payment through the provider.

Technical Guidance

Any reasonable method may be employed to apportion the cost of rent and food, subject to CMS review and approval, so long as the method is based on the costs incurred by the participant. Reimbursement to the participant must be made by the provider (e.g., passed along by the provider to the participant).

CMS Review Criteria

When payment is made for the rent and food expenses of an unrelated caregiver:

- The apportionment method used should provide that only the additional rent and food costs to the participant associated with having a live-in caregiver are reimbursed.
- Only costs incurred by the participant are reimbursed.
- The method of making payment for live-in caregiver must route the payment through the provider but clearly provide for the reimbursement of the participant.

APPENDIX I-7: Participant Co-Payments for Waiver Services and Other Cost Sharing

Overview

In this Appendix, the state specifies whether it imposes co-payments on waiver services (in Item I-7-a) or imposes other cost-sharing arrangements associated with participation in a waiver (in Item I-7-b). The imposition of co-payments or other cost sharing are governed by the provisions of by the provisions of §1916 and §1916A of the Social Security Act. The amount of these charges that may be imposed is subject to Federal limits. §1916A of the Act was added by Sections 6041, 6042, and 6043 of the Deficit Reduction Act of 2005 (P.L. 109-
Appendix I: Financial Accountability

Under §1916A of the Act, a state may impose alternative premiums and cost sharing to Medicaid beneficiaries who have incomes that are above 100% of the Federal Poverty Level. When a beneficiary’s income is below 100% of poverty, the provisions of §1916 of the Act apply (as specified in 42 CFR §447.50 et seq.). Guidance concerning §1916 of the Act is contained in State Medicaid Direct Letter #06-015 (June 16, 2006).

When co-payments are imposed, no provider may deny services to an individual who is eligible for the services on account of the individual's inability to pay the cost sharing unless the person’s income exceeds 100% of poverty and the state elects to permit the provider to enforce the cost-sharing. In addition, when a co-payment is imposed, the amount of the co-payment must be deducted in determining the amount of the computable claim for FFP regardless of whether the participant actually made the co-payment. Co-payments are considered to have been collected by the provider regardless of whether the participant makes an actual payment to the provider.

The post eligibility treatment of income process which determines the individual’s patient liability (if any) does not fall under the cost sharing requirements specified at §1916 of the Social Security Act. Therefore, post eligibility is not included in Appendix-I. Post eligibility treatment of income is included in Appendix B-5 of the waiver application.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix I-7

Both items I-7-a and I-7-b must be completed.

Item I-7-a: State Requirement for Co-pays

Instructions

Indicate whether co-payments or similar charges are imposed on waiver participants for one or more waiver services. If no co-payments are charged, proceed to Item I-7-b. If co-payments are charged, complete the remaining items before proceeding to Item I-7-b.

Item I-7-a-i: Co-Pay Arrangement

Instructions

Specify the type of charge that is imposed on waiver participants.

Technical Guidance

Charges may include a nominal deductible, co-insurance, co-payment or other similar charge. If another type of charge is imposed, it must be described in detail. Typically, if a charge is made, it usually takes the form of a co-payment (i.e., a fixed charge per unit of service).

Item I-7-a-ii: Participants Subject to Co-pay Charges for Waiver Services

Instructions

Specify the groups of waiver participants who are subject to co-payment.

Technical Guidance

In the case of persons with incomes less than 100% of poverty, 42 CFR §447.53 specifies groups of individuals who must be excluded from co-payment charges. The principal group that must be excluded is children up to the age of 18 (or up to age 19, 20 or 21 at the option of the state).

Item I-7-a-iii: Amount of Co-Pay Charges for Waiver Services

Instructions
Specify each waiver service for which a co-payment charge is made, the amount of the charge, and the basis of the charge.

Technical Guidance

In the case of waiver participants with incomes less than 100% of poverty, the amount of the co-payment charge may not exceed the schedule of allowable charges contained in 42 CFR §447.54(a)(3) that establishes maximum charges based on the cost of a service. Express the amount of the charge on a per-unit basis (e.g., $1.50/visit). Specify the basis of the charge. The basis may be the waiver’s standard, fixed fee payment schedule for the services subject to co-payment. If payments for a service vary, a standard co-payment may be imposed based on the average or typical payment for service, as provided in 42 CFR §447.55(b). If a standard co-payment is imposed, describe its basis. If different charges are made to persons with incomes in excess of 100% of poverty, specify those charges.

Item I-7-a-iv: Cumulative Maximum Charges

Instructions

Specify whether there is a cumulative maximum amount of co-payments that may be charged to a waiver participant. When there is a maximum, specify the amount and the period (e.g., month, quarter) to which the maximum applies.

Technical Guidance

Per 42 CFR §447.54(d), the waiver may specify a cumulative maximum amount of co-payments (e.g., no more than $10 per month). When the participant is subject to co-payments for other State plan services, the state may apply the maximum amount provided under the State plan for all Medicaid services.

Item I-7-b: Other State Requirement for Cost Sharing

Instructions

Select whether the state imposes a premium, enrollment fee, or similar cost-sharing arrangement on waiver participants. If so, describe the cost-sharing arrangement in detail.

Technical Guidance

42 CFR §447.50 also provides for other cost-sharing arrangements (e.g., premiums, enrollment fees or other similar arrangements). Under a cost sharing arrangement, the recipient must make a fixed, periodic payment (as opposed to a co-payment which is imposed on a per-service basis). Indicate whether there is a cost-sharing arrangement associated with the waiver. If so, specify in detail:

- The type of cost sharing arrangement;
- The amount of the cost-sharing charge;
- How the amount of the charge is related to income as provided in 42 CFR §447.52;
- The groups of participants who are subject to cost sharing and the groups excluded in compliance with 42 CFR §447.53. The groups who are excluded must comply with 42 CFR §447.53; and,
- The mechanisms for the collection of cost sharing and reporting the amount collected on the CMS 64. Cost sharing amounts must be applied to reduce the computable claim for Federal financial participation.
Appendix I: Financial Accountability

CMS Review Criteria
The cost sharing arrangement complies with the applicable requirements contained in 42 CFR §447.50 et seq., including the mandatory exclusion of children.

Appendix J: Cost Neutrality Demonstration

Brief Summary

In order for a waiver to be approved, the state must demonstrate to the satisfaction of CMS that the waiver is cost neutral during each year that the waiver is in effect. In this Appendix, the cost neutrality of the waiver is demonstrated. The Appendix has two components:

- Appendix J-1 provides a composite overview of the demonstration that the waiver is cost neutral
- Appendix J-2 contains the basis of the estimates of the factors that make up the cost neutrality demonstration

Cost Neutrality Formula

§1915(c)(2)(D) of the Act requires that the state assure that the average per capita expenditure under the waiver during each waiver year not exceed 100 percent of the average per capita expenditures that would have been made during the same year for the level of care provided in a hospital, nursing facility, or ICF/IID under the State plan had the waiver not been granted.

42 CFR §441.302(e) requires that the expenditures upon which the cost neutrality demonstration is based be reasonably estimated and well-documented and that the estimate must be annualized and cover each year of the waiver period.

The equation set forth in 42 CFR §441.303(f)(1) specifies the components of the cost neutrality demonstration. This equation is:

\[ D + D' \leq G + G' \]

Where:

- The symbol ‘\(\leq\)’ means that the result of the left side of the equation must be less than or equal to the result of the right side of the equation.
- \(D\) = the estimated annual average per capita Medicaid cost for home and community-based services for individuals in the waiver program.
- \(D'\) = the estimated annual average per capita Medicaid cost for all other services provided to individuals in the waiver program.
- \(G\) = the estimated annual average per capita Medicaid cost for hospital, NF, or ICF/IID care that would be incurred for individuals served in the waiver, were the waiver not granted.
- \(G'\) = the estimated annual average per capita Medicaid costs for all services other than those included in factor \(G\) for individuals served in the waiver, were the waiver not granted.

This equation takes into account both waiver services (factor \(D\)) and institutional costs (factor \(G\)) as well as the costs of furnishing other Medicaid services to waiver participants (factor \(D'\)) and the non-institutional Medicaid costs for persons receiving institutional care (factor \(G'\)).

For purposes of the equation, the prime factors (\(D'\) and \(G'\)) include the average per capita cost for all State plan services and expanded Early & Periodic Screening, Diagnosis and Treatment (EPSDT) services (when the waiver covers children) that have been utilized but not accounted for in other formula values. Costs associated with the waiver that are claimed for administrative FFP, are not included in the formula.

Also, for purposes of this equation the term “per capita cost” means estimated expenditures during each year of the waiver divided by the number of unduplicated service recipients during each waiver year. The estimates of per capita costs may not be based on an estimate of the number of “full year equivalents” who will be served each year. Factor D in the equation is derived from the estimates of service utilization and costs in Appendix J-2-d (discussed below). Factor D′ is estimated using experience from previous waiver periods (renewal applications) or other sources of information (in the case of a new waiver application). Factor G is estimated based on the costs of institutional services for the specific level(s) of care specified in the waiver. Factor G′ is estimated based on the costs of other Medicaid services furnished to individuals who receive institutional services for the specific level(s) of care specified in the waiver. The basis for the estimates of each of these factors were derived is described out in Appendix J-2-c.

For waivers that cover individuals with a particular diagnosis or condition, states may utilize target-group specific data. For example, in estimating cost for waiver participants, a state may estimate the average per capita expenditure for the targeted individuals without including expenditures of other individuals (not meeting targeting criteria) who are inpatients of the institutional comparison group. If target-group specific data is used, cost/utilization data documenting how the state’s estimates were derived must be included with the waiver application (i.e., a claims summary listing to document the average per capita institutional expenditure for the target population). This documentation is provided in Appendix J-2-c.

Once the waiver is approved, the state must annually submit financial and statistical information to CMS concerning each equation factor and, in the case of factor D, detailed information concerning service utilization and costs for each service included in the waiver. This information is submitted via Form CMS-372(S). Instructions for this form are located in the State Medicaid Manual (At 2700.6: Annual Report on Home and Community-Based Services Waivers). Please note that functions that are provided as an administrative activity must be done so in accordance with the approved cost allocation plan. The cost allocation plan is not approved via the 1915(c) application.

Appendix J-1: Composite Overview and Demonstration of Cost-Neutrality Formula

Overview

This Appendix provides an overview of the cost neutrality demonstration for each waiver year.

Detailed Instructions for Completion of Appendix J-1

Instructions

In the row captioned “level(s) of care,” specify the level or levels of care for which the waiver serves as an alternative (as specified in Item 1-F of the Application). For each year the waiver will be in effect, insert the appropriate values for each cost neutrality formula factor into the table.

Technical Guidance

When a waiver serves individuals at more than one level of care (e.g., nursing facility and hospital), the estimates of Factors D′, G, and G′ that are inserted into the table are the weighted average of each factor (Note: Factor D is estimated across all waiver participants and, thereby, already is a weighted average). A weighted average is calculated as follows:
Appendix J: Cost Neutrality Demonstration

- For each level of care, calculate the total estimated expenditures associated with each factor for each waiver year. Total estimated expenditures are calculated by multiplying the level-of-care estimate of the formula value for the waiver year by the unduplicated number of individuals who are expected to utilize the services associated with the formula factor;
- Sum the total estimated expenditures for the formula factor for the waiver year; and,
- Divide the sum of total expenditures by the sum of the total unduplicated number of individuals who are expected to utilize the services associated with the formula factor.

The following table illustrates this weighted average calculation:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Level of Care</th>
<th>Factor G Estimate</th>
<th># of Users</th>
<th>Total Expenditures</th>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Level of Care 1</td>

<tr>
<td>Weighted Average</td>

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The underlying calculations of the weighted averages of the formula factors are not submitted with the waiver application. However, the work sheets containing these calculations must be available to CMS upon request through the Medicaid agency and/or the operating agency (if applicable). When a waiver encompasses more than one level of care, it is not required that the waiver be cost neutral at each level of care so long as it is cost-neutral on a composite basis.

The CMS-372(S) report requires reporting each cost neutrality formula factor by level of care and on a composite, weighted average basis.

CMS Review Criteria

The waiver is cost neutral each waiver year.

Appendix J-2 - Derivation of Estimates

Overview

In this Appendix, information is provided about how the estimate for each cost neutrality formula factor has been derived. The Appendix also provides for showing the detailed estimate of Factor D.

Detailed Instructions for Completing Appendix J-2

Item J-2-a: Number of Unduplicated Participants Served

Instructions

In Table J-2-a, insert the total number of unduplicated individuals who will receive waiver services during each year the waiver is in effect. This number must match the corresponding figures in Table B-3-a in Appendix B-3. In the web-based application, the two tables are linked to ensure consistency. When a waiver serves individuals at more than one level of care, show the breakdown of waiver participants by level of care in the table, noting each level of care in the column heading.

Technical Guidance

The total number of unduplicated waiver participants who will be served each year the waiver is in effect is an essential element in calculating Factor D in the cost neutrality formula. The figures included in this table must match the corresponding figures in the year-by-year estimates of Factor D that are derived in Item J-2-d. When a waiver serves individuals at more than one level of care, the sum of the two right hand columns must equal the total in column headed “total unduplicated number of waiver participants.”

Item J-2-b: Average Length of Stay

Instructions

In the text field, describe the basis of the estimate of the average length of stay on the waiver by participants in Item J-2-d.

Technical Guidance

Average length of stay (ALOS) is a statistic that describes the number of days on average during a waiver year that an individual participates in the waiver. ALOS can be affected by a variety of factors, including participant turnover (the entry and exit of individuals from the waiver) and the phase-in or phase-out of the waiver. ALOS is calculated by dividing the total number of “enrolled days” of all waiver participants by the unduplicated number of participants. In the case of an approved waiver, ALOS information is reported on CMS-372(S) report.

As noted previously, ALOS usually affects the calculation of Factor D in the cost neutrality equation. For example, 220 daily units of a service such as adult day health would be provided to participants who are continuously enrolled throughout the entire waiver year. However, if the ALOS length of stay on the waiver is 292 days, then the expected utilization rate of adult day health services per unduplicated participant would be 176 daily units (292/365 = 0.8; 0.8 x 220 = 176). As a general matter, ALOS must be factored in when estimating the utilization of each waiver service in the calculation of Factor D.

In response to this item, describe the basis of the ALOS estimate that is included in the estimate of Factor D tables in item J-2-d. The basis of the estimate may be based on:

- CMS 372(S) Data. In the case of a waiver renewal, the ALOS estimate may be based on actual prior year experience. Indicate whether the estimate is based on CMS-372(S) data and the year of the report. In the case of a waiver renewal, when the estimate departs from the CMS-372(S) baseline data, explain the basis of the alternate estimate.

- Phase-In/Phase-Out Schedule. When waiver capacity is being phased-in or phased out, ALOS is affected. For example, if capacity is being phased in, the ALOS estimate will increase each waiver year until the phase-in is completed. If a phase-in/phase out schedule is submitted along with the application (as Attachment #1 to Appendix B-3), that schedule may serve as the basis of the ALOS estimate for the years affected by phase-in/phase-out. Once the phase-in is completed, explain the basis of the ALOS estimate for the subsequent waiver years.

- Experience in Similar Waivers. In the case of a new waiver, the ALOS estimate may be based on experience in another waiver that the state (or another state) operates which serves a similar target population.
Alternative Basis. Especially in the case of a new waiver, the estimate may be based on the experience of a state-funded program that serves a similar target group or from other data sources. Provide a complete description of the information that was employed to estimate the ALOS.

However the ALOS estimate is derived, provide a complete description of the basis of the estimate.

Item J-2-c: Derivation of Estimates of Each Factor

In this item, the derivation for the estimates of each factor in the cost-neutrality formula is specified. In the case of a renewal waiver (or a new waiver to replace an approved waiver), as a general matter it is expected that the basis of the derivation of each factor will be the data that the state has reported via the CMS-372(S) trended forward to reflect inflation adjustments. Departures from the CMS-372(S) baseline must be explained and justified. When a renewal includes new services or modifications to current services, the estimates for these services must be explained and justified.

For waivers that apply only to individuals with a specific illness or condition, estimates that are based only on the particular group may be used. As necessary and appropriate, include references to supporting documentation for how these values were derived. As necessary, CMS may request that the state supply the supporting documentation through the Medicaid agency and/or the operating agency (if applicable).

Item J-2-c-i: Factor D Derivation

Instructions

In the text field, describe the basis of the estimates of Factor D.

Technical Guidance

The Factor D value is calculated by completing the tables contained in item J-2-d. See also the instructions for completing Item J-2-d. Here, provide a complete explanation of the how the values (except for ALOS and the unduplicated number of participants) contained in that table were derived.

The Factor D estimate is derived by estimating: (a) the unduplicated number of participants who are expected to utilize each waiver service; (b) the number of units of services these participants are expected to utilize during a waiver year (taking into account ALOS); and, (c) the expected average unit cost of each waiver service. These elements lead to the calculation of the total estimated cost for each waiver service. These service-by-service costs are summed and divided by the total number of unduplicated waiver participants for the waiver year in order to estimate Factor D.

The explanation of the derivation of the Factor D estimate must include the basis of the estimates for: (a) the estimated number of service users; (b) the estimate of the number of units/user; and, (c) the average per unit cost. In particular:

• Estimated number of users. In the case of a waiver renewal, this estimate should be based on actual experience as reported via the CMS-372(S) (e.g., the percentage of waiver participants who utilize a service), modified as appropriate to take into account changes in the number of persons who will be served during the renewal period. If the estimated number of users departs from the previous actual experience, explain and justify the basis of the deviation.

In the case of new waivers or when additional services are being added in a waiver renewal or an amendment, the explanation must detail the source of the information upon which the estimate is based. The source may be a state study, utilization of similar services in other waiver programs, or experience in other states that operate similar waivers.

- Units/User. The utilization rate must be reasonably estimated based on needs of the target population and the average length of stay. Again, for waiver renewals, this estimate should start with the actual experience as reported via the CMS-372(S) as the baseline. If the estimated number of units/user departs from the previous actual experience, explain and justify the basis of the deviation.

- In the case of new waivers or when additional services are being added in a waiver renewal, the explanation must detail the source of the information upon which the estimate is based. The source may be a state study, utilization of similar services in other waiver programs, or the experience of other states that operate waivers that serve a similar target population and offer comparable services.

- Cost/Unit. For waiver renewals, this estimate should be based on actual experience as reported via the most recently approved CMS-372(S). If the estimated number of users departs from the previous actual experience, explain and justify the basis of the deviation. In the case of new waivers or when additional services are being added in a waiver renewal, the explanation must detail the source of the information upon which the estimate is based. The source may be a state study, utilization of similar services in other waiver programs, or experience in other states. The explanation must identify the factor or factors that were used to trend unit costs forward across all waiver years. If a particular service has several intensity levels or settings and associated unit costs, the explanation of the derivation of unit costs should include information about each level (i.e., the derivation of the weighted average unit cost included in the table in item J-2-d).

CMS reviews the estimates of unit costs with regard to the requirement that payments are consistent with economy, efficiency, and quality of care. A state may be required to provide additional justification if the amount of the payment appears to be excessive in light of experience with waivers that provide similar services to like target populations.

Item J-2-c-ii: Factor D’ Derivation

Instructions

In the text field, describe the basis of the estimates of Factor D’.

Technical Guidance

Factor D’ is the estimated annual average per capita Medicaid cost for all services (State plan and services required under EPSDT(when a waiver serves children)) that are furnished in addition to waiver services while the individual is in the waiver. This calculation includes institutional costs when a person leaves the waiver for the institution and returns to the waiver in the same waiver year. If a waiver participant does not return to the waiver following institutionalization, do not include the cost of institutional care under D’. Do not include institutional costs incurred before the person is admitted into the waiver. If institutional respite care is provided as a service under this waiver, calculate its costs under Factor D. Do not duplicate these costs in the calculation of Factor D’. If a waiver service is covered under the State plan and the service is defined identically except for utilization limits, the State plan service, up to the imposed limit, would be included under D’. The services under the waiver that exceed the State plan utilization limits would be included under factor D as waiver costs.
Appendix J: Cost Neutrality Demonstration

In the case of §1915(b)/§1915(c) waivers, include in factor D only the cost of capitation payments. Any additional services provided by the managed care organization through savings or under §1915(b)(3) do not affect factor D, since they are funded by the capitation payment. Additional services, if provided under the §1915(b) waiver out of the HCBS waiver capitation payment, are not considered §1915(c) services and are not listed in the §1915(c) application.

Estimates of Factor D’ must not include the costs of prescribed drugs that will be furnished to Medicare/Medicaid dual eligibles under the provisions of Part D. To the extent that such costs are included in baseline CMS-372(S) figures, they must be removed. The explanation of the derivation of Factor D’ must describe how the state has accounted for and removed the costs of these prescribed drugs from its estimate.

Include an explanation of how the D’ value is derived. In general, the D’ value must be greater than or equal to the G’ value. Typically, institutional payments encompass the costs of health care services that are furnished to institutional residents and, therefore, included in Factor G. In the case of waiver participants, most health care services are obtained via the State plan. If factor D’ is less than factor G’, provide an explanation of the reasons why this is the case. This situation may arise when institutional payments do not encompass all services that are furnished to institutional residents (for example, when the costs of day habilitation services furnished to ICF/IID residents are paid for separately under the State plan). Factor D’ may be computed using the CMS-372(S) or statistically valid methods which are specified and submitted with the application. If the D’ is developed through sampling a comparable population, provide information on the process used and how the D’ value was derived.

Item J-2-c-iii: Factor G Derivation

Instructions

In the text field, describe the basis of the estimates of Factor G.

Technical Guidance

The Factor G value must reflect the average cost for the level(s) of institutional care that would otherwise be furnished to waiver participants. Provide data ONLY for the level(s) of care indicated in the waiver request. For waivers that apply only to individuals with a specific illness or condition, estimates may be based on the institutional costs incurred for individuals with the specific illness or condition. If institutional respite care is provided as a service under the waiver calculate its cost under Factor D. Do not duplicate these costs in the calculation of Factor G.

New Waivers

When cost-neutrality estimates are based on the comparison of community costs to institutional costs and the state does not wish to base its estimate of institutional costs on the costs of serving individuals with specific illnesses or conditions, the projected first year and subsequent year Factor G values through the end of the waiver must be based on the actual costs of institutional services for all individuals at the relevant level(s) of care for the most recent year for which such data are available. These actual costs may be trended forward by applying inflation adjustments based on the current Medical Consumer Price Index unless higher rates are justified or the state employs a different basis for estimating future costs (e.g., observed state trends in the costs of institutional services). Specify the source of the data upon which the estimate of Factor G are based and how those costs are adjusted year-by-year.

When a waiver serves persons who have a specific illness or condition, derive Factor G (for each level of care) from the following: (1) except as discussed below, trends shown by CMS-372(S) for another waiver that serves a similar population at this level of care (specify the other waiver and related CMS-372(S) form that was used and indicate any adjustments made to the numbers.); (2) actual case histories of individuals institutionalized with the specified disease or condition at the relevant level of care. When this method is used, describe the methods that were used to derive the estimate of Factor G; (3) state DRGs for the disease(s) or condition(s) indicated in the request; or, (4) other method (include a description). In the application, provide a complete explanation of how the derivation of the estimate of Factor G.

Renewal Applications

In the case of renewal applications, when the Factor G figures reported via the CMS-372(S) were the same as the figures in the approved waiver rather than actual costs, a state may not use the CMS-372(S) as the basis of its estimate of Factor G for the renewal period, including the derivation of trend factors. Instead, the state must obtain and employ actual data for prior periods in order to establish a revised baseline estimate of Factor G and the expected trend.

Item J-2-c-iv: Factor G′ Derivation

Instructions

In the text field, describe the basis of the estimates of Factor G′.

Technical Guidance

Factor G′ includes the cost of all other Medicaid services furnished while the individual is institutionalized (including State plan and services required under EPSDT) and the cost of short term hospitalization (furnished with the expectation that the person would return to the institution). When the waiver serves children, the G′ value includes services required under EPSDT that are not accounted for in the G value. In situations where a waiver will provide services to individuals who, although requiring a NF level of care, are hospitalized because NF placement is not possible, the actual cost of caring for these individuals in a hospital should be shown in G′. When institutional respite care is provided as a service under this waiver, calculate its cost under Factor D. Do not duplicate these costs in the calculation of Factor G′.

Explain how the G′ value is derived, including any supporting documentation. The projected first year G′ value should not deviate substantially from previous year trends unless the state has altered its Medicaid program. Inflation adjustments should reflect data in current Medicaid Consumer Price Index unless other rates are justified.

In the case of waiver renewals, the estimate of Factor G′ may be based on figures reported via the CMS-372(S) only when the reported CMS-372(S) figures represented actual expenditures. If the reported CMS-372(S) figures were the same as the figures in the approved waiver, a state may not use the CMS-372(S) as the basis of its estimate of Factor G′, including the derivation of trend factors. Instead, the state must obtain and employ actual data for recent prior periods in order to establish a revised baseline estimate of Factor G′ and the expected trend.

Estimates of Factor G′ must not include the costs of prescribed drugs that will be furnished to Medicare/Medicaid dual eligibles under the provisions of Part D. To the extent that such costs are included in baseline CMS-372(S) figures, they must be removed. The explanation of the derivation of Factor G′ must describe how the state has accounted for and removed the costs of these prescribed drugs from its estimate.

CMS Review Criteria

For all cost-neutrality formula factors:

- The basis of all estimates is fully documented and estimates are evidence-based and appropriately justified.
Deviations from CMS-372(S) data are adequately explained, justified and documented.

Item J-2-d: Estimate of Factor D

Instructions

Select whether the waiver operates concurrently with a §1915(b) waiver. If not, complete the tables included in Item J-2-d-i. If so, complete the tables included in Item J-2-d-ii.

Technical Guidance

The two sets of tables are similar. However, in the case of §1915(b)/§1915(c) concurrent waivers, additional information must be provided (see below).

J-2-d-i: Non-Concurrent Waivers

The table must be completed for each year that the waiver is in effect. This table is auto-populated by the entries in Appendices C-1/C-3. When a service listed in Appendix C-1 encompasses two or more discrete services that are reimbursed separately, these component services must be shown in the table. For example, if a state covers “day supports” but day supports is composed of day habilitation, supported employment and community access services, each component of day support must be listed and accounted for separately. When a service in Appendix C-1 is a bundled service, each component of the service must be shown.

With respect to column 1, the unit of service (for example, day, hour, month, trip, etc.) must be identified for each service. The unit should be descriptive of the service and not a generic term, such as ‘unit’. With respect to column 3, keep in mind that the estimated number of units per user must reflect the estimated ALOS rather than the potential maximum number of service units that a participant may utilize. Partial units may not be used. See the State Medicaid manual for additional information on units of service.

The average cost per unit (column 4) must be reasonably estimated. The estimate must be based on expected payment rates for the service. When payment rates vary, the estimate should be based on the expected mix of payment rates.

The figures in this table should follow these rules:

- Average Number of Users. The average number of users must be expressed as a whole number (i.e., 235 users not 234.8 users);
- Average Number of Units per User. May be expressed as a whole number or in decimal form.
- Average Cost Per Unit. Express in dollars and cents.
- Total Cost. Total cost is expressed as the product of the average number of users, the average number of units per user and the average cost per unit. Total cost is expressed in dollars and cents.

The total cost is auto-calculated based on the number of users, average number of units per user, and average cost per unit.

J-2-d-ii: Concurrent Waivers

The Factor D table for concurrent §1915(b)/§1915(c) waivers includes an additional column to indicate whether a waiver service is included in the capitation rate paid to managed care entities or will be paid outside the capitation rate (i.e., the state will make payment directly for the service).
When there are services that are paid outside the capitation rate, it is necessary to calculate the total of all waiver costs and the subtotals for services paid within the capitation rate and services paid outside the rate. These estimates are calculated automatically. It also is necessary to calculate the average cost per unduplicated participant for all waiver services and the average costs for services paid within the capitation rate and outside the capitation rate. This information will be employed by CMS in evaluating the cost-effectiveness of the §1915(b) waiver.

| Common Law Employer | A common law employer-employee relationship generally exists when the person for whom services are performed has the authority to control and direct the individual who performs the services, not only as to the result to be accomplished but also as to the detail and means by which that result is accomplished.

Common Law Employer (Option)

One of the two Employer Authority options that may be made available to waiver participants who direct some or all of their services. Under this option, the waiver participant is the common law employer of workers who furnish services and supports and assumes all responsibilities associated with being the employer of such workers. When this option is selected, a Fiscal/Employer Agent performs employer-related tasks on behalf of the participant but does not serve as the common law employer of participant-hired workers.

Community Transition

Activities that are undertaken to assist an institutionalized person to return to the community or facilitate a person served in a congregate living arrangement in the community to reside in a private residence.

Comparability

The requirement contained in §1902(a)(10)(B) of the Act that a state must offer services in the same amount, duration, and scope to individuals within categorically or medically needy groups covered under its State plan and that services available to any categorically needy recipient cannot be less than those available to a medically need recipient. A state must request a waiver of this provision in order to operate an HCBS waiver.

Complaint

The formal expression of dissatisfaction by a participant with the provision of a waiver service or the performance of an entity in conducting other activities associated with the operation of a waiver.

Computable Waiver Costs

The amount expended by the state for waiver services net of adjustments for offsets such as participant post-eligibility treatment of income financial liability and cost-sharing. Only computable waiver costs are eligible for Federal financial participation.

Continuous Improvement

The utilization of systematically-complied data and quality information derived from discovery activities in order to engage in actions to secure better performance in the operation of a waiver.

Co-Payment

A fixed dollar amount that a Medicaid beneficiary is expected to pay at the time of receiving a specified covered service from a provider. Co-payments, like other forms of Medicaid beneficiary cost-sharing (e.g., deductibles, coinsurance), may only be imposed by a state upon certain groups of beneficiaries, only with respect to certain services, and only in amounts as specified in Federal law.

Cost Neutrality

The requirement that an HCBS waiver must be designed and operated so that the average cost per unduplicated participant of furnishing waiver services and other Medicaid benefits is no greater than the average cost per unduplicated individual of furnishing institutional services and other Medicaid benefits to institutionalized persons at the same level of care. Cost neutrality must be demonstrated prospectively in order for a new waiver or a waiver renewal to be approved. It also must be verified each year that the waiver is in effect (by the submission of the annual CMS 372(S) report).

Cost-Sharing

The required out-of-pocket payment that an individual must pay for a covered service. Cost sharing generally takes one of three forms: co-insurance, co-payments or deductibles.

Countable Income or Resources

The amount of income or resources that is left after the application of all financial eligibility methodologies and that is compared to the applicable income or resource standard for the purpose of determining Medicaid eligibility.

CPE

See Certified Public Expenditures
| Criminal History/Background Investigation | A process that is undertaken to determine whether a person who would provide services has been convicted of a crime. Requirements for conducting criminal history/background investigations are typically established under state law/regulations. Under such requirements, a human services agency or health care provider must conduct an investigation prior to hiring a person or permitting an employee to furnish services directly to individuals and, in some cases, may prohibit the employment of individuals who have been convicted of specified crimes. |
| Critical Incident (Event) | An alleged, suspected, or actual occurrence of: (a) abuse (including physical, sexual, verbal and psychological abuse); (b) mistreatment or neglect; (c) exploitation; (d) serious injury; (e) death other than by natural causes; (f) other events that cause harm to an individual; and, (g) events that serve as indicators of risk to participant health and welfare such as hospitalizations, medication errors, use of restraints or behavioral interventions. |
| DAC | See Disabled Adult Child |
| Deductible | A specified dollar amount that the beneficiary must incur before Medicaid will pay for services. The amount of the deductible must comply with Medicaid Federal law. |
| Deemed Status | The use of the findings of a private accreditation organization, in whole or in part, to supplement or substitute for state verification of provider quality standards. |
| Deficit Reduction Act of 2005 | The Federal legislation (P.L. 109-171) that made numerous changes to Federal Medicaid law, including provisions that affect beneficiary cost sharing and the permit the coverage of certain home and community services under the State plan. |
| DEHPG | See Disabled and Elderly Health Programs Group |
| Design | The process of structuring an HCBS waiver (including its benefits and operational processes) in order to achieve its intended purpose(s). |
| Developmental Disability | As provided in The Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act of 2000 (P.L. 106-402 – 42 USC §15002(8)(A)&(B)), the “term ‘developmental disability’ means a severe, chronic disability of an individual that—(i) is attributable to a mental or physical impairment or combination of mental and physical impairments; (ii) is manifested before the individual attains age 22; (iii) is likely to continue indefinitely; (iv) results in substantial functional limitations in 3 or more of the following areas of major life activity: (I) Self-care. (II) Receptive and expressive language. (III) Learning. (IV) Mobility. (V) Self-direction. (VI) Capacity for independent living. (VII) Economic self-sufficiency; and (v) reflects the individual's need for a combination and sequence of special, interdisciplinary, or generic services, individualized supports, or other forms of assistance that are of lifelong or extended duration and are individually planned and coordinated. “An individual from birth to age 9, inclusive, who has a substantial developmental delay or specific congenital or acquired condition, may be considered to have a developmental disability without meeting 3 or more of the criteria … if the individual, without services and supports, has a high probability of meeting those criteria later in life.”

[N.B., The foregoing definition is not the same as the Medicaid specification of individuals who may receive ICF/IID services. ICF/IID services are furnished to persons with intellectual disability and other related conditions (see below). When a waiver targets individuals with developmental disabilities, a state should define its use of the term “developmental disability.”]

Individual Budget Amount (IBA)
As used in the waiver application, the term “individual budget amount” means a prospectively-determined amount of funds that the state makes available for the provision of waiver services to a participant. The IBA may encompass all waiver services or a subset of waiver services. An IBA may serve as the basis for but is not necessarily synonymous with the term “participant-directed budget” when a waiver provides for the Budget Authority participant direction opportunity.

Individual Cost Limit
A limitation on the entrance of individuals to a waiver that is based on the comparison of the expected costs of HCBS waiver and State plan services to the expected costs of institutional and State plan services that the person would receive in lieu of participation in the waiver. When a state adopts an individual cost limit, the state denies entrance to the waiver when the expected cost of HCBS waiver and State plan services required by an individual exceeds the limit established by the state.

Individual Risk Agreement (Contract)

An agreement that outlines the risks and benefits to the participant of a particular course of action that might involve risk to the participant, the conditions under which the participant assumes responsibility for the agreed upon course of action, and the accountability trail for the decisions that are made. A risk agreement permits individuals to assume responsibility for their choices personally, through surrogate decision makers, or through planning team consensus.

Information and Assistance in Support of Participant Direction

Activities that are undertaken to assist a waiver participant to direct and manage his/her waiver services. Such activities might include assisting a participant in carrying out employer responsibilities under the Employer Authority or locating sources of waiver goods and services and managing the participant-directed budget. This support is furnished by individuals or entities that work on behalf of and under the direction of the person. These activities may be provided as a distinct waiver service, in conjunction with the provision of case management, as an administrative activity or using a combination of delivery methods. Also sometimes known as “supports brokerage” or “personal agent.”

Interagency Agreement

A formal document that sets forth the responsibilities that are assumed by two or more governmental agencies in their pursuit of common goals and objectives. In the context of the HCBS waiver, the Medicaid agency may enter into an interagency agreement (or, alternatively, a Memorandum of Understanding or MOU) with another state agency to operate a waiver, provided that the Medicaid agency retains ultimate authority over the administration of the waiver.

Institutions for Mental Disease (IMD)

As defined in 42 CFR §435.1009, an IMD is a public or private facility that has more than 16 beds and is primarily engaged in providing diagnosis, treatment, or care of persons with mental diseases (disorders). This includes not just public or private hospitals for individuals with mental illness but also nursing homes or other long-term care facilities that primarily serve such individuals. As provided in 42 CFR §435.1008, Federal Medicaid matching funds are not available for the costs of any Medicaid services furnished to individuals under 65 years of age who reside in an IMD except that, per 42 CFR §440.160, a state may provide optional inpatient coverage for individuals under age 21 in accredited psychiatric facilities. Per 42 CFR §440.140, a state may provide optional coverage for individuals age 65 and older in hospitals or nursing facilities that are IMDs. A facility that serves fewer than 17 individuals with mental disorders is not considered to be an IMD.

Instrumental Activities of Daily Living (IADL)

Activities related to independent living, including preparing meals, managing money, shopping for groceries or personal items, performing light or heavy housework, and communication. The extent to which a person requires assistance in performing IADLs is often assessed in conjunction with the evaluation of level of care.

See Personal Needs Allowance (PNA) for the parallel allocation for residents of institutions.

Managed Care

A method of organizing and financing the delivery of health care and other services that emphasizes cost-effectiveness and coordination of care. Managed care organizations receive a fixed amount of money per member per month (called a capitation), no matter how much care a member needs during that month. Managed care integrates the financing and delivery of appropriate services to covered individuals by means of: arrangements with selected providers to furnish an array of services to members; explicit criteria for the selection of health care providers; and financial incentives for members to use providers and procedures associated with the plan. Federal Medicaid managed care regulations are located in 42 CFR §438.

Managed Care Organization (MCO)

Medicaid Buy-In
Refers to the Medicaid eligibility options that were created in BBA-97 and the Ticket to Work and Work Incentives Improvement Act of 1999 that permit states to provide Medicaid to working people with disabilities whose earnings are otherwise too high for them to qualify for Medicaid. In particular, states may elect to cover:

- Working individuals with disabilities with incomes up to 250% of poverty (BBA-97; §§1902(a)(10)(A)(ii)(XIII) of the Act)
- Working individuals with disabilities who are at least age 16, but less than 65 years of age using income and resource limits set by the State (TWWIIA; §1902(a)(10)(A)(ii)(XV) of the Act, and
- Employed individuals covered under the group described above who lose that coverage due to medical improvement, but who still have a medically determinable severe impairment. (TWWIIA §1902(a)(10)(A)(ii)(XVI) of the Act).

Medicaid Management Information System (MMIS)
A CMS-approved information technology system that supports the operation of the Medicaid program. The MMIS includes the following types of sub-systems or files: recipient eligibility, Medicaid provider, claims processing, pricing, SURS, MARS, and potentially encounter processing.

Medical Assistance
The term used in Title XIX of the Act to refer to the payment for items and services covered under a state’s Medicaid program on behalf of Medicaid beneficiaries.

Medical Assistance Unit
The state government entity established in accordance with 42 CFR §431.11(b). The Medical Assistance Unit may be the same as the Medicaid agency or a subordinate division/unit within the Medicaid agency.

Medically Necessary
Services or supplies that are proper and needed for the diagnosis or treatment of a medical condition, are provided for the diagnosis, direct care, and treatment of the condition, and meet the standards of good medical practice.

Medically Needy
A term used to describe an optional Medicaid eligibility group made up of individuals who qualify for coverage because of high medical expenses, commonly hospital or nursing home care. These individuals meet Medicaid categorical requirements (i.e., they are children or parents or aged or individuals with disabilities) but their income is too high to permit them to qualify for categorically needy coverage. Instead, they qualify for coverage by spending down (i.e., reducing their income by incurring medical expenses). States that elect to cover the medically needy do not have to offer the same benefit package to them as they offer to the categorically needy.

Medically Needy Income Level (MNIL)
The maximum amount of income remaining after spenddown that permits an individual to qualify for the medically-needy eligibility group. The MNIL varies by state.

Medicare
The Federally-administered health insurance program established in Title XVIII of the Act for persons age 65 and older and certain persons with disabilities under age 65. Medicare eligibility is determined by the Social Security Administration. Medicare has four parts: Part A (hospital insurance); Part B (optional medical insurance which covers physicians' services and outpatient care in part and which requires the payment of a monthly premium); Part C (managed care arrangements for the delivery of Medicare benefits); and, Part D (prescription drugs).

Glossary of Terms and Abbreviations

Americans Act, each state has established a Long-Term Care Ombudsman Office to investigate and resolve complaints about services in nursing and certain other long-term care facilities. Some states have established similar programs for individuals with disabilities.

Optional

The term used to describe Medicaid eligibility groups or service categories that states may cover if they choose and for which they may receive FFP.

Organized Health Care Delivery System (OHCDS)

As defined in 42 CFR §447.10, an OHCDS is an organization that provides at least one Medicaid service directly (utilizing its own employees) and contracts with other qualified providers to furnish other services. When there is an OHCDS, the required Medicaid provider agreement is executed between the state and the OHCDS. Since the OHCDS acts as the Medicaid provider, it is not necessary for each subcontractor of an OHCDS to sign a provider agreement with the Medicaid agency (however, subcontractors must still meet the standards under the waiver to provide waiver services). When the OHCDS provides waiver services, payment is made directly to the OHCDS and the OHCDS reimburses the subcontractors. Waiver providers may not be restricted to participating only through an OHCDS. Such an arrangement must be voluntary. In addition, participants may not be required to secure services exclusively through an OHCDS.

Performance Measure

Prior Authorization
A mechanism that is employed to control the use of covered items (such as durable medical equipment or prescription drugs) or services (such as inpatient hospital care). When an item or service is subject to prior authorization, payment is not made unless approval for the item or service is obtained in advance either from state agency personnel or from a state fiscal agent or other contractor.

Private Residence
As used in the waiver application:
(1) The home that a waiver participant owns or rents in his or her own right or the home where a waiver participant resides with other family members or friends. A private residence is not a living arrangement that is owned or leased by a service provider; or,
(2) The home of a caregiver who furnishes foster or respite care to a waiver participant.

A goal-directed, interrelated series of actions, events, mechanisms, or steps.

Process Improvement

Provider-Managed Service

A waiver service for which a provider is responsible for directing and managing in accordance with the service plan on behalf of a waiver participant. In the waiver application, a state may designate a service as provider managed, participant-directed or both.

Provider Qualification

Standards established by the state that specify the education, training, skills, competencies and attributes that an individual or provider agency must possess in order to furnish services to waiver participants.

Provider Tax

A tax, fee, assessment, or other mandatory payment that health care providers are required to make to the state. In limited circumstances, a state may use revenues derived from provider taxes to meet the non-Federal share of Medicaid expenditures. These circumstances are specified in Federal Medicaid law and regulations (see 42 CFR §433.55 – 433.74).

Public Input

As used in the waiver application, processes that are undertaken in order to obtain the comments, suggestions and recommendations of parties affected by a waiver concerning its design and operation.

QIS

See Quality Improvement Strategy

Qualified Income Trust

See Miller Trust

Quality Assurance

The process of looking at how well a service is provided. The process may include formally reviewing the services furnished to a person or group of persons, identifying and correcting problems, and then checking to see if the problem was corrected.

Quality Improvement

The performance of discovery, remediation and quality improvement activities in order to ascertain whether the waiver meets the assurances, correct shortcomings, and pursue opportunities for improvement. Quality Improvement also is employed to address other areas of waiver performance.

Quality Improvement Strategy (QIS)

The document that is submitted with the waiver application that describes how the state will continually assess whether it operates the waiver in accordance with the approved design of its program, meets statutory and regulatory assurances and requirements, achieves desired outcomes, and how it identifies opportunities for improvement. A QIS describes the processes of discovery, remediation and quality improvement activities; the frequency of those processes; the source and types of information gathered, analyzed, and utilized to measure performance; and key roles and responsibilities for managing quality. The QIS may vary depending on the nature of the waiver target population, the services offered, and the waiver’s relationship to other public programs, and extend beyond regulatory requirements. Updates to the QIS will be submitted with the annual waiver report.

Rehabilitation

Services that have the purpose of improving/restoring a person's physical or mental functioning. Such services may include therapeutic services such as occupational and physical therapy services, as well as mental health services such as individual and group psychological therapies, psychosocial services, and addiction treatment services. Rehabilitative services may be provided at home, in the community or in long-term care facilities. Medicaid rehabilitation services, defined at 42 CFR §440.130(d), may be covered as an optional State plan benefit or as waiver services.

Related Conditions

For the purpose of ICF/IID services and as provided in 42 CFR §435.1009, persons with related conditions are individuals who have a severe, chronic disability that meets all of the following conditions:

(a) It is attributable to--
   (1) Cerebral palsy or epilepsy; or
   (2) Any other condition, other than mental illness, found to be closely related to intellectual disability because this condition results in impairment of general intellectual functioning or adaptive behavior similar to that of persons with an intellectual disability, and requires treatment or services similar to those required for these persons.

(b) It is manifested before the person reaches age 22.

(c) It is likely to continue indefinitely.

(d) It results in substantial functional limitations in three or more of the following areas of major life activity: (1) self-care; (2) understanding and use of language; (3) learning; (4) mobility; (5) self-direction; (6) capacity for independent living.

Remediation

Activities designed to correct identified problems at the individual, provider or system level. Examples of individual level remediation include providing additional needed services when discovery activities indicate that an individual/participant has not received necessary services. Provider level remediation includes sanctioning a provider for failure to furnish services in accordance with state requirements. System-level remediation activities may include the correction of underlying waiver design problems.

Representative

A person who may act on behalf of another. A representative may be: (a) a legal representative (a court-appointed guardian, a parent of a minor child, or a spouse) or (b) an individual (family member or friend) selected by an adult to speak for and/or act on his/her behalf.

Request for Additional Information (RAI)

A formal, written document issued by CMS that identifies serious problems with a waiver request that potentially could cause CMS to disapprove the request. An RAI stops the 90-day clock. Once a state responds to the RAI, a new 90-day clock is started. During the second clock CMS may not issue an RAI — it must approve disapprove the request.

Resources

Sometimes referred to as assets, resources are items of economic value that are not income. Resources include financial instruments such as savings accounts and certificates of deposit, personal property such as an automobile (above a specified value), and real estate (other than an individual’s home). Some Medicaid eligibility groups must meet a resource test; others (at state option) are not subject to a resource test. In establishing a resource test, a state must specify both the resource standard (e.g., the amount of countable resources an individual may retain and still be eligible for Medicaid) and the resource methodology (e.g., the resources that are counted and how are they valued).

Resource Standard

The maximum amount of countable resources a person can have and still be

For most Medicaid eligibility categories, having countable income above a specified amount disqualifies an individual from Medicaid. However, in some eligibility categories—most notably the “medically needy”—individuals may qualify for Medicaid coverage even though their countable incomes are higher than the specified income standard by “spending down” to the Medically Needy Income Level. Under this process, the medical expenses that an individual incurs during a specified period are deducted from the individual’s income during that period. Once the individual’s income has been reduced to a state-specified level by subtracting incurred medical expenses, the individual qualifies for Medicaid benefits for the remainder of the period.

The term used to describe the set of eligibility rules that states are required to apply under the provisions of §1924 of the Act in the case when a Medicaid beneficiary resides in a nursing facility and his or her spouse remains in the community. The rules, which specify minimum amounts of income and resources each spouse is allowed to retain without jeopardizing the institutionalized spouse’s eligibility for Medicaid benefits, are designed to prevent the impoverishment of the community spouse. Under certain circumstances, a state may elect to use these rules in determining eligibility for a waiver.

A formal letter issued by the Director of the Center for Medicaid and State Operations (CMSO) to state Medicaid directors for the purpose of providing technical guidance or updated information regarding the operation of the Medicaid program.

The document that specifies the eligibility groups that a state will serve through its Medicaid program, the benefits that the state covers, and how the state addresses additional Federal Medicaid statutory requirements concerning the operation of its Medicaid program. The State plan must be submitted to and approved by CMS, acting on behalf of the Secretary of HHS. Proposed changes to the State plan take the form of State plan amendments (SPAs) that are submitted to, reviewed and approved by CMS.

In order to change its Medicaid eligibility criteria or its covered benefits or its provider reimbursement methodology, a state must amend its state Medicaid plan to reflect the proposed change. Similarly, states must conform their state plans to changes in Federal Medicaid law. In either case, the state must submit a state plan amendment (SPA) to CMS for approval.

The amount (if any) by which a state elects to supplement the basic SSI cash assistance payment to individuals and couples.

The tax paid to a state workforce agency that is used solely for the payment of benefits to eligible unemployed workers.

The requirement in §1902(a)(1) of the Act that a state must operate its Medicaid programs throughout the state and may not exclude individuals residing in, or providers operating in, particular counties or municipalities. This requirement may be waived under §1115, §1915(b), and §1915(c) waivers.

Any payment to a Medicaid provider that is in addition to the state’s standard
