Dear Friends,

In these trying times, hardly a day begins without uncertainty on its horizon.

Still, we wake up, count our blessings and look for new hope hiding in the new normal.

COVID-19 has taken a great toll, but we must not despair. We will defeat this pandemic together.

Study after study shows how the simple acts of masking, distancing and regularly washing our hands mitigate the spread of COVID-19.

Throughout this whole process, Dr. Rachel Levine, Pennsylvania's Secretary of Health, has been a steady and reliable leader, somebody who's driven not by a political agenda but by her desire to preserve and protect the health of all Pennsylvanians.

With the worldwide pandemic caused by this novel coronavirus, the path forward is fraught with obstacles. Strength and resolve in the face of uncertainty is crucial to our perseverance, and that is why Dr. Levine and Governor Tom Wolf's level-headed, science-based guidance has been so recovering.

Many issues remain unresolved – but I am confident that we will get through this. Together.

My office continues to be available to assist you. The back of this newsletter outlines some of the ways my staff and I can help. We are seeing constituents by appointment only, though, and masks are required.

Please, if you have concerns or questions about any state-related matter, do not hesitate to call or email to discuss your issue.

Thank you and stay safe.

Sincerely,

Health & Environmental Benefits of Breastfeeding

Can breastfeeding your baby help save the planet?

Health benefits of breastfeeding are well documented, but many people do not realize that it also has environmental benefits.

World Breastfeeding Week 2020 just happened (Aug. 1-7), and the theme this year was “Support Breastfeeding for a Healthier Planet.”

During my time as a state representative, I’ve been a strong advocate for the benefits of breastfeeding, and I continue my work to protect employees who are breastfeeding and to generally focus more attention on this subject.

Breastfeeding is among the best investments in saving lives and improving the health of mothers and future generations. It protects children against a wide variety of infections and diseases, including sudden infant death syndrome, diabetes and respiratory illnesses. It can also improve maternal health, lowering the risk of certain cancers and cardiovascular disease.

Additionally, breast milk lowers your carbon footprint because it is natural, renewable food that is environmentally safe. It is produced without pollution, packaging or waste, whereas formula production and consumption generate greenhouse gas emissions that accelerate global warming.

We must protect working mothers by providing them safe and sanitary breastfeeding options, and I will continue my pursuit of legislation to offer these commonsense protections and bring attention to this wonderful, natural and healthy action.

Conshohocken company tabbed for statewide project

The Pennsylvania Infrastructure Investment Authority (PENNVEST) board of directors recently awarded two service contract offers, including one for lead testing in schools and child care facilities to a company based out of Conshohocken in the 148th Legislative District.

Terraphase Engineering Inc. will perform comprehensive statewide sampling in enrolled schools and child care facilities for the presence of lead contaminant in drinking water. Funding for the program will be provided by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, and oversight for the services will be administered by PENNVEST in conjunction with the PA Department of Education, Department of Environmental Protection, Department of Health and Department of Human Services.

“These contracts each represent the multi-million dollar investment in Pennsylvania’s citizens and environmental resources,” said Eric Menzer, chairman of the PENNVEST board of directors. “Ensuring that our future generations have safe, reliable access to clean drinking water is vital to the success and growth of our communities. And the development of a one-stop shop for water quality resources will enable Pennsylvania’s government to better assist partners in their efforts to maintain a clean, healthy environment.”

Since its inception in 1988, PENNVEST has funded more than 3,000 clean water projects throughout Pennsylvania, providing nearly $10 billion in grant and low-interest loan funding.

Relief for restaurants, bars and clubs

Citing the distressing impact that COVID-19 is having on Pennsylvania's restaurant industry and a recent Yelp survey showing more than half of restaurants could close permanently due to the virus's impact, Democrats in Harrisburg have crafted a legislative package aimed at providing relief to community business owners and the workers who cook and serve our food.

The package, which I fully endorse, includes nine bills that would provide grants to local restaurants, bars and clubs, reduce and eliminate specific licensing fees, extend discounts to licensees and protect businesses by guaranteeing their insurance pays out in future emergencies.

These efforts will provide direct relief to an industry the virus has hit hard. Restrictions put in place have been necessary in the state's response to COVID-19. But we recognize the hardship the virus has continued to place on the restaurant industry. Restaurants have served as the backdrop of many life occasions and special moments, and they need support now more than ever.

Details of the package of bills can be found at www.pahouse.com/NewsCenter.

Spotted Lanternflies are BACK!

The invasive spotted lanternfly insect has emerged for the summer.

The spotted lanternfly presents a significant threat to Pennsylvania agriculture, including the grape, tree-fruit, hardwood and nursery industries, which collectively are worth nearly $18 billion to the state's economy.

If you find any of these life stages of the spotted lanternfly, remove and/or kill the insects.

For more information or to report a spotted lanternfly infestation, call 1-888-4BAD-FLY or visit www.agriculture.pa.gov/spottedlanternfly.

Since no Senior Key Cards will be expiring until January 2021, my office will be scheduling appointments for new cards only, with photos being taken by appointment only.
